Now that the season for marketing dressed hogs has fairly set in, country shippers should pay special attention to the shipments thereof to this market. After they are properly dressed, too much care cannot be bestowed upon their selection, it being desirable that hogs of nearly equal weight and quality should comprise each lot; they ought then to be placed in clean cars, with a sufficient layer of straw at the bottom to prevent their being marked. Well-fatted, even, clean and bright-looking lots command a sale at top figures when buyers will not look at mixed and uneven lots, although they may be well-fatted. Each hog should have its weight neatly and distinctly marked upon it, and a list of weight of every shipment should be forwarded by mail as early as possible, so that no trouble may arise upon the arrival of the goods here. If shippers to this market will attend to the proper selection of light and heavy weights of good and proper qualities, they will be amply repaid for their trouble on the receipt of net proceeds of their consignments.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

DISGRACEFUL JOURNALISM.

We seldom make reference to our daily press, but when occasion demands we feel it our duty to lift our voice in favor of honorable journalism. The disgraceful conduct of some of our city papers is fast reducing the standard to mere personal abuse. Instances of this character we regret to say are far too numerous. They are painfully frequent and seem to be designedly written with the view of catering to the depraved tastes of the worst phases of human nature. Such practices should be stopped. Surely the law of libel does not mean that an unscrupulous journalist should be permitted to fire his bullets of venom indiscriminately into a body of men any more than that he should be allowed to take deliberate aim at a single individual. Let any man with a keen sense of honor read carefully the pages of the Evening Telegram, and we venture to say he must feel humiliated as well as distressed to think we live in a community which tolerates such degraded and degrading journalism. The public recognizes the true mission of the press, and even when it steps a little beyond the line in a righteous cause they are prepared to forgive. An example of this kind of recent date was this very paper in defending itself against the libel suit by our city contractors. Our people, however much they sympathized with the Telegram during the trial, took no delight in the persecution it kept up after the trial was over; and there was a general expression of regret when the Judge could not see his way to make the paper pay its own costs, purely on account of its conduct subsequent to the trial. We quote a few examples from the Telegram as follows:

"To say that that august body, the Court House Committee of the City Council, hadn't as much brains as a hen, is to throw a most undeserved slur upon the intelligence of that most useful biped."

"He has more clothes than he has intellect, perhaps, but the truth is that Ald. W. J. Hill can change his mind quicker than he can his raiment."

Such writing as this we know every respectable citizen thoroughly condemns with a most profound contempt for the paper that writes it, and yet such things are of daily occurrence among us. Is there no remedy for such outrages on our people? Must our aldermen give their time to the public free and also freedom to the papers to slander them at will.

SHALL RETAILERS INSURE?

Senator Sanford's recommendation that wholesale traders should combine for the purpose of causing their retailing customers to insure, can hardly help meeting with the approbation of all wholesale merchants and also the better class of retailers. The Grocers' Guild has adopted resolutions calling upon its customers to insure, and the dry goods merchants are likely to do the same, and there is no reason why merchants engaged in other branches of trade should not follow this example. In connection with this matter the grocers and dry goods men found a common excuse that was given when an extension was required by a customer was that his goods or part of his goods had been destroyed by fire, with no insurance on them. The effect of such a resolution would undoubtedly be to relieve merchants of a serious loss, and in the long run be a decided benefit to the retailers, who are so singularly blind to their own best interests by neglecting to take the precaution of insuring against fire.

ADULTERATION OF LARD.

The New York Commercial Bulletin says: The reported action of the French Government adverse to adulterated lard is in accordance with a sentiment to which we cannot afford to remain indifferent. The leading nations of the Old World and the New have declared unmistakably their opposition to the importation into their markets under the name of lard of a compound freely denounced in its own country as an adulteration and a deception. England, France, Germany, Canada and Mexico are in virtual accord on this question, and a verdict to which they all subscribe cannot be attributed to unfriendliness nor a desire to discriminate against a product so important to their people. They have accepted the declaration, persistently made and sustained by committees of our own Legislature and Congress, that our lard trade is largely based on fraud, and they are, one by one, taking steps to protect themselves against deception. It is true that American lard is an important item in the food supply of the world, and that by discriminating against it foreign nations injure their own people; but it is also true that it is an important item of our commerce, and that we cannot afford to invite action by other nations excluding it from their markets.

The so-called pure lard movement in this country has resulted in an attack on the integrity of our product that affords ample excuse for restrictive legislation whatever public sentiment insists on fair dealing and honest trade representation, and has supplied the pretext for hostile action wherever the spirit of "protection" or resentment prompts a desire to exclude our lard from a foreign market. In view of the testimony submitted to Congressional committees, we cannot complain of any action yet taken, nor be surprised at more radical measures, if we do not ourselves adopt some means of removing the pretext for prohibitions and restrictions. The case has been made out, and of our so-called lard production a very large percentage is not lard in the sense of an adulterated hog product, but is a compound equally wholesome and nutritious, as well or better adapted to many uses specially fitted for some branches of the foreign trade, and cheaper than the adulterated article. The facts in the case have been given as widespread notoriety as has ever been accorded to the merits of any commercial controversy. The so-called refined or compound lard has received scientific testimonials endorsed by Congressional committees, and its merits and comparative advantages have been as widely and freely advertised as the pure lard movement has exercised its influences. The nations of the world have listened to an unseemly fight between two factions of our lard trade, and have declared their judgment that in the interest of fair dealing our products should be sold for what they are and that so long as we denounce a large portion of our lard trade as a deception buyers had better protect themselves.

In view of the present state of affairs, it seems almost incredible that there should be a difference of opinion as to the advisability of requiring lard and its compounds to be sold under truthful representations as to their character. Deception and misrepresentation can never confer substantial or lasting advantage ; but in this case the secret is out, and whatever motive may have existed for concealing the fact of lard adulteration has been destroyed by the complete exposure. There can be no reason, even on the lowest ground, for refusing to act openly on a state of affairs so generally understood. There should be an acknowledgment of the presence in our own markets and export trade of two distinct articles—a pure and a compound lard—clearly distinguished, plainly designated, and competing for favor on their merits. If the compound lard is recognized and accepted at home, it cheapness appreciated and its sale conducted openly, it will find as much favor as its merits deserve, and will be as fairly treated. If it is sold under false pretences at home and the inference justified that it fears to forfeit favor by avowing its character, not only will the present contest continue and the crimination of rivals afford pretext for additional restrictions and decrees of exclusion, but the scandal will reflect discredit on other branches of American trade, and exercise influences as injurious and far-reaching in their evil consequences as the attempted deception is demoralizing and dishonest.

THE VERY BEST WEEKLY PAPER.

ALMA, May 20th, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—I enclose money order for the amount of $2, for which please renew my subscription for the CANADIAN GROCER. I consider THE GROCER the very best weekly paper of its kind I have had the pleasure of reading, and I should not like on any account to do without it. The fifth item, column two, page 5, of May 15th issue, pleased me greatly. Your principle of dealing with Grange members is right, and your action worthy of the support of the entire retail grocers and general storekeepers of our country. Wishing the CANADIAN GROCER will meet with the success that it deserves, I remain, yours truly,

J. H. WALKER.

[We much appreciate Mr. Walker's kind remarks, and will endeavor to make THE GROCER still more valuable.—ED. GROCER.]

THE ADVANTACE OF A SUGAR CARD PRICE.

One would naturally suppose, as "Tattler" in the Northwest Trade says, that merchants were in business to make money. And yet, as he says, some act as if their purpose was to lose money. In proof of this he says :—

The retail grocery trade has been presented with a considerable sum of money lately, but they wouldn't take it—that is, some of them wouldn't. Here sugar has been going up, up, up until it takes a good sized telescope to see it. I know certain grocers who bought a good supply of the article when it was down much below the present wholesale quotations. Well, you think of course they would sell the sugar at the increased quotations to make the difference? But they did not do any such thing. They could not duplicate their stock anywhere near the prices they paid for it. Because it cost them a certain price when they bought it, why, they thought they must add their usual selling price and sell it at that. They wouldn't think of such a thing, you know, as asking more for their sugar until their stock ran out and they had to buy a new supply at advanced prices. Sugar is not the only article these men treat this way. They seem to persist when prices are going up, to look at quotations through the wrong end of the telescope, and when I or any one tell them to turn their telescope around, they look indignant and act as if they guess they know how to handle a spy glass."

The same writer says the retailers of Minneapolis are talking of establishing a card price on sugar. We advise them to do it. Nearly all the grocers of Boston sell at card price, and there is uniformity all over the city and in the suburbs. Prices have advanced from 7 to 9½ cents, each advance being covered by a new sugar card. An instance in point :—

Soon after the recent issue of a sugar card a grocer called on Treasurer Clapp and wished to join the Association. "Why," said he, "I've been selling sugar for two days at less than the other grocers because I didn't have a sugar card and didn't know prices had advanced. In two days I lost a good deal more than the membership fee."

That is unsolicited evidence of the sugar card's worth as a money getter.—[New England Grocer.

PRICE CUTTING.

An address was recently delivered before the Pittsburg Retail Grocers' Association by Mr. Jas. K. Garson, one of the editors of the Pennsylvania Grocer, and a prominent soap manufacturer. The subject chosen was "Price Cutting—Its Cause and Remedy." The first portion of the address treated of a matter quite familiar to the retail trade, but we reproduce the part devoted to the cure of price cutting as likely to interest our readers :

"The remedy for price cutting to be effective must combine two vital elements so as to recommend it to the retailers, large as well as small, and these elements are embodied in a principle, which implies first, increase of trade, and second, increase of profit. These two principles are inseparable when applied to the management of business. It is a fact, patent to all, that price cutting has a tendency to increase trade, but it lacks the elementary principle to increase profit ; and I wish to inform you right here that the remedy which I am about to offer is one that I have had in constant and successful operation for at least twelve years, and in no instance have I had cause to regret its adoption, as it has done for me what no other method could or would do, and it gives me the greatest pleasure to stand before you this evening as a living proof of the efficacy of this remedy.

"I suppose the most of you know that at one time I was engaged in the retail grocery business, and I confidently assure you that I am entirely familiar with all the trials and tribulations which constantly beset the retail grocer. There is not a single difficulty which you wish to overcome that I have not thoroughly tried to solve, and you will please pardon my egotism when I say that I have thoroughly solved this vexatious question of price cutting. I stated at the commencement of this discussion that in each and every case where grocers are guilty of the vice of price-cutting they invariably select the most popular and staple brands of goods. I will now proceed to discuss this most important feature in the entire question, that is, the remedy for price cutting.

"When your competitors commence to cut on certain articles, the first thing to be done is to find a substitute for said articles. Then quietly, solemnly and firmly resolve to quit handling them. If you cannot handle them at a profit, don't handle them at all. But you say, 'How can we do this; our customers want those very goods, and insist on having them.' My reply to you is this: There is no staple article or commodity sold in a grocery store that is possessed of such superior merit that it cannot be duplicated, and I will prove this by your worthy ex-president, Mr. J. C. O'Donnell, who accomplished, unaided and alone, nearly three years ago what you, as an association, have been contending for with but partial, if, indeed, any success. I refer to the substitution of an article for soapine, and as you are doubtless anxious to know why and how this was done I will take the privilege of informing you. After thoroughly investigating the matter, he found that he could furnish his trade with just as good an article as soapine for twenty five per cent. less, and notwithstanding this reduction his profits would be as large, if not larger than they would have been on that article which has given you so much trouble. I would, therefore, earnestly seek to impress upon your minds this important fact, that a reduction in price should never imply a reduction in profit.

"Another great advantage which should not be lost sight of is this: By educating your trade to this mode of doing business, they very naturally ask your advice when they are in doubt about the merits of such articles as they desire to purchase, feeling confident that they will profit by your superior knowledge and experience, and when a grocer establishes confidence with his trade in that manner, it may be truthfully said of him that he controls his trade, which should be the desire of every retailer.

"And I would further add that if there is a grocer here to-night who feels that he is unable to exercise any influence over his customers in the selection of their goods, or if he doubts the feasibility of such action, I would advise him, for his own good as well as for the general good of the trade, to go home this evening with a firm resolve to quit the business, as he is no better adapted to the running of a grocery store than I would be to the navigation of a ship from New York to Liverpool.

"My friends, is it not a sad commentary on the grocery trade when the manufacturer claims that he has to resort to peddling to introduce his goods, and yet a large majority of grocers believe that the advertising manufacturer is their best friend. But I assure you that you are laboring under a dangerous delusion if you think that the manufacturer who advertises extensively is doing so for your benefit, nor is it consistent with the laws of commerce that he should. I claim that the party who works up the trade and creates the demand for an article is legally and honestly entitled to the profits, be he manufacturer, wholesaler or retailer, and I do not know of a single exception to this rule. Take any article that you handle that is extensively advertised by the manufacturer and you will invariably find that your profit is very small on that article; therefore, if you want a paying trade, I would advise you to do your own advertising.

"In conclusion I would impress upon your minds the desirability of cultivating the confidence of your customers; use every effort to inform yourselves upon the quality of the goods you handle. By so doing you will always be in a position to give any and all needed information in response to your customers' inquiries, wants and desires, and then when they ask for goods which are being sold by your competitors at little or no profit, you will have no difficulty in persuading them to take some other brand, even if they have never heard of it before."

MAKE THE STORE ATTRACTIVE.

The following interesting article on the subject of store fittings and attractions we take from a late issue of the Merchant World:

Talking with an old retail merchant recently, we were impressed with the following remark, which had much common sense and good philosophy in it. He said: "The way to make the store attractive is to have the articles on hand when the people want them. I found this out soon after I commenced business, for people who came in and wanted to buy certain goods seemed very much disappointed when I said we had none in stock. They would go elsewhere, and I lost them as regular customers. To avoid this I kept a memorandum of articles called for which I did not keep, and as soon as possible would get them. I have continued this habit ever since, and have a memorandum-book alway at hand to jot down any article asked for that was not in stock. In this way I have made my assortments more varied and attractive; have built up a larger trade than I otherwise would have done."

There is a great deal of force and truth in the above statement, and merchants who read this and adopt a similar plan will, no doubt, have a similar favorable experience. We all know by our own experience that we dislike being told by the storekeeper that the article or articles we ask for are not on hand, and we form a sort of opinion not very favorable to the establishment. On the other hand, if we are promptly and efficiently served with the goods desired, there is at once a feeling of satisfaction and of goodwill toward the merchant. At this time, when retail dealers are making out their memoranda for new goods, what an efficient aid such a book would be to them. After they had gone through the stock to get posted as to what goods to buy and what not, a daily memorandum of "articles not on hand" would fit in nicely, and the buyer would go to market with more definite and minute information as to the stock to be purchased than ever before.

A nice, well fitted up and convenient store building is not all that is required to increase and hold trade; a well-selected stock of goods is the most important matter. It is the variety and nicety of assortments which form the centre of attraction. Store fittings and fixtures, pleasant and agreeable, are valuable accessories, but the main feature of interest to customers is the stock. In so far as the surroundings create a favorable impression, to that extent they are of value; it is, however, the goods for sale that are the chief consideration. Are they well selected and well bought? Do they possess styles, quality and general adaptiveness to the wants of the community in which they are to be sold? If in the buying of them all these essentials are fully met, the merchant can feel assured that he will have customers who will appreciate his skill and judgment in purchasing new assortments. No merchant can make his store attractive who does not have an attractive stock. A nice, well-arranged store building and an ill-assorted stock of goods would form a bad partnership. The firm would not long continue in business, for it would expire for want of patronage. The period has again arrived for selecting new goods. Retail merchants are preparing to visit the large wholesale markets. Their success in business depends on their success in buying. To this department their special attention should be given. We have deemed it opportune, therefore, to dwell on this important feature of store attractions—the most important of all. Become fully posted as to the stock on hand, so that the same class of goods will not be repurchased; note the styles and fabrics that have not sold freely, so as to avoid them in future; get a clear idea as to the quantity of new goods required, so as not to overbuy, and finally, be determined that this autumn you will have the best assorted stock on sale you have ever kept.

A RETAILER'S IDEA OF CREDIT.

"Credit is the figurative under whose black shade have fallen and perished thousands of the most talented mercantile soldiers that ever measured swords with fate; under its blighting poison, genius and ambition have been buried between sunrise and sunset and the next day forgotten (vain the pluck, the the industry and persistent toil), like the ambushed prey under the thrilling crouch or the stealthy tread of the panther; destruction is inevitable. Money might stave off the fatal day a little while longer, but the inexorable and unconditional skill, nerve and integrity would count as nothing in the unequal grappling. Coin is a repeater of a different range. The 15 per cent. with this solid stuff will welcome the wild storms and panics of the diabolical credit king, who feeds and fattens upon the victims of his his infernal majesty in the destructive part of the barbarian monstrosity, the cash before delivery follows and gathers his abundant harvest, and laughs to scorn the bare whisper of hard times."

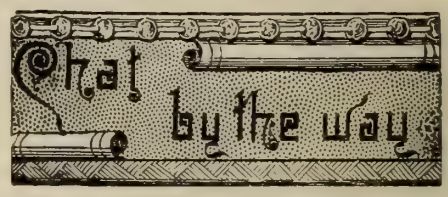
THE TRAVELLING MERCHANTS.

The old adage that "goods well bought are half sold" is a good one, and one that every merchant should keep constantly before him.

Years ago when a merchant had need to replenish his stock in trade he was compelled to leave his place and travel great distances to find the manufacturer of the class of goods he handled, and this entailed much expense and loss of time. But the times have changed. Now the manufacturer or importer finds it to his advantage to do the travelling, and so he gets together small samples of his goods and sends his drummer, or travelling salesman, out over the country to do for the retail merchant what he formerly had to do for himself. Like all new systems, however, this one met with obstacles and was not looked on favorably at the first. The mission of the drummer was not thoroughly understood, as his reception in too many cases demonstrated, but the system has grown, and now the travelling salesman is a fixture, and has come to be looked upon as a valuable adjunct to trade. The drummer may be regarded as a necessary evil, or a blessing, according to the man; but the merchant and the drummer are of mutual benefit to each other, and every travelling man should be entitled to a courteous reception and subsequent considerate treatment. For change in prices, new goods, and a hundred and one other points of information, we are dependent on him. So treat him nicely. A thorough perusal of prices current, advertising leaflets, and such matter as he may hand you, is well worth the time spent. If nothing shows itself of immediate advantage to you, there are points to make memoranda of, and cuts you will need some time, that should be transferred to an indexed scrap-book. The next man who comes in may want just what you saw on a circular. A short time spent in conversation with each salesman will generally give you enough information regarding his line of goods to pay for the time spent. Let it be understood, when you say you do not want any goods this trip, you mean it. This knowing your wants will save you much annoyance by men hanging around the store, expecting to urge or worry you into buying a bill.—[Storekeeper.

CITY VS. COUNTRY BOYS.

Have country boys, young business men I mean, a conception of the advantages they possess over their city cousins? I fear not. For the most part the idea seems to prevail that the city boy has all the opportunities, while the country boy has only privations and disappointments. And yet when we come to look the business of the city over, we find that among the successful men, those of city birth and training are in the minority, while those who spent their boyhood in the country, and commenced the race apparently handicapped, are in the majority. New York City is a striking instance of this fact. The merchant princes, so called, and the railway magnates, as they are commonly termed, together with those bankers, brokers, lawyers, doctors, manufacturers, judges, editors, inventors and accountants, with hosts of others too numerous to name, who have achieved the most distinguished success in their special field of labor, are not, as a rule, New Yorkers by birth and education. The leading men, with very few exceptions, in all the walks of life in the metropolis were educated outside of the city, and not a small proportion of them were country boys a few years ago. The reasons for this are not very hard to discover. In the first place, the procession of events before the gaze of the city boy is so rapid that he has no time to seize upon any one thing for himself. If it be only a book or a paper that comes in his way it is not prized, because of necessity it must make way for its succcessor of the morrow. Again, business is conducted on so large a scale that as an observer or apprentice he can only become acquainted with a subordinate part. He seldom has the opportunity to study a given business in its entirety. Opportunities for amusement are so many and the habit of indulgence formed in childhood is so hard to break through that much valuable time is lost in that direction; and so we might go on enumerating many other things equally unfortunate for the training of the city boy for the active responsibilities of a successful business. Last, but not least, the average city boy has not the physical stamina that hard work, the only method of attaining success in the business world, so imperatively demands. On the other hand, the country boy has leisure. He has few amusements, and he prizes and therefore studies the books and papers that fall in his way. He finishes one thing before he takes up another. If he learns any business while in the country it is one so small in extent, and of so few details, that he comprehends every feature of it. If he has decided ability for management, it is not at all strange to find him in the direction of affairs long before his city cousin of the same age has left school. He early learns self reliance. As a rule he is of robust health, and having long been thrown upon his own resources, he is not abashed when some unexpected difficulty is encountered in his business career. But beyond all else he has been trained to work diligently and continuously the year through. He has fixed habits of industry. Accordingly, when he comes to the city to live, the odds are largely in his favor, although it is very possible that neither he nor his city cousin appreciates the fact. The very belief, however, that he is at a disadvantage in the race causes him to make greater effort, and ere long he finds himself away ahead of all competitors. Country boys should take heart and be encouraged, while on the other hand, the city boys, in view of the almost uniform success which their country cousins achieve, should emulate their methods, their industry, their persistence and self reliance, and putting aside the pleasures and frivolities of every-day city life, train themselves in a way to insure to their benefit the great natural advantages by which they are surrounded.—[The Office.



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—
474 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

J. K. McKinnis is about to open a fruit store at Moosomin.

A lot of 100 cases corn was sold to a Yonge Street retailer at 90c. last week.

J. S. McLean, Moose Jaw, Assa., has sold his grocery stock to E. A. Baker & Co.

Thos. Hawkshaw has opened a grocery store in Lucan as a business enterprise for his son.

The low prices at which evaporated apples are offering does not seem to stimulate consumption in the slightest degree.

Russell, Macdonald & Co., general storekeepers, Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo, have also opened a branch at Comox.

A New York broker, writing to Bendelari & Co., says there are no really sound Valencia raisins obtainable for export in that market.

The first new cabbage of the season was received here Monday by R. S. Gallagher, Colborne street. It is jobbing at $5 per crate.

Mr. W. P. Innes, of the Simcoe Canning Co., has met with a serious misfortune. His residence was burned Sunday night. His family barely escaped with their lives.

The creditors of J. A. McMurtry & Co. met Saturday afternoon in Blackley & Anderson's office and extended the time given the firm to make good the offer of 30 cents ten days longer.

Sir John Lubbock has given notice in the British House of Commons that he will call attention to the subject of the long hours of labor in shops, and to move a resolution thereon.

The position of raisins is certainly improving, and the indications now point to a higher market for good quality fruit during the remainder of the season. The stock of Valencia is said to consist of 60,000 boxes, of which quantity only 40,000 boxes are considered as fair to choice, the remainder being poor and undesirable.—[New York Bulletin.

D. M. McLeod, of Park Hill, is one of those enterprising business men that help to build up the business reputation of a town as well as to establish a successful business for themselves.

In mentioning the names of the picnic committee of the T. G. R. A. in our last issue, the following names were omitted: Messrs. J. Western, A. E. Saunders, F. Johnston, and W. F. Britton.

Messrs. Seersbrook & King, Petrolia, have a large fine store, and keep a full line of first-class groceries and fruit of all kinds in their season. They subscribe to THE GROCER and say they find valuable hints on the fruit trade.

Mr. Wellington Boulter, Bay of Quinte Canning Factories, and president of the Canadian Packers' Association, is in the city attending the annual meeting of the Select Knights, of which body he is a prominent member.

Sloan & Crowther are offering canned fresh white Fraser River salmon at $1.62½. They say the quality is excellent. The fish is preferred by many because it is not so rich as the pink salmon. Retailers who have sold this brand say it has given every satisfaction.

Mr. D. Sinclair, of the Canada Sugar Refinery, Montreal, is spending a week here looking after the interests of the company during the absence of Mr. W. E. Murray who is away on a well deserved vacation. Mr. Sinclair is an authority on all matters connected with the sugar market.

Reports to the Tobacco Leaf from many Southern and Western points state that the prospects for the crop of 1889 are bright and the growers in good spirits. In a few places frosts have been experienced, but the present warm wave seems to extend to all sections of the country, and from Wisconsin to Florida the weather is propitious for all growing crops.

The New York Retail Grocers' Advocate, in republishing an article from the CANADIAN GROCER on the standard weight of packages, says: "Our Canadian grocers are taking the lead in having standard weight for packages of farm produce. In spite of what has been said by some of our commission dealers, the world does move and the chances of a standard weight are brighter than ever."

Secretary J. F. Thackray, of the Retail Grocers' Association, has received letters from the millers and the pickle manufacturer who were requested to discontinue selling to consumers. They all express their willingness to do so. There are some people who ask what good the Association has ever done for the trade. In this one item—the prevention of wholesale dealers and manufacturers from selling to consumers—they have put hundreds of dollars into the pockets of the trade in Toronto.

Despatches received from China report teas as rather higher than last year, especially on Congous and Formosa, and quote an advance of 3 to 5 taels, with very little doing for American market.

Mr. F. W. Johnson, of the Davenport Road, one of the pushing men of the north end of the city, is going to take over the store now occupied by Mr. T. H. George at the corner of Hayden and Yonge streets. He will handle fruit and groceries. While Mr. Johnson is to be congratulated on his success, it must be remembered that his genial helpmate is responsible for it in a great measure.

It looks innocent enough to give down weight when considered in reference to each particular weighing, but it is in the aggregate of the great number of down weights wherein lies the mischief. It is a loss of from 1 to 4 per cent. on all sales. Or a loss of from 10 to 40 per cent. on gross profits, or a loss of from 25 to 100 per cent. on net profits. For what do you do business? Is it for personal profit, or to give down weight.

There has been an unusually large sale of canned corn this season, owing to the low prices. One wholesale house has sold up to date 5,000 cases to the retail trade, against 2,000 cases the whole of last season. It is not likely that prices will be as low next year. Packers have lost money this season. A number of them have had to close up. They surely will not go into the packing business during the coming season as recklessly as they did last year.

The Winnipeg Grocers' Association waited on the City Council and petitioned that the license fee of peddlars be increased to $125 for a vehicle and $50 for all others, and it was moved that the City Solicitor be instructed to amend the by-law to comply to the petition of the Association, and also to provide that traders and merchants bringing goods, merchandise, etc., to the city for disposal without the intention of becoming bona fide merchants and remaining in the city be also licensed and taxed.

Williamson and Lambe's letter from their agent, under date Yokohama, April 24th, reports that market just opened in a small way, about 45 piculs of new tea having come forward up to that day and sold at somewhat fancy prices, averaging about $45 per picul. So far as can be judged from these small lots the quality of crop seems to be about the average. Their advices of April 22nd, from Hiogo, say that market had not yet opened. New rice was offered here. The mills have raised the prices of car loads to $3.70 f.o.b. Montreal. Retailers' lots are quoted at $3.75.

Raw sugar is firmly held and occasional sales show that refiners are willing buyers at full prices. The demand for refined has continued to improve after quite a long period of quietude, and the inference is that country dealers have succeeded in distributing the ample supplies that were secured about three weeks ago. The shading in prices created the impression in some quarters that sugar was going to be cheaper and that the highest prices had been seen, but the present outlook promises higher instead of lower values, as the season of largest consumption is yet to come, and the world's supply is short enough to affect values.—[New York Shipping List.

LONDON NOTES.

Two of our popular young grocers have left the ranks of single blessedness and got married; they are Charles J. McCormick of A. McCormick & Son, and Frank H. Robinson of W. H. McCutchen & Co. THE GROCER wishes them long life and prosperity.

The grocers and tobacco dealers of London are very anxious about those tobacco seizures in Toronto and elsewhere, for not one in ten keeps their tobacco in the original package on account of the amount of room it takes up. This, following after the increase in the postal rate on drop letters, is causing some hard things to be said about the Government.

The London grocers are wise, and it is only lately they have got so, whether it is by reading THE GROCER (for they nearly all take it), or by experience, I know not, but they are all getting the full advance on sugars. All the trade are giving 10 lbs. granulated, 12 lbs. extra C, and 13 lbs. yellow for $1, which is only right, for it is very likely that owing to sugars being so high, our profits during the fruit season will be small.

In the International Series Counter Check Books, manufactured by Morton & Co., 3 and 5 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, merchants are guaranteed in their use by letters patent. Samples are furnished free of the best check book yet introduced. Thousands now in use.

THE VALUE OF OLD CANS.

Few grocers would stop to consider the value of an empty tomato or peach can, and yet they have a value even when the top has been unskilfully cut and its sides are battered. But they reach the highest valuation when the shape is preserved and the label is clean and undisturbed. In this condition they are used by many grocers for decorative purposes, such as window dressing, pyramids in the centre of the room, or to fill empty shelves. They serve well two purposes, the other being to give customers and visitors the impression that a large and complete stock of goods is carried.

Cans for window dressing are valued according to the brands and labels. The established brands of fruits and vegetables, with the artistic lithographs that are now being made to decorate the cans, command the highest prices, which, however, are comparatively small this year, as filled cans of corn and tomatoes are not worth much more than the can and label. The old cans that are battered and thrown into the alley are gathered by rag pickers and used for various purposes. They are usually melted apart and the solder is preserved, while the sheets are flattened out to be used as patches in roofing. It is not improbable that the more perfect sheets find their way back into cans of some description.—[Chicago Grocer.

TORONTO, May 23, 1889.

GROCERIES.

There has been no improvement in the movement of merchandise during the past week. In the last few days a better inquiry for sugars has been noted and a larger number of travellers' orders have been booked. Money is scarce, and at the present moment, as a wholesale dealer put it, "the biggest demand at the present time is for money."

CANNED GOODS.

Increased business is reported in this line. Jobbers have begun to replenish stock. Sloan & Crowther have been large buyers. They cleaned Aylmer out of corn, taking 3,300 cases. They also bought 900 cases peas from the same firm, and 600 from A. C. Miller. The terms are of course private, but it is more than certain that 90c. was paid for the corn, whatever the price of the peas were, as Mr. Marshall expressed his intention of not selling under that figure. Packers who have been in the city this week expressed themselves strongly in favour of advancing corn to $1. Even if they do not sell it will pay better to carry over than to let go at present prices. Round lots of corn are held mostly at 90c. in first hands, but we heard of one lot being offered Tuesday at 88c. The wholesale trade are selling at 90c. to $1.10, with few at 85c. Tomatoes are moving at 75c. up; some round lots are offering. Peas and other vegetables are moving as before at steady prices. Canned fruits are slow, but there is a good demand for fish. Salmon is going at $1.70 to $1.75, with white Fraser River at $1.62½; mackerel herring are worth 90c. to $1, and Sterling lobsters $1.65.

The entire stock of the defunct Rising Sun Canning Co., Hamilton, was sold to Messrs. Eby, Blain & Co. to-day by the Molson's Bank. The lot consisted of about 12,000 cases. This is the largest single sale of canned goods that has ever taken place in Canada. Eby, Blain & Co. have been heavy purchasers of canned goods all this season. About one-third of the total pack of tomatoes have passed through their hands. These sales serve to show the rapid progress this country is making. A few years ago a house that handled 1,000 cases in an entire season considered it was doing something extraordinary.

COFFEE.

Only a quiet trade doing. Sales of small lots have been noted during the past few days at 21c. for Jamaicas, 27½c. for Mochas, 26c. to 28c. for Javas, and 21c. to 22c. for Rios.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants and Valencia raisins have been exciting greater interest, but there has been no material change in values on this market. Currants are selling as before at 5c. to 5½c. for good to choice in barrels, and at 4¾c. for low grades. There has been a good inquiry for dates at 5¾c. to 6½c. as to quality. Figs nominal. Movement in prunes has been very light; hogsheads have sold as low as 4c., and cases from 7c. to 9c. Valencia raisins of sound quality are scarce and firmly held. Some holders are asking as much as 7c., but as a rule they are quoted at 6¼c. to 6½c. Low grades can be bought for 5¼c. to 5½c. The New York Commercial Bulletin has the following on the situation :—"From present indications the market for Valencia raisins is likely to do better from this time until the period for new crop approaches. A successful effort has been made to concentrate the stock of best grades, and the plan now proposed is to advance the value by easy stages until present supplies have been worked off into consumption. There is a considerable quantity of poor and undesirable stock upon the market, the amount estimated at about one-third the whole total, or say 20,000 boxes, against 40,000 boxes good to prime grades. With the advance in price of better quality, attention it is hoped will be attracted toward the poor and cheaper goods, and these once removed from the market holders of the best stock do not anticipate any difficulty in working the value to suit themselves. They are counting upon a ten cent market for prime layers, though there is no certainty of their ever getting there. Whether there is any stock remaining upon the other side is a question. Cable reports received some time since advised the market there about cleared, but should any important advance be established here supplies might come out from sources least expected." On the spot selected Valencias are firm at 7½c. There has been a fair movement in Elemes at 6c. to 6¼c., but when they can get them dealers prefer Valencias. Sultanas and Malagas unchanged.

SUGARS.

All white sugars were reduced 1-16c. on Saturday last. This has been due to the dull demand and not to any decline in raws.

The Markets -Continued.

The latter have been gradually recovering for the drop of a couple of weeks ago, and are now within a 6d. to 1s. of the highest point of the present advance in London. There has been a little more business at the decline. The past two days has brought quite an increase in the travellers' orders. Prices of yellows are about the same as a week ago. Low grades are selling at 7¼c. and brights at 8c. Very few raws are offering here. Jamaicas are neglected at 6¾c. Demeraras are steady at 9c.

Willett & Hamlen's New York circular of May 16, says: Melting continues large, and consumption through the four ports now shows the large increase over the same time last year of 59,947 tons, which nearly equals the total increase for the year 1888 over 1887. Under all the conditions now ruling, stocks in the United States have little chance of increasing but slowly instead of rapidly as at this season in former years. The increase of stock for the week is 3,929 tons, against 17,918 tons increase for corresponding week. The same conditions prevail regarding prices as formerly noted—not enough of a spot market to make more than nominal quotations, and foreign markets making the standard of prices. Refined has been in small demand for some weeks, and refiners are getting accumulations with which to meet the renewal of demand, which has now set in again. When Spreckel's refinery in Philadelphia is completed and running, as it may be in August or September, it will scarcely do more—large as it is—than to cover the requirements of the constantly increasing consumption of the country. The cultivation of beets on the Pacific coast will make somewhat rapid progress this year, but it is not likely to be commenced this side of the Rocky Mountains, where its success would be extremely doubtful. California can undoubtedly, in the course of a few years, raise beets enough to supply the Pacific coast consumption of sugar, say about 75,000 tons, leaving the Sandwich Island crop to find its way eastward; but this is still some years away. With the present rapid absorption of the diminutive supplies of sugars in the world, the condition of the young canes for the next season is of unusual interest, and thus far the indications from all cane-growing countries are by no means favorable to anything like an increase in supplies for next season, and we repeat that the present advancing course of prices will continue, with occasional reactions, for two full crop seasons. Total stock in all the principal countries by the latest mail and cable dates is 915,331 tons, against 1,233,722 at the same time last year.

SYRUP AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are quiet at former prices. Molasses is in fair request, and barrels have been moving at 42½c. to 47½c. and puncheons at 42c. to 45c.

TEA.

The market has continued quiet, with little business to chronicle. There have been a few enquiries for little lines of blacks and greens, resulting in a small business. New York continues quiet and unchanged. Last advices from London report Congous unchanged, i.e., easy, but greens very firm, and a good business is apparently doing there in the latter kinds, as most of the offers from this market to London on green teas have been missed on account of the parcels having already been sold. In Japans the market at Yokohama opened in a small way on the 23rd ult., the Hiogo market being a trifle behind. The crop is up to the average quality, so far as can be judged from present small settlements.

The latest cable advices from Yokohama are as follows: "The market is active. Quotations: Standard, choicest, $30 per picul: choice, $27 per picul; finest, $25 per picul; fine, $20 per picul; good medium, $17 per picul; medium, $15 per picul; good common, $14 per picul; common, $12 per picul; exchange on London, 3s. 1½d. Freights: Steam and rail via San Francisco, 3c. per pound gross, 3¾c. net; steamer via Suez to New York, 1¾c. per pound net, 60s. per ton." A few mail samples of new crop have been shown in New York, but are not considered of a character to fairly indicate the crop.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

Flour is dull and declining. Millers are offering extras at equal to $4.30, and straight roller at equal to $4.60, but without finding buyers. Bran is also lower, and can be bought from $8 to $8.50. On the track in car loads small lots are held at about $10 to $10.50. Wheat has declined from 3 to 4 cents since last report, and the tendency is downwards. Increased business has been done at the decline. On the spot No. 2 is nominal at 95c. to 96c. White is moving on the Northern Railway at 94c., and points on the Midland at 98c. and 99c., and Manitoba hard is firm on the spot, and for immediate delivery at $1.17. Lots are being offered for June delivery at $1.15, and one sale was reported by an Ottawa miller at $1.12. No. 1 frosted has sold at 95c. June delivery. Barley is not wanted. Some little business has been done on speculative account at 59c. and 60c. Peas are standing. Cars have sold on the track at 60c. and outside at 53c. to 55c. Oats are dull and lower. Lots mixed and white have sold at 30c. and 31c. on the track, while light can be bought at 28c. Corn and rye are nominal and unchanged. Oatmeal is weak.

COAL OIL.

Steady and unchanged, with Refined at 13c.; Carbon Safety at 17c.; Canadian water white at 19c.; American water white at 25c., and Photogene at 27c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Demand for all kinds is light. Green are selling in small lots at $1.50 to $2.50 as to quality, the top being asked for fancy Spies. Dried are dull at 2¾c. to 3¼c. in lots, and dealers are holding retailers' lots at 3½c. to 4c., but we cannot say that they are getting it. Evaporated are quoted at 6c. to 6½c. in small quantities, and cars are worth about 5½c.

BEANS—Nominally unchanged. Choice hand picked are quoted at $1.50 to $1.60.

DRESSED MEATS.—Beef is firmer and carcasses are worth 6½c. to 7½c. Veal is quiet at 5c. to 7c. Mutton is firm and in good demand at $2.50 to $4.50 per head.

EGGS—Arrivals continue light and prices are firm. Round lots of 800 to 1,000 dozen have sold at 11½c. delivered, but small lots are steady at 12c. to 12½c. on the spot. New York advices are strong.

HAY AND STRAW—The arrivals of good quality newly pressed timothy have been lighter and prices are stiff at $14 to $14.50, and $15 on the track for extra quality. Second quality has not improved any, neither has mixed. They are quoted at $12 to $13 and $10 to $11 exclusively. Straw dull and slow at $7 to $8.

HIDES AND SKINS—Not much doing. Green hides are worth 2¾c. to 4¾c. as to grade, and cured are selling in car lots at 5¼c. for choice selections. Sheepskins nominal at $1.25 to $1.50. Pelts are selling at 15c. to 25c. Calfskins are slow at 5c. to 6c.; stocks are accumulating on dealers hands.

HOPS—Dull at 18c. to 22c. for new.

MAPLE SUGAR AND SYRUP—Dealers are gradually closing out stocks. Syrup is moving at 85c. to 90c. in Imperial gallons. Sugar is worth about 7c. to 8c.

ONIONS—Very flat. Choice picked are held at $1 to $1.25 per barrel.

POTATOES—Are dull. Cars have sold at 16c. outside and at 23c. to 25c. on the track. Dealers are getting 30c. to 35c. out of store.

TALLOW—Dull at 5½c. for rendered and 2¼c. for rough.

WOOL—New fleece is arriving and has sold at 18c. to 20c. according to quality.

PROVISIONS.

The local market remains without any special feature. A canvass of the trade shows a quiet steady demand for small lots at quotations. Smoked meats have been in best request and sales have been made at our prices. Lard has been steady; Canadian is harder to get, and holders are firm at 11c. to to 11½c.; American compounds rule from 9¾c. to 10½c.

The Cincinnati Price Current of May 16 says the movement of hogs has very considerably enlarged, showing an important gain for the week as compared with previous weeks and a year ago, Western packing returns aggregating 245,000 hogs for the week, against 190,000 last week, and 190,000 for the corresponding time last year. From March 1 the total is 1,990,000 against 1,700,000 a year ago—increase, 290,000. While some gain in the movement was expected it has somewhat exceeded prevailing calculations. The effect on the markets has been unfavorable, causing not only speculative weakness but also hesitancy on the part of buyers for consumptive distribution, although the movement in this way is of fairly good proportions at the present time. Values of hogs have declined about 15c. per 100 lbs. in leading markets compared with a week ago. In the more active markets offerings of product for future deliveries have been quite free during the week. At the close there is an unsettled feeling, the "bear" interest apparently commanding the situation. At Chicago current prices are on the basis of about $4.45 per 100 lbs. for hogs. Outside of a few large operators there is evidently but a moderate volume of speculative interest in provisions at present, grain receiving the more active attention of the smaller class of traders. The week's export of hog product were fairly liberal, although moderately short of corresponding week last year, the decrease being in meats. Compared with a week ago Chicago price for July show a decline of 65c. on pork, 17½c. per 100 lbs. on lard, and 27½c. on short rib sides. Compared with a year ago there is a reduction of $3.02½ per bbl. on pork, $1.70 per 100 lbs. on lard, and $1.82½ on short rib sides averaging 21 per cent. below a year ago.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Increased receipts have further reduced prices about 1c. There has not been much accumulation, however, as dealers have closed out receipts as rapidly as possible, granting concessions whenever necessary to make sales. The supply still consists almost entirely of rolls, and as many of these are badly packed they are coming in a very unsatisfactory condition, and commission houses find it hard to make good sales. There has been a good inquiry for good store-packed, and there has been no difficulty found in closing out all offered. The bulk of the sales of both rolls and tubs have been made at 16c., or 15c. to 16c. Small lots and choice quality have sometimes brought 1c. more. Bakers have picked up all the low grades offered at 12c. to 13c. and more are wanted at that price. A few lots of pound rolls are coming forward and selling at 16c. to 18c. Creameries are nominal; they are being offered at 22c. delivered here, but the lower price at which choice dairy can be bought has prevented any business.

CHEESE—Is gradually declining abroad. On the spot small sales of new are reported at 10c. to 10½c. The factories are offering fine quality at 9c. to 9¼c., delivered here.

MONTREAL, May 23, 1889.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no new feature in the canned goods market. The demand has been slow, with business dull. The offerings have been large, but buyers are holding off on account of the large stocks held here; in consequence, few orders have been placed with packers for future delivery. Old lobsters have been selling in small lots at $5.75 per case, while packers are asking $6.50 for new to arrive. In salmon there has been an easier feeling, and prices have declined to $1.65 per dozen. Tomatoes have been weak, owing to large stocks, and sales of the Windsor brand have been made at 85c., with common brands down to 75c. per dozen. Corn has ruled quiet and steady at 90c. to 95c. for the Erie and Aylmer, $1.75 for Yarmouth, and $1.30 for Hoeggs, per dozen. There has been a weaker feeling in canned fruits, and prices are lower all round. Bartlett peas have declined to $1.70 per dozen; strawberries to $1.65, pineapples to $2.25, and plums to $1.70 to $1.90. The demand for Armour's canned meats has been fair, and a larger volume of business has been transacted at steady prices.

SUGAR.

Owing to the recent tame advices from abroad on raw sugar there has been an easier feeling in the market for refined sugar, and prices are quoted a trifle off, notwithstanding the light stock held by refiners. The market has ruled quiet on account of the continued slow demand, and only a small amount of business has been transacted, and not much improvement is looked for until wholesale grocers work off present stocks on hand. Granulated has sold at 8½c. to 8⅝c., and yellows 7⅛c. to 7¾c. as to quality at the factory.

SYRUP.

There has been a weaker tone to the syrup market in sympathy with sugar, and prices have eased off some. The demand has been limited owing to the fact that buyers gener-

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

ADVANCES MADE ON STAPLE MERCHANDISE IN STORE.

ally have filled their wants for the present, in consequence business has been quiet with only a small jobbing trade. Sales have been madeat 4c. to 4½c. as to quality.

MOLASSES.

Since our last there has been considerable activity in the molasses market, and a large volume of business has been transacted including several round lots. The feeling is firm and prices have been well maintained. The demand has been good, and sales have been made more freely to arrive. The cargo of 2,000 puncheons which was sold some time ago by a leading broker has been re-sold by him at an advance, and although the price was not mentioned it is believed to be 44c., while other sales have been effected at 45c. Antigua has been placed at 37c. to 39c., and Trinidad at 36c. to 37c.

FRUIT.

The second shipment of fruit which arrived here by the Barcelona a few days ago consisted of 4,000 boxes oranges and lemons, and has all been sold by auction at very fair prices. The market has been fairly active under a good demand for all kinds of fruit, and a large volume of business has been accomplished. Oranges have been moving freely at $6.50 to $7.50 per case, and lemons at $3.50 to $4 per box. Valencia raisins have been quiet with only a jobbing trade at 5¾c. to 6c. Currants have ruled weaker under a light demand, and sales have been made at 4½c. to 5c. Bananas have been coming in in large quantities, for which the demand has been good but prices are much lower. Onions out of condition are offered in round lots at at 50c. to 75c. per barrel.

TEA AND COFFEE.

In tea there has been no important feature, the market having continued quiet owing to the slow demand, and little business has been transacted outside of a jobbing trade. Buyers generally have filled their wants for present, and as the offerings are not large not much improvement in business is looked for in the near future. Prices have been well maintained. There has been a fair demand for coffee in a small way and a good jobbing business has been accomplished. We quote: Mocha, 28c. to 31c.; Java, 24c. to 29c.; Plantation Ceylon, 20c. to 24c., and Rio, 20c. to 21c.

BUTTER.

The butter market has materially weakened during the week, and may further decline, as receipts now exceed demand, and stocks have commenced to accumulate. The quality of Western butter so far this season has created favourable comment here, and if the progress made in late years is continued it will be able to command pretty near top figures before many seasons. There has been a fair trade at declining prices, and the market closed easy. Creamery, 21c. to 21½c.; Townships, 18c. to 20c.; Morrisburg and Brockville, 17½c. to 19½c.; and Western, 16c. to 18c. The production throughout the country has been ahead of last year.

CHEESE.

The shipping season is about getting fairly started, but the market has shown little animation. After being well maintained for some time the market to-day exhibited marked evidence of weakness, although offerings were not heavy. Larger receipts, however, are promised, and as a heavy make is in progress together with unfavorable foreign news a materially lower range of prices may be anticipated. To-day 9c. may be considered top value, and sales were made at 8½c. to 9c.

EGGS.

Receipts of eggs have continued heavy, and the market has gradually sagged off, closing easy with a downward tendency at 12½c. to 13c. per dozen.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

Flour has ruled dull and easy under a slow demand and heavy offerings. Present prices would be shaded to induce business, but it is doubtful if further concessions would stimulate demand.

The grain market on spot has been very quiet and has shown nothing of moment. Manitoba wheat has declined to $1.16 during the week, but coarse grains have ruled as before. No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.16; No. 2 do., $1.13; peas, 70c. to 72c. per 66 lbs. afloat; oats, 32c. to 33c.; corn, 43c. to 44c. in bond; barley, 50c. to 55c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Early in the week provisions ruled quiet, but of late there has been more animation with a better demand for pork and lard at steady prices. For the Canada short cut pork now on this market $16 is the lowest figure named. Meats have remained quiet.

ONTARIO AS A WHEAT COUNTRY.

The impression appears to have gone abroad that Ontario's day as a wheat producer (for export) is gone past, and that from this time forward dairy-farming, or raising something else other than wheat, will have to be our main dependence. With the unfortunate experience of the last two years, it is not wonderful that this impression should gain ground. Nevertheless it is quite possible that a conclusion somewhat different may very fairly be drawn from the admitted facts of the case.

One of these admitted facts is that we have been far too many long years keeping too much land under wheat, with too little under other crops. Summer-fallowing, giving the land entire rest from production for a year, has been tried, but has failed, as a means of enabling us to get along without that sine qua non in scientific farming—change or variation of crops. But suppose that Canadian farmers do at length become converted to a true scientific system, so that they shall be found practising proper variation of crops regularly and on a large scale. Some may say: That would mean that wheat cultivation would be practically abandoned Well right here we beg to object, and to say that it would mean nothing of the kind, but something very different. And we hope to be able to show cause.

The more wheat is taken from any given tract or parcel of land, the less fitted that land is to grow wheat; while conversely, the less wheat is taken from it, the more fitted it is to produce that grain. Which seems to be another way of saying that, while what the land actually has in it may be taken from it, you will have hard work getting from the land what has already been taken from it, and has never since been restored. Now dairy-farming and the liberal cultivation of green crops mean, if they mean anything—the restoration to the soil of former elements of fertility, and its improvement in other ways. The spread amongst us of scientific farming—dairy farming and proper variation of crops included—would mean that the average fitness of our land for wheat was growing a little better every year. We should not have as many acres under wheat as before; but our product of wheat per acre would be better. It should not require any very elaborate argument to show the reasonableness of this conclusion.

While, therefore, it must be admitted that the results of our own malpractice in farming compel us to "haul in" on wheat sowing, that does not mean that wheat production is therefore to disappear from this still fertile land. If we adopt true scientific farming, and reform our erroneous practice, we shall ere very long have more bushels of wheat in consequence, instead of less. We have had a sharp warning, let that be admitted, but if we heed the warning and act like good farmers and rational men together we shall by and by be producing more wheat instead of less in consequence. This is for Ontario.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

THE EGG SITUATION.

The egg market is in a different position to what it was a year ago. Then the season was late and had been interrupted by spells of cold weather which checked laying. The regular dealers did not put as many down as usual, but quite a few were put away by country merchants all over the province. The supply was so light that the leading packers, although they worked until July, were not able to fill more than two-thirds of their vats. This season opened earlier than usual, the earliest for years in fact, and most of the dealers have their vats full already, and the cold storage capacity has been taken. Southern eggs commenced to arrive on the American market in November, and they have continued ever since. In the Western States the cold storage places are all reported to be full, having a larger stock than they had six weeks later a year ago. Some of the packers are comparing this season with that of 1878, when eggs touched their lowest point in many years. That season opened early and prices declined, then recovered slightly and finally dropped to the lowest notch. Dealers, therefore, look for lower prices in July. They point out that packers and cold storage people are already full. July, they say, will be a hot month and receipts will, in consequence, increase, while the demand will decrease with the movement of the city population to the country in that month. There will, therefore, be no market for them and prices must go lower.

Packers have filled their vats and storehouses with lower priced eggs than last year. All the stock has been bought at 9c. to 11c. This has been due, to some extent, to the operations of the association, but they have been benefited by the low prices on the States' markets, and the importation of several cars of American stock. They therefore hope to do considerably better than last season. Those who sold early last season came out fairly well, but those packers who held on lost heavily; in fact some were utterly ruined. The only thing feared this year is that the Americans will put a duty on Canadian eggs of 4c. or 5c. a dozen. This would ruin the trade. It is urged by some that exports could be made to Great Britain, but experimental shipments have so far been unsuccessful.

CORRECT WEIGHT WANTED.

There are so many ways in which losses can take place in doing business that we can hardly wonder at the proportion of successful merchants being so small.

When we consider the unreasonable credits and the decrease in profits and increase in expenses, together with the thousand and one leakages incidental to business unless conducted with the most rigid attention to every detail, we can readily account for at least some of the numerous failures among business men.

A merchant commences business with a certain capital invested. He buys a quantity of goods and marks them for sale at a fixed percentage of advance. He calculates pretty accurately what his expenses will be and supposes the difference will show as profit at the end of the year. The end of the year, however, comes without the expected results. While he is trying to discover the mystery, the same results continue, until disaster comes and he never knows the reason why.

One of the prevailing sources of loss and trouble is that of incorrect weights, both in buying and selling. The merchant should get every ounce he buys and give every ounce he sells. There are few questions of greater importance to the retail grocer. A large proportion of his stock is put up in packages with marked or understood weights. They are bought probably from a highly respectable wholesale house, and not the least suspicion is had as to the absolute correctness of the weights, forgetting that the evil is in the system and not the fault of any particular firm. No one house can afford to abandon the general practice of the trade and give correct weights while his neighbor follows the more profitable custom. We say a large percentage of the grocers' stock is bought and sold according to the weights arbitrarily fixed by the manufacturer or by the trade, and which are frequently incorrect. Even our Canadian refined sugars will sometimes be found wrong, for reasons which we need not here discuss. But among the more glaring examples may be mentioned fruits, raw sugars, etc. Valencia raisins are sold as 28 lbs in a box, when it is well known they will vary in weight from 20 to 25 per cent. Raw sugar is sold with an allowance of 12 per cent. for tare. A hogshead containing 2,000 lbs. will weigh very little more than one containing 1,000 lbs., while the tare allowed in the one case is 240 lbs. and in the other 120 lbs. These anomalies should be rectified. In the aggregate they amount to a very considerable sum in the year.

Again, in selling the retail grocer can give a large percentage of profits away by careless weighing. By running the goods freely from a scoop into the scales until the balance goes down quickly and remains down, the whole profit can disappear in overweight, while the seller and buyer alike innocently suppose that just good weight has been given. The retailer should give good weight to the last fraction, but nothing more. To give less is dishonest to his customer. To give more is equally dishonest to himself. We fear that far too little attention is given to this subject. A convention might be called by the retail trade. We are persuaded the wholesale trade would gladly join in an honest endeavour to devise some plan to cure the evil. The system is wrong in principle, and ruinous in practice, even when kept within the narrowest limits by the most careful and painstaking houses, and when in the hands of unscrupulous men, it may become the medium for the commission of unknown frauds. Merchants have the remedy in their own hands, and it behooves them to do their duty by insisting upon it being applied.

ROLL BUTTER PACKAGES.

The false economy in vogue by many shippers of roll butter to this market in the matter of packages is remarkable. The best package is a new half barrel, either with slip cover or coopered head, the cost of which is about 28c.; its capacity is from 100 to 120. When properly packed, even with rough usage it comes to hand in good order, and its contents show to advantage. It contains just about the quantity small grocery men want, who purchase daily or every other day, and it is invariably enquired for by discrimating buyers. Such being the case, it would be natural to suppose that the bulk of the receipts would be in this favourite package, but it is not so.

The average country shipper uses an old sugar barrel, shoe case, or any odd package that may be available, consequently when the shipment reaches market, it sells from one to two cents per pound less than if it had been intelligently packed in the package whose praises we sing. These are cold facts, and every commission house in town re-iterates them.

A word to the country shipper who doesn't use this package. If the cooper in your town or village doesn't make them, secure a supply, even if you have to pay freight on them from some other point, it will pay you. The returns from your commission house will be more prompt by your doing so, and you will cease to practise the false economy of saving twenty eight cents by the sacrifice of two dollars.

EGG DEALERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Egg Dealers' Association of Ontario held a meeting in Guelph, Tuesday. Those present were: D. D. Wilson, Seaforth, president; A. Carter, Elora; F. D. Moore, St. Mary's; M. McNaughton, Chatham; W. Richardson, Walkerton; Jas. Nichol, Waterloo; W. Blackwell, Clandeboye; William Young, Waterloo; J. W. Flavelle, Toronto; R. C. Spooling, Wingham; Wm. Dunswith, St. Mary's; S. Scott, Alliston; A. G. Habbick, Waterloo; W. Burt, New York; S. H. Brown, Mount Forest; Wm. Sanivelle, Hamilton; F. Hogg, Galt; John Padmore, Ingersoll, and John C. Scott, Strathroy. Their proceedings are private, and from the fact of a New York man being present it is surmised that the egg crop of the province will find a market in that city.

THE WHOLESALERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Daily Commercial Bulletin has the following to say of the New York Wholesale Grocers' Association: Though the jobbers at times are disposed to give expression to disappointment concerning the movement of supplies, they find upon investigating the facts that trade is progressing about on a par with last year, and from this they derive considerable satisfaction, especially as during the present their Association methods are yielding them somewhat better profit returns than were obtainable in the spring and summer of '88. The Association has undoubtedly done much toward breaking up the system of cutting, though it is a question with some of the members whether the advantages derived in that way have been upon the whole beneficial. Some argue that profits upon certain staples which formerly through competition were kept constantly in a disturbed condition are now obtainable, but in living up faithfully to the rules of the Association it is stated that some trade has been lost by the straying away of customers to other houses and other markets.

Those, however, who have signed with the combine are determined to give the experiment a fair trial, notwithstanding at times they consider they are making a sacrifice in staying in. In no instance have we learned of a departure from the rules laid down, the principals and salesmen living fully up to the agreement entered into. The latter were at first rather difficult to control, the majority considering that their rights were being trespassed upon. They looked upon their trade as individual capital, and felt when a customer was lost to them through outside competition that their value as salesmen was lessened just so much. Even to-day occasional complaints of this kind are heard, but principals endeavor to smooth the matter over with their employees, and in the end succeed in keeping them well in the traces.

DO CUT PRICES INCREASE CONSUMPTION?

Neither statistics nor observation show any real increase in the general average of consumption under the fiercest price wars. Such warfare is, plainly enough, impoverishing all around, and it is a fair inference that in such a losing game consumption is, in reality, reduced through loss of profits, lowering of wages, enforced idleness among working people, and other coincident conditions which curtail the purchasing power of the general public. Selling goods at or below cost cannot, by any amount of sophistry, be made profitable. What is lost in one direction must be, and is, made up in other directions. What seems to be a concession to buyers is really nothing of the sort. The losses of the bargain counters are retrieved in other departments. An apparent increase in consumption on one side is counterbalanced by a decrease on the other. The only thing about the whole method is that one set of buyers are learning to want goods at less than their worth, while another set are paying the expenses of their pernicious training, and the head schoolmaster is the merchant himself.—[Geyer's Stationer.

The above curious "ad" was clipped from the Vegetarian, of London, England, and the following item from the Druggists' Circular, New York, the latter explaining the former:

VEGETABLE BUTTER.

This is the name given by Schlinck to a fatty substance produced from cocoanuts, and which he has succeeded in rendering completely inodorous. It is manufactured in Germany, where it is highly recommended as an article of diet for dyspeptics, being quite palatable and not to be distinguished by its flavor from ordinary butter when used in the same way. At a certain establishment in Switzerland for the treatment of gastric and intestinal disorders, it has taken the place of butter entirely.

A WORD TO THE RETAIL DEALER.

Are you in the habit of carefully reading the advertising pages of your trade paper? If not, will you allow us to specially call your attention to them, and to point out to you the fact that they form a very important and valuable feature that should never be neglected if you hope to do a profitable business. Perhaps you may be under the impression that the trade paper could be published without them. If so, permit us to disabuse your mind of that idea, and to inform you that there is not a single trade paper in the land that could print its reading pages alone if the publishers depended solely on your subscriptions. In the advertising pages of the trade paper you find the most reliable information in regard to novelties, seasonable and new goods, as well as the staples, without which you could not hope to carry on your business. But staple lines, however necessary they may be, are sold on a close margin, and without the novelties and seasonable articles your profits would be greatly reduced. For this reason the advertising pages should receive as careful attention as the reading matter, which, while more interesting to you, perhaps, for the moment, may not be as valuable in a business sense.

In the advertising pages of this issue are presented for your consideration a varied line of goods suited to your needs. Some of them you may now be selling, while others you may never have heard of before. The advertisements have cost money to the merchants and the manufacturers, and they have placed them in our pages especially with the hope that you will read them. Many of them are attractive outside of their purely business aspect. We trust, therefore, that before laying this paper aside you will examine it from cover to cover, and if within these pages you find something that fills your needs, that you will write to the advertiser regarding it. Your inquiries will receive prompt and careful attention. The advertisements are meant to draw your trade, and inquiries from dealers are never overlooked. And when writing to advertisers do not neglect to mention the name of the paper you saw the advertisement in. Next to receiving inquiries from possible customers the advertiser is gratified in knowing where his advertisements are calling attention to what he has to sell. This is also of great importance to the publisher of the trade paper, as the advertiser will continue his announcements where they are benefiting his business. —[St. Louis Stoves and Hardware.

Young men, after they get through their business training or apprenticeship, instead of pursuing their avocation and rising in their business, will often lie about, doing nothing. They say, "I have learned my business, but I am not going to be a hireling; what is the object of learning my trade or profession unless I establish myself?"

"Have you capital to start with?"

"No; but I am going to have it."

"How are you going to get it."

"I will tell you confidentially; I have a wealthy old aunt, and she will die pretty soon; but if she does not, I expect to find some rich old man who will lend me a few thousands to give me a start. If I only get the money to start with I will do well."

There is no greater mistake than when a young man believes he will succeed with borrowed money. Why? Because every man's experience coincides with that of Mr. Astor, who said, "it was more difficult for him to accumulate his first thousand dollars than all the succeeding millions that made up his colossal fortune." Money is good for nothing unless you know the value of it by experience. Give a boy $20,000 and put him in business, and the chances are that he will lose every dollar of it before he is a year older. Like buying a lottery ticket and drawing a prize, it is "easy come, easy go." He does not know the value of it; nothing is worth anything unless it costs effort. Without self-denial and economy, patience and perseverance, and commencing with capital you have not earned, you are not sure to succeed in accumulating. Young men, instead of waiting for "dead men's shoes," should be up and doing, for there is no class of persons who are so unaccommodating in regard to dying as these rich old people, and it is fortunate for the expectant heirs that it is so. Nine out of the ten of the rich men of our country to-day started out in life as poor boys, with determined wills, industry, perseverance, economy and good habits. They went on gradually, made their own money and saved it; and this is the best way to acquire a fortune. Stephen Girard started life as a poor cabin boy, and died worth $9,000,000. A. T. Stewart was a poor Irish boy; at the time of his death he paid taxes on a million and a half income a year. John Jacob Astor was a poor farmer boy and died worth $20,000,000. Cornelius Vanderbilt began life rowing a boat from Staten Island to New York; now he presents our Government with a steamship worth $1,000,000, and died worth $90,000,000. "There is no royal road to learning," says the proverb, and I may say it is equally true, "there is no royal road to wealth." But I think there is a royal road to both. The road to learning is a royal one; the road that enables the student to expand his intellect and every day add to his stock of knowledge, until in the process of intellectual growth he is able to solve the most profound problems, to count the stars, to analyse every atom of the globe, and to measure the firmament—this is a regal highway, and is the only road worth travelling.—[Eastman Journal.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SHIPPERS.

TO SHIPPERS OF DRESSED HOGS.

Now that the season for marketing dressed hogs has fairly set in, country shippers should pay special attention to the shipments thereof to this market. After they are properly dressed, too much care cannot be bestowed upon their selection, it being desirable that hogs of nearly equal weight and quality should comprise each lot; they ought then to be placed in clean cars, with a sufficient layer of straw at the bottom to prevent their being marked. Well-fatted, even, clean and bright-looking lots command a sale at top figures when buyers will not look at mixed and uneven lots, although they may be well-fatted. Each hog should have its weight neatly and distinctly marked upon it, and a list of weight of every shipment should be forwarded by mail as early as possible, so that no trouble may arise upon the arrival of the goods here. If shippers to this market will attend to the proper selection of light and heavy weights of good and proper qualities, they will be amply repaid for their trouble on the receipt of net proceeds of their consignments.

KEEPING ACCOUNTS.

A correspondent writing in the American Grocer says: "The importance of keeping full and accurate accounts of his business transactions is admitted by every storekeeper, whenever he stops to think of it; but it is not everyone who has the imperative need of this matter so deeply engraved on the tablets of memory that they cannot be effaced nor obscured by the many cross-fires, hasty memoranda, and off-hand transactions of a busy day. The seeming insignificance of little things and the simple transactions of a minute, in comparison with the whole year, are among the causes which lead to neglect of bookkeeping.

"To prevent small matters from being overlooked and forgotten, a very good way is to invest them with dignity and consequence, by letting them have a place in our business calculations and be honored with a name in our books. Expense includes many little things, and keeping an expense account makes a handy place for such items and elevates them in our estimation. The farmer sells potatoes for cash; he knows them not as goods; to him they are simply potatoes; but to write in the journal: 'Merchandise, Dr. to Cash for 50 bushels potatoes, $15,' transforms potatoes into merchandise, and invests them with an importance which tends to insure proper care in their disposal.

"Merchandise is the working account in the grocery business, and the grocer himself is a merchant. To the keeper of the small store, who diffidently refrains from styling himself a merchant, the need of knowing his commercial situation every day in the year and every hour in the day, which is to say at all times, is no less than if he were a merchant prince. Assets and liabilities are not all that he has to consider; for the relation between the certain and continual outgoing stream of expense, and the less certain incoming current of profit is the real source of success or of disaster, and he must know continually as he goes along, by the relation of these two streams to each other, whether he is gaining or losing—bookkeeping being a record of facts concerning their incoming and outgoing cargoes."

The Grocer adds: "Our correspondent has admirably expressed an important truth. The more we study the complicated conditions of our modern business life, the more are we impressed with the necessity of some means by which we shall know accurately the results of our work. The older storekeepers appreciate the value of correct accounts. Our great manufactories and business houses would be helpless without their experienced accountants, and so, too, are the small retailers, in a degree, corresponding to the volume of their trade. It is possible to do a large business and yet make no money. The only test to apply to find out whether this is true of a particular merchant's store is careful accounts of expenses and profits; 'two streams,' as our friend aptly calls them.

"His illustration about the farmer making no entries for the sales of his potatoes discloses a home truth. One great reason why so many farmers are in hard luck is because they keep no accounts, do not know whether they are making money or not, nor which crop is profitable. If the storekeepers wish to avoid the troubles which beset so many farmers, let them do what so many farmers fail to do, viz.: keep such accounts as will enable them to know whether they are really selling goods at a profit over all expenses."

PLUCKY FRENCH CANADIANS.

The French-Canadian grocers of Worcester, becoming tired of the losses from bad debts which have become altogether too frequent and large, decided to put a stop to this and accordingly formed a Protective Union. They joined together—nearly every French grocer becoming a member—and arranged to issue a black list of bad and slow-paying customers. This for mutual protection.

The boy employed by the printer where the black lists were being printed carried off some of the sheets and exhibited them to some of the persons whose names appeared therein. This, of course, made quite a commotion.

As a consequence, we are told, a scheme was proposed to form a union store on a co-operative plan. Some of the men who were on the black list became stockholders. A meeting was held and the object was stated to be the formation of a stock company, with shares at $10 each, and stock a general store, where the members of the union will do all their trading.

This is a rather peculiar state of affairs. If men who were slow pay to grocers can form a co-operative store and make it a success, they will certainly have to reform their methods, for if they (the owners) don't pay themselves more promptly than they paid the retail grocers the profits won't be very large. Of course we don't intimate that all the stockholders in this new store are dead beats or slow pay. Far from it. Doubtless there are good men in it. At the same time there is little doubt that some of them are of this class, and that the black list issued by the French retailers in their laudable efforts to secure pay for goods sold was the controlling and active cause for the formation of this new society.

The French retailers should be encouraged by the wholesale trade in their efforts to receive pay for goods sold, for thereby are they enabled to meet their obligations to the wholesale trade. We are glad to note that many of the retailers are now conducting a cash business, and using a rebate card. The French grocers of Worcester are alive to the needs of the time.—[New England Grocer.

ADVERTISING IN THE RETAIL TRADE.

The jobber and manufacturer, no matter what his line of goods, sends his travelling man with a line of samples to the retailer, who to the jobber and manufacturer is the "consumer." Does the retailer in turn send his travelling men to his consumer? No! He purchases, places the goods on sale in his store, and either sits down and folds his hands and calmly awaits a customer to come and examine the goods, or else he tries by advertising, through the medium of the newspaper or other forms of printing, to make known to the people what he has to offer them in his line.

How to reach the people has given the writer much concern, but he thinks he has at last fathomed it. Why not, on dull days, supply one of your clerks with some of your business cards, samples of ladies, misses' and children's shoes, and a list of people whom you know are not customers, but whose patronage you desire; and let this clerk call upon them, display his samples, quote prices, explain the quality, etc., and inform them that he is not looking for orders or sales, but merely showing them what his house can do for them in the way of foot-wear, and, leaving, extend them an earnest invitation call and inspect your stock? In many instances we think the salesman will be compelled to accept orders, he taking the size, style, etc., and delivering from the store.

Some merchants will say: "I do not propose to peddle my stock." Does that idea enter your head when a representative of some manufacturer enters your store and requests you to examine his line of samples? Not a bit of it! Neither will it bother the people you desire as customers, if you approach them in the proper way—i. e., "I have samples of our stock and want to show you what they are, quote you prices, and if they are satisfactory to you, give us the pleasure of waiting upon you at our store. Here is our card—always ready to show goods whether we effect sales or not."

To pave the way for your salesman, you might mail to the people on your lists a postal, saying:

Our Mr. ——— will have the pleasure of calling upon you next ——— with samples of ——— which we have just received, and we take this manner of presenting them to your notice before our stock is depleted.

Respectfully yours, ———

VALUE OF COURTESY IN BUSINESS.

If it were possible to determine the money value of business courtesy, the majority of people would be wonderfully surprised to find at how high a figure it was rated; and stranger yet, if this same quality could be gathered up or manufactured into a marketable form, we believe that it would find very few purchasers. In other words, courtesy is a something the worth of which is little appreciated, and most people would not care to take it even as a gift. How important a factor it is in the general affairs of life is not a question to be discussed in a trade paper, but on the other hand it is eminently proper to point out the influence of this personal ingredient in the business world. Furthermore, the subject is especially pertinent just now, when the celebration of the centennial anniversary of General Washington's inauguration is turning men's thoughts back to the customs of the last century. To be sure, the chief attention is given to the military ways of our ancestors, but along with this there is a good deal of investigating into the every-day habits a hundred years, more or less, ago. Whoever looks up the history of business and reads old correspondence and papers relating to past methods of trading cannot but be struck by the more dignified and courteous tone that pervaded the dealings of the merchants then, and if the written records they have left are marked by an old-fashioned courtesy we can depend upon it that the manners of the day possessed the same charm. It is no excuse to say that business men of the present are subject to such fierce competition and are so driven in their work that they have no time to waste in being courteous, for a gentlemanly manner will facilitate rather than delay a trade, even if it is but swapping jack-knives. Furthermore, as there is little prospect of the hurry of business life abating yet a while, we should be all the more careful to guard against the consequences that come from fret and worry, lest our future behaviour become intolerably rough.

Looking at the matter simply from a mercenary standpoint, it will require but little reflection on the part of sensible people to discover that courtesy in business brings an actual money reward. There is no one but can recall instances in his experience where the manner of a salesman had as much to do with a bargain as the quality of the goods. It would seem to be true, however, that this personal element enters with greater force in small transactions than in large ones, for where considerable money is involved we are less influenced by our feelings in the matter. A pleasant address will win a fortune for a book agent, while the president of a big corporation can be as crotchety as he pleases without coming to bankruptcy. Nevertheless, the amount of business lost through the offensive behaviour of a company's agents is an indeterminable factor, and very likely it is the difficulty of estimating the losses from this cause that makes us undervalue it. If, as not infrequently happens, we are kept from purchasing a lot of goods or from awarding a contract by a disagreeable manner, we are not apt to tell the person the reason why we do not trade with him, and such people are seldom modest enough to divine our motives. But if it is the price of the work or quality of the goods that deter us, we have no hesitation in letting our reasons be known. In the first instance, the man injures his interests without knowing how, and we will likely repeat the folly many times over, while in the second case we have cited the obstacle to the trade is understood and can readily be removed. As we intimated above, the influence of courtesy increases as we approach the last division in the distributing trade, and is greatest with the retail salesman, but in every department of business it is too important a factor to be ignored. It is extremely difficult to write about this subject in a general way, and it would require an infinite number of practical illustrations to cover the whole field. The best we can hope to do is to direct attention to it, and let each one reason out for himself the money value of business courtesy. After all, courtesy is much like advertising; we know that it is a good thing, but cannot tell exactly how many dollars it is worth to us.—Metal Worker.

SUNLIGHT SOAP.

Report on "Sunlight Soap" from Sir Charles A. Cameron, M.D., ex-President of the Royal College of Surgeons; Vice-President of the Institute of Chemistry of Great Britain; Chief Medical Officer of Health for Dublin; S. Sc. C. Cambridge University; Member of the College of Physicians; Professor of Hygiene and Chemistry, Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland; Hon. Member Societies of Hygiene of Paris, Bordeaux and Belgium.

Laboratory, Royal College of Surgeons,
Stephen's Green, W.,

Dublin, February 15th, 1888.

I have carefully analyzed specimens of the "Sunlight Soap," submitted to me for that purpose by Messrs. Lever Bros., Warrington, and the following are the results at which I have arrived:

The points in the composition of this soap that are more valuable are its freedom from free alkali, the large percentage of fatty acids which it contains, and the purity of the materials employed in its preparation. I employ the soap for my own toilet purposes, and from my actual experience of it can strongly recommend it. (Signed) CHARLES A. CAMERON.

COULD NOT BE INDUCED TO DO WITHOUT IT.

Mr. W. A. Carson, importer and general merchant, Picton, in sending his subscription to THE GROCER, says:

I would just say before closing that I consider your paper a most valuable addition to a grocery. I have found most valuable hints and instructions in the same, and could not be induced to do without it on any account. My sincere wish is that your "shadow may never grow less."

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—
474 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

A. L. Dent, Woodstock, is among the prosperous grocer merchants of the East End.

The wholesale grocery house of T. Kenny & Co., Sarnia, meets every demand of the retail grocery trade in that section.

Mr. D. Richards, soap manufacturer, Woodstock, is in full enjoyment of his large new building, a full description of which shall be given to the trade in a future issue.

A representative of a large manufactory of hay presses at Quincey, Illinois, was in Woodstock last week, looking for a suitable site with a view of starting a manufactory there.

W. R. McKay, grocer, Wallaceburg, has got settled in the new block built on the grounds of the great fire of last fall. His stock is fresh and bright and he knows how to keep it so.

Messrs. Lewis & Co., Woodstock, have opened a grocery store in the East End, believing the increased population of this part of the town warrants the addition to the established trade there already.

Mr. John Morrison, Woodstock, has reason to show a smiling countenance, as a car load of sugar laid in in the nick of time will last him through the canning season, and he isn't giving 11 or 12 pounds for a dollar, either.

R. J. McLauchlin, Wallaceburg, whose stock barely escaped the destructive fire last spring, still enjoys the best patronage of that side of the river. His stock is well sorted up and comprises the best lines in the grocery and dry goods trade.

Goderich has invested $400 in local newspaper work, and pays that sum to the home papers to write up the town. The usual practice is to pay distant city papers to do such work, and leave the home editors to forage for themselves. Score one to Goderich common sense.

J. W. Cowan & Co. are putting another new line on the market, called "Cowan's Cocoa Essence," and they claim it is the finest article of its kind made on this side of the Atlantic. The firm have a reputation for pure grades of goods, and this article should find favor with the trade.

Mr. John Murphy, grocer, Wallaceburg, has greatly improved his property since the fire by building up to the burnt district, which he now rents to a hardware firm, using the corner store for his grocery business. Wallaceburg is fortunate in having such enterprising men after such a calamity as that which befell that town in the last eight months.

The Toronto Produce and Commission Company is the name of a new firm who seek business in the commission line. At the head of the new firm, in the capacity of manager, is Mr. W. B. Weil, a gentleman who has an extensive experience in the produce business, which line, as the name of the company implies, is what they are engaged in. Though only a short time in operation it is evident from the business connections already established, the business being done, and the energy and push displayed by Mr. Weil and his able and enterprising associates, that the house will at once take a place among the concerns of its kind in the country. Through the courtesy of Mr. Weil THE GROCER was shown over the Company's extensive premises, and the facilities for handling shipping and storing possessed by them seem to be all that can be desired. This, coupled with the fact of a central location, the business in the hands of men who are fully awake, and prepared to respond to all its requirements, should make it of interest to both shippers and buyers of produce to place the new firm on their list of correspondents, or give them a call.

In the International Series Counter Check Books, manufactured by Morton & Co., 3 and 5 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, merchants are guaranteed in their use by letters patent. Samples are furnished free of the best check book yet introduced. Thousands

DISEASE IN TOILET SOAP.

Commercial salesmen and other travellers are often afflicted with skin disease of a more or less serious nature. A physician places the number seriously afflicted at one in fifty, and states that in almost every instance the cause can be traced to the use of hotel soap.

Every person who has had occasion to be a hotel guest, no matter where, is familiar with the much-worn cakes of soap that lies in wait for him on the washstand, sometimes in a not over-clean soap dish, and frequently glued to the cover of the stand, according to the whim of the chamber-maid. You haven't the slightest idea in the world who used the soap last, and very few persons ever gave the matter a thought. It would be an easy-going individual, and one singularly indifferent to considerations of cleanliness, who would for a moment think of using a towel that might have been used by the previous occupant of a room at a hotel, but the instances are rare where the same guest will hesitate to use the soap he finds in the room, although it may scarcely be dry from the ablution of the last person who used it. The travelling man does not stop to think that the hotel soap is unexcelled as a distributer of cutaneous diseases, and frequently those that are difficult of eradication. The man who stops habitually at hotels here, there and everywhere about the country, and does not carry and use his own soap, deliberately courts the contracting of what may be a most distressing and offensive malady.—[Penn. Grocer.

Clerks should be taught how to approach a customer and what to say to them. I have noticed that some appear at times very rude in speech and manners, not that they mean to be, but from lack of proper training they are so nevertheless. How often have I heard a clerk say to a lady on entering the store, "What do you want?" or, "Well, ma'am!" instead of a pleasant greeting, bidding the time of day, or some other pleasant remark, before taking the order. Clerks should bear in mind that a pleasant manner and address is very essential to good salesmanship. I have known instances when grocers have ruined their business simply because they were rude in manner and speech, and did not know how to treat their customers with the respect due them. Clerks follow the example of their employers, and it is hardly to be expected that they should be polite and obliging when their employers are gruff and cross-grained.—[Retail Grocers' Advocate.

THE MARKETS

TORONTO, May 31, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

The activity noted last week still continues, the demand for corn and peas being particularly brisk, partly owing to retailers having to replenish stocks and in anticipation of an advance in prices. Old stocks are being cleared out, and gradually the situation may be considered improving, the prices at which goods have been slaughtered stimulating consumption. Under the most favourable circumstances, however, packers must be prepared to meet competition from large lots carried into next season, and will show wisdom in curtailing their output in order to relieve the market of the terrible glut of last season. Tomatoes are moving at 75c. to $1, those of really good quality, which are obtainable at 90c., being in greatest demand. Corn 90c. to $1 10c. Peas are selling at 90c. to $1. Beans slowly at 90c. Canned fruits are meeting with better inquiry. Peaches, 2's, in heavy syrup, $2.10 to $2.25; 3's, $3.10 to $3.25. Apples, 3's, 80c. to 90c.; gallons, $2 to $2.25. Plums, $1.45. Blueberries, 1's, 85c.; 2's, $1.25. Pears, Bartlett, $2.10 to $2.20. Canned fish continues in good demand. Salmon, standard brands, $1.75. White Fraser River, good quality, can be had at $1.60 to $1.62½. Lobsters scarce. Mackerel herring, 90c. to $1.10. Canned meats in fair demand with prices firm.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants and Valencia raisins have been exciting greater interest, but there has been no material change in values on this market. Currants are selling as before at 5c. to 5½c. for good choice in barrels, and at 4¾c. for low grades. A good demand prevails for dates and prices have gone up; none can be bought for less than 6c. Figs nominal. Movement in prunes have been very light; hogsheads have sold as low as 4c., and cases from 6c. to 9c. Valencia raisins of sound quality are scarce and firm. Some holders are asking as much as 7c., but as a rule they are quoted at 6¼c. to 6½c. Low grades can be bought for 5⅜c. to 5¾c. Sultanas are selling firmly at $7.50 to $8.50 for choice low grades. London Layers, $1.75 to $2; black basket, $3.50 to $3.75; blue baskets at $4 to $4.50.

GREEN FRUIT.

The late holiday has not had any effect in decreasing the volume of trade done in green fruit; in fact, for the few days before the 24th a rather improved business was transacted, although it is possible that there may now be some slowing up for a short period. Taking the trade altogether, it is a good one, and dealers appear to be satisfied with the results. Prices generally have a firm tendency, but without any actual advance in the past few days. Not a great many Valencia oranges are in stock at present, and, with the brisk demand that exists for them, they are stiffly held at quotations. They are moving off in a spirited manner at $7.50 per case for ordinary and $8.50 to $9 per case for extra fruit. Messina oranges are not in such good request, but still a fair demand can be noticed for them at $3 to $3.50 per box. Supplies of Messina lemons have been quite considerable, but they are selling fairly well and remain quotably unchanged at $4.50 per box. Warmer weather is, however, needed to stimulate this branch of the business. Yellow bananas are only meeting with a slow enquiry, but red are in tolerably active request. A good deal of the fruit is arriving in a green state. Red are quoted at $1.50 to $2 per bunch, and yellow at $1 to $1.50. Not so many pineapples have arrived lately as heretofore, but stocks are large enough for the demands of the trade. Extra large are quoted at $3 per dozen, large at $2.50 and medium at $2 per dozen. New York despatches say: "Dealers in Mediterranean fruit are experiencing a very slow sale for their goods; the absence of important demand they attribute to the competition of other markets and the lower temperature. Bananas sell promptly upon arrival. Good fruit is maintained at firm prices, but it is found necessary sometimes to shade the price of poor grades to influence business. There are fewer pines offering momentarily, but considerable quantities are near at hand.

☞ The review of the markets published in the GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER is based upon information gained from personal application to both seller and buyer, as far as possible and quotations here given reflect, in most cases, the actual prices paid.

RICE.

There has been a further advance in rice. Prices at the mills are $3.70, which means $3.82 delivered here.

SUGAR.

On Saturday all white sugars recovered the 1-16th that they declined the previous week, and yellows are improving in sympathy, a large business having been done at slightly better prices by Montreal refiners the end of last week. Travellers' orders have continued to increase in consequence of a better demand from the country in general. Prices of yellows remain about the same as last week, low grades selling at 7¼c. up to 8c. for brights. Not much doing in raws; Jamaicas quoted 6¾c. to 6⅞, Demararas, 9c. Stronger markets for raws in Europe have increased the firmness of holders on this side, who, consequently, are offering supplies very reservedly, looking to an increased demand in June and July with higher prices. New York quotations for centrifugals, 96 test, are 7⅜c. against 7¼c. a week ago. Fair refining Muscovados, 89 test, 6¼c. to 6 5-16c. against 6¼c. previous week. These figures are still about ⅛c. to ¼c. under ruling quotations in Cuba, where the bulk of the supplies are controlled.

Beets advanced another 6d. in England on Monday. Crop estimates are being again modified, some of the forecasts for Cuba reduce the aggregate yield to about 400,000 tons. Continental authorities calculate an increase in the beetroot crop of 5 per cent. to 6 per cent. which at the utmost is here considered a very moderate addition to the probable outcome.

TEA.

There is no change to chronicle. Demand still continues quiet and, owing to the holidays, there has been little business effected in the past week. London and New York markets remain unchanged with the exception that Oolongs, in the latter market, are depressed.

The only new feature in the local market has been a demand for teas in fancy packages, and one large sale of Japans in baskets has been effected. Dealers appear to be taking up this kind of package again though they have been neglected for a long time past.

Mail advices from Hiogo, Japan, under date 1st instant, report that the market there practically opened on the 29th April with settlements amounting to about 100 piculs, at from $29 to $42 per picul, most of which has been shipped per S.S. "Belgic." Prices paid are from $3 to $4 higher than were ruling for similar teas at the commencement of last season, probably owing to the tea having only come in from the country just in time to catch the steamer. After this prices are likely to find the same level as last year's basis. Quality of crop considered quite up to last year's. Exchange four months' credits, 3s. 1d.

Advices from the port of Yokohama, under date of 3rd instant, say that tea has been coming in freely at that port, and it is expected that about 1,500 piculs will leave from there by S.S. "Belgic." Prices paid are in most cases from $2 to $3 above last seasons. Prospects are that there will be a good crop this season.

The first samples of this year's crop of Japan teas have been shown on this market to-day.

☞ The GROCER is everywhere acknowledged as an authority, and its market quotations are accepted as official.

PROVISIONS.

In dressed hogs receipts are by no means heavy, and with the light supply there is a quiet demand and the market for dressed hogs remains featureless. They are quoted nominally at $6.75 to $7. Smoked meats are quotably unchanged and are moving in a steady manner. Lard is selling fairly well at quotations. Canadian is hard to get and holders are firm at 11c. to 11½c.; American compound rules from 9c. to 9½c. Bacon is quiet at 8½c. to 9c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Increased receipts have further reduced prices about 1c. Market is now at 15c. Even at this figure the demand is slow and dealers have not been able to clear up and stocks continue to accumulate.

CHEESE — Considerably weaker, being quoted at 9½c. to 10c. One dealer was offered round lots of good quality at 8½c. Peterboro', May 28.—The first cheese sale of the Peterboro' Cheese Board opened to-day in the old council chamber. All the factories in the county were represented except Lakefield, a small factory near the village of Lakefield. The patrons of this factory are trying the consigning business. There was offered on the board 718 cheese, being the first half of May make. The whole lot was sold to Wm. Cluxton at 8⅜c. Buyers present were: Cluxton, Bird, Flavelle, Warrington, Wrighton and Fitzgerald. The board adjourned for two weeks.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

POTATOES—A fairly active demand exists and offerings, while not too large, are sufficient to supply the trade. Quotations are 25c. on the track, and 35c. out of store.

EGGS—Have developed a somewhat firmer feeling, although they cannot actually be quoted higher. Receipts to-day were somewhat smaller, while the demand continues quite fair. They are quoted at 12c. to 12½c.

HAY—Is steady and practically unchanged. Offerings are not so large as heretofore. Some very choice timothy has sold at $14, but the range of prices is $13 to $13.50 for good timothy; mixed is dull and unchanged, at $10 to $12.

DRIED APPLES—Are offered in fair quantities, but although a moderately fair demand exists for them, there seems to be rather too many in stock. They are nominally unchanged, at 2½c. to 3c., and some dealers would be glad to sell at the higher figure. Evaporated are slow of sale, at 5c. to 6½c.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Eggs are quiet. Fresh Eastern firsts, 14c. to 14¼c.; Canadian firsts, 14¼c.; Western firsts, 13½c. to 13¾c.

FISH.

Trade remains in the same condition as since last reports. A fair amount of business is noticed in some varieties. but on the whole not a great deal of activity is shown. The most active fish are Lake Winnipeg trout and whitefish, while salmon are also in moderately active request. Other varieties are dull and prices are unaltered.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

There was a little more enquiry for wheat, but despite this but a light business was done. Offerings were not large. Prices are unchanged. Red winter sold at 97c., white on the Northern at 94c., and spring on the Midland at 98c. No. 2 fall was offered at 96c. and 93c. outside, with no takers. For No. 2 red 92c. was bid. One car Manitoba wheat sold by sample at 50c. although 60c. was asked. This was very poor quality and could not be graded. Barley was purely nominal. Practically no business was transacted. On the Board 45c. was bid for No. 3 extra. Peas were inactive and unchanged; 54c. was offered on the Northern. Oats were a little steadier, although quotations were unchanged. There was less offering. For No. 2 mixed 30c. was bid on the Board to-day, and 30c. was offered for No. 2 on the track. Bran quiet and unaltered at $8 to $9.50. Corn —Nothing was doing and quotations are nominal. Flour — Patent $4.90 to $5.70 Straight roller $4.50 to $4.60. Extra $4.20 to $4.30. Strong Bakers' $4.50 to $4.80.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no improvement in the canned goods market in regard to business. The demand has continued slow owing to the fact that buyers generally have ample supplies on hand to last for some time; in consequence business has been dull and of a jobbing character. The prospects are poor at present on account of the large stocks held by packers and wholesale dealers, and the indications are that few orders will be placed for future delivery. Old lobsters have been jobbing at $5.75 per case, and new are offering for future delivery at $6.25 to $6.50, but few orders have been placed at these figures. Mackerel continue very scarce and firm at $5 to $5.50 per case. Salmon has ruled steady at the recent decline, and sales of small lots have been made at $1.65 per dozen. The offerings of tomatoes are large, for which there has been little enquiry, and few sales have been effected at 75c. to 85c. per dozen as to brand. Corn has ruled quiet and steady at 90c. to 95c. for the Erie and Aylmer brand, $1.75 for Yarmouth, and $1.30 for Hoeggs per dozen. Peas were quiet and steady at $1.10 to 1.20 per dozen. In canned fruits business has been dull and prices have ruled steady at the recent decline. There has been a fair enquiry for Armour's canned meats for this season, and a number of small lots have changed hands at former quotations.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

The Markets—Continued.

SUGARS.

Late advices from abroad have been stronger on raw sugar and report an advance of 6d. on beet. There has been a firmer feeling in this market on refined sugar, and prices have been well maintained. There has been a more active demand and a larger volume of business has been accomplished. Some round lots of granulated have sold at 8½c. to 8⅝c., and yellows at 7⅛c. to 7¾c. as to quality at the factory.

SYRUPS.

The demand for syrup has improved some, and the market has been more active and steady, with a larger volume of business. The offerings have been larger, and buyers have shown more disposition to take hold, in consequence sales have been made more freely, and some fair-sized lots have been turned over at 4c. to 4½c.

MOLASSES.

There has been a quieter tone to the molasses market during the past week, and business has not been so active, although a fair volume of trade has been transacted in a small way, but we do not hear of any large sales for future delivery since last week. The market has a firm tone, and prices have been well maintained at 44c. to 45c. for Barbadoes, 36c. to 37c. for Trinidad, and 37c. to 39c. for Antigua.

FRUIT.

The fruit has been active under a good demand, and a large volume of business has been transacted at firm prices. The offerings of oranges and lemons have been larger, for which the demand has been active, and some large lines have changed hands at firm prices. Oranges have sold freely in round lots at $6.50 to $7.50 per case, and lemons brought $3.50 to $4.00 per box. The demand for Valencia raisins has been slow and business has continued quiet, with prices steady at 5¾c. to 6c., with currants at 4½c. to 5c. The receipts of business have been very large, which met with a firm demand, but the market has been weak and prices are lower. Red have been selling at 50c. to $1.00, and yellow at $1.25 to $1.75 per bunch. Evaporated apples are cheap at 5¾c. to 6c. with dried at 4c. Cocoanuts are firmer at 4¼c. to 4½c. each.

RICE.

The market has been fairly active and firm. The price for ordinary in car loads has been advanced to $5.70 for new crop, the quality of which is turning out very good. Patna is at 4½c. to 4¾c., and Japan at 4c. to 4½c. Two more steamers, one from Akyab and one from Bassein are on the way with rough rice for this port for Ross, Hall & Co., and are due sometime in July.

GRAIN AND FLOUR.

Flour has been dull and easy, with values tending lower, and prices have to be reduced, although concessions have not enlarged business. Exporters have done nothing on spot and local trade has been slow, especially as offerings have been heavy. Oatmeal has declined and Western millers have offered standard down to $3.60 per barrel delivered here.

Patent winter	$5 10 @$5 50
Patent spring	5 50 — 6 00
Straight roller	4 75 — 4 85
Extra	4 50 — 4 60
Superfine	3 75 — 4 25
City strong bakers'	5 60 — 5 70
Strong bakers'	5 25 — 5 50
Superfine, bags	1 75 — 2 20
Extra, bags	2 10 — 2 25
Oatmeal, standard, (per bag)	1 75 — 1 85
Oatmeal, granulated (per bag)	1 90 — 2 00

The grain market has continued slow. Wheat has ruled weak and lower with business light. Offerings from the North-West have been liberal and Manitoba wheat has declined 4c. to 5c. per bushel with the tendency still downward. Trade in coarse grains was light and confined to local events. No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.10 to $1.12; No. 2 do, $1.08 to $1.10; peas, 70c. to 72c, per 66 lbs. afloat; oats, 32c. to 33c.; barley, 50c. to 55c.

EGGS.

The market has a steady tone with a fair business at 12½c. to 13c., with occasional small lots at 13¼c.

BUTTER.

Butter has had a weakish tone and prices have fallen off as supplies have exceeded demand, and no export outlet has yet offered. Creamery, 21c. to 21½c.; Townships, 18c. to 20c.; Morrisburg, 17½c. to 19½c.; Western, 16c. to 18c.

CHEESE.

Prices have declined a good ¾c. during the week on weak foreign news, larger receipts and a prospective heavy production. To-day the market was weak and 8¼c. was considered the top. We quote 8c. to 8¼c., with indications of a further decline.

Any one answering advertisements which appear in this paper will do themselves and us a service by mentioning that they saw the advertisement in THE GROCER.

HOW TO SELL GOODS.

The New York Star sizes it up in the following language: "It depends upon the man. That is the whole secret. Like the old parody on Victor Hugo, 'If you want to be a good salesman you must educate your grandmother.' A good salesman is born, not made. In the first place you must be able to 'size up' your purchaser all through. If you tell a racy story to a church deacon, or if you offer a prohibition candidate for justice a drink out of your private bottle, or if you try to get the village freethinker to direct you to prayer-meeting, you will make an expensive mistake. You must, like St. Paul, be all things to all men, and more than that, the right things to the right men. You can't sell two men in the same way. You must attack each man differently. You must catch a man when he is not busy and when he is not tired. When you do go for a man, go for him horse, foot and dragoons. Don't give him a chance to get away from you, but hold on to him until you land him. You have got to know your own goods like you know your prayers to do this, and you have got to know what your competitors are doing, too. You must be prepared for every possible reception, and for every possible and impossible objection, and suddenly you find you have sold a big bill, and you have to go over the thing slowly afterward to find out how you did it."

Our Annual Picnic will occur in June this year. In preparing your lunch we suggest you use Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder (sold by all grocers) in making the biscuit, cakes, etc., it is the most healthy and perfect. Manufactured by E. W. Gillett, Toronto, Ont.

TENDERS.

SEALED TENDERS, marked "For Mounted Police Provisions and Light Supplies," and addressed to the Honorable the President of the Privy Council, Ottawa, will be received up to noon on Tuesday, June 18, 1889.

Printed forms of tender, containing full information as to the articles and approximate quantities required, may be had on application to any of the Mounted Police Posts in the North-West, or at the office of the undersigned.

No tender will be received unless made on such printed forms.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted Canadian bank cheque for an amount equal to ten per cent. of the total value of the articles tendered for, which will be forfeited if the party declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fails to complete the service contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

No payment will be made to newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority having been first obtained.

FRED. WHITE,
Comptroller N.-W. M. Police.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

CUTTING PRICES OF SALT.

As was to be expected, the Canadian combination on salt has not been able to keep the prices up to the very high figure at which they were put at first. During the past few weeks we have heard of a good deal of cutting, especially in Hamilton and other Western points. Sales of dairy have been made in Hamilton at 25 to 30 per cent. below the prices first asked. There seems to be an idea that the Canadian wells are part of the great English syndicate, but this is not the case. At the same time it is not improbable that if the English syndicate is as successful as its promoters anticipate an effort will be made to unite forces with the Canadians. At present the Canadian syndicate is composed of Dr. Coleman, Seaforth; Rightmeyer, Kincardine, and Ransford, of Clinton, doing business under the name of Rightmeyer & Co., with a head office at Clinton. The salt industry has been in a depressed state, and when this firm went to the salt manufacturers to make an agreement they found no difficulty in doing so. All the manufacturers, with the exception of the North American Chemical Works, of Goderich, agreed to sell no salt excepting to Rightmeyer & Co., who agreed to take a certain amount and to pay a certain price. Having got all the wells, with the exception noted above, under their control, the Canadian syndicate at once advanced prices about one hundred per cent. For instance, for common quality, which formerly sold about 55c., they asked $1, and ordinary dairy they advanced from about $1.35 to $2.25 and $2.40. These prices held for a time but, as already stated, they are now cutting on account of competition. This has had a bad effect on the market. Dealers are now doubtful whether the agreement will be maintained, and are consequently buying from hand to mouth until they become satisfied that the market is in a settled condition.

AN IMPOSTOR AT WORK.

A man has been collecting subscriptions for the CANADIAN GROCER in Hamilton recently without any authority from this office. On May 10 he collected $2 from R. J. Bampfylde, of 43 and 45 Walnut St., giving a receipt therefor. The name signed appears to be T. Lemon. The receipt has been handed to the Hamilton police and they are on his track. Our agents are provided with printed receipt blanks and have written authority to collect.

CANCELLATION OF ORDERS.

If there is one thing more aggravating than another, to the ordinary wholesale merchant, it is to have an order for goods, which have been booked, refused or cancelled by the customer, for no other reason, perhaps, than since the order had been given the market price of these particular goods had declined or that a rival traveller had offered him the goods at a lesser rate than he had given his order for. It is annoying to the wholesale merchant, that, after an order has been booked for goods for import or forward delivery, if the market decline, a desire is expressed to have the order cancelled.

There are few, if any, wholesale houses in Canada, that will not deliver goods as promptly as possible, even though prices advance sharply after the order is booked. In fact, at the time the order is booked, all reliable firms, in turn, contract with the manufacturers or their agents on the basis of the sale, or else have previously covered their contracts by purchasing ahead, and, consequently, deliver at the same time profit in case of an advance, as they would had the market declined. But when in the event of a decline customers endeavour to cancel, or refuse to accept delivery, the wholesaler or importer is placed in an exceedingly awkward position. As for example: A, who is a consumer of galvanized iron in, say Woodstock, places an order with B & Co., a Toronto wholesale firm, for two cases of galvanized iron at 5c. per lb., delivered at Woodstock. In order to deliver at this place it is necessary for B & Co. to have this iron shipped on a through bill of lading from London or Liverpool, as the case may be, and this is done. But before arrival of the iron A writes that he has been offered same quality at a lower price, and unless B & Co. will meet this figure he wants the order cancelled. For B & Co. there is but one thing to be done in order to protect themselves, and that is to insist upon the terms of the contract being carried out, but in most instances the buyer is a customer whose trade is, perhaps, valued highly by the wholesale house, and for this reason the latter does not care to insist on the purchaser taking the goods, and must, if he cannot otherwise arrange and does not see his way clear to lose money in accepting the price offered, have the iron held to order at Woodstock, and sell it when opportunity offers at whatever he can get for it.

This is manifestly unfair. No wholesale house can afford to pay travellers expenses and salary for the purpose of booking orders and then have these orders cancelled, nor can they afford in every instance to insist upon delivery being taken; the results are clear. The wholesaler loses confidence in the retailer and in the next transaction must take into account the manner in which the previous transaction was regarded by the customer and ask for his goods a proportionate increase in price by way of protection. The retailer on his part must feel that he cannot continue to do business on the same footing with the wholesale house, and distrust and dissatisfaction, besides oftentimes pecuniary loss result from what may at the moment seem to be but a minor matter in the cancellation of an order.

Let it be laid down as a standard principle to guide every transaction of every business man of integrity and honour that whatever goods he orders he shall be prepared to take, and that without grumbling, no matter what changes take place in the market ; and also it is well for the retailer to bear in mind that the wholesaler has his business to carry on the same basis though on a somewhat larger scale, and the same rules which govern one in a transaction or in the carrying out of a contract—should also govern the other.

WILL DELIVER THEIR OWN LETTERS.

The action of the Government in advancing the rate of postage on city letters from one to two cents is a very unpopular move. It is, in fact, regarded as a step backward. No business man can afford to pay two cents for the delivery of his letters. It is certainly not worth over one cent, and if the Government would allow private corporations to do the work they would gladly deliver at less than one cent for each letter. Messrs. Eby, Blain & Co. have figured it out, and have come to the conclusion that their extensive correspondence can be much more cheaply handled by one of their own boys. Yesterday they inaugurated the new system. Robert Summers, the little office boy, appeared in a neat-fitting navy blue suit, with brass buttons, and delivered the greater number of their city letters. On his cap the words, " Letters, Eby, Blain & Co.," is nicely worked in gold wire.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

FRUIT CROP DAMACED.

Reports made to the Canadian Packers' Association :

The Canadian Packers' Association held a meeting here Friday last, with Mr. W. Boulter, President, in the chair. As usual, a large amount of business was transacted. The firm of A. C. Miller & Co., Picton, was elected to membership, as was also R. W. Douglas, St. John's, Que. In view of the large sales recently and the probabilities of a light crop, it was decided to advance canned corn, making the minimum price 92 1/2c. per doz. Reports were made by members on the damage to their crops by the recent frost. After taking into consideration the damage done, it was decided that it would be very inadvisable to offer new pack of goods for sale until the season was further advanced. Mr. W. A. Ferguson, Delhi, reported that corn and tomatoes had been scorched and killed, and apples and all small fruits seriously injured, and he feared that they would be a total failure.

Mr. A. E. Carpenter, Hamilton, said that he had not seen the effects, but had been told that all the tomato plants had been ruined. He had seen beans cut to the ground.

Mr. Innes, Simcoe, Norfolk county, reported from personal observation : He took from several apple trees quantities of young apples and only found two which were perfect. He is satisfied that the apple crop in Norfolk will be a failure—cherries the same. He was not so sure about pears, and strawberries, he thinks, will not be one-quarter of a crop. Peas, he thinks, safe. Grapes all destroyed. All the corn and tomatoes that had sprouted were cut to the ground.

Mr. Teskey, Welland, reports cherries 90 per cent. destroyed, grapes frozen and lost and tomatoes all cut to the ground.

Mr. Boulter, from Prince Edward county, reported that before the frost grubs destroyed many tomato plants and many were broken off by high winds. The frost had cut them off in spots. Some few fields were not injured. Strawberries in some sheltered places were not materially injured, and others probably half crop. All corn that was up was completely cut off.

Mr. Fenton, St. Catharines, reported from a number of enquiries that the frost on Tuesday night at points down near the lake ice was ¼ inch thick. Thermometer registered 28° or 4° below freezing. Grapes very seriously damaged ; one vine yard of 60 acres and other large vineyards are totally destroyed. Plums will not be more than ten per cent. of a crop. Some fields of tomato plants entirely destroyed and very few plants are left for resetting. All corn that was standing has been cut ; also beans. Strawberries are more or less injured. Some of the late settings may produce fruit, but it will be very light. He had learned nothing definite about peaches and apples.

The Lakeport Preserving Co. wrote that the frost had killed one-third of their tomatoes.

WHAT IS A TRUST ?

The main conclusions of the majority are that while the trust, which is a new form of an old and well-known principle, is full of dangers and should be repressed and hedged around by law, it is not of necessity a monopoly, nor inconsistent with the public advantage within certain reasonable limitations ; that every combination in trade has greater power either for good or evil than the individual members of which it is composed ; that its power to fix prices or to unduly increase them is indeed greater, but that the danger arising from its exercise is greatly lessened by the inventions and discoveries of this age ; that the new elements on which the principle of combination seizes are balanced and offset by other and, if possible, more powerful forces of modern civilization, and that such balancing forces are far more potent to that end than any arbitrary rules of legislative enactment. The majority hold that the right of combination among capitalists, manufacturers or common carriers for every purpose consistent with the public welfare should not be unnecessarily restrained, but that combination aiming at monopoly should be rigidly prohibited. They counsel deferring legislative action until the court of last resort shall have passed upon the questions raised in the action brought by the Attorney-General against the Sugar Trust. The minority has submitted a report which presents conclusions differing in some respects from those of the majority.—[Bradstreet.

A TRADE CONVENTION.

The citizens of Hamilton, with their accustomed push and enterprise, have decided to hold a summer carnival there on August 19 to 23, inclusive. One of the most important features of the carnival will be a convention of merchants. Such a convention has been a long-felt want, but no one was willing to move in the matter. We believe that Messrs. George E. Bristol, of Lucas Park & Co., and W. H. Gillard have been the prime movers in arranging for the convention. At the first meeting held Mr. W. H. Gillard said that he and Mr. Bristol had given the matter considerable consideration during the past week and had called on a great many of the merchants and business people. They were all in favor of the carnival, and had promised to do all in their power to make it a success. He would move, seconded by Mr. Geo. E. Bristol, That in the opinion of this meeting it is desirable in the interests of the city that a carnival should be held during the coming summer ; that the city possesses all the natural advantages necessary to ensure the complete success of a carnival ; that a sub-committee consisting of Capt. Fairgrieve, Alex. McKay, M. P., George Roach, J. J. Stuart, F. W. Fearman, J. F. Stewart, R. B. Skinner, John Knox, John Milne, Samuel Thorne, F. C. Bruce, Geo. E. Bristol, T. H. Macpherson, T. H. Pratt, Senator Sanford, John Hoodless and the mover be appointed to wait upon the City Council for the purpose of inviting its co-operation and assistance, and that this meeting do adjourn until Tuesday, May 14th, at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of completing the organization of the scheme and appointing the necessary committees.

Mr. Bristol, in seconding the motion, said that for some time past the idea of a summer carnival had been a prominent one with a good many people in the city. He stated some of the proposed attractions, namely :— Soldiers' day — That is, endeavor to get two or three battalions to co-operate with our own 13th. Labour day—A day devoted to the labour organizations. Societies' day— Perhaps some of the secret and fraternal societies would do something to make the week attractive. Our baseball club should be at home for two days at least out of the week. Leading members of the Cricket Club had assured him that an International match would be arranged, lasting two days. The Yacht Club was prepared to undertake a regatta which would include all the crack yachts from Kingston to Chicago. The annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen would take place, which would bring together the leading amateur oarsmen of the continent. A large number of the merchants and manufacturers had been seen and they had declared their intention of equalling their last exhibit in a trades procession and hoped to excel it. Such matters as the illumination and decoration of the city would follow as a matter of course. The railway company promised reduced rates. The speaker then brought forward what he considered the most important of events of the carnival, namely, the merchants' convention. He proposed that during carnival week a convention of business men should be held here to discuss questions of interest to both the wholesale and retail trade. As subjects that might be discussed the questions of insurance, unjust compromises and bankrupt stocks were mentioned. There was a strong feeling through the country, as witness the vigorous protests in the various trade papers of late, against the present state of things. A great many retailers felt that the wholesalers should help them in this matter. The merchants and manufacturers of Hamilton should keep to the front as they always had done, invite the retail merchants of the Province here to discuss these and any other questions and endeavor to seek a remedy.

Mr. Gillard said that another great attraction would be the annual meeting of St. George's Union, which would be held in Hamilton that week. The delegates would be numerous from all parts of the United States.

The following gentlemen were appointed a special committee to arrange for the commercial congress :—Messrs. A. T. Wood (Convener), Geo. E. Bristol, Hon. W. E. Sanford, Alex. Turner, W. H. Gillard, John Knox, T. H. Macpherson, St. Clair Balfour, J. J. Stuart, James McPherson, T. H. Pratt, C. J. Hope, R. M. Wanzer, Wm. Griffith, Geo. E. Tuckett, James Stewart, James Scott, H. W. Sewell, R. H. Greene, Geo. F. Glassco, T. B. Greening, R. R. Morgan, Adam Zimmerman, S. G. Treble, J. F. Kavanagh, Wm. Bowman, Thomas C. Watkins, S. Thorne, D. Manson, A. Ballantine, P. C. Blaicher, C. H. Peebles, S. Mann, Harry Taylor, R. C. Cooper, with power to add to their number.

At a meeting of the committee Mr. Knox was appointed chairman, the convener of the committee, Mr. Wood, being absent in Manitoba.

The Chairman explained the object of the meeting and called upon Mr. Geo. E. Bristol, who had given the subject considerable attention, to address the committee.

Mr. Bristol said that the idea of a commercial congress had emanated from himself. The trade papers of the country had, from time to time, advocated such a conference between the wholesale and retail dealers for the purpose of discussing matters to the interest of both, and he (Mr. Bristol) had thought that no better time could be selected than during carnival week.

The main question which should be discussed was the sale of bankrupt stocks. This was a burning question, especially amongst dealers in small villages and towns, and the suggestions which could be gathered from them would be of great benefit to the wholesale men in dealing with this knotty subject. Many subjects could be discussed at the congress, but three suggested themselves to his mind, namely, bankrupt stocks, unjust compromises and insurance. The committee was a large one, and the idea would be to divide themselves up into smaller committees in order that the arrangements might be perfected. A sub-committee could see that invitations were sent out to all the Boards of Trade in the country to be represented at the congress and obtain from them any and all subjects which they thought should be considered thereat. The business men of all towns and villages of, say, 1,000 inhabitants should also be invited to be present. Arrangements should be made to have railway fares placed at, say, a single fare, good for the week. This matter might be entrusted to a sub-committee. He had no doubt but, if the congress was gone about properly, that it would be of incalculable benefit to the city and all who would attend its sessions. He also suggested that a sub-committee should be appointed to draft a list of subjects for discussion, after parties interested throughout the country had been heard from.

Mr. Zimmerman said that great good would come of such a congress. The matter of insurance was one which would bear discussion. He had seen from a report that the cost of maintenance of the Hamilton Fire Department was fully equal to the loss by fire in Hamilton during the year. This, of course, was owing to the efficiency of our fire system, but he thought that the merchants and manufacturers who paid for the maintenance of such an efficient department should reap benefit in the shape of a lesser rate of insurance than they were now called upon to pay.

Mr. Pratt considered that the matter touched on by Mr. Zimmerman was of local import. The congress should deal with the subject of insurance, as it affects the retail dealer in the country and the wholesale man in the city who trusts him for goods that too frequently are burned up without being insured. Many merchants thought that it was like throwing money away to pay it out for insurance, and it was not unusual to hear of a man carrying a $25,000 stock with a $4,000 or $5,000 policy on it. The business methods of certain dealers should also be dealt with. If a merchant did not keep a cash book, and allowed himself to get behind, the why and the wherefore should be looked into, and no such man should receive another start by the wholesaler until taught a practical lesson.

Mr. Zimmerman thought another question which merited attention was the one of supply accounts. For instance, the tailoring business was overdone in Hamilton just now, for this reason :—The wholesaler thinks there is money in the business, sets up somebody in business who knows little or nothing about it, and the man who is striving to earn his honest living and paying his way in the community is injured.

Mr. Pratt said that of course this matter was open for discussion, but it was one difficult to deal with.

Mr. Bristol believed that it would be better to look at all the questions in all their various lights. It would be the privilege of the congress to thresh everything out and let the trade have the benefit.

A desultory conversation then ensued on the matter of insurance, and the Chairman said he believed it would be to their interest for Hamilton merchants to throw the insurance companies overboard and organize a company such as the Queen's, of Toronto, in which some Hamilton firms were insured, so reasonable was the rate. However, that was an affair of local interest and could be dealt with by the Board of Trade.

Mr. Pratt said that he had spoken to an insurance man about the injustice of such a high rate in the face of such an efficient department and freedom from fires, and he stated that Hamiltonians had to help provide low insurance for residents of other localities.

The Chairman said that he had understood that it was the intention to have the congress extend over three days. The sessions would be held in the forenoon from 10 to 12.30, or afternoon from 1.30 to 3. Short sessions could be held in order that the amusements of the delegates might not be interfered with.

Mr. Scott thought it would be an excellent idea for the wholesale houses to send out circulars to all their customers, which might be posted up in stores and hotels throughout the length and breadth of the land.

The following gentlemen were appointed an executive sub-committee: Messrs. Geo. Vallance, T. H. Macpherson, John Knox, Geo. E. Bristol, Jas. A. McPherson and H. W. Sewell.

Moved by Mr. Jas. Scott, seconded by Mr. A. Zimmerman, That the Secretary shall write to all Boards of Trade and to merchants in all towns of over 1,000 inhabitants, stating the object in view in holding a commercial congress during the carnival week in Hamilton, and inviting co-operation of both Boards of Trade and the mercantile community.—Carried.

The following sub-committee was appointed to suggest to the committee subjects for discussion, with power to add to their number: Messrs. James Scott, T. H. Pratt, H. W. Sewell, A. Zimmerman, J. F. Kavanagh, J. D. Climie, H. Arland, A. R. Kerr and G. Hayes.

THE OLD STORY.

It is very interesting to note that Chinese officials are seriously alarmed at the position which Indian, Ceylon and Japan teas have attained in the markets of the world. Instead of the black teas of China, Indian tea is used in England, and in America instead of China's green teas the tea of Japan is used. Australia and the Colonies still use the black China teas of inferior sorts; but it is only a question of time, till they know how to infuse Indian tea, and then even the Colonies will have cast off the yoke of China. There are a number of reasons why China is being rapidly driven from the markets of the world. Tea drinkers are noticing that British manufactured teas are cleaner, cheaper at the money and quite as healthful, perhaps more so than China tea, "grateful and comforting" a stimulant and a food of the most valuable kind.

In 1885 and in 1887, the Pekin Collectorate formulated its views on the situation; and now in 1889 we have another very able statement of the present position from the Inspector-General of Customs. The admissions made in that document are instructive. "India and Japan," says the report, "take so much greater pains to prepare their teas well, that not only do the teas keep without changing, but they can be sold cheaper than China teas. So well, too, do these painstaking producers know how to save wisely." It is very interesting to hear from this quarter that Indian tea keeps. There is a good deal said now-a-day about "educating" the people of America and the Colonies to a taste for Indian teas, but the first education that is required is an education of the English race in the careful treatment of tea and its proper infusion. Indian tea should not be boiled, everybody knows that, but does every housewife know the difference between a decoction and an infusion? The fact is that the most carefully kept tea is often ruined simply because the thrifty housewife does not know how to prepare it. The art of infusing tea and the art of boiling potatoes may in many households be classed among the lost arts. It is gratifying to find that the keeping qualities of Indian tea are acknowledged by its enemies, it is only its friends that call "stinking fish." Another point is that Indian tea is more economically prepared than China tea. Into the details of this we need not enter at present, beyond saying that there is a lower depth of economy in the manufacture of tea which has not yet been reached by the Indian producer. Economies of all sorts have been rigorously enforced on the gardens; is there any room for similar economies being exercised in connection with freight, brokerage and agent's charges? The last point we purpose noticing now in this connection is that China teas are heavily taxed. In this respect Indian tea bears only the import duties in common with China and Japan, it pays no export duty on leaving India. China tea pays a heavy export duty and other local taxes which, were they abolished, would not help it much. The Indian planter should, in view of the situation, go on his way rejoicing, minding his own business and turning out as good an article as he can for the money.—Calcutta Gazette.

THE MERCHANTS' CONVENTION.

The following is the copy of a circular sent out by the Hamilton Board of Trade:

HAMILTON, Ont., May 29th, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—At a meeting of the committee in charge of the Merchants' Convention, held at the Board of Trade Rooms on the 21st inst., a resolution was passed, "That the Secretary be instructed to write to all Boards of Trade, and to merchants in all towns in Ontario, explaining the object in view in holding the convention, and the reasons for fixing the dates during the carnival week in Hamilton on the 19th to 23rd August next."

In accordance with the above resolution I have the honor to inform you that for some time past there has been a desire on the part of merchants all over the Province to meet and discuss matters in connection with trade and commerce affecting their particular interests. Such a meeting must result in finding remedies for many irritating elements which at present are a serious evil to trade in general, and to the retail trade in particular.

The wholesale and retail merchants and manufacturers of Hamilton desire to bring together representative men of every branch of commerce, and have proposed a merchants' convention, to be held in this city during the carnival week, and have selected a committee of the most prominent business men to carry out the proposed convention to a successful issue. These gentlemen are doing all in their power to arrange matters so that delegates from Boards of Trade and merchants from every place in Ontario who may take the opportunity afforded by the convention, shall be cordially welcomed. The carnival week has been selected, thus combining business with pleasure.

You are particularly invited to be present, and to forward at your earliest convenience any suggestions on any subject relating to trade and commerce which you may deem it advisable to be discussed. This will very materially aid the committee in arranging for the business programme of the convention.

I may mention that the committee have already decided upon three important subjects to be brought forward, viz.: 1st—In relation to bankrupt stocks—the best means for their disposal so as to cause the least injury and annoyance to others in a similar branch of business in same locality. 2nd—Unjust compromises. 3rd—Insurance.

Special rates with railways and steamboats are being arranged for all those who may attend the meetings of the proposed Merchants' Convention. I have the honor to be, dear sir, your obedient servant,

C. R. SMITH, Secretary.

TO RESTORE RANCID BUTTER.

Use one pint of water to each pound of butter, previously adding twenty grains of chloride of lime to each pint of water; wash well the butter in this mixture, afterward rewash in cold water and salt, or melt the butter in a water bath with animal charcoal, coarsely powdered and previously well sifted to free it from dust; skim, remove and strain through flannel; then salt.

OUR GERMAN TRADESMEN.

"A Western drummer says the best people he trades with are the Germans. He sells seeds, and wherever he goes, especially in Texas, where German settlements are numerous, he finds that he can trust the Germans. He can take their word every time. His father, who was once a prominent grocer in Detroit, at one time had 1,900 German accounts on his books. When German immigrants arrived and settled in the surrounding country they were brought to him by their neighbours, and though they had no money, he would always load up a wagon with what they wanted, and out of the first wages they got they always paid him. He says that he never lost but one of his accounts with the Germans."

The above is from the New England Grocer, and the statements there apply equally to the German population in Canada. They are among our best merchants, and wholesale houses make special efforts to get their accounts.

THE BRANTFORD SOAP WORKS.

(Founded by the late Charles Watts, 1856.)

These works which are situated in the North ward comprise in the main a brick building 180 feet by 50 feet, four storeys high. The first flat is principally used for the storage of raw materials. On the second flat are the large boiling pans which have a capacity of from six to eight hundred boxes each, on this flat there is also the stationery department, where thousands of dollars worth of printed wrappers pass through the waxing machine yearly. This machine is an invention of the firm (who hold patents for it both in Canada and the United States), the great advantage of which is to keep the soaps free from atmospheric action. On the same flat are the storage and shipping rooms, the principal one of which has a capacity for storing eight thousand boxes. The third flat. Here the soap, which has been pumped up to the fourth story from the boiling pans, and has undergone the chemical process required, descends and is taken off into frames and removed by means of trucks to the drying rooms, where the soap after being cut into bars or cakes is placed in racks for that purpose. Here also are to be seen the cutting and slabbing machines as well as the presses used in pressing laundry soap into cakes. The fourth flat is where the crutchers are situated and the chemicals prepared, and where the last process in the manufacture is accomplished.

The works are fitted up with all the most modern appliances and supplied with steam power. They are unquestionably the largest in the Dominion, and are run to their full capacity all the year round.

Messrs. A. Watts & Co's soaps are well-known in every portion of Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Their IVORY BAR brand is perhaps considered the best soap made, and has found its way into nearly every household.

Mr. Alfred Watts, the senior member of the firm, succeeded his father in 1868, and in addition to this factory has large flouring mills, devoting his time to their management. He has had associated with him during all this time Mr. Robert Henry, as junior partner, who has the practical management of the soap works.

Messrs. A. Watts & Co. were the first to grapple with what was known as the "box nuisance," wherein formerly a charge was made for them. On the 1st of January, 1888, this firm boldly settled the difficulty by issuing a circular to the trade announcing that on and after that date all boxes would be free.

Their action in connection with this matter is thoroughly appreciated by the trade, as, of course, other manufacturers had to follow the same course.

THE GROCERS' PICNIC.

The Picnic Committee of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association met last week. Only two were absent out of the total number. Every one is confident of a big success, and confidently preparing to beat last year's record. Mr. Berwick was elected Chairman of the Committee, J. G. Gibson, Treasurer, and J. F. Thackray, Secretary.

TORONTO GROCERS.

Next Monday evening is the meeting night of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, and the members should turn out strong. The Secretary will read the replies received, re the complaints made at last meeting. The Picnic Committee will also have something to say. The meetings have not been lacking in interest lately and there is no reason why Monday night should be an exception. The members should therefore show their appreciation of their officers' efforts by their presence and support.

We invite correspondence from readers in every section on subjects pertaining to the trade, and shall be pleased to answer questions of general interest in this department. We require with each letter the name and address of the sender, not necessarily for publication, unless agreeable to writers, but for our own protection.

CORRECT WEIGHT.

TORONTO, June 3, 1889.

Your article on "Correct Weight Wanted" in last issue is deserving the notice of every retailer, and the points are well taken. While a box of Valencia raisins may weigh 28 lbs. at the place of growth and time of packing, there is no doubt but what they commence losing weight very soon after. What then is the position of the retailer who cuts the price of the fruit thinking that he is doing a smart thing? Probably if his attention was drawn to it he would find that he was losing considerable on account of the weight being short. Keep at it MR. GROCER, and while doing so please suggest some remedy that the retailer can take hold of.

SUBSCRIBER.

[We know of no better advice to give our friend than the motto "Weigh, gauge and measure everything you buy." It will then be found that many boxed goods do not weigh as much as they are marked.—ED. GROCER.

BANKRUPT STOCKS AND COMPROMISES.

SIR,—A great many letters on these subjects have appeared in your columns. Various remedies have been proposed for these acknowledged evils, but it appears to me that it will require concerted action to decide on some definite plan. The "Merchants' Convention," to be held in the City of Hamilton 19th to 23rd August next, during "Carnival Week," offers this opportunity.

An invitation has been sent to every merchant in the Province. Let everyone attend, good must follow such a meeting. The different proposed remedies can be fully discussed, and a plan of action agreed on.

It now rests with the retail merchants of the country to show whether they wish to discover a remedy for the present unsatisfactory condition of affairs. The Convention offers a chance; will they avail themselves of it?

HAMILTON.

Have you ever tried Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder? Do so, it is the purest and best. Always reliable.

Messrs. Waddell Bros., Dresden, may well feel proud of their store and fine stock of groceries, and the patronage they receive pays them well to keep it so.

A great deal of discussion has taken place of late regarding the wretched state of the yellow sugar trade, and every one seems anxious for a change. The present condition is the result of the continued and unwarranted cutting, and in many cases slaughtering, of yellows, on the part of the grocers. This unbusinesslike cutting of prices in yellows is the cause of endless worry, unnecessary work, and often positive loss to both retailer and wholesaler alike.

CHEAP BOOKS.

As noted last month, books will be very cheap during the coming season. The standard 12mos., poets, etc., will be sold at very low prices, owing to the great competition among the manufacturers in New York. One large house is offering the 12mos. as low as 16c. to 17c. Cheap novels are now sold in New York as low as 5c. apiece. From this it will be seen that the book market is "in the soup," so to speak.

DUTY ON PAPERS.

The question of duty on Christmas papers has not yet been finally settled. If it be imposed it will prove a very serious matter to the trade.

Toronto and Hamilton booksellers pay an import duty of 3½c. or 4c. per copy on Harper's Bazaar, while in other cities, such as Ottawa, this publication is admitted free. This is manifestly unfair. Toronto and Hamilton should be placed on a par with other places.

The newspaper men of Montreal have organized a Press Club, with Richard White, M.P., of the Gazette, as President.

CANNED GOODS.

The reports of serious damage to the growing crop of fruit and vegetables have instilled some new life into the canned goods trade. There was before a good consumptive demand, but for the past few days retailers have been buying on speculation to some extent. Prices have been and are still lower than the packers could afford to put the goods up at under the most favourable auspices. Most of the jobbers have advanced their selling prices although it was hard to realize the advance. Corn is now held mostly at about $1 with a range from 90c. to 1.10. Packers advanced their prices on Saturday 2½c. to 92½c. as the minimum price. Tomatoes are in active request and selling from 90c. to $1.10. Peas are also selling well at 85c. for the low grades to $1.25 for the best pack. There is a good demand for peaches at $2.10 to $2.25 for 2s. and $3.10 to $3.25 for 3s. There has been a fair inquiry for plums at $1.25 to $1.40 ; other fruits have also been in good request. Fish are fairly active at quotations. Canned meats are advancing, but dealers are selling present stock at old prices.

COFFEES.

There is no feature to note in this market. There is a fair steady demand at former prices.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are selling from 4¾c. to 5½c. in barrels and cases are quoted at 6c. to 6½c. for Patras and 7c. to 7½c. for Vostizzas. Dates are scarce and in good request at 6c. to 6½c. Figs are very slow ; 14 oz. boxes are offering at 6c. to 7½c. and 50 lb. boxes at 4c. to 6c. Prunes are unchanged ; low grades are slow but there have been a good many small lots of cases sold at 7c. to 8c. Valencia raisins are decidedly firmer ; most of the low grades have been cleared out and dealers ere asking ¼c. to ½c. advance on a week ago. A round lot sold to-day at ¼c. above what was bid three days ago ; for sound off-stalk 6¾c. to 7c. is asked and for layers 8½c. Nuts are dull and nominally unchanged.

RICE AND SPICES.

The rice market is very firm but local houses are selling at former prices. Sago is worth about 4½c. to 5c., but dealers are selling as before at 3½c. to 3¾c. Fine pearl tapioca is easier at 6½c. to 7c.

SUGARS.

The market is higher and the tendency is towards a still stronger market. All foreign markets have advanced and prices are now higher than at any time during this season. Refiners have advanced all sugars ⅛c. and to-morrow we may expect to see ⅛c. if not a greater advance in the prices of wholesalers' lots The demand has improved very much. There have been as many sugars sold during the present week than for the two preceding ones on both wholesale and retail accounts. The same remarks apply to all outside markets. Willet & Hamlen, New York, in their weekly circular say : The developments of the week have fully confirmed all we have heretofore said about the improving course of the market on account of the extremely strong statistical position. Refined went no lower than 8½c. for granulated, and is now 8⅝c. on the first important improvement in the demand. The June demand should be very large, and prices repeatedly advanced during the month. Europe leads the advance and decides the quotation, and has this week risen to within 4½d of the highest point yet sold at during this movement. The most notable point of the present situation is the fact of the decreasing stocks in Europe and the general inquiry of the sugar trade there as to where their future supplies are to come from. Inasmuch as the United States have no supplies at all, and must count upon importing a very large amount from Europe this year to meet absolute necessities for consumption, the above fact has special and important significance, which should not be lost sight of by buyers of refined and raw sugar : 30s. for beet sugar, and a corresponding rise in cane and in refined sugar seem more probable than before.

As regards growing crops, the weather has thus far been unfavourable for the young canes in Cuba and other West India Islands. A notable feature of our local market is that muscovado sugars are selling at about ⅜c. per lb. lower than their proper parity with 96 deg. centrifugals as compared with the difference between these two grades in many past transactions. Total stock in all principal countries is 830,850 tons, against 1,074,153 tons at same time last year.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Molasses are slow at 45c. to 48c. for Porto Rico and Barbadoes in barrels. Syrups are selling freely at 3¾c. to 5c. as to quality.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Green apples have been very scarce during the past few days and prices have been firmer under a good active enquiry. Fancy stock has brought $2.50 to $2.75, with good at $2 to $2.25, and ordinary at $1.50. Dried apples have continued slow, although dealers have been talking a little firmer on reports of serious damage to the new crop by frosts. Trade lots are moving slowly at 2¾c. to 3c., and dealers are asking about 3½c. for retail lots. There has been a little more business done in evaporated. One packer cleared out his entire lot at 5½c. Single cases have sold on the spot at 7c., and lots from 6c. to 6½c. Beans are dull and unchanged, selling from $1.25 to $1.80 per bushel according to quality.

The review of the markets published in the GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER is based upon information gained from personal application to both seller and buyer, as far as possible and quotations here given reflect, in most cases, the actual prices paid.

EGGS—The general supplies have been very high and prices have been advanced to 13c. to 13½c. The Egg Dealers Association have kept their local agents liberally supplied, and they have been selling at 11½c. In the country the Association claims to be paying 10c., and other buyers from 11c. to 12c. A round lot sold to a local dealer today at 12½c. New York markets are steady at about 13½c. for Canadian eggs.

HAY AND STRAW—There is an ample supply of hay, and timothy is selling on the track from $12.50 to $13.50, with a few cars at $14, and No. 2 is slow at $11 to $12. Straw slow and nominal at $7 to $8.

HIDES AND SKINS—The market for hides is very weak and the prices are tending lower. Cured have declined ¼c., and choice selections are selling at 5c. Dealers are inclined to reduce green ¼c., but as some of them are large holders they are putting off doing so as long as possible. Green are now quoted at 2¾c. to 4¾c. according to quality. Calf skins are weak at 5c. to 6c. for green. Lamb skins have advanced 5c. to 25c., and pelts at 20c.

GREEN FRUIT—No new fruit has yet arrived on the market, but first supplies of strawberries are expected next week. Considerable damage has been done to the crops by frost, but it is not as serious as was expected.

HOPS—The market is dull with but a few sales making. Dealers have been offering new at 20c. to 23c. as to quality.

MEATS—Dressed beef is easier. Fronts have sold for 3c., hinds from 7c. to 8c. and carcasses at 6½c. to 7c. Veal is selling from 4c. to 7½c.

POTATOES—Receipts have been very light and demand good. Prices have advanced, and there are buyers for cars on the track at 30c. and probably more would be paid. Small lots are selling from 40c. to 50c.

TALLOW—The prices of rough have declined ¼c., and dealers are now paying 1¾c. for scrap and 2c. for dressed. Round lots of rendered have sold at 5½c.

WOOL — Receipts are increasing and dealers are buying fleece at 18c. to 20c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Receipts of butter have been larger and considerably in excess of the demand; dealers, however, have been getting rid of all they possibly could by offering concessions in prices. Owing to the favourable weather the quality is very much better. There is still a large number of holders coming forward. Sales of both roll and tub are being made mostly at 14c. to 15c. with a few extra lots at 16c., and inferior at 13c. There are not many low grades about the market, they have apparently all been cleared out. Bakers are buying from hand to mouth at 14c. to 15c. There is a pretty liberal supply of printed rolls on the street and they have sold this week from 14c. to 15c. There is no sale for creamery butter as other grades are so good and cheap. There is very little of this class coming to the commission houses, but retail stores are getting a few lots. One creamery, Mr. Hannah's, of Seaforth, which makes a specialty of pound rolls is reported to have sold the June make for about 19½c. St. Jacobs' creamery has contracted for the season's make at 19½c. with a Montreal buyer, who agrees to supply tubs which will make the price equal to about 20c. At the present the export outlook is not very favourable, the creameries are offered so low in the States. In Chicago finest grass grades of creamery are offered at 15c. and best dairy at about 12½c.

CHEESE—The local market is quiet and small lots have been selling from 9c. to 10c. according to quality. At the factory prices are a little firmer, and Liverpool has also advanced.

HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

Dressed hogs have been a little easier during the last few days, and have been selling from $6.50 to $6.75 per cwt. Provisions have been somewhat more active. Smoked meats of all kinds have been selling freely, and prices have been tending to a firmer basis. Hams have sold from 11½c. to 12c., bellies and backs at 11c. to 11½c., and rolls from 10c. to 10½c. Canadian lard is very scarce and firm at 10½c. to 11c. American is moving at 9¾c. to 10½. Long clear bacon is in fair request at 8½c. to 9c.

In the west, according to the Cincinnati Price Current, hogs have moved to market in liberal numbers the past week, as was expected, but the increase is unimportant. Western packing for the week 240,000 against 230,000 the previous week, 230,000 for corresponding time last year. From March 1 the total is 2,460,000, against 2'120,000 a year ago—increase, 340,000 hogs. At Chicago, the week's receipts have fallen below corresponding week last year, but some other points have gained. The current movement is not larger than has been anticipated. Prices have been variable, and at the close are slightly lower than a week ago in most markets, although there was some advance during the week. The provision market is without marked change. Current operations find some margin of profit for packers, but values are at a rather seriously losing point for winter cured product. A fair volume of distribution is shown, but the policy of the receiving trade in carrying as small supplies as possible is maintained and operates to give an appearance of dulness. Values have averaged somewhat better than the preceding week, closing at Chicago for July delivery 30c. on pork, 10c. per 100 lbs. on short rib sides and 2½c. on lard, higher than a week ago. The export movement of product for the week was fairly liberal, though falling somewhat short of corresponding week last year in lard.

SALT.

The market is quiet. Liverpool is held about 70c., but a lot of 1,000 bags, 11 sacks to the ton, sold on the track this week at 65c. Canadian coarse is selling at 68c. on the track.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

The Markets—Continued.

GREEN FRUIT.

There has been hardly anything doing in green fruit on account of the very unfavourable weather. Prices remain unchanged and nothing new has transpired since last reports. It only needs favourable weather to make business good again. Valencia oranges for ordinary $7 to $7.50 per case; choice to extra, $8 to $8.50 per case; Messinas 300's, $4.50; bulk, $3.50 to $4.50 per case. Pine apples large, $3 per doz.; medium, $2.50, and small $2 per doz. Bananas $1.25 to $1.75 per bunch. New York advices say: "Lemons are marked a trifle higher, based upon slightly better figures at yesterday's sale; the demand, however, is slow and disappointing, though dealers anticipate an improved condition of affairs for the coming week. Oranges remain steady, with good stock scarce. Bananas are being distributed quite freely, and at well sustained prices. Pine are in demand, and current arrivals command full prices."

TEA

The market has awakened somewhat and a better demand has been experienced for all kinds with fairly large transaction, in low blacks especially. The better enquiry has been due entirely to local causes, and is the result of a larger demand from the country trade. The New York has ruled quiet and steady in the past week, a large business having been done at the auction rooms at similar prices to previous week; the only change being a slight easing off in Oolongs. The London market remains unchanged, green teas very firm. Low grade blacks tending upwards, higher grades neglected and showing excellent value. The last mail from London brings us particulars of the new departure on that market, i.e., the regulations and rules, in pamphlet form, of the Clearing House for transactions in all kinds of teas for future delivery, or in other words, the rules which will govern the new Tea Exchange.

Referring to the opening of the market for new China teas at Hankow, the London Grocer says:—"Importers of old China teas have taken the alarm, and, as mentioned in our trade report of Friday last, have evinced a desire to get out of stock as quickly as they can. In many cases their precipitancy has resulted in a loss of 4d. to 5d. per lb. on so-called finest Monings, which have been partly out of condition, and would be sure to suffer serious depreciation when the new season's teas arrive at this port. Although the landings and deliveries of Congou in London during the four months ended April 30 were between 4,400,000 lbs., and 5,200,000 lbs. less, and the stock of the same description, according to the latest returns, is considerably lighter than in 1888, being only about 33,309,000 lbs. against 39,074,000 lbs., there is a superabundance of common-class teas of one growth, and another in the home market at this moment, which causes a deal of anxiety to prevail amongst holders, and see no immediate prospect of getting rid of the excessive production except at almost ruinous rates. . . . . The total exports from various Chinese ports to the United Kingdom compare as follows: 1888-89, 102,750,000 lbs.; 1887-88, 124,000,000 lbs., and 1886-87, 150,000,000 lbs. The above statement exhibits a deficiency of 21,250,000 lbs. for the past season as contrasted with 1887-88, and a decrease of 47,250,000 lbs. in comparison with the supply 1886-87. This, it cannot be denied, is a most extraordinary diminution in so short a period as two years.

FISH.

The trade in fish still continues to show a further falling off, the weather being very unfavorable for a steady sale of fish. There is no new feature in the market and with the dulness reigning in all varieties prices are unchanged. Salmon, fresh, are quoted at 20c. to 25c. per lb.; Trout sells at 6c. per lb.; White fish 5c.; Sarnia herring $1.50 per 100; Finnan haddie 7c. to 7½c. per lb.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SHIPPERS.

TO SHIPPERS OF ROLL BUTTER.

A practice that should be abolished by country shippers is that of working low grades of packed into roll, and packing them in with fresh made roll, with the intention of palming it all off as fresh-made. The deception is always detected, and such lots are invariably sold at same prices that low grades of packed command. Regarding packages, new tubs or hardwood boxes are the most desirable, and half-barrels or kegs will do equally as well, and these only should be used. Care should also be taken before putting the butter in packages, that all the sides and ends of the packages be lined with new white muslin, thus keeping the butter from defacement by touching the wood. A bad practice is putting the butter up in paper; this should not be done, as the paper sticks to the butter and damages the appearance. Each roll should be separately placed in a piece of new muslin cloth, washed in warm water to take out the starch, and thoroughly wet in good brine. The rolls should be of moderate size, and not too large. Then, again, the rolls should be of uniform colour, not packing the light and fresh-made with other that has been colored. Mark plainly on each package the correct tare (the gross weight is easily obtained), as it ensures quick returns after sale is made.

THE KALTHOFF

YEAST AND VINEGAR CO.

OF TORONTO (Limited.)

Office: 247 King Street West, Toronto.

The Only Manufactory in Canada of

PURE MALT VINEGAR

This Malt Vinegar, which we now offer, has been analyzed, and we take pleasure in giving you the following fac-simile report of Professor Heys, Analytical Chemist, of Toronto, which will prove that what we say regarding the purity of our Vinegar is well founded:—

TORONTO, July 1st, 1888.

THE KALTHOFF YEAST AND VINEGAR CO.:—

GENTLEMEN,—I have made a careful analysis of your Malt Vinegar, finding it pure, free from any injurious or deleterious substance, and of good quality

Yours, etc.,

THOMAS HEYS, Analytical Chemist.

Our Malt Vinegar is put up in wood packages of 5, 10, 25 and 50 Imperial Gallons, and in Demijohns of 4½ gallons each for special family trade. Also in quart bottles, 1 and 2 dozen in a case.

TENDERS.

SEALED TENDERS, marked "For Mounted Police Provisions and Light Supplies," and addressed to the Honorable the President of the Privy Council, Ottawa, will be received up to noon on Tuesday, June 18, 1889.

Printed forms of tender, containing full information as to the articles and approximate quantities required, may be had on application to any of the Mounted Police Posts in the North-West, or at the office of the undersigned.

No tender will be received unless made on such printed forms.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted Canadian bank cheque for an amount equal to ten per cent. of the total value of the articles tendered for, which will be forfeited if the party declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fails to complete the service contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

No payment will be made to newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority having been first obtained.

FRED. WHITE,
Comptroller N.-W. M. Police.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in their hall Monday evening last. Among those present were Messrs. Berwick, Thackray, Williamson, Clarke, Mills, Britton, Gibson, Mara, Lindsay, McCulloch, Roberts, and Saunders. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

The Secretary, on behalf of the Wagon Committee, moved, seconded by Mr. Williamson, that that committee hereafter report to the Picnic Committee.

Mr. Berwick reported on behalf of the Picnic Committee, and said they had met Tuesday of last week and decided to send out circulars to those they expected contributions from. A few of the circulars had already been sent out which brought in a number of donations. They had also appointed Mr. Berwick chairman of the committee, J. G. Gibson, treasurer; J. F. Thackray, secretary. They had obtained the use of the Exhibition Grounds for Wednesday, the 24th of July, that being the day fixed for the picnic.

The Secretary said he had done nothing toward canvassing the commission houses, having put in all his time among the members of the Association. In some cases he had to call on them two or three times before finding them in. He thought if the Association appointed one of its members to go with him it would carry more weight.

Mr. F. Britton said it was hardly fair to have members of the Association call on these commission houses. He thought that writing them ought to be sufficient.

Mr. Gibson said that "The Merchant" had reported him as having said at the last meeting "that the country dealers demand that their cases of goods be sold en bloc," and he wished to deny that. What he said was "that the country dealer should know how their butter is dealt with. Instead of being sold en bloc by the commission houses, it was picked over, the best rolls being sold to the consumer, while the poor retailer had to take what was left."

Mr. Clarke moved, seconded by Mr. Williamson, that the motion asking the Secretary to wait on the commission houses be rescinded.

Mr. F. Britton moved, seconded by Mr. Mills, that the Secretary be instructed to have a roll of honor of commission houses, made up of those who answered this letter.

Mr. F. Britton asked if the Secretary met with success on his canvass among the members of the Association.

The Secretary said that he had found several who had made up their minds to quit the Association, on account of the manner in which things were conducted last year, but he had induced them to continue for another year. He said he found several kickers, but they did not amount to anything.

Under the head of communications the Secretary said he had written D. Williams & Co., asking them to discontinue selling their goods to consumers, and they answered him, denying the charge of having ever sold their goods to the consumer, and they would support the retailer. A letter was also read from McLaughlin & Moore, in which they said that on and after June 1st they would discontinue selling their flour to the consumer, and would support the Association. Accounts were presented to the amount of $14.50, which were ordered to be paid.

Mr. Gibson proposed as new members to the Association: S. Oldham and T. S. Corrigan, both of Yonge Street.

Mr. Mills said that Mr. Boustead intended to turn Philharmonic Hall, their present meeting place, into offices, and wished the Association to hunt up new quarters. Considerable discussion took place as to the most suitable locality.

Mr. F. Britton moved, seconded by Mr. McCulloch, that Messrs. Mills and Gibson be a committee to wait on Mr. Boustead and come to some terms.

The secretary reported that, as a large number of seizures of tobacco had taken place lately, a petition had been presented to the Council, asking them to look into the matter and confer with the Government.

Mr. Mills said that a wrong impression had got among the citizens regarding these seizures; some thinking that the grocers were trying to defraud the Inland Revenue. Such was not the case.

Mr. Clark moved, seconded by Saunders, that Messrs. Britton and Mara be a committee to wait on the Government to see if something could not be done.

The meeting then adjourned.

ON HIS TRACKS.

We have got some trace of the impostor who has been collecting subscriptions for the CANADIAN GROCER in Hamilton. The GROCER has not been the only paper victimized. It appears that he has made a practice of soliciting subscriptions in Hamilton for Toronto papers. His name appears to be Lennon, not Lemon, as we stated last week. He published an exhibition guide in Toronto a couple of years ago, and last year went to Hamilton, where he has falsely represented himself as agent for several Toronto publications. He is a medium sized man; his head inclines slightly forward; he is apparently of a very quiet disposition, and is a hanger-on at the Young Men's Christian Association wherever he goes. He would rather conduct a prayer meeting at any time than do an honest day's work. In Hamilton he has succeeded in defrauding several boarding houses out of one to four weeks' board.

The only authorized agent of the GROCER in Western Ontario is Mr. M. J. Henry.

THE EGG COMBINE.

The action of the Egg Dealers' Association has been especially felt in this market for the past couple of weeks. When the regular commission houses were getting from 12c. to 13c. per dozen for fresh eggs the Association was filling all orders from the retail trade at 11½c. This is, no doubt, satisfactory to the consumers, but it is not to the trade. The combine argue that eggs are not worth 11½c. with New York on its present basis, and New York and Eastern American markets govern the price in Ontario. This is the rule, but the market at the moment is an exception. Eggs are not coming forward as freely as they should. There is a local scarcity, and on this account prices have been forced above the New York basis, though it is not likely that they will continue so long. The object of the Association in selling below the actual value, as we pointed out a year ago, is to keep prices down in the country. If they succeed, and they are succeeding in keeping prices here on a low basis, they can buy cheaper in the country. Country merchants must sell to them, for it will not pay them to ship to Toronto, where they will have to compete against Association eggs, selling at times at less than cost. It has been denied by members of the Association that they sought to influence prices in any way, but a case occurred this week that proves quite conclusively that this is the chief aim of the Association. A Front Street commission house bought a round lot of eggs at 12¼c. They were told by a newspaper reporter that they could buy from the Association at 11½c. They at once offered that price for a 10,000 dozen lot. The Association would only accept it conditionally. The conditions were that the buyers must give a bond to sell the eggs in Toronto, and that they must be sold within three weeks. The sale did not take place.

HOW TO MAKE GOODS ATTRACTIVE.

Articles for sale in whatever line of trade should be made as attractive as possible.

Business men taking advantage of the means at their disposal, display goods in their windows in such a manner as to attract attention and induce sales, especially so is this the case with the dry goods men.

There is no good reason why a stove store should not be made attractive; there are many ways in which this could be done and the time and trouble expended upon making a good display would be amply repaid.

The summer is at hand when the demand for refrigerators, oil, vapor, and gas stoves and ice cream freezers will be in demand Display them to the best advantage; take a refrigerator and fill it with such articles as are usually kept in them, so that the intending purchaser can see how nicely butter, meat, etc., etc., can be kept in one.

Have the oil, vapor or gas stove in operation; keep a kettle of water boiling on it, and it would be well at certain times of the day to do a little baking. Don't stow them away in the back part of the store where they cannot properly be examined. A great many people do not know just what they want, and when they see an article shown in its most attractive and useful form, it assists them in deciding at once upon purchasing.

Stove dealers, as a rule, neglect to make a good display of these wares—there are some exceptions to the rule—and where good taste is shewn in displaying goods of this class a very showy and attractive store can be seen.

Clean show windows, with the goods in them bright and clean and arranged in such a manner as to attract attention, stock in store displayed so that articles can be seen and examined without much trouble, stoves, refrigerators and any other important articles on sale ticketed with price in plain figures, will induce trade and well repay the dealer who will practise it.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

A HINT TO SALESMEN.

There are some people in this world who measure their work by hours. That is, so many hours constitute a day's work, and when the time is up they are ready to skip. They do not seem to realize for a moment that they are a part and parcel of the house they represent. They do their day's work and at the end of the month draw their pay. Ask some of these men to do a little extra work and while they will not absolutely refuse yet the expression on their face is anything but pleasant for their employers to witness. They may possibly inform their employers of the hard day's work they have done and how tired they are, and all that sort of thing, little realizing that long after the store has been closed the employer has sat at his desk working, working, working, and was the first man down in the morning. None of these things ever seem to bother many salesmen and clerks as well.

A salesman or clerk is part of the establishment in which he works. The house depends in a very great measure on the work he does for the revenue it receives and which in part goes out in salaries. Every man therefore, should take such an interest in it as though he was a partner. We know of men to-day, whose wealth is now counted by the thousands and who are proprietors of large houses that would spend almost every night in the year in "drumming" up trade when they were salesmen. They lost by it didn't they? Yes, of course, they did, that is, some good nights with the boys, but they have some good bank accounts to make up for the loss. Just look this matter over carefully and let us know if you don't think we are right.—[Merchant's Mail.

THE MODERN STORE.

It will be a long time before the little local stores find out the advantage of being just, and a little more than just; but, as fast as they do, they will cease to be little and local. The invention grew out of certain embarrassments met in extended business. A little shopkeeper needs no system at all. When a customer comes, he can adapt himself; he can always sell, if he has what is wanted, or something near it. A large store has its disadvantages. Selling has to be done by hired men and women, not by the merchant, not even under his eye or immediate direction. How? The answer to that short question, whatever the answer is, is the system. There has to be a system.

One item of it now more or less established is to have an invariable price on everything, and mark it in plain figures. Another is the privilege of returning unsatisfactory articles, which, if well managed, is an excellent one; indeed it is indispensable, whether you like it or not. (The proof—you allow it and grumble.) Another is guaranteeing more or less, a delicate business. Another is gauging the pay of your sellers; if you pay by amount of sales, that is one system; if you pay by efficiency and acceptability, that is another system; if you pay by premiums—you dare not let it be known—that is still another. However you pay is your system.

Every one of these items that go to make up the system by which a large store is constrained, has its advantages. Because of these and other disadvantages growing out of doing business at second hand, the little local shopman beats the great merchant whenever he can catch his customer.

There is the little man's difficulty. He can't catch customers. He can provide for the little pin-and-needle wants, and sell to ignorant people who never write letters or know what is going on in the world beyond their neighbourhood. The local merchant is necessary. Fortunately he is so shortsighted he will stay little and local. He is welcome to his emergency business. You are not afraid of him. What you want is a scheme that will give you the upper hand of other large and far-reaching stores. That is the new invention. You have got to understand your region ; have taste and judgment and knowledge of goods ; you must have what is wanted and get it cheap—you've got to sell cheap, and you can't be losing money all the time. The other great merchants do all this. What more can you do to beat them? This more, with the rest, is what I mean by the modern store.

Merchants are apt to think of people outside that, being careful of money and eager for goods, they will come and buy if only prices seem to be low. This narrow view of the working people's minds is the cause of most of the faults of merchants. They are judges of goods, and people are not; and this superiority is continually in their minds. They get the habit of looking down on their customers. Then they make extravagant statements about their goods and prices as if there were no danger of getting caught at it. "Others exaggerate ; why shouldn't I? If I don't, they'll beat me." By-and-by he wakes up to the fact that nobody takes him seriously. His advertisements have no effect, and his trade depends largely on the goodwill of his sellers. What is that but admitting that his customers value the statements made to them over the counter, face to face, by his sellers, more than his own statements not made face to face?

No matter what you are, the question is, What are you going to be? The first question to settle is as to telling the truth. Have you made up your mind to put into every part of your business the truth and nothing but the truth? And then, so far from the merchant being superior to his customers, he is probably midway among them ; but, taking them all together, they have the advantage of him ; and that is the way he has to take them, all together. If he makes a hundred misses, one detects one, another another. He gets the benefit of them all ; his general standing depends on the hits and misses he makes. His business calls for the continual exercise of taste, judgment, knowledge, wisdom and common sense. Whenever he shows himself lacking in any of them he lowers his mercantile standing. He cannot afford to be ignorant, vulgar, coarse or selfish. The other question to settle is as to being civilized. Have you made up your mind to be as much of a man as you are capable of?

It is useless to put on airs and pretend. A merchant's contact with people through his business is too familiar ; disguise is impossible. What I mean by the modern store is a store in which the moral law is supreme, and the law of good taste almost supreme, and the law of justice superfluous. Put your customers' interest before your own, and manage your sellers so that they will do the same, then print your store news. That is the modern store ; and the merchant who sets it up will control the intelligent trade of his region ; his region will grow, and he will grow.—From "A Text-Book for Merchants, Salesmen, Etc.," by Mr. J. E. Powers.

A FABLE WITH A MORAL.

Once upon a time there was a suburban fish-monger who had a hard struggle to support his wife and fifteen children, because the residents of the place did not believe in purchasing what they called inland fish. Everything in the shape of marine food they bought in the city and had it sent out. One day a lady walked in, and the fish-monger, believing he had at last secured a customer in her, smiled his blandest smile, made pleasant allusions to the loveliness of the weather, and looked so pleasant that all the fish scales on his face and hands glistened like the spangles on a snake-charmer's tights.

"I am going to give a grand dinner-party to-morrow night," she said ; "and I am going to have salmon."

"You could have nothing finer," replied Sir Piscator ; "nothing finer I can assure you."

"And then I am going to have some oysters on the deep shell."

The fish-monger's manner denoted the fact that he had discovered in her a refined sense of the art of dining, and was unable to check the sudden manifestation of his joy thereat.

"The salmon will be up on the next train from the city, and I want to ask you if you would mind keeping it for me until to-morrow in your ice-box?"

"Oh, not at all!" replied the fish-monger, with a fine irony that was entirely wasted.

"And the oysters will be up at three or four to-morrow. Could you come up and open them just before six?"

"With pleasure ; we are in the world to help each other along, and cast roses in the way of the weary."

When she had thanked him, he asked :

"Would you mind lending me your horse and carriage on Sunday? I want to drive over to Dovedale to see a sick friend."

"We never lend our horses and carriages," was the reply.

"Would you mind lending me your old English clock with the Cathedral and Whittington chimes? I would like to stand it over there in the corner, that I may note the first day of the month, and know when to send my bills out."

"Oh, my! I couldn't think of it!"

"All right ; then I cannot think of keeping your salmon on my ice, nor opening your oysters ; so you had better can your salmon until you need it, and open your oysters with a hammer, like hickory nuts, at the proper time."

The moral of this fable may not be as funny as the fable itself ; but, such as it is, it teaches us that we should never ask favors of people to whom we are not willing to grant them; and should never attempt to borrow from them to whom we are not willing to lend. It should also teach us that we should not attempt to make monkeys of our neighbors, lest we be made monkeys of by them.

Some years ago but few grocers placarded the price of goods sold by them. Some of our finest stores have no objection now to calling the attention of the public to the price at which they sell. The practice is on the increase, and why not? If you have a really good article that you can offer at a moderate price, why not put a placard on the same. It will save a good deal of chin music for the grocer, besides it is a temptation for many to buy. I will show how it operates. The other morning walking down the avenue my eye was attracted by a box of fine asparagus ; every spear as thick as my thumb. On the box was a neat white card board with "only 15 cents a bunch" printed thereon. That was enough for me. I could not resist the tempting offer and I bought. Doubtless had the asparagus been displayed without calling attention to the price, I would have passed by without buying.—[N. Y. Retail Grocers' Advocate.

A commercial volume of interest comes from the Imperial Maritime Customs to China. It was printed at Shanghai, is published by order of Sir Robert Hart, Inspector-General of Customs, and relates to the competition of Indian teas with those of the Celestial Empire. Sir Robert has taken the opinion of the merchants and Chambers of Commerce at the various ports as to the faults that are found with Chinese teas and the remedies suggested, so that they may retain their hold upon European markets. Almost all the reports admit that greater care is now taken than ever before in the preparation of the leaf; but it is conceded that the Chinese produce is hampered by having to pay an export duty, whereas in India there is no such impost ; and, secondly, that the Indian leaf is stronger, and thus is relatively cheaper, bulk for bulk. In fact, the volume proves conclusively that in the tea competition India has triumphed over her great rival who, if she is to maintain the struggle, must remodel her methods.

Customer—"You sell cracked eggs at half price do you not?"

Clerk—"Yes'm, we always make a 50 per cent. reduction on cracked goods. Anything else to-day?"

Customer—"Yes ; you may give me a dollar's worth of cracked wheat, and here's your 50 cents."

TWO CLASSES OF LEMONS.

Lemons are divided into two classes ; the true lemon and the bastard lemon. The true lemon is produced by the April and May blooms ; the bastard by the irregular blooms of February, March, June and July, which depend upon the rainfall or irregular irrigation and the intensity of the heat during the summer and winter seasons. The true lemon requires nine months to reach maturity, from the bloom in May to the mature fruit in January. There are but three harvests of the true lemon. The first is in the November cut, when the lemon is green in appearance and not fully ripe. Lemons of this cut are the most highly prized ; they possess remarkable keeping qualities, and are admirably preserved in boxes in warehouses from November until March, sometimes as late as May, and then shipped. The second cut occurs in December and January. Lemons of the January cut must be shipped three weeks after gathering. At this date the lemon has acquired a yellowish appearance. The third cut occurs in March and April. The fruit is shipped as soon as gathered, spring prices being always high. The uniformity in size of lemons, as we meet them in the trade, is due to the monthly harvestings from October to March. No sizer is used or ever known there.—[Com. Reporter.

OUR OBSERVER'S NOTE BOOK.

I fear that many retail grocers are entirely too indifferent in regard to the quality of goods sold by them. If you should ask them if they were in favor of selling pure goods, they would answer very readily in the affirmative, or perhaps resent the question by an air of injured feelings. Yet I know it to be a fact that there are some who will sell any article that is not positively injurious to health, provided it is cheap. Take spices that are offered with the tempting bait of of some kind of a present with the sale of same. Do you suppose there is any grocer green enough to believe that such spices are pure? He knows that they are not. "They suit my trade," he may reply when spoken to on the subject. Does he not know that if these spices do suit it is because his customers believe them to be pure? How many consumers would buy these goods if told that they were a mixture, of one part spice and one part cocoanut shells or buckwheat hulls? Now, knowing that he has no demand for the adulterated article, by the sale of the same he is wilfully defrauding those who trade with him. What has been said in reference to spices applies with equal force to the sale of adulterated lard. There is no demand for that article from the customer, consequently much of it is sold fraudulently. A customer asks for lard ; in her mind that article means rendered fat of the hog. If you sell her some mixture or compound resembling lard instead, you have swindled her, and it is just as mean and contemptible as if you had given her counterfeit money in change. If these goods were sold for what they are, no one could find fault. "But there's the rub." The consumer does not want adulterated articles of food. They are not so foolish as to believe a quart of milk and water mixed is better than one quart of pure milk. If any water needs to be added to the milk, the hydrants are handy. If any stomach craves for something to tone down the strength of pepper or other spices, there will be no trouble in getting something more nourishing and palatable than ground cocoanut shells for that purpose. But facts are stubborn things. I have yet to find that grocer who will say that he has a demand for adulterated spices or lard.—[N.Y. Retail Grocers Advocate.

KEEP POSTED.

It is not difficult for retail grocers to see the value of keeping posted on the markets, and yet many of them give this important feature of business little thought. The question of price is settled when they purchase their goods, and on this they base their figures for selling. The market does not bother them again until they want to renew their stock, and even then they are governed by the old quotations or rely upon the prices given them by traveling salesmen. These may represent the market value or they may not. The grocer who is without a reliable grocery journal is unable to tell. Grocers who simply buy and sell goods without giving a fair share of their attention to the position of the markets in various lines are the men who are constantly complaining that there is no money in the grocery business.

The grocery business presents a field equally as good as any mercantile pursuit, only it requires more consideration for the markets. There is no time during the year when there is not something of importance going on in some lines of goods handled by the grocer. The grocery journals are authority on these markets, because their information is based on the actual sales from first hands and the statistical position of different staples. [Chicago Grocer.

HIS START IN LIFE.

Postmaster-General John Wanamaker, the merchant prince of Philadelphia, started in life by turning bricks for his father before school hours, and thus earning two cents a day. Afterwards he entered a bookstore, where he was paid $1.25 per week, and walked eight miles each day between his home and his place of business. Now he has an enormous dry goods establishment, and employs more than 3,000 persons. One secret of his success is thoroughness. Once he heard a sermon full of hard words, and every one that he did not understand he looked up in the dictionary afterwards.

SUNLIGHT SOAP.

THE CANADIAN GROCER extends the cordial welcome of its advertising columns to "Sunlight" Soap, manufactured by Lever Bros., of Port Sunlight, near Liverpool, Eng., whose card appears on our sixth page.

"Sunlight" Soap is the best known and most extensively advertised laundry bar in Great Britain. Those of our readers who have visited the old country within the past four years can testify to the tremendous advertising efforts put forth by "Sunlight" Soap. Its name has become a household word in England, and judging from the striking enterprise of its proprietors, it bids fair to become equally well-known and familiarized the wide world over, for we learn that not only has "Sunlight" Soap been introduced into Canada, but also into France, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland and Australia. In each of these countries branch houses have been opened, and from the Canadian representative we learn that the soap is selling like a "house on fire" in these foreign branches.

Our readers will doubtless be interested in a few facts and figures relative to "Sunlight" Soap, especially as its manufacturers are also wholesale grocers. We have gleaned the following particulars :—

"Sunlight" Soap has, up to the present time, been manufactured at Warrington, in the County of Lancashire ; but owing to the rapid development of trade and their inability to secure land necessary for extension, Messrs. Lever were compelled to transfer their works from Warrington to Bebington, where they purchased a beautiful site of 52 acres, opening into the River Mersey, and which they have christened "Port Sunlight."

The main building of the new works covers about three acres, and makes a grand architectural appearance, the firm having sent out a large number of fine lithographic views of the new buildings. The works are erected on the most improved plan, with every modern appliance to facilitate business, and have a capacity of over 700 tons of soap per week,—enough soap, one would imagine, to lather the whole universe.

It goes without saying that the soap which necessitates such a mammoth factory for its manufacture, and which furnishes employment to 1,000 hands, has more than ordinary merit. It is self-evident that it enlists the admiration and patronage of those who once use it, or its unparalleled sale would not have placed it at the head of the long list of soaps.

Messrs. Lever Bros., in introducing "Sunlight" Soap into Canada, do so in full belief that Canadians will appreciate a perfectly saponified and pure soap, one which cannot injure the skin or the most delicate fabric. They have established handsome offices at 77 St. James Street, Montreal, which is their Canadian headquarters. Mr. Alfred Robinson, for many years a newspaper editor and proprietor in Ontario, is manager of the Canadian branch, and informs us that business has opened out most auspiciously in Montreal, and that the first large consignment of "Sunlight" Soap was sold out before a second supply could be had.

The Canadian management of "Sunlight" Soap is displaying an amount of enterprising push, which seems to be characteristic of the firm, and their appearance in THE GROCER is additional evidence of their desire and intention to have their soap well introduced throughout the country. As the manufacturers of a soap which bears the scientific endorsation of some of the foremost analysts of the Mother Country, THE GROCER wishes Lever Bros'. "Sunlight" Soap every measure of success.

We invite correspondence from readers in every section on subjects pertaining to the trade, and shall be pleased to answer questions of general interest in this department. We require with each letter the name and address of the sender, not necessarily for publication, unless agreeable to writers, but for our own protection.

DEAR SIR,—I have read with much pleasure the recent articles in your paper (and others), drawing attention to the terrible slaughtering that is now going on in the yellow sugar trade, and pointing out the necessity of a change, and I am entirely of the opinion that it is high time something were done to check this business, looking at it from the retailer's point of view. Hoping that this matter may be taken in hand.

Yours, etc., RETAILER.

Toronto, June 10.

DEAR SIR,—I was greatly pleased with your article in last issue entitled "Cancellation of Orders," as it is time public attention was drawn to this matter, and something done to protect the jobber and manufacturer against this growing abuse amongst a certain class of dealers. These men endeavour to burn the candle at both ends, in various ways, for the parties supplying them, and are vicious if an endeavor is made to check them.

There is another serious grievance to which some of us are subject. I am a manufacturer of seasonable goods, and wishing to protect myself, as well as my customers, as far as possible from undue competition, prefer placing my goods with one dealer in a small town, making my contract in writing some months before the articles are required. At the proper time I endeavor to get a specification, but am coolly informed that So-and-So offered better inducements, and he is getting his requirements from him; the chances being that he has made use of my prices to get lower. I am shut out of the town for a season, lose time and travellers' expenses, and have no recourse except in the annoyance of a law suit, or to grin and bear it. Yours truly,

MANUFACTURER.

THE TRADE CONGRESS.

DEAR SIR,—The discussion that has been going on in the THE GROCER of late is now beginning to bear fruit. The Ambitious City of Hamilton is the first to take hold of the great question of compromises and bankrupt stocks. In connection with their carnival in August next they are going to hold a Commercial Congress during the week. The object of the Congress will be to discuss the various evils in trade: the disposal of bankrupt stocks, and so on, and must commend itself to all business men, and a hearty response will undoubtedly be made to the call. As the cry is universal from retail dealers in town, village and country against this great evil, let there be an uprising of the retail dealers now. Get organized in every town and village at once; discuss the question; decide how the evil can be best remedied, and arrange to attend the congress in August at the call of the committee. They have arranged to send out circulars to boards of trade and retailers in every town of 1,000 inhabitants and over.

As this will undoubtedly be the most interesting meeting of retail merchants that has ever taken place in Canada, there will be a great discussion on the great question, and every retailer should attend it. The information gained by such a congress of business men must be of great benefit to everyone that will attend it.

The Toronto Board of Trade should have taken hold of this and had a convention of the retail merchants this summer, but as Hamilton has done so no doubt Toronto will help in the discussion, and perhaps call a convention this fall. Now it is for every retailer throughout the country to commence the arranging of their business so as to attend at Hamilton and take part in the matter and, if possible, get some satisfactory arrangements for disposing of bankrupt stocks that will protect them from the greatest evil that is in the country at the present time. There are a great many towns and villages now forming boards of trade, and there is no village nor town that should be without such an organization. If they attend to this matter as they should do, they will get the proper protection from the wholesalers.

Yours truly, J. PARKINSON.

W. J. McCann has opened a grocery store at 335 Parliament Street.

The Annual Picnic of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association will be held in the Exhibition Ground on Wednesday, July 24th. The prospects are this one will surpass previous ones.

Some idea can be formed of the immense can manufacturing business of the Victoria Manufacturing Co., Toronto, when it is known that they use over three hundred and fifty tons tin each year in their business. They are now filling an order for, 20,000 enamelled show cards for a New York house.

When in Hamilton this week we called into F. F. Dalley & Co's Chemical Works, and found them driving hard to catch up with their orders. They are putting in improved machinery for the manufacture of their justly celebrated Spanish Blacking, which is having a very large sale throughout the Dominion, reaching from the Atlantic to the Pacific. They are working full complement of hands; about forty in number.

Take care of your health. Use pure articles in preparing your food. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder contains no impurities or adulterants. All grocers sell it.

In the International Series Counter Check Books, manufactured by Morton & Co., 3 and 5 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, merchants are guaranteed in their use by letters patent. Samples are furnished free of the best check book yet introduced. Thousands

CANNED GOODS.

Dealers seem to have fully made up their minds to buy at the advanced prices, not only for immediate requirements, but for next season's wants, believing values to be still under cost of production, and have rapidly cleared the market of large lots hitherto difficult to move. The demand for last week, especially for standard brands of goods of good keeping quality, has been exceptionally heavy for the season. The movement has been chiefly confined to corn, peas and tomatoes, with fair enquiry for fruits. Packers have further advanced corn 2½c. per dozen, the few that are now holders not being anxious to sell even at the advance. No really good corn can now be had from jobbers under $1 to 1.10. Peas 95c. to $1.10. Tomatoes, good brands, at 95c. to$1.10. Peaches 2's, $2.10 to $2.25, 3's, $3.10 to $3.25. Plums are in active demand at $1.35 to $1.45, about 10c. advance on last week's prices. Blueberries are moving well at 85c. for 1's, and $1.25 for 2's. Raspberries, 2's, in heavy syrup, 2.45 to 2.55. Blackberries, 2's, in syrup, $1.90 to $2.10. Canned meats are moving at slight advance in last week's prices. Fish in good demand and prices firm.

The New York Commercial Bulletin says: There was probably never a season when so little was heard concerning salmon as is noticed to-day. The trade does not appear to be at all interested for the time as to the pack on the Columbia River, and advices from there are not general. The jobbers, when questioned, report a moderate demand from consumers for '88 goods, and with steady prices realized. Few of the trade are interested in the offers of new pack for fall delivery, notwithstanding prices have receded to about those current last year. There appears a disposition to await the result of the season's pack which terminates on the Columbia with the close of July, though during July sufficient information will be circulated to form some idea of the season's success, and upon the advices then gathered operations will probably be conducted.

COFFEES.

There is no new feature to note in coffees. They still remain firm and scarce with a steady demand. In the New York market they are a shade higher, but it has not affected the markets here. Dealers think prices will go no higher, and the new crop will soon be in.

TEA.

There is no new feature to report on the local market. Enquiries from dealers have been light, and in consequence only a moderate business has been transacted. The demand from the country trade continues good on account of travellers' orders. The London market continues quiet. Greens held firm, low blacks steady, but higher grades of blacks are easy. The New York market unchanged, with little business doing outside of the auction rooms, where the offerings have been large this week. Last mail advices from Hiogo, Japan, report fairly good business with settlements amounting to 9,050 piculs against 10,400 piculs at same date last year. Prices for all under medium grades are a little higher than last year. Exchange has advanced to 3s. 1⅜d. for four months credits. A cable from Foochow advises that there is trouble with the Native Guild there, and that the market will likely open late.

SUGARS.

The past few days has witnessed a very active demand with an excited and advancing market. Foreign markets have advanced 1s. this week, and beet now stands at the highest point yet touched. The total stock in the principal countries on May 1st, was 754,064 tons. If the receipts and deliveries from May 1st to October 1st are the same as last year, the stock on October 1st will only be 140,326 tons to be divided amongst all the principal countries. The stock in America on June 1st was 97,131 tons. If the receipts and meltings from that date to October 1st are the same as last year, viz., receipts 370,279 tons and meltings 469,151 tons, the stock in United States on October 1st will be a slight minus. Shipments from Cuba to United States are 24,161 tons behind last crop, and the shortage yet to be felt. Brazil has no more sugar to come forward and the supplies for America equal to last year must be drawn from Europe, where the only surplus stock exists. Refiners have advanced granulated ⅛c. this week, and a further advance is expected before Saturday. Yellows have advanced ¼c., and now the lowest to be had at the refinery is 7⅜c. The Nova Scotia Refinery has closed down for want of raws..

The New York Commercial Bulletin says: "To almost every rule there is an exception, so when the subject of a generally quiet market is referred to, the activity in sugar comes prominently to the fore. Refiners again advanced their prices an eighth of a cent this morning, thus making the quotation of granulated 9c. for the more popular brands. The jobbers to-day were booking orders at 9⅛c, but with the coming of the morrow their ideas are expected to be raised to 9¼c, as their prices are regulated each morning by the closing value of the day previous. The rapid advance of late has not checked in the least the demand for the sweet, as it has come at a time when supplies are absolutely necessary for preserving purposes. The enhanced cost, however, is becoming a serious matter to the fruit packers of the country, and those who have made their prices for fall delivery will undoubtedly find their profits materially lessened by the extra price they are compelled to pay for sugar. The advance in the cost of the cane product opens up a way to dishonest action, as some unprincipled packers will not hesitate to adopt means that will tend to reduce the cost of their goods.

MOLASSES

Has gone away up, owing to the increase in sugar and the scarcity of the article.

RICE AND SPICES.

There is a good firm market and a fair demand for rice. Spices are unchanged.

DRIED FRUIT.

Valencias are moving off freely, and desirable stock brings firm prices. Currants are without change of price.

GREEN FRUIT.

More favouring weather lately has had a somewhat stimulating effect upon the green fruit trade, which can be said to show some improvement. The movement at present is of fair volume, although it has not reached that activity that was noticeable before the late unfavourable weather. Supplies in some lines are coming in pretty freely, perhaps more so than the demand warrants, and some declines are noticed. Valencia oranges are not very plentiful in the city at present, and no large supplies are being received. However, no scarcity exists, and they are moving off in a fairly active manner at $7.50 to $8.50 per case. For Messina oranges the stocks that have been re eived lately have been of good quality, and they have met with a moderately active sale at $4 to $4.50 per box. While the demand for lemons lately has been of a rather easy nature, there is still a fair volume of trade doing at unchanged prices. Warmer weather, however, is needed to stimulate the demand for this fruit. Lemons are quoted at $3.50 to $4.50 per box. Bananas show but a moderate amount of activity, and the sale is hardly satisfactory. Stocks in the city are pretty full. Red are mostly in request, while for yellows there is hardly a moderate enquiry. They are quoted at $1.25 to $1.75 per bunch. Pineapples are in pretty good demand, and there are large supplies on hand. Havanas are quoted from $1.80 to $2.50 per dozen, and Porto Rico from 40c. to 60c. each. New York despatches say :—"For oranges and lemons there continues a quiet market, but the trade confidently predict an early increase in the distribution of the latter, influenced by the more sultry weather that has set in. Prices for the moment are nominal. Bananas are in fair demand at nominally unchanged prices. Pines were again plentiful to-day, and prices ruled low."

The articles contained in this Review are written by experienced representatives of the GROCER, are wholly unbiassed, and are an accurate reflex of the market.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Has continued to come forward very freely, and apparently in excess of the wants of buyers. Prices have remained weak ever since our last, and closed still in the same condition. As before, the great bulk of the receipts have consisted of box lots of large rolls, but as they have generally been of good quality and well packed, they have sold as well as would any other sort. Prices of good to choice closed at from 13c. to 14c., with inferior held over or sold very slowly at at 11c. to 12c. Tubs have come forward more freely, and have found some buyers for shipment ; a lot of 50 sold late last week at 13c. for selected and 12c. for good yellows ; and on Tuesday some lots of selected again changed hands at 13c. with lots of mixed at 11 to 12c. These latter sales have done something to reduce stocks on hand but still left a good deal here, most of which is held higher. Street receipts of pound rolls have come in with a rush, and prices have sustained a smash, closing about 13 to 14c.

CHEESE—Has sold quietly but steadily for local consumption at rather firmer prices, scarcely any really good going below 10c. Outside markets firm and cable quotations advanced.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Green apples have been very scarce during the past few days and prices have been firmer under a good active enquiry. Fancy stock has brought $2.50 to $2.75, with good at $2 to $2.25, and ordinary at $1.50. Dried apples have continued slow, although dealers have been talking a little firmer on reports of serious damage to the new crop by frosts. Trade lots are moving slowly at 2¾c. to 3c., and dealers are asking about 3½c. for retail lots. There has been a little more business done in evaporated. One packer cleared out his entire lot at 5c. to 5½c. Single cases have sold on the spot at 7c., and lots from 6c. to 6½c. Beans are dull and are unchanged, selling from $1.25 to $1,80 per bushel according to quality.

The Markets—Continued.

EGGS—The general supplies have been very high and prices have been advanced to 12½c. to 13c. The Egg Dealers' Association have kept their local agents liberally supplied, and they have been selling at 11½c. In the country the Association claims to be paying 10c., and other buyers from 11c. to 12c. A round lot sold to a local dealer today at 12½c. New York markets are steady at about 13½c. for Canadian eggs.

GREEN FRUITS—No new fruit has arrived except small lots of strawberries.

HOPS—The market is dull with but a few sales making. Dealers have been offering new at 20c. to 21c. as to quality.

POTATOES—Receipts have been very light and demand good. Prices have advanced and there are buyers for cars on the track at 50c. Round lots are selling from 55c. to 60c. New potatoes are now coming in and are quoted at $4.50 to $5 per bbl.

MONTREAL, June 13, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no new feature in the canned goods market. The demand from local buyers has continued slow, and the market has ruled quiet, owing to the fact that retail dealers have ample supplies on hand for the present, and dealers do not look for much improvement for some time. In a wholesale way business has been fairly active, and some large lines of lobsters, mackerel, and salmon have been placed for future delivery. The offerings of tomatoes from packers have been large, but as dealers here have fair stocks on hand, few sales have been made. Old lobsters have been jobbing out at $5.75 per case, salmon at $1.70 per dozen, tomatoes at 75c. to 80c., corn at 90c. to $1.75 according to quality, and peas at $1.10 to $1.20. In fruit business has been quiet with prices steady all round. The demand for canned fruits at this season of the year is generally very limited, owing to the large offerings of fresh fruit. There has been a fair enquiry for canned meats, and the market has ruled fairly active, with a large volume of business at firm prices.

SUGAR.

Strong and excited cables from abroad which report the raw material very strong, owing to scarcity of offerings, have caused considerable excitement among refiners, who claim to find it difficult to have offers made. The quantity on the way, however, is sufficient to last for some time, and so far as local refiners are concerned the raw article will not be scarce for some time. The market for refined has been strong during the week and prices have advanced ¼c. on granulated, and ⅛c. on yellows, with prospects of a further gain at any time, as the recent advance in refined sugar has not been in proportion to raw. Cables from London were excited and higher. There has been a brisk demand for refined sugar and some round lots have changed hands, but refiners are holding to some extent, anticipating a further advance at any time. Sales of granulated have been made at 9c. and yellows at 7⅜c. to 8⅛c. as to quality at the factory.

SYRUP.

On account of the strong sugar market there has been considerably more activity in syrup, which has ruled firm, with prices tending upwards, but no advance has yet taken place. The demand has been good, and a large volume of business has been transacted. Sales of several sound lots have been made, including one lot of 400 barrels, at 4¼c., but we quote 4c. to 4½c., as to quality.

MOLASSES.

The market for molasses has been active and strong, and prices have advanced ½c. to 1c. per gallon. The demand has been good, and a large volume of business has been transacted. The French trade who have been holding off, expecting that prices would recede, are now beginning to buy, but, as holders have been firm and maintained, such expectations were not realized, In fact, some holders of cargo lots are now asking more money than has been paid up to the present time. A bid of 47c. was made for a cargo of Barbadoes and refused, the holders asking more money. Several lots of 50 and 100 puncheons have been turned over at 47c. Trinidad has advanced 1c. to 37c. to 38c., and Antigua to 39c. to 40c.

FRUIT.

In fruit business has been active under a good demand, and sales have been made freely. The feeling in the market has been firm and prices have been maintained all round. Oranges have met with an active demand, and sales of round lots have been made at $7.50 to $8.50 per case. The demand for lemons has been good, and sales have been made freely at $3.50 to $4.50 per box. Bananas have been abundant, and met with a good demand at $1.00 to $2.00 per bunch, as to quality. There has been no change in Valencia raisins, business having been of a jobbing character and prices steady at 5¾c. to 6c. Currants have ruled quiet and steady at 4½c. to 5c. A fair volume of business has been transacted in nuts at unchanged prices.

TEA AND COFFEE.

There has been no new feature to note in the tea market. The demand has been slow, owing to the fact that buyers generally have filled their wants for the present, both on local and country account; in consequence the volume of business transacted has been small and few sales have been effected outside of small lots. The market on the whole has been quiet, but the tone is firm and prices have been well maintained. There has been a fair enquiry for coffee and a good jobbing trade has been accomplished at firm prices.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-knowr brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

Toronto Markets—Continued.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

Trade seems to have been quiet and steady.

HIDES—Green have been offered rather less freely, and seem to have been steady in value. Cured quiet, with holders firm.

PELTS—No further advance beyond 15 to 20c., with offerings rather small. Sheepskins almost finished.

LAMBSKINS—A few more coming forward and taken at last week's advance to 20 to 25c.

WOOL—Unfavourable weather seems to have checked showing, as receipts have been small either by rail or on the street. Prices have been steady ; a few lots of about 2,000 lbs. of good merchantable fleece have found a sale at 19 to 20c. and uncombed rather easier at 9½ to 10¼c. according to quality. There seems to have been no movement effected in pulled, and prices closed nominally unchanged.

TALLOW—Has remained dull and weak at 2c. for rough and 5 to 5¼c. for rendered, with no movement reported in trade lots.

PROVISIONS.

PORK—Very quiet, and ranging from $15 to $16 according to quantity and quality.

BACON—Has been in fair demand and steady, but no large lots moving. Long clear has sold usually in tons and cases at 8½c. to 8¼c., 100 sides have brought the former price. Cumberland scarce and firm, with 100 sides sold at 10c. Smoked meats in active demand and firm ; rolls have sold freely at 10c., and a lot of canvassed sold at 10¼c. ; backs very scarce, and usually held at 11½c.; bellies firm at 11½c. to 12c., the latter price being for boneless.

HAMS—In steady demand at steady prices. There have been a few heavyweight smoked sold at 11c., but the general run has been 11½c. to 12c., the latter for choice ; canvassed in demand ; a lot of 150 changed hands at 12½c.

LARD—Has sold quietly but steadily at prices much the same as before at 9¾c. to 10½c. for imported, with some little local make selling at 10½c. to 11c., the latter price being for small pails in small lots.

HOGS—Have offered slowly and have sold fairly well at from $6.50 to 6.75 in most cases, though a very few choice may have reached $7.00.

SALT—Liverpool has been quiet ; no movement in it reported, but lots to arrive still probably obtainable at 66c. on track. Canadian has sold lower, and closed still tending downwards ; cars, of course, have gone off at 63c., and cars of barrelled at $1.30, with small lots of the latter at $1.40 ; dairy has sold in small lots at $1.40 for sacks, and 41c. for quarter sacks.

HOPS—Very quiet indeed ; a few small lots or single bales of choice new have sold at 20c. to 21c., but at the close holders seemed somewhat firm in consequence of reported firmness outside. Yearlings and old purely nominal.

WHITE BEANS—No movement reported in trade lots, and dealers selling just as before at $1.50 to $1.60 for small lots of hand-picked, which seem to have been the only sort wanted.

☞ The review of the markets published in the GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER is based upon information gained from personal application to both seller and buyer, as far as possible and quotations here given reflect, in most cases, the actual prices paid.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SHIPPERS.

TO SHIPPERS OF ROLL BUTTER.

A practice that should be abolished by country shippers is that of working low grades of packed into roll, and packing them in with fresh made roll, with the intention of palming it all off as fresh-made. The deception is always detected, and such lots are invariably sold at same prices that low grades of packed command. Regarding packages, new tubs or hardwood boxes are the most desirable, and half-barrels or kegs will do equally as well, and these only should be used. Care should also be taken before putting the butter in packages, that all the sides and ends of the packages be lined with new white muslin, thus keeping the butter from defacement by touching the wood. A bad practice is putting the butter up in paper ; this should not be done, as the paper sticks to the butter and damages the appearance. Each roll should be separately placed in a piece of new muslin cloth, washed in warm water to take out the starch, and thoroughly wet in good brine. The rolls should be of moderate size, and not too large. Then, again, the rolls should be of uniform colour, not packing the light and fresh-made with other that has been colored. Mark plainly on each package the correct tare (the gross weight is easily obtained), as it ensures quick returns after sale is made.

TO SHIPPERS OF DRESSED HOGS.

Now that the season for marketing dressed hogs has fairly set in, country shippers should pay special attention to the shipments thereof to this market. After they are properly dressed, too much care cannot be bestowed upon their selection, it being desirable that hogs of nearly equal weight and quality should comprise each lot ; they ought then to be placed in clean cars, with a sufficient layer of straw at the bottom to prevent their being marked. Well-fatted, even, clean and bright-looking lots command a sale at top figures when buyers will not look at mixed and uneven lots, although they may be well-fatted. Each hog should have its weight neatly and distinctly marked upon it, and a list of weight of every shipment should be forwarded by mail as early as possible, so that no trouble may arise upon the arrival of the goods here. If shippers to this market will attend to the proper selection of light and heavy weights of good and proper qualities, they will be amply repaid for their trouble on the receipt of net proceeds of their consignments.

NIGHT AIR FAR BETTER THAN FOUL AIR.

An extraordinary fallacy is the dread of night air, says the Sanitary World. What air can we breathe at night but night air? The choice is between pure night air from without and foul air from within. Most people prefer the latter — an unaccountable choice. What will they say if it is proved to be true that fully one-half of all the diseases we suffer from are occasioned by people sleeping with windows shut? An open window, most nights in the year can never hurt one. In great cities night air is often the best and purest to be had in twenty-four hours. I could better understand shutting the windows in town during the day than during the night, for the sake of the sick. The absence of smoke, the quiet, all tend to make night the best time for airing the patient. One of our highest medical authorities on consumption and climate has told me that the air of London is never so good as after 10 o'clock at night. Always air your room, then, from the outside air, if possible. Windows are made to open, doors are made to shut—a truth which seems extreemly difficult of apprehension. Every room must be aired from without, every passage from within.

CANADIAN PATENT REGULATIONS.

A numerously signed petition was recently presented to the Dominion authorities, asking for changes in the Canadian patent regulations. The petitioners ask for the introduction of legislation on the subject as soon as possible. It is urged that the full term of a patent of invention be made twenty years, to be divided into four optional terms of five years each, with progressive fees of $10, $20, $30 and $40 for each term respectively. This would act at once, save the Canadian patentees the loss of two years' duration of their United States patents, and it would do away with the delays and other disadvantages that the Canadian inventors are generally subjected to in order to get priority of issue in the United States. Such priority is sought as the only means at present by which Canadian inventors can save themselves from this serious loss of time; for, although the United States patents are otherwise issued for seventeen years, yet they terminate with the Canadian patent; when issued, the full term of the latter is only fifteen years. The change suggested would it is said, operate at once in saving the Canadian inventor from loss of time, and the immediate applications for patents in Canada would be facilitated.

TRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

In commenting on trade associations the Grocers' Review, of Manchester, England, says :

Yet another illustration is forthcoming of the backwardness of grocers to give support to any new idea. They are positively as conservative a body of men in regard to matters affecting their trade and interests as they well can be. Manchester has quite recently given a striking example of how slow they are to deal vigorously with an existing state of affairs which was clearly doing mischief to its association and those whom it was supposed to represent. Portsmouth, not in itself, but through its association, shows how unwilling they are to take up new ideas. There surely can be no doubt that Mr. Pink, the president of the Portsmouth organization, and the energetic and well-intentioned gentlemen who surround and support him, promulgated an excellent idea when they suggested the formation of a federation of grocers' associations. Standing by themselves, and working, so to speak, each one for its own hand, associations have, as is being more widely recognized every day, an undoubted and very distinct value. The good which they accomplish in bringing individuals whose main interests are in common into closer touch, in ventilating burning questions which only need to be fairly discussed and unitedly grappled with to lose much of their formidableness, and in taking prompt action when common interests are assailed by governments or powerful bodies of one kind or another, speaks for itself, and needs not to be more than mentioned in passing in order to keep it green in the memories of the members of the trade. So much being granted, the project of federation cannot be contested. The associations usefully represent the opinions and embody the views of their members ; the federation would serve an admirable purpose in focussing the views of the associations and, having obtained their sanction in due form, in taking action upon any vexed question with all the force and influence of all the associations, and in much more compact and effective form than is possible while those associations are simply so many separate bodies, without any recognized head. Not that we desire to see any excessive amount of centralization, with its apparently inevitable red-tapeism. The associations must, whatever happens, maintain their lusty individual life and action, but this is in no way incompatible with the existence of a federation, focussing, as we have phrased it, the views of the associations, and ready to put those views into action where necessary. This general question, however, we have previously discussed at length, and need not, therefore, pursue the subject further on the present occasion.

OFFICE SALESMEN.

A writer in a recent issue of The Office, discussing the treatment of customers who call on the home concern, as contrasted with the treatment of those who are regularly visited by the travelling salesmen of the house, presents the following :

" It has seemed to me, for some time past, that the matter of office salesmen in business houses is, in a great measure, a neglected subject. A merchant will use his utmost endeavors to secure the services of gilt-edged roadmen, and, having obtained his traveller, after much time, labor and skilful manœuvering, he will sit quietly in his chair expecting the man on the road to bring in the business. Such management puts the office in the position of a clearing-house, not of a live, active factor in the business transacted. Is this a proper way to conduct any business office ? Frequently I have had occasion to enter large establishments where, on opening the door, a wilderness of goods greeted me, but no human face. Sometimes I have gone a distance of from 100 to 200 feet into a large city warehouse, and finally run against the office partition at the lower end, where a hard-worked bookkeeper, trying to find his balance, glared at me through the cashier's pigeon-hole, and in crusty tones asked, " What do you want ?" That this is not an unusual case, nor an overdrawn picture, any man who has had occasion to enter large wholesale houses in New York and other cities can testify.

There are, however, some brilliant and shining exceptions to the rule. Of one case, a wholesale house in New York, I can speak from pleasant experience. At the head of the entrance stairs sits one of the partners of the concern. It is, of course, impossible for him to see every man who comes in, but every man who does come in is met at the top of the stairs by a clerk of pleasing address, who inquires his business. He is then referred to some salesman, who is instantly at his service. Should the visitor happen to be a large buyer in this particular line of goods, he is referred at once to the salesman partner already mentioned. This man was given an interest in the house, originally, on account of the immense amount of goods he could dispose of on the road. But does the ex-road salesman and present partner greet the visitor who has come in, perhaps only to make a friendly call, with a curt, " What do you want ?" Not so, at all. A hearty grasp of the hand, and " How are you ?" uttered in whole-souled, magnetic tones, an inquiry as to the health of his family, and these various little incidentals that mean practically nothing, and yet are fraught with so much good-will and interest to a man, and which seem to oil the wheels of business, are features of the greeting.

What is the result of this plan of action ? Profitable business of course. The house referred to, which, by the way, makes a study of handling customers, whoever and wherever they may be, does the largest business in its line in the United States. It is a model for all other houses to copy after in each of its various departments. I offer these few remarks as a suggestion to the business houses that are in the habit of treating the incoming buyer almost as if he were a Pariah to be shunned, or, if attended to at all, who consider it enough that he is looked after by a junior clerk, whose ideas of business are at best nebulous. If a merchant wishes trade, and is paying much money to outside salesmen to bring it in, it seems but simple common sense to take care of it most carefully when it comes in of its own accord. Office salesmen should be provided and trained as well as road salesmen.

THE FOLLY OF CUTTING PRICES.

Recently the grocery trade in Detroit were shown in a forcible manner, through the failure of the largest retail grocers in the State of Michigan the folly of cutting prices. In 1886 a similar lesson was forced upon the jobbers of New York and vicinity through the failure for a large amount of a prominent Brooklyn retailer and of a firm in Harlem. All three of these concerns were large buyers, had large and elegant stores, bought largely of manufacturers, did what many may call a "humming trade," yet all were credited with demoralizing business in their respective neighbourhoods by cutting prices and frequently below regular wholesale prices. The course pursued meant that they were actually doing a large share of their business at a loss of eight to ten cents on every dollar's worth of goods distributed. It is by such severe lessons from time to time that dealers are taught that success cannot be obtained except upon a live-and-let-live basis. A reputation for selling goods at extremely low prices and of being known as the champion cutter, does not carry with it in the public estimation the confidence upon which permanent success is based. The public always distrust the dealer who offers goods too low.

In the case at Harlem, the creditors when approached for a compromise, refused the request and forced the firm into liquidation in order to drive them out of business. Their action was meant and accepted by the retailers in that neighborhood as a protest against reckless trading. In the Brooklyn case a compromise was effected at 50 cents on the dollar, and the bankrupt promptly launched into a new business upon credit granted by his victims, and yet in less than a month he was at his old trick of selling goods at retail below what they cost the majority of retail grocers. In this case some blame attaches to the manufacturers and wholesalers, for in making an easy compromise they encourage the cutter, who is always an extra hazardous business risk.

A business, in order to be successful, must be conducted upon well defined principles, and one is that goods must be sold at a profit sufficient to cover the cost of the service. A man may get along in business and do no injustice to his competitors or to his creditors without adding anything to his capital from year to year, but the very moment he sells goods below the average cost of handling them, he not only weakens himself, but he works an injury to his creditors and to every competitor in the district where he is located. Selling at cost does not mean what was paid for them and freight, but as above stated rent, insurance, interest, clerk, hire, horses and wagons, leakage, shrinkage, stealage and bad debts, which will average 8 to 10 per cent. on gross sales. It is not to be wondered at, therefore, that men who do business by cutting prices arouse the antagonism of the entire trade. The action taken by the Brooklyn Retail Grocers' Association in the case of the Brooklyn failure alluded to, in passing the resolution was justifiable.

Resolved,—That this Association, as the representative and fosterers of the retail grocery trade of the City of Brooklyn, pronounce ourselves, as a body, irrevocably against such pernicious business practices, condemn the same as unbusinesslike, unfair and dishonest, and we pledge ourselves to discourage and prevent, if possible, such methods of doing business, and we call upon the wholesale dealers of the cities of Brooklyn and New York to assist us in our endeavour to protect ourselves and them from the results of such unbusinesslike practices by refusing to adjust, compromise with, or in any way assist any merchant or merchants who have failed in business while trying to undersell or undercut the regular market prices of the staple articles dealt in by the retail grocers. And the Association thereby indorses and commends the action of all those wholesale dealers who refused to compromise or take less than one hundred cents on the dollar for their claims against parties who have failed while doing business in the manner above stated.

In calling upon the wholesalers to assist in protecting the retailers from men who carry on their trade by unbusiness-like methods, a very reasonable request was made. Aside from encouraging the cutter by granting credit, wholesalers often encourage his operations by making to these large buyers a cut price on some articles, the advantage so gained being used to make a low price to the consumer. Therefore the salesmen employed by the jobbers must in some measure be held responsible wherever the cutter operates.

Manufacturers have also their share of responsibility when they allow these cutters to use their goods as a club to break down the rest of the trade, both wholesale and retail, and thus reduce the ability of all of their customers to pay, and increase their own chances of loss. The sooner manufacturers recognize the value of the services, experience and capital of wholesalers as distributors, and confine themselves to regular channels, the better it will be for all concerned.

We are glad that during the past three or four years the sentiment against selling goods at cut prices has steadily increased, and that instances of failures because of pursuing this folly are matters of record less frequently than was the case a few years ago.

An understanding among retailers that articles shall not be sold below their wholesale cost plus the average cost of the service required to distribute them is productive of a moral effect which is worth ten times any effort put forth to create the sentiment. Such action dissipates jealousy between rival dealers, cements social relations, strengthens the relations between jobbers and retailers, and makes easier the securing of fair profits.

We do not feel disposed to rejoice over a disaster, but when such a failure as that in Detroit is recorded, and is found to be due to unbusinesslike methods, we feel that it is our duty to emphasize the lessons that it teaches. Probably no one regrets their course more than the members of the bankrupt firm, whose sad experience may yet prove a great blessing to the trade at large.

When the public generally recognize that there is an equity in trade as between buyer and seller, and that in order to succeed this equity must be maintained, then the policy of cutting prices will be abandoned and the number of failures resulting therefrom still further reduced.—[American Grocer.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

THE CONSUMPTION OF FANCY GROCERIES.

An inspection of retail grocery stores will convince any observant person that the consumption of delicacies in the grocery line is in no danger of overtaking production, for the reason that sufficient endeavours are not made, as a rule, to push their sale. Yet no other articles in the retail grocer's stock pay such good profits. It is manifest that there is a limit to the consumption of staple foods, except in years of unusually low prices, and any increase of the individual dealer's trade must be at the expense of his neighbours. With a keen perception of this fact, the average retailer tries his hand at it, generally cutting prices in order to succeed. But if the same energy and enterprise were expended in pushing the sale of fancy groceries, cutting would be unnecessary, because dealers have in this line, in many neighbourhoods, practically a virgin field. There is, of course, a large trade done annually in every town and city in many descriptions of fancy groceries, but it is generally restricted to a few establishments, and there are great possibilities of further development of the trade by the smaller stores. Especially does this statement hold good at this season of the year and during the late summer and early fall, when the average palate inclines to lighter and more toothsome foods than those consumed in cooler weather. There are many appetizing delicacies suitable for hot weather, the consumption of which is quite limited, owing to the neglect of the retailer to properly push them. The mere display of show cards descriptive of summer beverages and salad dressing and the usual hot weather goods is sufficient nowadays to ensure a steady sale, but there are many less widely known articles which must be seen to be appreciated and to create a demand. Many of these delicacies are put up in glass and tin, and are admirably adapted for display, especially those in glass, as the contents are visible, and present such an enticing appearance that patrons need little urging to give them a trial. Such goods should not only be displayed in the show window, but also on the counter in a neat manner, where customers can have a good view, and convenient to the hands of the proprietor and his assistants when an opportunity presents itself for calling the attention of patrons to their peculiar qualities and merits. Delicacies, especially novelties, require considerable skill and tact in introducing them to the public, but when a respectable demand has been created the dealer is well repaid for his trouble by the large margin of profit that such goods allow. There can be no question but that nearly all of the large retail stores which monopolize the cream of the trade and prove such thorns in the sides of the smaller establishments, owe much of their success to the enterprise shown in handling and pushing the sale of fancy groceries while they are still novelties.—Ex.

A BRIGHT SIDE.

By far the most important bit of news heard recently in a financial way is the announcement by the iron and steel companies that prices are to be advanced. Pig iron goes up 50 cents a ton ; steel rails advance $1. President Ben Clark, of the Thomas Iron Company, said last night that these advances in price were the result of increases in business. The iron market's stagnation, he predicts, is over, and the tendency of prices henceforth, he believes, will be toward sharp prices.—[New York Times.

The demand for many kinds of iron and steel products is already felt in a firmer tone and advancing prices. Pig iron, however, does not change as yet, the production previous to the disaster having been much in excess of consumption, and while some producing capacity is cut off, quite as much of the consuming capacity is also stopped by the destruction of manufacturing establishments or their cessation for lack of fuel. The Southern sales of pig have been heavy at former prices, but 25,000 tons of rails have been sold, and the price is firmer at $27, while structural, plate, and tank and bar iron are stronger, and an advance is looked for in rails. Transactions in anthracite coal have been limited at the late advance, but the tone is stronger.—[R. G. Dun & Co's Circular.

The above are straws which indicate good times ahead, in spite of unparalleled disasters by flood and unusual losses by fire. The crop outlook is excellent. The acreage and condition of cotton indicate an increase of three per cent. in area, and a better condition of plants than one year ago. The sugar market is active and advancing. There is confidence in the boot and shoe trade, and a stronger market for some grades of leather. In the woollen trade there is an improved feeling. The stock market shows great strength in the face of enormous losses to corporate property. The advance in the price of the certificates of various trusts indicates a change of sentiment regarding such organizations. Capitalists are always shy, and their showing favour to trust certificates indicates that confidence in the stability of combinations and their power to earn dividends is daily advancing. In spite of large exports of gold and the calamitous events of the past fortnight, the money market continues to be largely supplied, while rates continue low. Bank exchanges run ahead of last year, being over $300,000,000 greater during the first quarter than in 1888. Reports from interior points show a fair volume of trade. There is a bright side to the dark cloud that interrupted business last week and touched the sympathies of a great nation. Let us look forward, with courage, confident that the future is full of promise to the honest worker. —[American Grocer.

THE VARIOUS WAYS OF DRINKING TEA.

The following interesting information is contained in that useful work, "A Cup of Tea," by J. M. Walsh. It will be observed that the methods of preparing tea for the table are many and curious :

" In China, tea is the regular beverage of all classes in the empire, while at the same time it administers to the luxury of the epicure. It takes the place of beer and wine, and may be said to be to the Chinese what ale is to the English, beer to the Germans, wine to the French and Spanish, in short the national drink of the country.

" The wealthier Chinese and mandarins prepare their tea for use in the cup. The requisite quantity of leaves are at first put in, a perforated silver lid, circular in form, is then placed over them to keep them down ; boiling water is then poured on, the cup is then covered with a saucer or lid to prevent the aroma from escaping, and then left to draw from eight to ten minutes. The infusion is then drank by them without the addition of either sugar or milk.

" The poorer classes of Chinese prepare their tea in a vessel similar to that in use here, but do not allow it to draw or stand as long before using as in England and this country. They instantly pour it off, by which process they extract only the more volatile and stimulating properties of the leaves.

" The extremely poor Chinese, however, boil the old and very inferior leaves of what is known as 'refuse tea,' which alone are within their reach, and drink the infusion frequently during the day. This is done not alone for the purpose of extracting such virtues as the leaves may possess, but also to qualify the water, as very little drinking water is to be met with in China.

" The Japanese reduce the leaves to a fine powder and then infuse it in a porcelain vessel made for the especial purpose ; then they strain the liquor, but oftentimes the liquor and pulverized leaves are drank together.

" The Persians boil the leaves until the liquor acquires a black colour and bitterish taste, then they add fennel and anise seed, cloves and sugar to the decoction before using it.

" The Hindoos simply put the leaves in seething water and use the liquor immediately without the addition of any other material.

" In Thibet it is the custom to prepare tea for use by grinding the leaves into dust, mixing it with bullock's blood, pressing it into the form of a brick, and drying it by a fire heat ; it is then wrapped in sheepskin wrappers to preserve them until required, when they are boiled and used. This is known as 'brick tea.'

" In Central Asia generally a kind of bouillion or soup is made from this brick tea, being mixed in boiling water with salt, camel's milk, and often with flour fried in oil. Pumpelly states that in his overland journey from China to Russia, he partook of a compound of tea, tallow, salt and cheese.

"The Russians prepare tea for use in the customary manner here and in England, but invariably add sliced lemon to the infusion before drinking. This is said to improve the flavour of the tea wonderfully, and make a delicious beverage.

"The Russians have tea houses, which in many respects resemble the Turkish cafe. They go to those houses to drink tea only, with a flavour of vodki (spirits) in it. In summer they drink cold tea instead of hot, using lemon instead of vodki. They seldom use sugar, and never milk, cigarettes being furnished with it. The tea sold in these tea houses is very good, and Russians swallow surprising quantities of it, three or four pints at a time, with a proportionate quantity of liquor, a quantity not, however, considered excessive for a sober man. It makes a potent beverage, sending a glow all over the body.

"In Switzerland it is the custom to mix cinnamon with the leaves before infusing, and then prepare both in the usual manner here, sugar and milk being added to suit the taste.

"In France and Spain brandy and wine are usually added to the infusion.

"In England gin is frequently added, but otherwise prepared and used as in this country."

MAKE YOUR BUSINESS A SPECIALTY.

We lately heard the remark from a merchant of large experience in directing an extensive business : "I am more than ever convinced that if you want anything well done you must entrust it to some one who has made that thing a specialty and been successful in it." There is a great deal of wisdom in this observation. It is often said that if a person wishes anything well done he must himself take hold of it, but this does not provide against failure from inexperience or want of the requisite qualifications. A great many lamentable mistakes occur from persons venturing upon undertakings for which they are not qualified, and often work is badly done and proves a failure because those entrusted with it have not been selected with reference to their special fitness.

It is a natural characteristic with us, that of deeming ourselves competent for anything and everything we choose to take in hand. There is an impatience of the slow methods by which in former days trades and professions were learned, and men like to "take hold" and trust to their quickness and adaptiveness to help them through. But, after all, whatever is worth having must be bought at a fair price, and unless the necessary qualifications are natural rather than acquired, a man will have to go through a long course of painstaking before he is proficient ; otherwise his knowledge will be of very little value from its very commonness.

The remark we have quoted is full of practical suggestiveness to every man who engages in any business. The men who really accomplish anything are those who understand what they undertake, and who have given to it sufficient time and study to make it a specialty. If we take the most noted brands of goods put upon the market we shall find that the packers are men who have spent a considerable portion of their lives in perfecting the articles they produce, and have worked hard to secure the reputation they enjoy.

In the same way those who have built up an extensive business of any kind have done so not by accident, but by patient study and hard work, extending over many years. If it is true that men of this stamp are the only ones who can safely be intrusted with transactions for others, they are the only men who can accomplish any solid success for themselves. It is perfectly reasonable that this should be so. To manage a business with success requires so many qualifications, so much experience, and such an amount of attention that men who are ill qualified court failure. A man who has the conduct of a store has so many questions to meet at every moment, and must be well posted in so great a variety of subjects, that unless he is the right man in the right place he must needs be losing money directly or indirectly at every turn ; and he cannot hope to succeed, especially as in most cases he has competitors who manage their business more intelligently. We say advisedly that the chances are against an ill qualified person, unless, indeed, he is a beginner, who, like some of our readers, beginning with no knowledge, has studied and learned his business from the start—in which case he belongs to the hopeful and not to the hopeless class. We cannot give our young readers better advice than they should profit by every opportunity of gaining a complete mastery of the details of the trade on which they are entering, for thereby they will enter the ranks of the only class of men who can look forward with any confidence to success, viz., those who understand practically and thoroughly whatever they undertake.

The experience of the authority we have quoted points to a folly of a man's dabbling in any business that he does not understand ; and yet there are many who think they can embark in certain enterprises in which they have had no experience with the same chances of success as old and experienced practitioners. This applies more especially to the class of speculative enterprises against which we have a great many times warned our readers. The safest occupation in which to make money is that which a man thoroughly understands, and if he is unable to make satisfactory progress in a business he knows, it is very unlikely that he will do better in one to which he is a stranger.

It is also of importance to exercise discrimination and see that those intrusted with any duty are fitted to perform it. The head of any house of considerable size is compelled to make a study of the peculiar qualifications of his assistants, and to intrust to each that share of duty which they are best fitted to perform. Unquestionably while individual success depends largely on the experience and mastery shown in the business, the prosperity of large organizations is also largely dependent on the judicious assignment of certain duties to certain persons who have proved themselves the best able to perform them.—[American Grocer.

A VALUABLE DIET.

The various improvements effected of late years in the process and method of preparing concentrated extract of meats, etc., have added immensely to the number of articles thus handled, and this line of industry has brought out a number of special preparations of acknowledged superiority. A most popular preparation and one which, since its introduction, has everywhere been favourably received, is that known as Edwards' Desiccated Soup, of which the sole manufacturers are Messrs. Fred. King & Co. (limited), of Belfast and London, and who have a Canadian depot at 30 St. Sacrament Street, Montreal, of which Mr. S. H. Ward is agent. Soup in the abstract is a well-known form of food, on which point the researches of Liebig have thrown much light. It is composed of extract of beef and choice vegetables, and when cooked gives forth a most agreeable flavor and odor. It has been of late years the custom to consume more and more meat, rendering it almost impossible to consume enough of the carbonaceous foods necessary to keep up the heat of the blood.

It is doubtful whether one person in a hundred knows enough of the chemistry of food to be aware what food does produce heat in the body.

Because meat is known to be a nitrogenous or muscle-forming food, the idea seems to be that the more we consume of it the better. We might as well say that because iron forms the muscles and sinews of the steam engine, we ought to put as much iron as possible in the furnace to keep it in action.

The great bulk of the work required by our bodies is in replacing the perpetual loss of heat through our heating the air by the surface of our bodies, and by the heated air we emit at every breath. If we do not take enough carbon in our food, we burn up the fat that is stored in our bodies, and as long as this lasts we may only suffer the loss of weight which occurs in most persons during the winter; but if the supply of carbon fails, the blood becomes in a condition ready for any of the diseases incident to blood poisoning.

Large quantities of meat are requisite where meat is the only diet obtainable. It is so deficient, both in heat-forming matter and in mineral salts, that large quantities must be consumed before the body obtains enough of these necessaries for existence. When the soluble portions of the meat are separated from the fibrous mass, you obtain a small quantity of useful substances known as extracts of meat, but though useful adjuncts, the want of heat-formers renders them of little value as food alone. The want of mineral matter in the food is certainly the reason why the teeth in the present generation are lost so early in life.

The object of the manufacturers of Edwards' Desiccated Soup has been to combine the heat-formers, flesh-formers and mineral salts in the proportion in which the body needs them. The easy digestibility of this soup, and its quick effect in restoring and maintaining strength is doubtless due to the proportions in which the essential food constituents are combined. It has deservedly gained the highest encomiums, and is certainly economical as well as nutritious.—[The Gazette, Montreal.

ADVERTISE.

A prominent manufacturer remarked recently that he had advertised for years, but failed to appreciate the value of his "ad" and read the secret of his power, until he made an extended trip west to visit old and seek new trade. Not until then did he do his "ad" full justice. Hundreds of miles from home, in a land of strangers, he learned the silent yet potent influence of his "ad" in a trade journal. His name and reputation had preceded him, and though a stranger, his "ad" was the "open sesame" to many an office. To put it homely, though unacquainted with his face, they were acquainted with his name.—[Harness.

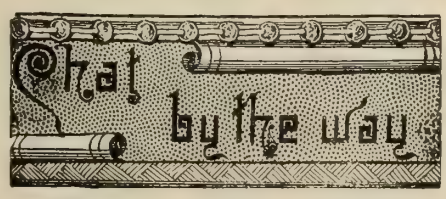
BANKRUPT STOCKS.

DEAR SIR,—As the merchants of Hamilton have now decided to hold a convention of the retail and wholesale merchants of Ontario, from the 19th to the 23rd of August, in the city of Hamilton, to discuss this question and some other important subjects relating to trade and commerce, with the hope of devising some scheme that will remedy the great evil, it is to be hoped that the merchants in every town and village will get organized and make arrangements to attend the convention, and go prepared to take part in the discussion and give their views on the question. It requires united efforts on the part of the retail merchants to make this a success. I have every hope that if the retailers turn out and attend the convention that there will be some scheme agreed upon that will be satisfactory to the trade. The many subjects that will be discussed there will be of great value to the retailers that attend the convention, and the information that they will get will well repay them for the time and expense attending it.

It is an acknowledged fact that the retail trade suffers more from bankrupt stocks and unjust compromises than any other cause, and unless stamped out entirely, financial ruin will be the result to every merchant that tries to do an honest business. I am sure the wholesale men are willing to do what they can to remedy the evil, and as the opportunity is now given, it remains with the retailers to take action at once and attend the convention. MERCHANT.



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—
592 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Mr. Alec. Reid, 35 Oak Street, has secured the agency for Toronto for the celebrated hams of Lawry & Sons, of Hamilton. Mr. Reid reports business good.

We are in receipt of a copy of "Summer Tours," issued by the Canadian Pacific R'y, which will prove an invaluable guide to the intending pleasure seeker. It is profusely illustrated, and gives descriptive tours with rates. This very useful book can be had free on application to any agent of the company, or by enclosing a 2c. stamp to W. R. Callaway, Toronto.

Commercial travellers have novel ways of preparing patrons for their advent nowadays. One drummer sends stylish notes printed on ordinary butcher paper and enclosed in an envelope of the same material. A spectacle runner sends a postal engraved with a neat cut of a mounted courier fired from the muzzle of a gatling gun, and bearing on his saddle the name of the firm which he represents, while below is the proposed date of his call. Other devices for arresting the attention of the retailers are as unique as these.

Some time ago we referred to the energetic action of secretary Thackray, of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association in notifying the members of that body that seizures of tobacco were being made, and thus saving them some trouble. The following, related by Mr. Stratton, collector of inland revenue, shows what happened a city grocer who did not belong to the T. G. R. A. He said: "Whilst sitting in my office the other day, an old gentleman toiled painfully up stairs and, having rested awhile, announced his business. He had come to pay his fine of $10 which had been imposed upon him by the authorities at Ottawa for having tobacco for sale out of the original package, and was one of the victims of the late seizure. He said: 'I did belong to the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, but withdrew some time ago. The secretary continued, however, to send me notices of the meetings, etc., and one day I received a card from him cautioning me about the tobacco, but I thought he only wanted to scare me into the ranks again, and throwing it aside, took no heed of the warning. Had I done so I should not be paying away my money now.'" The Department at Ottawa have imposed a mitigated fine of $10 upon each of the offenders who were seized upon some time ago, and they can have their tobacco again upon paying the fine and 20 cents per pound duty. The last seizures have not received their sentence yet.

CANADIAN BRANCH :

MONTREAL, July 20, 1889.

GROCERIES.

The general distribution of groceries has reached satisfactory volume, and trade has been fairly active and steady in character throughout. Staple lines, with the exception of tea, which has been very quiet, have been in steady request, notably sugar, which has further advanced, and in which fortunate holders have made considerable money recently. Payments, as a rule, have been well provided for, and, on the whole, trade has a healthy tone, although complaints of cut prices are still numerous.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no important feature in the canned goods markets, except that the demand from local buyers has improved some, and a larger volume of business has been transacted in a jobbing way, and the market has ruled fairly active and steady. The demand for round lots of lobsters and salmon has been slow and few car lots have been placed, owing to the facts that buyers generally have placed their orders, and fresh arrivals are expected here early next month. The stock of old lobsters is almost exhausted, and small lots have sold at $5.75 per case, and salmon at $1.65 per dozen. There has been a stronger feeling in tomatoes, and prices have advanced to 85c. to 90c. per doz. Corn has also moved up to $1 to $1.10 per dozen, with Yarmouth steady at $1.75, and Hoeggs at $1.30 to $1.40. Canned apples have been in good demand, of which the stock is light, and prices have advanced 10c. per dozen to $1. Pears and pumpkins have been more enquired for, and as there is a scarcity of such prices are firmly held. Peaches sold at $2.15 to $2.25, and strawberries at $1.65 per dozen. The demand for Armour's canned meats has been good, and a fairly active business has been done at firm prices.

SUGARS.

Owing to the continued strong and excited advices from abroad and New York, along with the great scarcity of raw sugar in the home markets, the feeling here in refined has ruled strong, and a further advance of ⅛c. has been scored during the past few days. The market has been active under a good demand, and some large lines of granulated have changed hands at 9⅛c., with yellows at 7½c. to 8¼c. at the factory, as to quality. The general opinion of refiners is very strong, and a further advance in prices is looked for soon, in fact 10c. for granulated is mentioned as not improbable in the near future.

SYRUP.

In the syrup market there has been no new feature, but a fairly active business has been accomplished under a good demand and some fair sized lots have changed hands at 4c. to 4½c. per lb. The feeling is strong, in sympathy with the sugar markets, and higher prices are looked for.

MOLASSES.

The strong tone to the molasses market has been fully maintained, and during the past week considerable excitement has prevailed, although the volume of business transacted has not been large. Advices from the Islands have been very strong and note a further advance in prices, while the market here continues strong with prices steadily advancing. A bid of 48c. was made for a cargo of 800 puncheons and refused, as the holder was asking more money. A number of small lots have been sold at 47½c. to 48c., and in some cases holders are asking 49c. to 50c. Trinidad has advanced to 38c. to 39c., and Antigua has been sold at 40c. to 41c.

FRUIT.

In green fruit business has ruled active, there being a brisk demand for most lines and a large volume of trade has been accomplished. The receipts have been liberal, as is generally the case at this season of the year and the market has been well supplied. Strawberries have been somewhat scarce and dearer. The demand for oranges has been good, and prices have been well maintained, with round lots changing hands at $7.50 to $8.50 per case. Lemons have been moving freely at $3.50 to $4.50 per box. There has been no change in Valencia raisins, business having been quiet and prices steady at 5¾c. to 6c. Currants have also been quiet and steady at 4½c. to 5c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

Since our last there has been a very quiet tone to the tea market, owing to the fact that the demand has fallen off considerably. The volume of business transacted has been small and of a jobbing character. Holders generally are firm, as stocks here are not large, and no arrivals of new, to speak of, are expected before next month. Prices have ruled steady. The demand for coffee in small quantities has been fair and prices have ruled firm.

RICE.

There has been the usual volume of business in rice at steady prices. Carlots of ordinary have been selling at $3.70, but it appears that some houses who have old stock on hand are cutting that figure even for small lots.

PROVISIONS.

Trade has been fairly active, and prices steady. The supply of Canada short cut pork has been well exhausted, and the bulk of the business is now in Western. Lard has been in steady request, and the aggregate movement has been larger. Meats have had a moderate sale.

EGGS.

A firmer tone has characterized the egg market this week, but prices have not made much improvement. Receipts have been smaller, but show poor quality. Prices are at 13c. to 13½c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The butter market has retained an easy tone, as supplies fully cover requirements, which are only for domestic wants. Present prices are above what exporters can pay, and low prices are bid for round lots. Stocks, however, have not accumulated much. Quotations, it should be understood, represent the jobbing trade: Creamery, 19c. to 20c.; Townships, 17c. to 19c.; Morrisburg, 16c. to 18c.; Brockville, 16c. to 18c.; Western, 15c. to 16c.

CHEESE.—A sharp advance has taken place in cheese, and values have improved a full half cent during the week; in fact, for this early period of the season prices look high. Buyers have been anxious to secure all the goods available, and have cleaned the market up close at advancing prices; in fact, the boom has been and is well supported, and strong parties now own considerable cheese, some of which shows a good profit, having been bought lower. Cables were firm at up to 48s., at which sales were made in Liverpool to day. Bristol is furnishing a good demand this week. To-day 9½c. was paid for colored, with 9⅜c. freely bid for white, but offerings on spot have continued light. Finest colored, 9½c.; finest white, 9⅜c.; medium to fine, 9⅛c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

The wheat market has some irregularity and opinions as to values have widely differed, with business generally quiet. However the market has been strong of late, and up to $1.12½ was paid for No. 1, hard Manitoba, and $1.07½ for No. 2. Oats have weakened one cent with fair local trading. Peas have continued quiet and steady. In barley there has been a light trade. No. 1, hard Manitoba, $1.12½; No. 2, do., $1.07½; peas, 70c. to 72c. per 66 lbs., afloat; oats, 29c. to 31c.; barley, 50c. to 55c.

Within a day or two flour has assumed a more active appearance under an improved domestic demand, which has required more goods than for some time. Prices have been steady in tone and since Saturday business has been fair, although little has been done for export. Although offerings of most grades, that is grades below finest, have continued heavy, dealers anticipate a fair trade at steady prices, as buyers have run out of stock to a great extent. Oatmeal quiet and unchanged.

GREEN FRUIT.

The green fruit trade has improved to some extent since last reports. The finer weather has improved the demand, and there is a freer movement to be noticed in all lines. A quite satisfactory volume of trade is now observable, and if the favourable weather continues the activity is likely soon to be more marked. Valencia oranges are in quite active demand, with no very large stocks in the market. Messina oranges are in good supply, and are moving off quite well. An improvement can be recorded in the demand for lemons, and the movement in Messinas is of no inconsiderable volume. Bananas are also in slightly better request at unchanged values. Pineapples are in pretty active request, but have shown no new feature. Quotations are: Valencia oranges, $7.50 to $8.50 per case, as to quality; Messina oranges, $4 to $4.50 per box; Messina lemons, $3.50 to $4.50 per box; bananas $1.25 to $1.75 per bunch; pineapples, $1.80 to $2.50 per dozen; Porto Rico pines, 40c. to 60c. each. New York despatches say: For lemons there is rather more enquiry noticed. Prime grades are wanted for keeping, but there is really little of strictly choice fruit in the market. Oranges are in moderate demand only. Bananas are being distributed, with the assistance of slight concessions in prices at times. The stock of pines is working down, but not sufficiently fast to cause any improvement in price.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Remained unsettled up to the close of last week, but since then nearly all the business done has been at "Combine price," or 11½c. for cases, though one or two firms at the close stated that they were selling at 12½c., but no demand for trade lots was heard. Street receipts were rather smaller, with really fresh worth 12½c. to 13c. at close.

DRIED APPLES—Values seem to have been much as before, with sales of trade lots at 3c. to 3¼c., and dealers selling small lots at 3½c. to 3¾c. Rather a better enquiry has been heard for evaporated, with sales of lots of 50 and 100 barrels at 5c., and small lots at 6c., but more obtainable at these prices.

HOPS—Have remained very quiet, with some very few sales of some very small lots at 19c. to 21c. for choice new, and 14c. to 15c. for choice yearlings, but the latter would seem to have been next door to purely nominal.

WHITE BEANS—Unchanged at $1.50 to $1.60 for small lots of hand-picked, which have continued to be the only sort wanted.

TALLOW—Still weak at from 5c. to 5¼c. for rendered, and 2c. for rough, with the demand very slack ; trade lots have sold at 5½c.

POTATOES—Cars have been more active, and at steady prices, with sales last week at 40c. on track, and on Tuesday at equal to 40c. here. Street receipts very small, and prices firmer at 45c. to 50c. Imported new have been sold by dealers at $3.50 per barrel.

APPLES—Very few offered, and prices firmer. Good to choice winter fruit has been worth $2 to $2.50 per barrel.

HAY—Pressed has sold fairly well, and generally at steady prices. Car lots of timothy on track have been worth $13 to $13.50, but mixed has sold at $12, with half cars at $12.50. Market receipts light, but probably sufficient, and prices fairly steady, closing at $13 to $15.50.

STRAW—Offerings have been about equal to the wants of buyers, and these selling much as before at $10 to $11 for sheaf, with loose worth about $6.

POULTRY—Nothing of any consequence doing in anything.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Receipts of box lots of large rolls have fallen off considerably—in fact during the present week all offered have been wanted. Prices, however, have remained very low and closed at 12½c. to 13c. for good to choice, with second-class sold late last week in one instance at 11¼c. for a lot of about one and a half tons. Tubs have been coming forward more freely. There was some demand for them for shipment in the latter part of last week, when some good straight yellows—anything else being thrown out—sold at 12c. to 13c. ; at the close there was not much doing in this line on the spot, but we understand that some dealers were buying lots outside at the above figures. It is said by some of our wisest old dealers that there will be little availability shortly, as with cheese at 9c. to 9¼c. at the factory, milk will pay better if sent there than if churned. On this point, however, we do not pretend to offer any opinion. The market closed quiet and steady at previous prices. Street receipts have fallen off somewhat, and pound rolls have recovered slightly closing at from 13c. to 15c.

CHEESE—Has sold steadily for local consumption at 9¾c. to 10c. for small lots of new ; there appears to be no old in the market.

PROVISIONS.

PORK—Exceedingly quiet and prices almost nominal at $15 to $16 for small lots.

BACON—Long-clear has sold quietly but steadily as before at 8½c. to 8¾c. for tons and cases, but no demand for trade lots heard ; Cumberland sold only for city consumption at 9½c. to 10c. for even single sides ; smoked meats in fair demand and steady prices ; rolls have sold at 10c. and canvassed at 10½c. ; backs scarce at 11½c. and bellies from 11½c. to 12c., the latter price being usually for boneless.

HAMS—In good demand and rather firmer; smoked have been going off in small lots at 11½c. to 12c., and canvassed have sold in lots of 100 at 12c. and 12¼c., and in small lots at 12½c., all sorts being wanted.

LARD—Has sold fairly well at unchanged prices ; imported has ranged from 9¾c. to 10½c., the latter for small pails ; and local make scarce and held firmly at 10½c. to 11c., the latter for small pails in small lots.

HOGS—Receipts have been small, but wants have been easily satisfied ; the general range has been $6.75 to $7.00, offerings probably sufficient.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

Trade has continued to be rather quiet.

HIDES—Green have been in fair supply and taken as before. Cured easier, with sales of car lots at 5c.

CALFSKINS—Few offered and few wanted of green ; no demand for cured, prices of which are nominal.

PELTS—Prices have been advanced five cents, and now stand at 20c. to 25c. with offerings rather limited.

LAMBSKINS—The best green have risen to 25c. to 30c., with receipts rather small but sufficient.

WOOL—New fleece has continued to come forward slowly, but when offered has been taken steadily. A few lots of good merchantable, from 1,000 to 5,000 lbs. each, have changed hands at 19c. to 20c., according to quality, and unwashed has sold at 10½c. to 11c. Real Southdown seems to have been wanted at 23½c. to 24c. ; but buyers and sellers frequently disagree as to what is Southdown, and dealers will pay these prices only for samples which pass muster according to their own standard. Pulled wools inactive.

SALT.

No movement reported in Liverpool of any sort, and prices of it nominal. Canadian has sold fairly well ; cars of bagged have sold as before at 63c., but barrelled easier with four cars sold at $1.27 ; dairy has gone off fairly well in small lots at $1.50 for sacks and 41c. for quarter sacks.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-knowr brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

Markets—Continued.

GROCERIES.

COFFEES.

There is no new feature to note in coffees. they still remain firm and scarce with a steady demand. In the New York market they are a shade higher, but it has not affected the markets here. Rio is somewhat easier.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are still weak with unchanged prices. There is a new supply of dates in the market, but the demand is very slow. They are bringing 6c. to 6½c. Old stock figs are being sold off at whatever price dealers can get for them ; there is a large supply in the market. Prunes are selling quite freely. A fine lot of Bosnias has been received, which are quoted at 6½c. to 8c. Valencia raisins have good sale at this season of the year, but the market is almost bare of them. Sultanas are very slow at present, the season for them is just commencing.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES

are quite active, syrup having advanced another ⅛c. since last report. Molasses remains unchanged.

TEA.

The past week has seen a fair trade on the local market. Orders from the country have been good, and dealers in consequence have been sorting up and replenishing their stocks. Inquiry has been principally for Japans, and stocks of old teas held on spot are quickly disappearing. The London market remains steady except for fine Monings, which are easier in consequence of the near arrivals of new teas, making owners anxious to realize on their last year's stock. The New York market has slightly improved, with a large business at satisfactory prices. To-day's mail advices from Japan report a heavy business has been done there, and prices fully maintained. Settlements at the port of Yokohama and Hiogo together about correspond to those of last year up to date. A feature in the tea market this week is the arrival of the S. S. Parthia at Vancouver from Yokohama, after the fastest passage on record, viz., 12 days, 19 hours.

CANNED GOODS.

The activity referred to last week still continues, the consumption being large, as evidenced by the frequency with which retailers have to replenish their stocks in some lines. While corn seems still to lead in the demand, the movement in peas and tomatoes also continues brisk. There are no goods being offered by packers, although a short time since all of them who held stocks were anxious sellers. This we take as one of the many proofs of the improvement in the situation before mentioned. Corn is quoted at 95c. to $1.10 ; $1 being now readily obtained. Peas, 95c. to $1.10. Tomatoes, 95c. to $1.10. Peaches, 2's, $2.10 to $2.25 ; 3's $3.10 to $3.25. Plums, $1.35 to $1.45. Blueberries, 1's, 85c.; 2's, $1.25. Raspberries, 2's, $2.45 to $2.55. Blackberries, 2's, $1.90 to $2.10. Pine apples, 2's, $2.40 to $2.50 ; extras, $3.00. Apples, 3's, 80 to 95 gallons, $2.10 to $2.25. Canned meats in good demand. Fish active at $1.70 to $1.75 for standard brands of salmon. White Fraser River is quoted at $1.60 to $1.62½.

SUGAR.

The week has developed even more strongly than before the remarkable strength of the sugar position, and with a large and increasing demand prices have again advanced. Granulated and all hard sugars have been advanced ¼c., and the lowest yellows are now firmly held at 7⅜c. to 7½c. at the refinery. In the United States the importers' stock is but 24,222 tons against 150,135 tons, a deficiency of 24,222 tons which last year existed in local stocks for refiners to draw against as their own supplies gave out. That prices will be higher is undoubted, the only question being now what point they may touch.

INEXCUSABLE CARELESSNESS.

Several weeks ago attention was called to the fact that retail merchants sometimes perpetrate atrocious blunders in the settlement of accounts with their wholesalers, by which they stand to lose considerable sums of money unless the recipient is blessed with more than common honesty. These mistakes often take the shape of overpayment of bills, or duplicate payments through forgetfulness and the neglect to keep a proper record of such matters. Many persons will read the above with more or less incredibility, but we speak by the card, as it were, and have looked into the matter so thoroughly that we have been astonished that such things could be.

Other blunders of quite common occurrence in some stores, include the duplicate delivery of goods, where regular customers call in person, take goods home with them only to find similar goods delivered at their homes later in the day. Of course only one lot of goods is entered to the customer's account and the merchant loses considerably by the operation. Carelessness quite as inexcusable is displayed in the delivery of goods quite different from the kind ordered. This form of blunder, though primarily less costly to the dealer than those previously mentioned, may ultimately lead to large indirect losses through customers becoming disgusted and transferring their patronage to establishments where business is conducted on business principles. Akin to the foregoing is the frequent entry of wrong goods in pass books—of goods never ordered and never delivered—or mistakes in entering the prices of goods. Often the consequences of such blunders, if undiscovered, fall upon the pockets of the customer instead of that of the merchant, but ultimately the latter bears the loss. His reputation is injured and his business suffers until he adopts better methods. Occasional errors will occur in spite of the most vigilant care, but system is an almost sure preventative, and cannot be dispensed with even in the smallest establishment, without loss to the proprietor.—Merchants' Review.

ADVANCES MADE ON STAPLE MERCHANDISE IN STORE.

ABOUT BUSINESS

A prominent feature in shops in Europe, and more especially in France and England, is some central or special object of attraction to customers, comprehending, probably, articles that are in common use. It serves a purpose in arresting the attention to the store that always makes a point to have some fresh attraction, consequently inducing a person to purchase, and at perhaps a very handsome percentage of profit.

There is nothing like enthusiasm and liking for a business for developing a man's abilities. Take a pursuit he is fond of, and it is hard to find a man who can beat him at it. Competition only makes him draw on his energies and resources. The greater the strain he puts on himself, the greater pleasure he derives.

The face reflects the inner self. Upon the countenance the inner emotions are plainly recorded. We read on each other's faces the motives moving in the mind. As a leaf that has written upon it surprises, pleasure, annoyance, hatred, every trait of a man's character marks itself upon his face and makes an impression upon every one. If a merchant carries his business losses and reverses in his face he becomes his own enemy. Many a man has been saved from insolvency by carrying a bold mien, expressive of success, and the courage sufficient to throw every shadow of suspicion from his face.

The men who have risen in the world have put all their strength, both of performance and self-denial, to do so, and have come to the front. The men of brilliant genius have been leaders and workers, toiling more laboriously than smiths and carpenters, and the reason why they have surpassed is because they have taken more pains than other men. It is true that nothing worth having comes easy, whether it be wealth, or culture, or training of any kind. Whoever would have these things must go through suffering and schooling to attain them.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SHIPPERS.

TO SHIPPERS OF ROLL BUTTER.

A practice that should be abolished by country shippers is that of working low grades of packed into roll, and packing them in with fresh made roll, with the intention of palming it all off as fresh-made. The deception is always detected, and such lots are invariably sold at same prices that low grades of packed command. Regarding packages, new tubs or hardwood boxes are the most desirable, and half-barrels or kegs will do equally as well, and these only should be used. Care should also be taken before putting the butter in packages, that all the sides and ends of the packages be lined with new white muslin, thus keeping the butter from defacement by touching the wood. A bad practice is putting the butter up in paper; this should not be done, as the paper sticks to the butter and damages the appearance. Each roll should be separately placed in a piece of new muslin cloth, washed in warm water to take out the starch, and thoroughly wet in good brine. The rolls should be of moderate size, and not too large. Then, again, the rolls should be of uniform colour, not packing the light and fresh-made with other that has been colored. Mark plainly on each package the correct tare (the gross weight is easily obtained), as it ensures quick returns after sale is made.

TO SHIPPERS OF DRESSED HOGS.

Now that the season for marketing dressed hogs has fairly set in, country shippers should pay special attention to the shipments thereof to this market. After they are properly dressed, too much care cannot be bestowed upon their selection, it being desirable that hogs of nearly equal weight and quality should comprise each lot; they ought then to be placed in clean cars, with a sufficient layer of straw at the bottom to prevent their being marked. Well-fatted, even, clean and bright-looking lots command a sale at top figures when buyers will not look at mixed and uneven lots, although they may be well-fatted. Each hog should have its weight neatly and distinctly marked upon it, and a list of weight of every shipment should be forwarded by mail as early as possible, so that no trouble may arise upon the arrival of the goods here. If shippers to this market will attend to the proper selection of light and heavy weights of good and proper qualities, they will be amply repaid for their trouble on the receipt of net proceeds of their consignments.

TO THE GROCERY TRADE.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

(OF LONDON), CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association,

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools: they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application

GROCERS SPECULATING IN REAL ESTATE.

For some years past there has been a great deal of speculation in real estate in this city and suburbs. Owing to the rapid growth of the city, in common with the whole Dominion, there has been a corresponding advance in the value of real estate. Men who a few years ago were poor are now worth thousands. This has induced many business and professional men to "go into" real estate. Those who have invested judiciously and have not taken a heavier load than they could carry, have made money. But a good many of them have not, and, in order to keep their payments up, they have drawn the money out of their business. This has crippled them, and, the returns not coming as quickly as they expected, they have in many cases been forced into liquidation. For a long time the grocers have not allowed themselves to be drawn into the stream, but within the past twelve months quite a number of them have "gone in." They have not been successful. Money has been withdrawn from business to an alarming extent and they have found a difficulty in meeting their payments at the wholesale houses. The consequence is that within the past few days there has been a movement on the part of wholesale merchants to withdraw support from those retailers who are not able to meet their payments through real estate investments. In some instances wholesale houses have had to take over real estate in payment of grocery bills. There has been more or less misrepresentation practised, not always intentional, however. A dealer is inclined to look upon a piece of land held by him as an asset, and although only ten per cent. is paid upon it, he considers himself worth the full amount. This some of them have done, and when the wholesale dealer investigated the matter he found that only two or three small payments had been made. We trust that grocers will take warning and not go into real estate to such an extent as to compel them to draw on their business to meet the payments. In these days competition is too close to permit them to do so.

THE GROCERS' PICNIC.

A meeting of the Picnic Committee of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held here Monday evening, when further progress was made in the arrangements. There is now no doubt that the coming picnic will be a greater success than any previous one. The wholesale merchants and manufacturers have been contributing liberally to the prize fund, but there are a number to be heard from yet. As previously stated, the event will take place July 24. The usual programme, printed in neat form, will shortly be ready for distribution. It will contain list of donors, prize list, regulations, etc.

TOBACCO SEIZURES.

A special to the Empire from Ottawa says: "The Inland Revenue Department has received a large batch of reports relative to the recent seizures of tobacco at Toronto. It is a departmental rule that all tobacco to be legally upon the market must bear the revenue stamp upon the package. Some years ago, when it was represented to the Minister that it was a hardship for small dealers to be compelled to purchase large packages of tobacco, a regulation was adopted whereby the departmental officers were authorized to stamp packages of very small quantity. It appears, however, that a certain Montreal firm refuses to sell chewing tobacco in other than large packages, so that small dealers purchasing, say half a package, may get that part which does not bear the revenue stamp. The Toronto dealers from whom the seizures have been made were duly warned that this tobacco was illegally on the market, but, upon the representations of the Montreal firm, they took no notice of the warning. The Minister stated to The Empire yesterday that there was no desire to harass dealers, but unless the packages bore the revenue stamps, the department had no proof whatever that duty had been paid. Small dealers had the remedy in their own hands by refusing to purchase from those firms who declined to put up the tobacco in sizes to suit the convenience of purchasers.

THE SUGAR SITUATION.

Willett & Hamlin, New York, in their weekly circular say:—"The week has developed even more strongly than before the remarkable strength of the sugar position, and the rapidity with which prices advance everywhere on the least demand. The holders of the remaining supplies in the world seem jealous of parting with it at any price almost. With only one buyer in the United States market since June 1, Muscovadoes have advanced 5/8c. per pound. What will occur when the other buyers are forced into competition for supplies, as they will be soon? Our refiners appears to have secured in all about 40,000 tons to 50,000 tons in Europe, which is small compared with what must be secured. Europe seems to be startled even at this amount drawn for them, and advanced prices again about 2s. or ½c. per pound. The United States advance has been 3/8c. on Muscovadoes and ¼c. on Centrifugals, for both spot and arrival. The advance in refined is equally rapid, say 3/8c. per pound for granulated, and in instances more for other grades, with a disposition to hold consumers in check, by declining sales of any liberal amounts. The question of price is fast becoming of secondary importance to question of supplies, of both raws and refined. A notable feature of the week is the further decrease of 11,261 tons in receipts from Cuba and news from the British West Indies that the season is closing with 15,000 tons less sugar for shipment from Trinidad than last season, and corresponding shortages from other islands. Thus far there has been no extraordinary decrease in the United States receipts (33,391 tons) under last year; but now interest does not consist in what we have received, but in what we have in hand and are to receive, and where it is to come from. The importers' stocks is but 24,222 tons, against 150,135 tons, a deficiency of 125,913 tons which last year existed in local stocks for refiners to draw against, as their own supplies gave out. The refiners have lost 5,585 tons for the week, and have now but 23,800 tons in excess of same time last year. A point which cannot be emphasized too much is apparent from these figures. The importers will have no local stocks, as they had last year to give the refiners, when the usual foreign supplies gave out; therefore the necessity for hunting the world for unusual supplies is many times multiplied, for the refiners' stocks must be maintained and increased to give them any security at all against an absolute dearth of supplies. They must not only fill the void of last year, but the increased void of this year, caused by the 125,913 tons minus of importers' stock. Only two sources are open for this, the East Indies and Europe, in both of which they must compete with European buyers. Beet sugar has now reached 25s. 6d. on its way to 30s., or say 1c. per pound advance still to come. Total stock in all the principal countries by latest mail and cable dates is 782,866 tons, against 1,062,466 tons at same time last year. A prominent planter and Senator of the United States writes that the drought has seriously injured the growing sugar crop of Louisiana. At the close refined is active, and we expect a further advance to-morrow. We hear one large grocer has just bought 30,000 barrels.

"The 'Trust' is not responsible for the advance in raw sugar. On the contrary, its policy from the start has been to depress raw sugar all in their power. We think it was the carrying of this policy to an extreme last year, which prevented a portion of the present rise from coming at that time, and intensifies the advance this year. The rise in sugar all over the world is simply the upward move which always succeeds a series of years of the downward wave, and as the situation was not grasped in season to remedy it by sufficiently increased crops of beet and cane sugar next year, the high prices must continue at least until the second season's crops. With the incoming of the new crops of sugar next November to February, there will no doubt be a reaction from the extreme prices reached previously, but to be followed by higher prices again in 1890."

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

AN IMPORTANT PRINCIPLE.

It is a well-known axiom, that all movements "follow the line of least resistance," which is only another way of saying that whenever a difficulty is met it will be avoided, if possible. This principle has an important bearing on the question of limited prices, which manufacturers would do well to consider. The forces of competition in the distribution of products were never so active as at present. Steam and electricity have so abridged time and space that these forces play upon each other constantly, and competition acts to extremes never before dreamed of.

The system of limited prices is an attempt to moderate unreasonable competition, and they have successfully done so in many lines of manufactured products. Distributors are willing to work on narrow margins of profit, but when it comes to distributing at a loss, they at once turn their thoughts to becoming manufacturers themselves, or what is similar in character, pushing brands which they control, in order that they may make a living profit. This is not only natural but it is right; the labourer is worthy of his hire.

It costs wholesale distributors, upon an average, not less than five cents, and retail distributors ten cents on every dollar's worth of goods they sell. There ought to be a margin of profit above this to cover the risks of doing business, and acquiring a moderate competency against sickness and old age.

If manufacturers do not wish to intensify the forces which work against the introduction of their brands, they will coöperate with the distributors of their goods to insure the latter a living. Manufacturers, distributors and consumers, all are alike entitled to be considered in the regulation of society, although at times legislators and others apparently lose sight of this, and act as if there was only one interest to be considered, and that the one which is most apparent to them at the time. It is well to look on all sides of a question.—[American Grocer.

BRAINS IN BUSINESS.

One secret of success in business—the secret, in fact, of success on a large scale—is to conceive of it as a matter of principles, not merely as a series of transactions. There are great merchants as there are great statesmen, and there are small merchants as there are small politicians, and the difference is very much the same in both professions. The small politician works by the day, and sees only the one small opportunity before him, the small merchant does the same thing—he is looking for the next dollar. The statesman, on the other hand, is master of the situation, because he understands the general principles which control events; this knowledge enables him to deal with large questions and to shape the future. The great merchant does the same thing, his business is not a mere money-getting affair, not a mere matter of barter, but a science and an art; he studies the general laws of trade, watches the general condition of the country, investigates present needs, foresees future wants, and adapts his business to the broad conditions of time and place. He puts as much brains into his work as does the statesman, and he ends by being not a money getter, but a large minded and capable man. An eminently successful business man, of statesmanlike quality, said the other day that the more he understood of life the more clearly he saw that it was all done on business principles. By which he meant, not only that the universe stands for the dollar, but that the universe is governed by unvarying laws, that promptness, exactness, thoroughness and honesty are wrought into its very fibre. On these business principles all life is conducted, if not by men, at least by that power which is behind man. It ought to be the ambition of every young man to treat his business from the point of the statesman, and not from that of the politician.

BARGAINS.

The wonderful gullibility of the public in the matter of bargains is well known to retail merchants of long experience and the knowledge is often used to increase their profits, but no branch of business equals the retail dry goods trade in familiarity with all the phases of frail human nature and in the quick resolve to take advantage of the same. It is, for instance, a common occurrence in many retail dry goods stores to place upon the bargain counter, sometimes at increased prices, all slow-selling articles, and such is the feminine appetite for bargains that rapid sales take place even at the advanced rates. An instance showing the peculiar fondness of the fair sex for bargains and their capacity for self-deception is related by the Grocers' Criterion as follows:—"The story is going the round of a retail dealer who obtained a rare bargain in ladies' hem-stitched linen handkerchiefs which he designed to sell at a fair profit at 25 cents each. On examination of the goods he determined not to give such value for so small a sum. Taking one-half this lot, he marked each handkerchief in the corner with a lead pencil 25 cents, and the other half of the lot, precisely the same style and quality, he marked in the same way 30 cents, and displayed the goods on his counter side by side. Imagine his surprise when he found that two out of every three of his lady customers selected the bargains at 30 cents, leaving him with the larger part of those marked 25 cents on his counter. As it was impossible to alter the marks from 25 to 30 without soiling the goods, he was actually compelled to purchase another invoice of the same lot to oblige the fair buyers who preferred to pay 30 cents for the article rather than 25 cents."

The foregoing incident shows clearly the many opportunities afforded the unscrupulous dealer to deceive the public. Is it surprising that the temptation is too great for the integrity of many merchants? Ninety out of every hundred consumers are entirely dependent on their tradesmen as regards the merits of goods, their ignorance preventing them from distinguishing quality except where a wide difference exists. [Merchants Review.

RETAIL MERCANTILE AGENCIES.

Judge Blanchard, of Ottawa, Ill., has decided that a Chicago retail commercial agency could put the name of a delinquent in the reference book of the agency. The judge decided that the agency was on an equal footing with Bradstreet's and Dunn's, and differed from them only in that the latter protected the wholesale, while the former protected the retail merchants against dishonest customers; and when a debtor would not pay his debts to one merchant there was no reason why he should be permitted to obtain credit from another by compelling the first merchant to keep silent as to his loss. This looks to us like a sensible decision, for we fail to see the justice of making one set of laws for those who report for wholesalers, and another for those who report for retailers. The difference in the trades is only one of degree, and a debt is a debt, whether owed by a retail merchant or by his customer.—[N. W. Trade.

A BOY IN A MODERN STORE.

A boy can do some things better than a man. These things are given to a boy to do, but boys who do them are scarce. The boy that does them well, and avoids annoying and hindering people is going to get on. If you take one thing at a time you will find it easy, and, before you know it, you will have mastered the art of being welcome as well as useful. That is the way to learn everything. Be ready, quick to hear, quick to move, light on your feet, silent, respectful, faithful, good-natured, speak with a pleasant voice, and keep out of everybody's way. Keep your hands, face and clothes clean, and your hair and finger-nails short. Have your handkerchief handy. THE MINER'S PIPE.

An extraordinary picture of one of the peculiar phases of a miner's life is drawn by a contemporary, as follows:

"Next to his wife and babies the coal miner loves his pipe," said a former worker in the Roslyn coal mines, but now a well-known politician. "He loves it so well that he never hesitates to shed his blood to save it. It is his one great comfort and solace down in the gloomy depths, and if he were as careful of himself as he is of his pipe, there would be less of fatality in the mines. If by some hard luck his pipe is broken—for the miner's pipe is in nine cases out of ten a clay one—he has a way of mending it that no other smoker would resort to. He takes the needle he carries for picking up the wick of his lamp and jabs it deep into his hand or arm. The blood flows quickly from the wound. The miner rubs the edges of the fractured pipe on the blood until they are coated with it, and then fits them together. The blood quickly dries, and no cement could have greater adhesion. I have known a miner's pipe to be mended in half-a-dozen different places with this blood cement. So, why shouldn't the miner love his pipe? Isn't he bound to it by peculiar ties of consanguinity?"

LATTER-DAY WARNINGS.

It appears to be a question whether the natural gas people are not hurrying up the end of the world, or at least of that part of it which is the field of their operations. In considering the question: "Is it safe to drill the earth too much?" Prof. Joseph F. Jones, in the Popular Science Monthly, assumes the earth to be a hollow sphere filled with a gaseous substance, called by us natural gas, and he thinks that tapping these natural reservoirs will cause disastrous explosions, resulting from the lighted gas coming in contact with that which is escaping. He compares the earth to a balloon floated and kept by the gas in the interior, which, if exhausted, will cause the crust to collapse, affect the motion of the earth in its orbit, cause it to lose its place among the heavenly bodies, and fall in pieces.

Another writer thinks that drilling should be prohibited by stringent laws. He, too, thinks there is a possibility of an explosion, though from another cause. Should such a disaster occur, "the country along the gas belt, from Toledo, through Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, will be ripped up to the depth of 1,200 or 1,500 feet, and flopped over like a pancake, leaving a chasm through which the waters of Lake Erie will come down, filling the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, and blotting them out forever."

Still another theorist has investigated the gas wells with telephones and delicate thermometers, and he announces startling discoveries. He distinguished sounds like the boiling of rocks, and estimated that a mile and one-half or so beneath the Ohio and Indiana gas field the temperature of the earth is 3,500 degrees.

This scientist says an immense cavity exists, and that here the gas is stored, that a mile below the bottom of the cavity is a mass of roaring, seething flames, which is gradually eating into the rock floor of the cavern and thinning it. Eventually the flames will reach the gas and a terrific explosion will ensue.

The practical inquiry, however, is, will this happen next year, or ten thousand years hence, or never? In the mean time, the drilling will go merrily on, and the final catastrophe will be left, along with the labour question and the plutocracy problem, for our children's children to wrestle with.

GENEROSITY TO JOHNSTOWN.

Probably no such outpouring of voluntary contributions for charitable purposes has been seen in this country since the Chicago fire in 1871 as that evoked by the late Johnstown catastrophe. The aggregate amount received from all sources for this purpose has considerably exceeded $2,000,000, and may probably reach $3,000,000. The calamity was so great in its proportions as to touch all hearts. Cities have vied with each other to see which could raise the largest amount, while corporations and individuals have responded most nobly to the call for relief from the suddenly distressed people of that terribly stricken city. The iron and steel and hardware interests have been prominently liberal in their contributions, recognizing a special claim on them through the long identification of Johnstown with the iron and steel trades. A generous Pittsburgh merchant showed the proper spirit by running his pen through all accounts on his book of sufferers by the flood in the Conemaugh Valley. The example was contagious, and was followed by nearly all.

A blacksmith, James Burns, claims to have discovered a process of welding copper. The method is quite similar to that employed in welding iron, the flux used being the important feature of the process. The composition of the flux is a secret. It is claimed that the weld is perfect, and as strong as any other section.

CANNED GOODS AN ATTRACTION.

The retail grocer of the present day can make his display more attractive and beautiful than could his compeer of a few years ago. It is not many years since, that the grocery store was a dull looking spot, without brightness or life. A person would as readily have studied a spelling book for poetry as to have visited a grocery to find beauty. Now this is all changed. The canned goods man, with his numberless and attractive labels, has appeared upon the scene. Mainly through his instrumentality the grocery store has become a thing of beauty, a joy forever. True, there are some labels that are anything but attractive, but even the worst of them, like the old lady with a red shawl in a painted landscape, adds a dash of colour to the picture.

One thing is very noticeable, there is a great advance in the pretty labels of to-day from those originally issued. More skill is shown by the designer, more workmanship by the printer. Some of the labels are especially beautiful. Others, alas, too many, still bear the marks of the early days of canned goods.

The grocer has all the colour in labels to contrast, to harmonize with each other, and his necessarily dull-looking general stock. Some storekeepers turn these advantages to the best account by making an admirable display of them. Others in turn do but place them upon the shelves in any manner just as they come to hand from the various cases.

Then, again, not only the vivid colouring of the goods, but the various styles and sizes to be taken into account.

Mankind is ever seeking for the beautiful. The nineteenth century has got nearer to finding it than any previous age. Various articles aside from canned goods, are now put up in an attractive manner. The canner must not be left behind in the race. Study the nature of the goods packed, procure a label in keeping with the contents of the can, have it executed in the best manner, the colouring, in some respect, to suit the contents. Keep ahead of the times in this respect and you not only keep the grocery more attractive, but you are teaching a lesson at the same time, besides getting your particular brands known to people of taste. Taste not only in æsthetics, but also for good and pure food, which is as essential a taste as is that of art. This is one of the things that the canner can afford to spend thought and money in, for depend upon it that the average purchaser would rather take a pretty looking, neatly put up article than, all things being equal, one that looks as though the packer was glad to be rid of the trouble.—[The Trade.

Thos. Johnston, produce and commission merchant, has moved from 70 to 78 Colborne Street.

WHOLESALERS VERSUS RETAILERS.

If our Newark friends think the retail grocers of this country, the conservative merchants, the organizers of retail trade associations will join and combine to "down" the wholesalers, they're mightily mistaken. The retail grocers are satisfied that more can be accomplished by working in harmony with the wholesalers than by fighting them. For years the Boston wholesale grocers have had a combination, fixing the price of sugar. This fact has been a benefit, not an injury, to the retail grocers. It has enabled them to issue a card price and obtain a profit on sugar. When the retailers are striving with might and main to establish a profit-giving basis of trade, can they consistently belabor the wholesale trade for doing the same thing? It is said that the reason why some women favor woman suffrage is a protest because they (the said women) were not created men. So it may, we fear, be said that these protesting retailers are grumbling because they are not wholesalers. There are real lines of demarcation in business. These grocers who talk of combining with the Grange are, in effect, but paving the way for co-operative stores all over the land. They are contributing to their own downfall. They most certainly will fall in the pit "they digged for t'other."

Against unjust exactions of the wholesale trade the retailer should protest; but to object to the wholesalers obtaining a fair profit on goods sold is childish. Do these retailers prefer to sell goods merely to benefit customers? Are they so thoroughly imbued with the milk of human kindness? The wholesaler must not sell to the consumers, they say, but we must buy where we please—no restrictions must be placed upon us or our trade. The wholesaler has no rights we are bound to respect—none at all.—[New England Grocer.

THE HAPPY MEDIUM.

There are three classes of buyers in trade one who buys too much, one too little, and the other who draws the line between the two, and strikes the happy medium. The first, as a rule, is always burdened with too much stock. Seasons come and go and his shelves are always filled with goods out of fashion and out of season. As a rule, he is always short of money, behind with his bills, simply because he buys too much.

The merchant who buys too little or too small a stock lacks knowledge of his trade, and loses custom by not keeping a sufficient supply on hand to meet the current wants of his customers. Over-cautiousness in this direction is almost as bad as over-buying. It often gives his competitors the means of supplying his regular customers. The good merchant will note what lines sell best, and consult with his clerks, or those at the head of the departments of his establishment.

We often hear customers say, "We would like to buy of Mr. So-and-So, but he buys such a small quantity of an article that there is no opportunity for selection, so we go elsewhere. Indeed, he is very careful about ordering goods." This class of merchants never build up nor do a large trade. They, as a rule, do a small business. Their over-cautiousness and lack of knowledge of the real wants of the trade of their sections prevent them from increasing sales.

The merchant who knows what to buy and how much to buy is the progressive and successful one. He studies his trade, comes to market often, never overloads, and gets as near a cash basis as possible. When bargains are presented to him he is quick to see the real one and to act accordingly. He buys for customers whose tastes he understands, and is regarded by his patrons, as well as by the jobbers, as the bright, keen merchant who keeps abreast of the times. He is in good credit and is a success in his line of trade.

HOW TO CUT BUTTER.

A correspondent of the New England Grocer gives the following advice to grocers and their clerks:

"How many clerks know how to cut butter properly? Very few, indeed, or if they do they do not enforce their knowledge in that direction. In my travels amongst the different stores I have noticed the different modes of cutting butter. You can always tell the experienced butter cutter; he will not have any pieces lying around, and he will not wipe his knife on the edge of the tub, and leave scrapings there every time he waits on a customer. Good butter cutters can cut a pound of butter nine times out of ten just to the ounce; but the inexperienced always cut over, and have many pieces lying around.

Always cut under and work up the pieces. If you are waiting on a man or woman, and cut over the amount they ask for, just mention it to them, and nine times out of ten they will take it and save you from cutting off; but when a child asks you for butter, give her just what she asks for. How uninviting it looks to see a tub of butter all covered with pieces, and where the knife has been scraped on the edge of the tub and left there. It don't represent good storekeeping.

Have your butter well iced and wired, and when cutting don't leave your ice chest open too long in warm weather. Have a place for your knife don't stick it in butter when not in use.

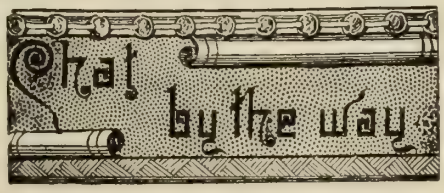
If your butter is turned out on slabs, as in a cold blast refrigerator, and the salt should make its appearance on the sides, take a clean cotton cloth and wet it, and wrap it around your butter every night, and it will look fresh every morning. But the best way to cut butter is right from the tub.

Butter should always be kept separate from everything else, as other goods are liable to change its flavor."

THE FRUIT AND VEGETABLE CROP.

Office of BAY OF QUINTE CANNING FACTORY,
PICTON, Ont., June 19, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—Anxiety on the part of the packers of canned goods prevails to know exact damage to the crops by the excessive rains and frost in May. I have visited during last and present week the different localities from which the canning factories draw their supplies in company with Messrs. Ferguson, of Delhi Canning Co.; Innis, of Simcoe Canning Co., and S. Fenton, St. Catharines Erie Preserving Co., and as all the members of our association are subscribers of THE GROCER, I send you report of the present state as we found them. Norfolk, in which there are three factories, Delhi, Simcoe and Waterford, was first visited. The present prospects are as follows: Simcoe—strawberries killed by frost, 50 per cent.; apples killed by frost, 75 per cent. Sweet corn, first planting all cut off, replanting second time at present; unless a very favorable fall, cannot be over half a crop; less than one-half planted than last year. Peaches and pears, badly injured. Peas, a fair crop. Delhi—the above applies as well, excepting in sweet corn, which, although cut off by frost, was replanted, some earlier land being higher than in the Lynn Valley, in South Riding. Very few tomatoes are grown in the country, and these few were cut off by frost. Aylmer—same report applies as to Delhi. Waterford—tomatoes of first planting nearly all cut off by frost. Sweet corn, same, nearly all to be replanted. Strawberries, about 25 per cent. destroyed. Raspberries, black, about 75 per cent. destroyed. Cherries, common, badly injured; English varieties not much injured. Pears and apples, a fair crop. Few plums grown here of any consequence. St. Catharines — inspected Lincoln county thoroughly, as a very large quantity of fruit is grown here, particularly peaches and grapes. In the vicinity of St. Catharines grapes are about all destroyed. The largest vineyard, 60 acres, Messrs. Barnes & Co., looks as if fire had passed over it, scarcely any left. Mr. Brodrick's, another large vineyard, completely destroyed. Near the lake shore some vineyards escaped. Peaches, hurt badly but will be a half crop. Plums, looking very well. Apples and pears, fair, but in some sections all gone. Strawberries, about 50 per cent. destroyed. Sweet corn, very little planted, the ground being wet, could not be walked over. Tomatoes, all early ones cut off, and very few are able to get plants to result. Peas, a good crop. Grimsby—the same report applies as to St. Catharines. Hamilton—Ontario Canning Co. pack principally tomatoes, which look better than I expected, although in some fields water nearly covers the plants. Many of the first plants were cut off, and many growers could not get plants to result. Lakeport, near Colborne—Mr. Mathews writes me tomatoes are over half destroyed. Corn, on low lands, all rotted in the ground; much will have to be replanted; not half the quantity can possibly be grown as was last year. Peas, a good crop. No beans planted. Strawberries, a good crop. Picton, Prince Edward County—was favored regarding frost, being surrounded by water, but suffered some by it. The strawberries in some localities cut off 50 per cent. Apples, not a large crop. Pears, good. Peas, in some localities, good. Sweet corn, badly rotted from excessive rains; much of it has to be replanted; not over half a crop from last year, under most favorable circumstances. Tomatoes, cut off badly by cut worm, in many cases had to be planted second and third times, and the extreme wet, cool weather has kept them from growing. Taking the crop as a whole, we drew the following conclusions: Sweet corn, less than one half of last year's crop. Tomatoes, possibly one-third of last season's crop. Peas, a good crop, present prospects. Fruits, I can scarcely determine; warm, favorable weather for next few weeks will make a great difference, but we need not fear such an apple glut as last year. Peaches and pears, not a large crop. Small fruits, only a small crop. I am, yours truly, W. BOULTER, Pres. C. P. A.



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—
592 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Mr. T. Lawlor, Whitby, in sending in his subscription to THE GROCER, says he would not give it up if it cost $4.

The editor of the American Grocer, Mr. F. N. Barrett, goes to Southern California for a short holiday. He is a most indefatigable worker, and his vacation is a well deserved one. We hope he will thoroughly enjoy it.

Mr. T. S. Corrigan, who has been in the grocery business in Port Perry for a number of years, has opened out in the same business at the corner of Yonge and Alexander Streets, under the style of T. S. Corrigan & Co. Mr. C. is a shrewd and thorough business man, and is death on the "cutting price" system.

The failure of W. H. Shaw, grocer, Marmora, has culminated in his indictment at the quarter sessions, Belleville, but some flaw in the arrest papers at Marmora gave him time to skip to the States. Through the energetic push of a leading wholesale house in Central Ontario, the creditors are likely to receive sixty-five to seventy cents on the dollar, where forty was offered. The facts that came to light in this transaction showed grave crookedness, hence the indictment.

The Secretary of the Retail Grocers' Association desires to thank those firms who have so generously replied to his circular calling for donations towards the prize list for the coming picnic, which, as soon as complete, will appear in these columns, as well as in the official programme. The programme is now in course of preparation, and the picnic promises to exceed that of last year. The holiday of 1888 was a grand success, and the committee are working hard to make that of 1889 eclipse all former efforts.

The Longford Manufacturing Co'y, of Orillia, Ont., are now very busy supplying orders for their goods. They have only been in operation about eight months, and have turned out a large lot of woodenware, and the promoters of the enterprise have every reason to be satisfied with the business they have so far done. Their goods can be found all over the Dominion, and wherever they have been handled have given good satisfaction. They make a specialty of lard tubs, candy pails and butter tubs, and already have supplied some of the largest dealers with their entire stock. Their Toronto agent, Mr. R. S. McIndoe, 20½ Front Street East, has disposed of a lot of their goods, and reports every purchaser as being pleased with them. Messrs. Leishman, Maundsell & Co., of Woodstock, Ont., are the Western agents, and these gentlemen carry a stock on hand, and can supply any quantity of pails, tubs, etc., at the shortest notice.

In the International Series Counter Check Books, manufactured by Morton & Co., 3 and 5 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, merchants are guaranteed in their use by letters patent. Samples are furnished free of the best check book yet introduced. Thousands now in use.

THE MARKETS

TORONTO, June 28, 1889.

GROCERIES.

Trade has been only fairly active during the present week. There is not nearly as much business doing as during the early part of the month. Payments are fair. Sugars are the only article on the list that show any activity, and the demand for these is now slackening up.

CANNED GOODS.

Demand has not been so active excepting for tomatoes, which continue to sell freely but in small lots at 85c. to $1. Corn is selling at 90c. to 95c. and peas at 85c. Peaches are in fair demand at $2.90 to $3.15 for gallons and $2.10 to $.25 for 3's. A good many blue plums have been worked off at 90c. to $1. Lobsters are scarce and firmer; some houses are out of stock and waiting for new, which will be worth more money. Star is held at $1.75 on spot and $1.80 is the price quoted for new, with ordinary brands at $1.60 to $1.75. Canned meats are very firm, and it is generally believed that the American packers have made an agreement as to prices. This, it is believed, was the cause of the recent advance, and there is every probability of another in the near future.

COFFEES.

Outside markets are easier, but on the spot there is no change as stocks are light, and holders will not shade prices. Rios are selling at 20c. to 22c.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are quiet at previous prices; best brands in barrels are quoted at 5¼c., but low grades can be bought at 4¾c. to 5c. A shipment of Perfect Gem Vostizzas in half cases has arrived, and is offered at 6½c. to 7c. Dates are quiet at 6c. for Hallowee. Figs are dull, with natural selling in 60 lb. boxes at 4c. to 5c. per lb. Prunes are selling quite freely at 4c. to 4½c. in hdds., 4½c. to 4¾c. in keys, and at 7½c. to 8c. for fine Imperial in cases. Valencia raisins are in active demand; some houses are completely out of stock, and are buying on the street at 6½c.; retailers lots are quoted at 6c. to 6½c. Sultanas are dull at 6½c. to 7½c. according to quality.

GREEN FRUIT.

The green fruit trade shows only the conditions previously noted. There is a fairly good business doing, but the demand would doubtless be more pronounced were the weather more favourable. The late rainy weather cannot but have prevented to some degree a freer sale of fruit. General supplies are not overmuch, but are ample for the requirements of trade, and not a great deal of fresh stuff is coming forward. Oranges have suddenly become quite scarce on account of the warm weather the past few days and the price has advanced. A moderately large trade is doing in lemons, but they show no new feature. In both pineapples and bananas a satisfactory movement is reported. Quotations are: Valencia oranges, $10 to $12 per case; Messina oranges, $6 per box; lemons, $3.50 to $4.50 per box; bananas, $1.25 to $1.75 per bunch; pineapples, $1.75 to $2.50 per dozen.

TEA.

The past week has been a quiet one on the local market, with not much demand and very little business to chronicle. A few transactions have taken place in blacks and Japans. Low grade Japans are in request, but there are few or none to be had, and they are likely to be scarcer this season than in previous years. Samples of the first new Monings of direct shipment have been shown on this market this week, and the quality is very good. Referring to these Monings, a private letter says: "There has been the most extraordinary demand ever seen from Russian buyers for all kinds suitable for their wants, particularly non-tarry teas, which have therefore brought higher prices than would otherwise have been the case considering the very depressed state of the London market. The quantity available for England, United States and Canada will be beyond all precedent extremely small, and, considering the very excellent quality of the teas, we think prices will prove to be fully warranted. The London market remains unchanged, with no new feature to report. Trade has been quiet in New York, with very small offerings at the auction rooms. The new Formosa Oolongs so far shown have been of rather undesirable quality, but later shipments are expected to show an improvement. Although prices have declined somewhat in China, they are still about paying figures for this market. Last auction showed a falling off in prices for all descriptions. It is estimated by one large house that there will be a shortage in Japans this year of from four to five million pounds, owing to the legislation on the part of the government there against the production of low grade teas. Latest cables from Japan report teas below grade of fine as somewhat stronger. The settlements of Formosa to date are also reported at 60,000 half chests.

SUGARS.

The market is very firm but there is not any change in wholesale prices from a week ago in the range of quotations. Refiners have, however, advanced all prices, both granulated and yellow, ⅛c. Wholesale prices of white sugars will advance ⅛c., and it is not improbable ¼c. on Saturday. Granulated is moving at 9½c. to 9⅝c., and yellows are going from 7½c. up in retailers lots. Bright yellows are very scarce and in demand. In raws there are a few lots of Trinidads offering at 7½c. to 7⅝c. in bags that would cost 8c. to lay down with prices on their present basis.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Are dull but feeling is firm. Prices are nominally unchanged.

PETROLEUM.

Prices this week remain steady and unchanged. Business is of fair proportions. Canadian refined, per gal. 13c.; Carbon safety, per gal. 16c. to 17c.; Water white, Canadian, per gal. 19c. to 20c.; Water white, American, per gal. 24½c. to 25c.; Photogene, per gal. 27c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The present week has been quite an improvement in the butter market. Receipts have been light and the demand has improved. Most of the lots that have covered the floors of local commission houses for the past few weeks have disappeared. Many of them were taken en bloc by speculators, who are holding for an advance. Values are a shade higher. Most of the offerings are store and dairy tubs. The general run have sold at 13c. to 14c., with a few selections at 15c. Very few large rolls are coming forward, but these are all wanted at

☞ The review of the markets published in the GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER is based upon information gained from personal application to both seller and buyer, as far as possible and quotations here given reflect, in most cases, the actual prices paid.

14c., with choice at 15c. and refrigerator boxes at 16c. There are, however, a good many inferior rolls sent to market in this way, and buyers are rather afraid of them now unless they contain the mark of some reliable shipper. A few lots of pound rolls have come forward and have sold at 16c. Bakers have been buying low grades about 12c. to 12½c. No shipping demand is reported.

CHEESE—Dull and unchanged. Dealers are getting 9c. for good medium in small lots and 10c. for choice.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Green are pretty well cleared out. A few small lots have been sold at $3; inquiry is fair. For dried apples there is a better demand, and prices are a shade firmer. Consignments are selling at 3c. to 3¼c.; a lot of about ¼ ton sold last week at 3¼c. In small lots dealers are getting 3½c.; outside holders are asking 3¾. There is a good inquiry from outside points for lots, evidently on speculation. Evaporated apples have also improved; a lot of 100 boxes sold last week at 5½c., and the seller refused that price for 100 more. Small lots are selling at 6c. to 6½c.

BEANS—Demand has again picked up, and the market is firmer; there is a good inquiry and very few are offering. Small lots are selling at $1.50, but some holders are asking $1.60 to $1.70. There are rumors of a probable short crop this year, but so far these lack confirmation.

EGGS—The market is dull. The association continues to supply the local demand at 11½c. Other dealers are getting 12c. to 12½c., but they are not selling many. They are buying from the peddlers at 12c.

HAY AND STRAW—Receipts of hay are light but they are sufficient for the demand. Timothy is selling on the track mostly at $12.50 to $13, and an occasional car brings $13.50. Inferior sold at $9. Straw normal at $7 to $8.

HIDES AND SKINS—Hides dull and unchanged at 2¾c. to 4¾c. for green. Pelts are being taken at 25c. and lambskins at 30c. Calfskins are worth 5c. to 6c.

HOPS—Dull and unsalable. Holders are offering good new at 22c.

POTATOES—Firm and in demand. Cars on the track are worth 40c. to 45c., and sales were made outside at Uxbridge at 40c. f.o.b. On the spot dealers are selling out of store in small lots at 55c. to 60c.

TALLOW—Dull at 1¾c. to 2c. for rough.

WOOL—Receipts are increasing. All offering are taken at 20c. for good merchantable combing and 22c. to 23c. for fine clothing or Southdown.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—Inquiry has been better, but it is hard to get any improvement in prices. Local millers have been selling about the same as before. Extras are held at equal to $4.20 here, and rollers have sold at equal to $4.40.

WHEAT—In more active demand; prices are higher and firm at the advance. On the Northern there were sales of white yesterday at 94c. and to-day at 96c. Spring sold on the Midland at 98c.; red is worth the same. Manitoba is firmly held at $1.12 for No. 1, $1.09 for No. 2, and 90c. for No. 1 frosted.

BRAN—Steady and in fair demand, with sales on the track at $10 in car lots. A good export demand continues.

BARLEY—Nominal.

PEAS—Quiet. A few sales are reported as having been made at outside points at 53c. to 53½c.

OATS—Are firmer and more active. No. 2 mixed are selling on the track at 31c. to 31½c., and heavy white at 32c. to 32½c.

OATMEAL—No car lots moving. Small lots are selling about $4 to $4.50 for rolled, $4 for granulated, and $3.80 for standard.

PROVISIONS.

Dressed hogs are steady and in good demand. There are very few coming in from Canadian points, but these few find a ready sale at $7 per cwt. Local packers are importing carloads from Chicago. There continues to be an inquiry for the product, especially smoked meats, and prices are generally firm. Mess pork is dull, and local holders have been cutting prices to enable them to realize on their stock; sales have been made at $15 to $16. There is a fair demand for long clear bacon at 8½c. to 9c. Smoked meats are selling freely and packers have some difficulty in keeping up with orders. Hams are selling at 12c.; breakfast bacon at 11½c. to 12c., backs at 11½c. and rolls at 10½c. Lard steady at 9½c. for American in tins, 10c. in large pails and 10½c. to 11c. for small pails.

The Cincinnati Price Current says the week's packing returns again show a liberal movement of hogs in the West, aggregating 275,000 handled by packers, against 285,000 the preceding week, and 225,000 for corresponding time last year, making a total of 3,275,000 since March 1, against 2,770,000 a year ago—increase this season, 505,000 hogs. Eastern shipments smaller than a year ago. Prices were quite well sustained during the week, the variation from day to day for most of the period being unimportant, but at the close they ruled easier, about 10c. per 100 lbs. lower than a week ago. There is a continuance of excellent quality of stock being marketed, and probably as little of complaint of disorders or plague among swine as in any year for a long period. Prices have been especially remunerative to feeders all the season, with indications of a continuance of the same. The supply will probably be relatively liberal for some weeks, although likely to be in a somewhat diminishing quantity, so that with the competition among buyers, a maintenance of prices is to be expected until toward the close of the summer season. In the provision trade there has been a fairly good seasonable distribution of product during the week, particularly in sugar-cured meats. The speculative interest has been moderate, the liberal marketing of hogs proving a discouraging feature to such operators. Notwithstanding the liberal manufacture of product during some weeks past, there is no indication of inconvenient accumulation, and prices are held at a low point more from sentiment growing out of the disparity between prices of corn and hogs than from any really discouraging condition of affairs in the trade. During the week values at Chicago have been comparatively steady, the fluctuations being within a moderate range, showing more of weakness at the close than on previous days, with prices a little lower than a week ago. The export movement of product was fairly liberal for the week, exceeding corresponding time last year in both meats and lard. The comparison of total exports since March 1 is as follows :

Meats, pounds.....	143,000,000	106,000,000
Lard, pounds.....	97,000,000	78,000,000
Total product, lbs...	240,000,000	184,000,000

The gain in exports of product is 30 per cent. compared with last year. The gain in packing since March 1 is 18 per cent. in number of hogs, with an increase in average weight of probably 8 per cent. The shortage in stocks of meats in the West on March 1 compared with last year was over 6 per cent.

MONTREAL, June 27, 1889.

CANNED GOODS.

The market for canned goods has been more active under a better demand, and a larger volume of business has been transacted. Stocks in second hands have been well reduced, in fact there has been a scarcity of some lines of fruit and prices are higher. Some arrivals of new lobsters have been offered which met with a ready demand at $1.50 for lots, and $1.60 for small quantities. Salmon has ruled firm at $1.70. The demand for tomatoes has been good and some round lots have sold at 90c. to 95c. The feeling in corn has been firm and sales have been effected more freely at $1 to $1.40, with Yarmouth corn up to $1.75. Peas have ruled quiet and steady at $1.10 to $1.20. There has been more enquiry for fruit, and some fair sized lots have changed hands. Peaches sold at $2.15, Bartlett pears at $1.90, strawberries at $1.65 to $2, pineapples at $2.25 to $2.35, plums at $1.50 to $1.75 and apples at $1 per dozen. There has been an active demand for canned meats, and the market has ruled active with a brisk business at firm prices.

SUGAR.

Since our last the sugar market has continued strong, and a further advance of ⅛c. has been scored on granulated, while yellows have ruled firm. Late advices from abroad have been strong on the raw article, and cables to-day from London note an advance of 3d. on cane and 6d. on beet. The tone here is strong, and refiners are looking for higher prices soon as stocks of refined sugar are not large. The demand has been slow and the market has ruled quiet with only a small volnme of business at the advance on account of the fact that jobbers have good stocks on hand for the present. Granulated has sold at 9¼c. and yellows at 7¼c. to 8¼c. at the factory.

SYRUP.

There has been more enquiry for syrup and the market has been fairly active and firm in sympathy with the strong sugar markets. Stocks in refiners' hands are light, as both are sold out and the bulk is now held by two firms. The feeling has been firm and sales of some round lots have been made at 4c. to 4½c.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

Markets—Continued.

MOLASSES.

There has been no new feature in the molasses market, the demand having fallen off as buyers seem to have filled their wants for the present and the market has ruled quiet but firm, and we have not heard of further important sales, but holders are asking for cargo lots 48c. to 48½c., with small lots up to 49c. to 50c. for Barbadoes.

FRUIT.

The receipts of most lines of fresh fruit have been liberal for which the demand has been good and the market has ruled active and firm for most lines. The demand for oranges has been good and the supply of cased lots is now light and prices have been firmly held at $9. Lemons have met with an active demand at $4 to $4.50 per box. The offerings of pineapples have been large, for which there has been a fair inquiry at $1.50 to $3 per dozen. Strawberries have been coming in freely and prices have declined to 9c. to 10c. There has been no change in Valencia raisins and prices have ruled steady at 5¾c. to 6c., with currants at 4½c. to 5c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

There has been no improvement in the tea market, business having continued quiet under a slow demand, as buyers generally both here and through the country have ample supplies on hand for the present. The offerings are fair, but holders do not feel very anxious to sell, as the tone of the market is firm, with prices well maintained. In coffee business has been fairly active, there being a good demand for small lots at firm prices.

RICE.

Trade has been quiet and less active, but prices have continued firm and well held. London advices are easier, but the news from primary markets has continued firm. Ordinary, $3.70 for car lots; Japan, 4c. to 4¼c.; Patna, 4¾c. to 5c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

There has been a better business in flour, and trade has been more active than for several weeks back, which has tended to reduce stocks perceptibly. There has been little shipping business, however. Prices have had a steady and uniform tone, and show no important fluctuation, the feeling being steady to firm at the close.

The grain market has been moderately active, but without special feature. Wheat has been well maintained, with offerings light and holders firm. Peas have ruled weaker, and have declined 1c. to 2c., while oats and barley have remained unchanged.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Butter has continued uninteresting and as exporters are not in the market trade has to run on local account only. Prices have an easy tendency, and are quoted about 1c. lower than last week. Creamery, 18c. to 19c.; Townships, 16c. to 17c.; Morrisburg, 15c. to 16c½.; Brockville, 15c. to 16½c.; Western, 13½c. to 14½c.

TO THE GROCERY TRADE.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

(OF LONDON), CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association,

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools: they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application

W. MACGREGOR, 119 Front St., New York.

The cheese market has ruled lower, having reached ⅜c. to ½c. from the highest of the bulge. To-day, however, the market has a stronger tone and an active business was done, up to 9¼c. for 2,500 boxes of a leading combination. Cables, however, were not good, but certain operators have to maintain prices here to afford an opportunity to work off former purchases. Finest colored, 9¼c.; finest white, 9⅛c.; medium to fine, 8¼c. to 9c.

EGGS.

Under smaller receipts and lighter stocks eggs have latterly shown a tendency to stiffen. Prices have gained ½c. on the week to 13½c. to 14c. per dozen.

HOG PRODUCTS.

The market has been fairly active with sales chiefly in small lots. Stocks of Canada short cut pork have been well depleted and holders of the remainder now ask $1 advance. Lard and meats have remained steady.

LOOKING FORWARD.

In a recent short and pleasing story by an English writer of note there is introduced to the reader the case of a young German who has left his home with the determination to study and acquire English business methods. He arrives in London, articles himself to an influential and established commercial house at a remuneration so small that it would be possible for no one but a German to convert pound, shilling and pence into proportionate parts of maintenance with a positive margin for a rainy day. He acquires proficiency in a majority of the continental languages, thus of value to distant correspondents of his employers. During all this time, while closely attentive to his duties, he possesses himself of methods and information which shall some day stand to him as so many pounds sterling. To make a long story short, there is that in his language, when explaining his position to a friend of his, which has furnished the theme for our sketch. It is this: "Do you think that I shall be content to remain here as a clerk?"

Whatever was the future success of the young German, we are not further informed. Suffice it that we have his comment, and that it may assist us to so improve opportunities and stimulate activity as to enhance our present condition and make us worthy and successful in all the serious and responsible business of life we may be called upon to engage in. We presume there is not one clerk among all the grocers' establishments which the American Grocer reaches who is not desirous of improving his condition, of looking forward to the time when he shall have worthily succeeded to his employer's holding or have launched out as a youthful competitor. If there is such a one, we beg to say to him, in all kindness, that a grocer's life is not for him, that the rank and file of his fellow-employees will not regard him as a worthy addition, that he will be a hindrance to them and a source of dissatisfaction to his employers, that the duties of a grocer's assistant call for continued activity, of keen watchfulness as to detail, for more than ordinary intelligence, for gentlemanly and courteous bearing towards superiors, inferiors and equals; in short, to endeavour towards such perfection that his employer might be heard to say of him: "I don't see how I could dispense with that young man's services," or words of similar import.

We will take the requisite of intelligence alone from the number we have mentioned above as illustrative of one of the means to beget confidence and secure the regard of the customer. Questions such as these, for instance, are asked: "Why are Vostizza currants superior? Where is tapioca found, and how is it prepared for market? What are the merits of Assam tea, and where is Assam? Why is the Mocha coffee berry so unsightly?" When the customer comes to you for information of this order, are you prepared to offer him an intelligent answer? When an order is sent in for some French peas, you send him a tin of Champignons or Haricots zeits. Madame, who is a good customer, is much displeased with the error; she wished them for dinner. The grocer or his assistant is profuse in his apologies, the delivery boy is posted in great haste, if possible to remedy the matters. Has it happened before? No doubt of it. Well, how can it be avoided in the future? Does someone suggest that the easiest way out of the woods will be to place the peas in one part of the store and the mushrooms in another?

The writer, in conclusion, begs to suggest that the grocers' assistants of this country can in no way advance their own interests in every sense of the word and arrive at a conscious satisfaction which will not appear in the weekly stipend, better than by following the advice of an inspired writer: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with all thy might." E. H. RENBREIT.

DELIVER GOODS PROMPTLY.

"Prompt delivery of orders is a special feature of my business," said one of the largest city grocers. "During the early part of my business career I found that every little while customers withdrew their patronage, and it never dawned upon my mind that the cause was one which I could have easily remedied. Some ten years ago I received a note from a lady patron, finding fault that I had not delivered her order for nearly four hours after it had been promised. In the note she stated that she knew of several friends who had quit trading with me on account of failure on my part to deliver goods ordered on time. This set me to thinking, and I resolved to arrange my business so that there should be no more complaints on that score. I immediately hired extra help, and from that day to this I have had no trouble. Many grocers do not know how much customers appreciate prompt delivery of goods purchased. If you are a housekeeper, and expect to have a 12 o'clock dinner, you cannot wait for your grocer to send your potatoes, canned goods, etc., ordered, until it is too late to use for that purpose. I know that grocers who are not particular in this regard lose many customers. Better employ help enough to get orders out in good season. It will pay you, and save a good deal of bad temper on the part of your customers." — [Observer, in Grocers' Advocate.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

TOBACCO SEIZURES.

"The Minister of Inland Revenue has instructed the collector at Toronto to inform those tobacco dealers from whom seizures have recently been made that he will not take harsh measures against them. All those who are willing to compromise by the payment of a nominal penalty will be allowed to do so, but those dealers who claim that they have not been guilty of an infraction of the law will have to bow to the decision of the courts. The Minister says that he has no desire to harass any person doing business with the department, and is glad to find that many of those who claimed that they were within the Act have since admitted that they were mistaken, and have asked to have their cases disposed of similar to the majority." So says an Ottawa despatch. This is a rather strange way of settling the case. Surely the department intends to take some means for the protection of small dealers. If the law is that all tobacco must be sold in original packages, then why not require manufacturers to put up small enough packages to suit the retail trade. This is but fair. Formerly they were allowed to sell tobacco in any shape. A complaint was made by one of the manufacturers, Mr. McDonald, of Montreal, we believe, that tobacco was being sold by retailers from his boxes on which the duty had not been paid. At his solicitation the Government ordered that tobacco must, in future, be sold from the original packages. This, as all our readers know, is decidedly unfair to the retail merchant. The action of the Government in thus ruling for the protection of the manufacturers was quite proper; but they should, at the same time, order that manufacturers must put the tobacco up in packages to suit the smallest dealer.

COOD BUTTERMAKINC.

Country storekeepers will no doubt be interested in the following advice regarding buttermaking, which we clip from the American Agriculturist for July, inasmuch as quantities of the staple pass through their hands, and the better the quality the more profitable the handling of the article:

It may be A.D. 1915 before the co-operative creamery, in some of its forms, will have superseded farm buttermaking, however desirous we may be of its earlier adoption by dairy people in general. In the interval an immense amount of butter will continue to be made at the farm homes. That this butter would make a motley collection, as in the past, none can dispute, but there is, after all, a constantly increasing amount of good butter put upon the market. If people could be induced to discard their individuality in making, and adopt some few, definite rules, so that buttermaking could have system and sameness about it, there would be a great advance made. Too few realize that their way of making is not the method by which the butter is made which brings the highest price. No one is selling butter now at advance and paying prices who still clings to "grandmother's" way of making. Neither does the market put a premium on butter made from actively sour cream, nor butter with pronounced buttermilk flavour, or made sharp with over-salting. Butter, to bring a high price, must be made of cream not over thirty-six hours old, slightly acid. It must be washed free from buttermilk with weak brine, and salted not to exceed three-quarters of an ounce to the pound. Butter also needs to be packed in some of the cheap but tasteful packages now obtainable, and sent to the market immediately. Long-keeping butter is no longer called for. Butter is made to sell, not to keep, and the consumer says, "to eat fresh, not held until devoid of flavour or aroma." The great evil is that so much butter is made by those who have so few cows that they cannot make a specialty of fine buttermaking, and make as best suits them. This butter, made from old and often fermenting cream, is at the start destitute of butter flavour. It is not washed free from buttermilk, but "worked over" with ladles, "balled up," and sent to the grocery store, unprotected from the light and air, and then consigned to the "shoe box." When at last, weeks, maybe, though it should only have been days at the most, this butter finds its way to the city market to be rejected and neglected, it is finally sold for a few cents per pound, and actually scoffed at by the proscribed oleomargarine.

This making an originally good material into a low-priced, objectionable article, that does not attract, but lowers the price and lessens consumption, should be stopped. It is both unprofitable and unbusinesslike. The market wants good butter, and discards poor. Why, then, insist upon furnishing the latter? If one cannot make a fine article and get a good price for it, either change methods, quit the business, or, what is better, patronize a co-operative creamery. There the material of a whole neighbourhood can be massed, rules of production adopted so that substantial uniformity will be secured, and a final product turned out that finds its way—at popular prices, to consumers of good butter. The one is money losing; the latter is money making? Which shall be the choice?

VALENCIA RAISINS.

A Denia letter reviewing the Valencia raisin crop for 1888, says: "It seems pretty well settled now that in future we must not reckon upon our crop of raisins till September is over. Every season we have storms of rain, earlier in the season every year, with the accompanying damage to the crop and consequent deficiency of prima facie estimates. So it has been in the season just closed. We all expected a large crop, but the heavy storms of rain we had early in September reduced it to less than 30,000 tons. Therefore we have only turned out a small crop. And yet, notwithstanding the shortness of the yield, prices have been low all along in the foreign markets. No doubt, fears about the quality, the competition of the California fruit, and the crisis business generally suffers all over, have had a great deal to do with this state of things. But still, all these causes are not actually sufficient to explain why our raisins should have undergone so much depreciation abroad, especially in America. There is another cause which seems to us the real pivot to this lamentable result, viz.: the extraordinary consignments of our farmers to New York. Of course, our farmers have the idea yet that anything, however bad, does for America, and they have shipped rubbish of some sort or other under the name of off stock. This stuff brought the market down and damaged the prices of good fruit all round.

These consignments to the American markets, which have actually been the extraordinary event of the season, if persisted in would certainly change the mode of business with America, and, therefore, it is not to be wondered at that some New York houses, believing the problem already settled, should now think only of consignments. But we rather believe the bad result generally to those who have speculated will refrain them from consigning another season, and so let things stand as they were previously. American importers and dealers must not lose sight of the fact that our business farmers pick the fruit. Their best ones go, and will ever go, to London, where fancy prices are paid for nice small parcels, and therefore they will only send to America second-rate fruit if packed in layer, or actual refuse if packed in off stock style. For the American markets to be provided with nice prime layers and good, sound off stock, they must have recourse to our leading packers, those whose brands are well known and have justly got a name; and these packers, to be sure, will not enter into a speculative business.

Prices started at $4 for sound fruit, and kept oscillating between $4 and $3 all through the season, the latter figure being the prevailing one at the close. The average of the season for good raisins has been $3½, and for indifferent mixed fruit $2.

Our crop was early enough, and shipments commenced about the same date as the previous year, viz.: the 17th of August, but with the extraordinary circumstance that the first steamer for New York, the Assyria, left at the same time as the first steamers for London and Liverpool a thing which had never occurred before.

Rain-damaged fruit has not been so freely mixed for packing as in the last season, owing to the fact that this season the damaged fruit was so really damaged generally that it was only fit for distilling purposes. We estimate that out of the 30,000 tons the crop has yielded, only 20,000 tons were sound.

PROFITS IN DRIED APPLES.

One or two local dealers have just made some good sales of dried apples. After a long period of dulness and low prices a demand sprang up. The dealers in question had a hint and bought nearly all the spot stock at old prices, namely, 2¾c. to 3c. For some lots, however, as high as 3¼c. to 3½c. was paid. These have nearly all been resold for shipment at 3¾c. to 4c. Most of the stock has gone to the Maritime Provinces. The market is now very firm as there is every prospect of a light crop of apples this season in both the United States and Canada. A good many holders are carrying their stock over to next season. Evaporated have shared to some extent the improvement. Sales have been made at 6c. to 6⅛c. for round lots, and at 6½c. for smaller quantities. A good many of the holders are asking 7c. for choice quality.

ANOTHER SALT SYNDICATE.

As our readers know, the firm of Rightmeyer & Co. have control of the majority of the salt wells of Canada. As soon as they had completed all necessary arrangements they made a large advance in the prices. A few days ago this firm issued a circular announcing a further advance of 5c. to take effect July 1st. It is said, however, that the object of this was to unload as much salt as possible before another syndicate, in which Montreal parties are interested, took possession. It is said that the new syndicate will have control of all the wells, and that they will operate only the best, and will conduct their business at the least possible expense. By this means they hope to reduce the cost of salt to the lowest possible point.

DRIED FRUIT CROP PROSPECTS.

Reports are now beginning to arrive regarding the new crop Mediterranean fruits. Valencia raisins promise well, but in view of the bareness of the market they anticipate rather high opening prices. It is believed, however, that moderately low prices will prevail during the season. The crop of Malaga raisins will be short, many of the vines having been destroyed by the phyloxera.

Present indications are that the crop of currants will be less in quantity than last year, but the quality is expected to be fine and opening prices will be moderate.

This week's mail advices spoke very favourably of the outlook for new crop Turkish prunes, both as regards quality and quantity. Trieste shippers looked for low prices, but a cable received yesterday by Bendelari & Co. say the growing crop has been damaged by rain, in consequence of which present supplies are held at higher prices and purchases are recommended.

Smyrna advices of June 14 say Eleme figs promise a good crop, having had a favourable winter. C. Whittall & Co. write that Sultana raisins have suffered from hailstorms in some districts and the crop will probably be 30 per cent. short of last year.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

CONSUMPTION OF COFFEE.

A careful inquiry as to whether the consumption of coffee had been effected by the high prices has just been completed by a leading American coffee distributory from throughout an unusually wide section of the West, North-West and South-West. A majority say that their trade has fallen off fully one-third, a large number find it twenty-five per cent. smaller, several say they have not sold within fifty per cent. of what they did last year; there are a number that say their sales have decreased from ten to fifteen per cent., two acknowledge a decrease, but not to any great extent, and one finds that consumption has increased. One reply from Dakota says: "In the extreme North-West thirty-three per cent. are substituting tea;" another from Western Michigan says: "Tea is being pushed in my territory for all there is in it;" another from Kansas says: "Farmers are drinking buttermilk;" and another from Minnesota says: "The merchants are selling more green tea than they do roasted coffee." This testimony is the result of the observation of men who come in contact constantly with retailers and consumers, and who therefore enjoy the best facilities for making just such an estimate, the result of which ought not to surprise those who have not been prejudiced by following the bull lead in recent operations. Here is a definite reply to the often repeated inquiry, Have high prices curtailed consumption? As one of the above salesmen very forcibly remarks, 60 cents a bushel for wheat and 25 cents a pound for coffee is too great a difference. High prices, therefore, have not only curtailed actual consumption, but, furthermore, have caused small dealers to carry light stocks, partly because they have not cared to take the risk of losing money by a sudden depreciation of their stock, and partly because of the larger amount of capital that the carrying of such stock has required at the enhanced cost.

AS TO PACKAGES.

The writer has had occasion during the past three years to examine samples of spices purchased at retail stores throughout the country, and, aside from the study of the contents thereof, the packages themselves were worthy of note as a kind of test of the character of the dealers. Now spices are usually retailed in small quantities, and the purchaser is quite anxious to reach home with at least a portion of the contents of the bundle—a hope, however, often defeated by the grocer in his endeavours. The majority of the packages seen by us are in the time-honoured form of the cornucopia, which in this case is not a "horn of plenty," and the shape varies with the amount of skill shown by the maker, some being of a very acute angle, others more obtuse, but all having the bad habit of leaking at the point while the base or larger end flies open and scatters the spice when the good housewife opens the package. The material of which these horns were constructed varied in nearly in all cases, some being made of coarse brown paper that bursts easily, others of the more diaphanous white tea paper which also suffered a dissolution of continuity on the slightest provocation, while many were composed of last week's newspapers; a few made of old printed circulars, and strange to relate, some were constructed of small sections of circus posters.

On the bright side some noteworthy grocers did their spices up like the druggist envelops his Seidlitz powders — in neatly folded packages which leak at the corners—and the best men of all sent home the condiment properly environed with a neat bag folded over at the top and tied with a string; the latter are all "spice-tight."

Now the moral of all this is that a person may judge of the character of the grocer by the style of the packages he makes, hence he would suggest that spices be done up in small, neat bags, or, better still, sent out in boxes containing the usual amount purchased by small families, and having a tasty label with the name of the contents and the dealer.

"Multum in parvo" is a good motto for grocers, for it is much that is gotten out of the little.—[American Grocer.

Any one answering advertisements which appear in this paper will do themselves and us a service by mentioning that they saw the advertisement in THE GROCER.

DEVELOPING TRADE.

A retail merchant should be something more to a community than a mere convenience or money-maker. It is doubtful if he can make an addition to his capital if content to furnish people with only such things as they demand. To forge ahead, increase the volume of business and make money he must be a trade developer; in one sense of the word, an educator. He must anticipate desire and cater to that element in human nature which we term self-gratification. He must whet the appetite, cultivate the eye, play upon the covetousness of the individual, in order that he may multiply wants which he can supply. This can be done in so many ways that there is no excuse for not putting forth some effort in the direction indicated.

A large portion of retail merchants have worked on this line, the evidence thereof being the great variety of food products offered by the wholesale merchant as contrasted with twenty years ago. If we go back thirty years we find that the grocer kept scarcely anything but staples, for table luxuries were almost unknown and only used to a limited extent in great cities on the Atlantic seaboard. Canned goods were not in use in 1860. Not many years ago oranges and lemons were not available except for a few months in the year, while to-day they are in market throughout the year. The line of table delicacies is extended every year, and yet thirty years ago prepared food was unknown as part of a grocer's stock. Besides extension in the variety of articles, we have to note an advance in quality all along the line. We have many more sorts of tea, coffee and preparations of cocoa than a quarter of a century ago. Then the soda cracker and a few common varieties, not over half a dozen in all, represented a full line, but now the varieties run into the hundreds, one firm in this city having 300 sorts on their list. And crackers, remember, afford a fine profit and are the best trade-catchers a grocer can handle. Ten years ago California products were practically unknown in the Western and Eastern markets; now they are of great extent and popular with the people.

It is needless to specify farther to prove that the grocer has been signally blessed with opportunities to increase business and in a profitable direction. The old sugar mill is a relic; the day for handling a score of commodities in bulk has passed; food that twenty years ago the thrifty housewife believed could only be prepared at home, is now put up in great factories, while the prejudice which first greeted its appearance has disappeared. Home-made preserves, soups, mince meat, catsup and a long list of dainties are now procured from the grocer. And yet in this period of development and progress there are grocers who cling to the old way of doing things and who look upon table luxuries or delicacies as out of reach of the common people with whom they deal. Therefore no effort is made to build up a trade outside of staples. They are too slow to tell the people that steam, electricity and labor-saving machinery have combined to cheapen food for the masses and robbed the word luxuries of its old-time significance. That while they are luxuries in one sense, their abundance and low price makes them available for the masses. In 1870 a can of tomatoes cost 25c., and a can of green corn 30c. to 35c.; peas, 35c. to 40c., and this placed such articles out of the reach of all but well-to-do consumers. We take from the "American Grocer" of 1869 the following list of prices in comparison with present quotations and alongside place the comparative retail prices as evidence of how former luxuries have through low prices come to be regarded as household necessities:

	Wholesale cost.		Retail price.
	1869. Per doz	1889. Per doz	1869 Per can	1889. Per can
Asparagus.	$7 00	$3 00	75c	30c
Lima Beans.	3 75	1 00	35	10@12
String Beans.	2 75	70	25@30	7@10
Corn	3 25	60@1 20	30@35	7@12
Peas.	3 50	1@1 25	35	10@12
Tomatoes	2 50	75	25	8@10
Condensed Milk	3 75	1 75	35	16

And a like comparison of articles once called luxuries would make equally as forcible a showing. Turkish prunes in 1869 were 17c., against 3c. to 3½c. in 1889. Figs came packed in drums, and sold at 20c. to 22c., while now we have boxes of layer figs in all manner of tempting shapes from 5c. to 13c. Then the grocer has come within recent years to handle toilet articles, perfumery, confectionery, fairy lamps, and a great list of knick-knacks, any one of which is calculated to rob a man's pocket. What a chance to develop trade. A community may not demand a dollar's worth of the articles named, but there is not in the length and breadth of the United States a town or village where a trade therein cannot be started and kept growing. Every day brings something new, keeping the wide-awake grocer alert to keep up with the times. A retail grocer in Troy commenced in a small way to furnish his trade with witch-hazel, and now he buys five barrels or more at a time. And we venture to say that he makes more on one gallon of witch-hazel than on one barrel of sugar. And you, grocer, can find a hundred or more things you do not sell, which you can put in stock one after another and convince your customers that they need every one of them. And this to your very great profit. There is no time for idling in the grocery trade, if a man is to make money. He must be a trade developer if he is to keep in the front rank and succeed.—[American Grocer.

"WORK FOR YOUR EMPLOYER."

How often we hear among clerks the expression : "Oh, never mind, it's nothing out of our pockets," when they give over weight, or spill flour, sugar or molasses. But clerks, it is out of your pockets in one sense of the word, as no merchant or storekeeper will employ a clerk who is careless or indolent. Let every clerk work for his employer, work for his interest and welfare as though for one's self ; strive to enlarge his business, and when your employer sees you striving to do your best, he begins to feel an interest in you, and promotion is sure to follow.

Be not discouraged on small wages ; the greatest men of our country began on little things. Garfield, Lincoln and Grant began on the smallest wages, and by perseverance, tact, and energy, finally became the leaders of the nation. Begin at the foot of the ladder and work up by attention to business.

In one of our largest cities a great fair was being held. The judges were examining a large piece of mechanism. They were eagerly watched in their work by a small boy of fourteen or fifteen who did errands and the sweeping in the shop from which the machinery had come. The judges, after having carefully examined the mechanism, pronounced it the best in the fair, and awarded its owners the first premium. Immediately after the judges had announced their decision, the boy shouted with joy, and threw his hat into the air again and again. The owner, who was standing a short distance away, noticed the actions of his little employee. He at once had him promoted, remarking to a friend : "If that boy takes so much interest in his employer's welfare he is worthy of a higher position."

Let all the clerks who see this work for their employer's good, strive for his best interest, and surely, in due time, they will reap their reward.—[A Clerk in New England Grocer.

WHY MANY MERCHANTS FAIL.

There are two reasons why many merchants fail. First, through a failure to make prompt collections when due for goods sold by them. Second, because they speculate. Thousands of merchants fail every year from these two causes. Competition is fierce, and the desire to do a large business possesses many storekeepers. In order to meet competition they are compelled to sell goods at a very low margin of profit, and a failure to collect accounts due is suicidal. Better not sell goods at all than to sell them to slow-paying and dead-beat customers. There are no doubt many readers of the Criterion who have lost thousands of dollars in this way, and yet who cannot persuade themselves that it would be best to conduct their business more upon a cash basis. Hundreds also fail every year by reason of foolish speculations they engage in. They become possessed with the idea that butter, cheese, potatoes, wheat, corn or other products are likely to advance. They invest all of their own capital and borrow money for the purpose of buying up whatever they can of these products, with a view to selling out at a profit. It is extremely unwise and hazardous. Sometimes such speculations result favourably, but success invariably leads those who engage in such transactions to take greater risks and to venture more deeply into other operations which ultimately end in disaster. It is, perhaps, sometimes wise for those who are thoroughly posted in the condition of the markets, and have every reason to believe that certain staple commodities will advance, to lay in a large stock of goods. Many who bought sugars early have no doubt made money, but transactions of this kind come in the regular way and are of a legitimate character. But merchants who leave their stores to dabble in real estate, mining stocks, produce, lottery tickets and other speculations, invariably come to grief. Those succeed best in mercantile pursuits who are content to plod along in a patient and persistent way, and to be satisfied with small results and the consciousness that they are conducting their business on a safe and conservative basis.—[Grocers' Criterion.

THE ADVANTAGES OF TRADE JOURNALS.

Trade journals have become an established institution, and the fact that they have come to stay cannot longer be doubted. Their advantage, to both the buyer as well as the seller, is manifested every day in the change which has been wrought in the present manner of transacting business. A few years ago, before these journals were established, if a party desired to purchase a certain line of goods, the first thing he would do would be to supply himself with the necessary funds, pack up his grip and start out upon a tour of observation and inspection ; and after traveling over a large amount of territory and spending considerable money, would finally succeed in finding the goods sought for. The manufacturer who was desirous of introducing to the public any new line of goods, was obliged to resort to the slow, expensive and uncertain method of mailing out printed circulars, at the rate of ten dollars per thousand for postage, besides the expense of printing, folding and directing them ; and perhaps eight out of every ten thus sent out, if received at all by the parties to whom directed, would find their way to the waste-paper basket without ever being opened. It being impossible to reach every one by this method, the chances for striking one who might be in want of the article named therein was often not one in five hundred, while perhaps a hundred others might be omitted who might be in want of it.

Advertising in a general way in the papers of the day was not a profitable investment. Those papers having a very large circulation, such as the "Scientific American," the "Iron Age," and others which might be named, were valuable papers and probably were the best mediums at that time ; but their circulation, although very large, was general, and while the advertiser was charged for the space occupied at a rate based upon a circulation of 40,000 or 50,000 copies, yet in many instances but very few of the trades interested and to whom it was desirable to introduce the goods, were ever reached. For instance, the "Iron Age" circulated principally among hardware and iron dealers, who formed a considerable portion of its circulation, very few of whom had any interest whatever in saw-mill or planing-mill machinery, and so on with all other trades, and as before stated, while they were paying exorbitant rates for advertising based upon the large circulation of those journals, they were really deriving less benefit from it than they would have received from a medium of one-quarter the circulation, but devoted exclusively to this particular trade and circulated exclusively among them.

Every trade is now represented by a journal devoted to that trade exclusively, and a purchaser now , instead of spending large sums of money and much valuable time in roaming over the country in search of any particular line of goods, may sit down quietly in one corner of his office and consult his trade paper, in which he will find the goods of the most prominent and reliable manufacturers carefully described and fully illustrated by fine, artistic cuts, so that all that is required is to write to some of those houses, who will cheerfully answer all inquiries, or in most cases, send their travelling man, who will come prepared to give them all further information that may be required, and their purchases may be made then and there to just as good advantage as if they had spent $100 in travelling expenses, in order to visit the same house in person. If any house is neglected by not being represented in its own trade paper, it is its misfortune in not being represented, and not the fault of the journal.

Another change has been brought about, and one that trade journals have had more or less to do with : There is a different class of travelling men representing these houses at the present time from what there was a few years ago. Since buyers have abandoned the plan of visiting these houses in person prominent manufacturers have found it for their own interest to employ none but sober, competent and reliable men to represent them — men who are well posted in the business and who are competent to give intelligent and reliable information with regard to the goods which they represent, and the result is that the public has more confidence and is more ready to deal with them than formerly, while the "bums" that formerly represented, or misrepresented, these houses have disappeared from the road. Manufacturers find it to their advantage to have their goods thus represented in these journals, for the reason that while the rates are much lower than would be obtained in the former mediums, they are sure every copy that is sent out from the office of publication, whether the circulation be 1,000 or 10,000 per issue, will be sure to fall into the hands of some one who is interested in their particular line of goods.

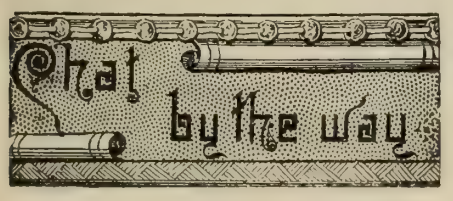
The public has been benefited by trade journals in another manner which can not be omitted. Almost every journal representing any particular trade has secured the services of experienced and practical writers, who, from long experience in this particular line, have become experts in the business, and from whom much valuable information may be obtained by those who have not had the same experience and advantages. Many young men just starting out in life, either as proprietors or foremen in the various trades, have received many valuable hints from these sources, which have been of much benefit to them, and which might have required years of experience before they could have acquired the same information. And for this and other reasons which have been given, what was said at the commencement of this article may be repeated, viz., that the trade journals have come to stay.—[The Wood-Worker.

A WELCOME VISITOR.

ARMOW, June 21, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—I notice by the label on my paper that my subscription has expired, and I now enclose the amount for another year. You will allow me to add THE CANADIAN GROCER is a welcome visitor to Armow, and also allow me to congratulate you on the rapid improvement you have made. If we may judge the future by the past I must predict for THE CANADIAN GROCER a splendid future. Yours truly, P.M.



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—
592 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Messrs. Bateman & Rowe, Belleville, are busy and prosperous merchants, but always make time to read THE GROCER, of which they think a great deal.

Conger Bros., Belleville, show fruits of all kinds first in season, also fine confectionery and groceries. There is no store in Central Ontario more inviting at all times of the year, and their popularity as fruit caterers is equal to any in Ontario.

The Sunlight Soap people have the sign boards of the city covered with their attractive advertisement. They do not do things by halves.

Mr. J. Youngs, Belleville, has moved across the street into more commodious quarters, and is much pleased with the change and additional trade consequent to the move.

The returns of the United States Department of Agriculture show promise of a medium apple crop in some sections, but a generally poor prospect for the districts of larger production.

The hay harvest is in progress in quite a number of counties in Ontario, and advices received in Toronto yesterday from a number of points indicate that the crop is going to be a heavy one.

Mr. J. G. Wallace, of Picton, is now associated with S. J. Collins in the grocery business, under the firm name of Collins & Wallace. They handle all kinds of fruits in season, and confectionery, groceries, etc.

Mr. H. S. Willcocks, of Picton, has in connection with his fine retail business a wholesale department, two flats of his large store being stocked for that trade. He reports business good ; collections up to the average, notwithstanding the severe drouth in Prince Edward County last year.

A local contemporary thinks the chief fault of most grocery clerks is inability to "talk business," meaning the recommendation of goods, etc. Our experience has convinced us that want of common courtesy is the great failing of many clerks, especially in the cash stores. When a clerk is naturally surly and boorish, it is useless to expect him to excel in pushing his employers' goods. —[Merchants' Review.

The customs fiscal year closed on June 30. The annual returns for the port of Toronto show a large increase over the amount for the year previous. For the year ending June 30, 1889, the total amount of money collected here was $4,008,159, and for the year ending June 30, 1888, $3,974,082. The returns for the month ending June 30, 1889, were $281,-921, and for the corresponding month last year, $269,390.

The practice of ticketing goods with prices is by no means general in the retail grocery trade, but many dealers find it of great efficacy, particularly in the case of bargains or drives, when unusually good value is offered for the money. Where quality is the chief merit of the article, placards laying stress upon this point may be used to advantage, but care should be taken that the ticket or placard is neat and attractive. Coarse, ugly placards of wrapping paper, which are to be seen in some stores, do more harm than good.—[Merchants' Review.

A short time ago a grocery traveller—Mr. Sinclair—stayed over at the Queen's Hotel, Bracebridge. It was his first trip on the road, which accounts for the following trifling mistake : A hardware merchant called at the hotel, and seeing Mr. Sinclair, asked him to tell Mr. Riddell—Wood & Leggatt's man—that he wished to see him. Now Sinclair did not know Riddell, and although Wood & Leggatt were the largest hardware house in the West he had never heard of the firm. The hardware man called later, and when he found Sinclair and Riddell talking together, he said to Sinclair : "Why did you not tell this gentleman that I wanted to see him, as I asked you to ?" "Excuse me, sir ; it was a wooden-legged man you asked me about, and I didn't see any such delegate around." The little misunderstanding cost a quarter, and the gentlemen enjoyed a roaring laugh at Sinclair's expense.

It goes without saying that judicious buying is a principal source of money making, and in no trade is that better exemplified than in the retail grocer business. The Cash Grocer has had occasion frequently to present this point to its readers, in discussing the cash system of business. In fact the most successful cash tradesmen are those who are judicious buyers, who keep a watchful eye on the ups and downs of the market, and know when to take advantage of it. Some men are intuitively judicious buyers, while others learn through experience, the latter having frequently to pay pretty high for their lessons. But be the cost what it may it will pay to learn how to buy judiciously, for it is upon this knowledge men must bank who have strong competition for trade. Men who are compelled to buy supplies on a rising market are unable to compete successfully with those who lay in their stocks when prices are comparatively low. Then the former are apt to buy too largely, and find themselves overstocked when the market takes a tumble, and they are compelled to sell at a loss. It is a qualification to be proud of to know how to buy judiciously, and we recommend our readers to cultivate it if they can.—[Cash Grocer.

THE MARKETS

TORONTO, July 4, 1889.

GROCERIES.

The volume of business for the month just closed has been quite satisfactory, and in most instances shows a considerable improvement over the corresponding time last year. This has been due chiefly to the largely increased values of sugars. Payments are fair. Country merchants all write in a cheerful strain, and anticipate a good autumn trade. Crop prospects all over the Dominion have made a decided improvement this week. In Ontario the weather has been bright and warm, and the fall of rain has been considerably lighter. In Manitoba and the North-West Territories, where they have been suffering from drought, there have been copious rains.

CANNED GOODS.

Business is slacking up as the supply of green fruit and vegetables increases. Still there is a pretty fair demand especially for corn. There are also a good many small lots of tomatoes going out. All the advices from growing points agree that the crop of both corn and peas will be lighter than at first anticipated. There have been a good many inquiries from jobbers for corn, but stocks here are light. Sales are being made mostly about 95c. Tomatoes are going at 85c. to 95c., and peas from 85c. to $1.10. Canned fruits are unchanged. The first sample of new season's strawberries we have noticed were shown here Tuesday. They were packed by W. Boulter & Sons, Picton, and in quality and appearance they more than maintain the high reputation of the goods packed by this firm. All kinds of canned fish are firm and in good demand. Lobsters in particular are scarce and advancing ; old Star brand are selling at $1.75, and prices range from this to $2.10 for Portland Packing Company's flat tins. Loggres and Holman's new pack are now on the market and are offering at $1.65 to $1.70. The advices from below concerning the pack are unfavourable. During the entire month stormy weather, coupled with fog, has seriously checked the industry and caused considerable damage to traps, etc. The season opened much earlier than usual, and the packers were greatly encouraged by the prospects, but the lessened pack during June will undoubtedly reduce the quantity canned to less than the average. Prices in consequence are firmer, with some packers asking an advance, while in some instances short deliveries upon contract will be impossible to avoid. The pack of mackerel so far is also very small.

COFFEES.

This market is dull and unchanged. A few small lots are going out at quotations. Outside markets have improved a little.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are in a little better demand, but the market continues weak, and barrels are selling from 4¾c. to 5½c., with Vostizzas in cases and halves at 7c. Dates steady and in fair demand Figs are getting scarce ; only a few 28lb. and 50lb. boxes here ; they are selling at 5½c. to 6c., and 14oz. at 8c. to 8½c. per box. Prunes are firmer, and getting into smaller compass ; choice layers are held at 8½c. to 9c. ; Bosnia are going in kegs at 5c. to 5¼c., and hhds. at 4c. to 4½c. Valencia raisins continue to stiffen ; for prime off-stalk holders were asking 6¾c. to 7c. today ; there is a continued active inquiry for round lots.

A Denia circular of April 30, giving a review of the Valencia raisin crop, shows that Canada took 38,243 cwts., against 32,545 cwts. last season, an increase of 5,798 cwts. Imports to the States were 12,195 cwts. less than last year.

SUGARS.

The market for sugar is very firm at Saturday's advance which puts sugar on a basis of 9⅜c. to 9¾c. for granulated. It is not at all improbable that there will be further advances unless stocks are much larger than they are supposed to be. There has been an active local demand for white and bright yellows. Otherwise the market has been without feature. In raws there has been a fair movement in Trinidad at 7½c. to 7¾c. British markets at the moment are rather easier, but last week they advanced considerably. Willett & Hamlen, New York, say in their weekly report on sugar, Muscovadoes advanced ¼c., centrifugals ⅛c., and refined ⅛c. The special features of the week are that the sugars which buyers allowed to accumulate until about 11,000 tons were on the market were all taken up at advanced prices and until further accumulations the market will be quiet again. A dearth of Muscovadoes from this time will be a notable feature as they do not anywhere in the world remain in stock to any extent. This has an important bearing on the soft refined supplies. Stocks in all hands in the United States decreased 3,834 tons for the week, and is now 96,937 tons under same time last year. Total stock in all the principal countries by latest mail and cable dates is 735,674 tons against 1,023,762 tons same time last year. Cables from Sagua district in Cuba, say that Muscovado sugar is entirely exhausted. Receipts have been few this week from the British West Indies and some other sources, but the notable feature is that it will be impracticable to duplicate these receipts this season. Trinidad has but 5,000 hogsheads left for shipment. The crop was less than 60,000 tons against 90,000 tons two years ago and 72,000 tons last year. Many estates have been thrown out of circulation and no efforts are making to increase following crops. Barbadoes, St. Kitts and St. Croix all had good average crop. Antigua had a good crop, but it did not get it all off before the rains set in. The autumn crops of Demerara were injured by drouth, but the prospects are good for December-January crop, but already shows a diminishing tendency and Mr. Licht reduces his estimates by 75,000, say to a total crop of 2,940,000 tons against 2,735,000 tons last year.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are stiffening, but the demand is dull. Molasses are getting scarce, and some houses are advancing prices. Trinidads sold on the street at 45c. in hdds, and now 47c. is asked.

TEA

The week has been a quiet one on account of the holidays, and there has been very little movement on this market. A few small parcels have changed hands for immediate wants. The first new season's Ningchows arrived on this market on Tuesday after the fastest passage on record, i.e., six weeks from time of shipment, from Hankow, via C. P. R. London market unchanged, with the exception of a slight stiffening in prices in fine blacks, owing to the high prices at which the Hankow market opened this year, and the small supplies coming forward, nearly everything of high grade having been grabbed up for the Russian trade. New York market quiet with a falling off in the offerings in the auction rooms.

PROVISIONS.

A quiet steady market is all that can be said of the provisions this week. There are a good many small lots of smoked stuff going out and prices for these are generally well maintained. Hams are going mostly at 12c., with backs and bellies at 11½c. Long clear bacon has been in fair request at 8½c. to 8¾c. Lard is steady at 9½c. to 10½c. for American, and 10¾c. to 11c. for Canadian; supply of the latter is very limited.

The Cincinnati Price Current says:—There has been only a moderate reduction in the supply of hogs in Western markets the past week, the packing returns showing a total of 260,000 handled by packers, against 275,000 the preceding week, and 210,000 for corresponding time last year, which implies an increase of 50,000 for the week compared with a year ago. From March 1 the total is 3,535,000 hogs, against 2,980,000 last year—increase this season 555,000. The quality of marketing continues excellent, and average weight well maintained. Shipments to eastern markets were fair, and not much short of corresponding time last year. The number of hogs marketed during the week has been fully up to prevailing expectations, and the total for June will somewhat exceed the earlier calculations. This has been the legitimate result of the profit secured by feeders, and the margin which packers have had in the relative prices of hogs and product in the recent past. In the provision trade there has been rather more life, and values have gradually strengthened. Foreign markets appear to be getting into better shape, under reduced supplies from Ireland and Continent, while there is no excess of stocks, of American meats, prices of which in English markets are about 20 per cent. lower than a year ago, which is a factor calculated to encourage consumption, especially as prices a year ago were not high. Prices a year ago were about 20 per cent. higher than now, followed by considerable advance subsequently, and supplies were well reduced at the opening of the winter season. It is true that corn was higher a year ago than now, and that whatever there is of sentiment based on relative value of corn is now an obstacle of improvement in prices of hogs and product—but an improvement is not likely to occur to a fair degree, nevertheless. Exports of hog product are well maintained, the week's movement being quite liberal, with considerable gain over corresponding time last year, the increase being in meats. Domestic consuming districts are taking meats quite freely. The general situation of crops in the South, with the enlarging industrial enterprise there, gives promise of a season of full requirements for western meats, the outlook in this particular being fully as good or better compared with a year ago.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The supply of butter continues light, and prices continue to harden. All offering is wanted. Each lot as it arrives finds a ready buyer. The quality is generally fair, and most of the arrivals bring 14c. to 15c. with occasional selections at 16c. Bakers' grades are also scarce and in demand at about 12c. There have been some inquiries for shipment, but there appears to be no available stock on the spot. Some inquiries have come by cable for creameries, but dealers say Canadian prices are too high to permit business being done.

CHEESE—Steady and unchanged. Dealers are buying about 9½c. and selling at 10c. for prime in small lots.

COAL OIL.

Prices show no change, business being much about the same. Canadian Refined is moving in a quiet way at 13c.; Carbon Safety at 16½c.; Canadian Water White at 19c. to 20c.; American do., 24½c. to 25c., and Photogene at 27c.

The Markets Continued.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—Steady, with a fair amount of business doing. Dealers, however, find it hard to get the advance. Offerings are light, and the tendency of prices is upward.

BRAN—Is firm, and in good demand at $10.75 to $11 for car lots on the track. There is a good export demand, and quite a number of sales have been made during the past week at $8.50 to $9 at the mills in the West.

WHEAT — Higher, firm, and in good demand. Offerings are light. Spring has been selling outside at $1.02 to $1.03. Red and fall are worth the same. Western is offering freely at $1, with buyers at about 95c. to 96c. Manitoba wheat is also firm. No. 1 hard is selling in single cars at $1.15, with other grades in proportion. Taking it all round the wheat situation is very firm at the moment.

BARLEY—Nominal.

CORN—Scarce and wanted. Canadian is worth 48c. on the track.

PEAS—Steady, and in good demand at 54c. outside, with sellers at 55c.

OATS—Quiet at 31c. to 31½c. for No. 2 mixed on the track. Light white sold at 30½c., and heavy at 32c.

OATMEAL—Dull, and steady at quotations.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—Are dull again, but prices are steady at $1.50 per bushel in small quantities out of store.

DRIED APPLES — Demand is good for dealers at 3¼c. to 3½c. in small lots ; cars are worth 3¾c. to 4c., sales having been made on that basis. Evaporated are more firmly held, and dealers have disposed of small lots at 6c. to 6½c.; some holders have advanced prices to 7c., at which they are firm on the ground that as the coming crop is certain to be short it will pay them to hold for next season.

DRESSED MEATS—Not much business doing now. Beef has sold about 6½c. to 7½c. by the carcase, and veal at 6¼c. to 6½c. Mutton is firm and in demand at 10c. up.

EGGS—The buying price in the country has been advanced to 11c. and the Association price to 12½c. on the spot, which is also the figure quoted by the regular commission houses. All eggs are now being candled at these prices.

HAY AND STRAW Receipts of hay are increasing and offerings from all points have been more liberal. The market is consequently weak with a downward tendency. Arrivals on the street are also larger and prices are lower. Choice timothy has been selling on the track at about $13, and good, with a sprinkling of clover, at $12 to $12.50. Straw is dull at $6 to $7.

HOPS—Nominally unchanged. New are held about 20c.

POTATOES—Demand is lighter. Buyers are looking for new, which are coming in more freely and selling at lower prices. For old, dealers are getting 60c. to 65c. out of store. New are selling at $2.25 to $2.50 per barrel.

WOOL, HIDES, ETC.—Receipts of wool are increasing, but demand is steady at 20c. for good merchantable fleece. Hides are unchanged at 2¾c. to 4¾c., but dealers are getting ¼c. more for cured. Pelts are 5c. higher at 30c. and lambskins at 35c. Tallow dull at 1¾c. to 2c. for rough.

MONTREAL, July 4, 1889.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been a decided improvement in the canned goods market in regard to business during the past week, and the turn over has been large owing to the fact that wholesale grocers have run out of many lines. The demand has been good and the market has ruled active and firm as stocks generally have been reduced considerably, and packers have been holding off to some extent in anticipation of higher prices. New packed lobsters have met with an active demand at $1.50 to $1.60 per dozen according to quantity. Mackerel continue scarce and firm at $5 per case. Old salmon is moving freely at $1.70 per dozen. The recent advance in tomatoes has been well maintained and sales have been made freely at 90c. to 95c. per dozen. There has been a good demand for corn at $1 to $1.75 per dozen according to brand. Peas have ruled quiet and steady at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. The demand for fruits has continued good and the movement has been large for this season of the year. Peaches have sold at $2.15 per dozen, Bartlett pears at $1.90, strawberries at $1.65 to $2, pineapples at $2.25 to $2.35, and plums at $1.50 to $1.75 per dozen. The demand for Armour's meats has been good at steady prices.

SUGAR.

The excitement in the raw sugar market has ceased for the present, as private cables during the past few days have been of a quieter character, but report the market very strong, and quote but at 28s. 3d., which is the highest point yet touched. The feeling here in refined sugar has been very firm, and prices have been well maintained. The demand has been slow for both yellows and granulated, and stocks are increasing somewhat. The volume of business transacted has been small. Granulated has sold at 9¾c., and yellows at 7½c. to 8¼c. as to quality at the factory.

SYRUP.

The demand for syrup has been slow at the refineries, but as stocks are light, prices are firmly held. There has been a good inquiry from jobbers at the wholesale grocers, and a fairly active business has been transacted in a small way. The market is strong in sympathy with sugar, and an advance in prices is looked for. We quote 4c. to 4½c. at the refinery.

MOLASSES.

In molasses business has been quiet owing to the fact that buyers and sellers are apart, but there has been considerable inquiry and a number of bids have been made, but as holders are strong and looking for higher prices no business has been effected outside of some small lots at 49c. to 50c., with holders of cargo lots asking 48½c. to 49c. with bids at 48c..

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-knowr brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The tea market has shown no important change since our last, business having continued quiet, owing to the slow demand, and what few sales have been made have been confined to small lots. The feeling is firm, and holders generally show no disposition to force sales. Since the opening of navigation stocks have increased considerably, which, however, has had little effect on prices. There has been a fair jobbing demand for coffee, and the market has ruled fairly active, with prices steady.

RICE.

The movement has been moderate but at well maintained prices. Ordinary, $3.70 for car lots; Japan, 4c. to 4¼c.; Patna, 4¾c. to 5c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

There has been a good steady business in flour, and prices have shown a tendency to improve. Sellers have found it much easier to do business at full prices. City strong bakers' has advanced 5c. to 10c., and the market throughout has grown perceptibly stiffer.

Patent winter	$5 10 @$5 50
Patent spring	5 75 — 6 00
Straight roller	4 65 — 4 85

Oatmeal, granulated, per bag	1 90 — 2 00

HOG PRODUCTS.

Business has continued fairly active at steady prices. Canada pork is about all closed out and some holders of the remainder ask up to $18. Lard has remained steady and meats unchanged.

Canadian short cut, per bbl	$17 00 @$17 50
Mess pork, western	00 00 — 15 00

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Aside from the regular local requirements trade in butter has been slow. Prices remain above an export level, but as late cables are firm hopes are entertained that business may soon develope. Meanwhile stocks are increasing in the country as makers will not accept current figures to any extent. Creamery, 18c. to 19c.; Townships, 16c. to 17c.; Morrisburg, 15c. to 16½c.; Brockville, 15c. to 16½c.; Western, 13½c. to 14½c.

During the week the cheese market has worked stronger, especially in the country where there has been heavy buying and considerable excitement with prices ¼c. to ½c. higher. In this market there has been a fair business, but at prices relatively lower than the country. To-day there were free bids at 9¼c. for finest, with holders at 9½c. The situation has an uncertain look, but it seems that prices will be maintained until the June make is marketed. Finest colored, 9½c.; finest white, 9¼c. to 9⅜c.; medium to fine, 8¼c. to 9c.

EGGS.

There has been a fair trade in eggs despite the warm weather. Prices have ruled steady at 13½c. to 14c. per dozen.

TO THE GROCERY TRADE.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

(OF LONDON), CAPITAL, £50,000

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association,

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools: they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application

WHAT IS HE WORTH ?

This is a question so often propounded that we pass it by, scarcely stopping to consider whether or not the answer given it is a proper one. But when we stop to think of it the question affords a broad field for speculation in almost any particular case. What is a man worth? For example, a bookkeeper receiving a salary of $2,000 a year. Considering the inquiry in a purely financial view, we calculate that it requires $50,000 bearing 4 per cent. interest to yield $2,000 a year. If a man is worth the price he commands—and men who receive salaries are more apt to be undervalued than overvalued—the bookkeeper is equal, financially, to the capitalist who has $50,000 which he loans out at 4 per cent., and lives on his income. But some men get much larger salaries. Ten thousand dollars per annum is not an unusual salary in some branches of business for managers of institutions or large industries, and that is equivalent to a capital of from $200,000 to $250,000 drawing 5 per cent. in one case and 4 per cent. in the other. Let the man who receives only a thousand dollars a year pause to consider, before moaning over his hard lot, that he commands an income on $20,000 or perhaps $25,000.

If he persists in considering his situation in life an unfortunate one, let him imagine a reversed condition of circumstances. Let him ask if he would choose to be placed in the condition of some acquaintance whom he may know, and who, having $25,000 at command, is deficient of ability to secure or fill a lucrative position and one commanding honour and respect. Is it not probable that the annoyances likely to be caused over a safe and prudent investment for the capital, with the chances of loss staring the investor in the face, would fully equal such as are ordinarily encountered by those in responsible positions—liability to dismissal, or loss of place through sickness or other causes?—[The Office.

FRUIT PRESERVING IN THE OPEN AIR.

Under this title the "Moniteur Horticole Belge," describes a simple and inexpensive process of keeping apples, taken from the "Maison Rustique": Choose a dry place naturally protected by trees, evergreens preferred; and then place the fruit in a conical heap and cover it with leaves in the proportion of twice the bulk of the leaves to one of fruit. Under these conditions the apples in contact with the soil receive a moderate and uniform heat; the leaves keep out the cold and water, and are maintained in their place by the trees, which protect them from winds. Fruits preserved in this manner are in better condition in spring, and decidedly more fresh than those wintered in ordinary fruit houses. It is not rare for those who dwell in the country, to find pears or apples concealed under leaves very well preserved, better even than others with which great care has been taken; besides, this plan comprises the essentials for keeping fruits, the most important of which is protection against atmospheric variations. Again, not only are they better preserved, but they are more fresh and firm, which is due to the almost complete absence of evaporation, and hence their tissues are swelled out full, like freshly-gathered fruit. The economy of this plan is another important consideration. It is well worth trying, with a view of prolonging the season of some of the most useful keeping sorts.—[The Garden.

MARKING GOODS.

An important thing to be considered in storekeeping is the putting of neat and legible price marks upon goods. Many vexatious mistakes are made by clerks and salesmen owing to careless and improper marking. A recent commercial writer says: "Having considered every circumstance which ought to influence him in marking goods, the salesman should make his prices and then adhere to them. A rumour that a house has two or more prices, according to the customer who is buying, will spread rapidly and soon create a distrust very hurtful to its business. It is unfair, undignified, and downright dishonest to make different prices to different customers, other things being equal, such as quantity, time, etc. Uniform dealing, one-price houses command a respect and confidence among customers which sliding-scale dealers never enjoy."—[Grocers' Criterion.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE SCHOOL BOOK MONOPOLY.

Neither as politicians nor as business men are we admirers of monopolies, although we would not wish it to be thought that we favor any such sweeping measures as Clarke Wallace tried to spring on the country last winter. The only monopoly of any importance affecting the stationers is that ruling the school-book trade, and which is supposed to be above reproach, being as it is under government control. We are not going to sit in judgment upon the matter on general grounds, for there could be little gained by such a course, but conversation with several retailers has led us to believe that there is a great injustice being done somewhere. The margin of profits allowed to the storekeeper on the standard school books is so small that in many cases there is an actual loss incurred in handling them. In order to obtain an extra 10 per cent. discount, the purchases have to be of a size far beyond the capacity of the majority of dealers, and in any case the stock required to be carried in order to command the school-book trade is far too large for the small profits realized. We have to confess that we are not sufficiently posted to say exactly upon whose shoulders lies the blame, but either the Minister of Education is cutting things down too fine, or the wholesalers are taking more than their share of the profits. A Peterboro' bookseller proposed to us a few days ago that the retailers should combine and refuse to handle the books at all unless a better profit were allowed, and in these days of strikes and lockouts this does seem to be a likely remedy. This is not, however, the proper spirit, and we cannot but think that a little common sense talk between the publishers and representatives from the retailers' association would bring about the desired end. Should they after this remain obdurate, and should it still appear to the retailers that they were really not receiving their share of the profits, a firm stand on their part would seem to us to be perfectly justifiable, and should they not be able at first to combine en masse, the different dealers in any town could at least come together and refuse to buy the books, thus compelling the publishers to sell to the trustees direct, which would be found to cost considerably more than the margin at present left to the storekeepers.

We do not wish to take a biassed stand on this matter, and would invite correspondence from both sides with a view to a revelation of the real facts and state of feeling throughout the province.

A WORD TO THE BUYER.

In another column we have given some extracts from a work entitled "How to Sell;" we would like now to read one on "How to treat a Salesman." The experiences of some of the men of the road upon this subject would make interesting reading, and might have the effect of opening the eyes of some of our merchants to their shortcomings in this respect.

A traveller upon one occasion solicited an order from a leading wholesale man; being treated in a very gruff and discourteous manner, the salesman, who by the way is a gentleman of good address and succcessful seller, was driven to retort by asking the wholesale man if he would like to have his travellers treated in the same way by his customers; what the reply was we were not informed. Men soliciting orders are entitled to some consideration. They must, when they enter a town, make their round of calls upon the men in their line of trade, and are not responsible for any disagreeable incidents that may happen during the day to annoy the merchant, who in many cases vents it upon the innocent salesman who happens to make a call at the time.

Some travellers are very intrusive, and do not seem to know or see that there are times when it is an intrusion to introduce their business. A man with discernment will avoid this and withdraw, to call again; the indiscreet one will force himself upon the notice of the merchant, who will probably give him his walking ticket in short order. Cases of this kind will happen, and the salesman has only himself to blame, and should not receive any sympathy, but the majority of our men on the road now-a-days are worthy of respect, placed in these positions by their respective employers to represent them, and as such should be received courteously and treated as one business man expects to be treated by another.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in Shaftesbury Hall, Monday evening last.

President Berwick was in the chair. Among others present were Messrs. Williamson, Thackray, Mills, Mara, F. Britton, Clark, McCulloch, Gibson, Saunders, Johnston, Booth, Western, W. Britton and Binnie.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. Berwick reported on behalf of the picnic committee, and said they had met at Mr. Mills, and arranged the prizes for about thirty events. The sub-committee had also met and arranged the order of the events. The tickets were in the hands of the printer, and would be issued in a few days. Prizes were coming in in large numbers, and already are ahead of last year.

Mr. Gibson said he would like to see a larger poster than that of last year. The Association were now on a good financial basis, and ought to get up something worthy of it, and it would pay them to well advertise it.

The committee who were to look after a new hall reported that they had done nothing.

Mr. Mills reported on behalf of the Committee drafted to interview the Government re the tobacco seizure. He said they waited on Mr. Cockburn, M.P., who received them courteously, and after some conversation said he saw the injustice of it, but that any representation from him at Ottawa would have little effect. He advised them to have the Board of Trade take the matter up. The president of the Board of Trade was next seen, who turned them over to Mr. Hugh Blain. That gentleman said he had given the matter considerable thought, and thought of taking action in the matter, but he had heard that the Department was about to do something, and advised them to let the matter rest for the present.

Mr. Mara said that the Collector had called on him and said he could do nothing in the matter. He had his instructions from Ottawa, and would have to administer the law in the future as in the past.

The secretary said Mr. Stratton had been going too far, and that the authorities at Ottawa had "called him off."

Mr. Mills said his attention was called by a representative of a wholesale house to a case in which one of their customers had a box of tobacco seized, which had never been opened and was unstamped. He thought it lay with that wholesale house to show the Government up.

Mr. F. Britton said that if it was in their power to bring the matter to a point he would like to see a committee appointed.

Mr. Mara said that they need expect no help from the wholesale Guild, as they always look out for themselves.

Mr. F. Britton said that if a committee was appointed to take steps to push the affair it would be a good thing for the Association.

The secretary said that according to the regulations the seizures were perfectly correct.

The secretary presented accounts for printing, which were ordered to be paid.

The meeting then adjourned.

CROPS AND TRADE PROSPECTS.

Travellers say that the crops have improved very much during the past few days, and in many sections are looking exceedingly well. In some sections the output promises to be above the average, but in other parts where the land is low they have been damaged more or less by the damp weather. Advices from Manitoba and the Northwest are more favorable. The crops have suffered to some extent from drouth, but there have been rains which have revived them very much. The country trade is generally dull at present, but retailers are in a happy mood, and unless something unforeseen happens, they will have a good fall and winter trade. Farmers ought to be in a pretty fair position. They have been getting good prices all season for their cattle, sheep and hogs, and also for their butter and cheese. Present indications are that prices of grain and all kinds of produce will be good this fall. Payments at the moment are only fair, but are quite up to the average at this season of the year.

The Bureau of Industries' report, made up from reports of over 600 correspondents, which was issued to-day, says: "The last week of May will not be soon forgotten by the farmers of the province. There were several nights of frost, that of the 28th proving the most injurious in most localities. East and west alike suffered, although the fruit in the eastern countries was not so badly hurt as in the west. The opinion of correspondents is a unit regarding the benefits of the rainy and cloudy weather immediately following the destructive frosts of May 25–30. Bright, dry weather, say one and all, would have completed the ruin of the crops. But, while correcting to a great degree the injury resulting from frost, the continuous rain and cool weather "soured" the land, rotting much potato seed, corn, beans, etc., drowning out grains on low-lying fields, and turning to a sickly yellow oats and peas on undrained soils. The wet weather also delayed the sowing of some of the later crops. On high and well-drained lands the crops give unusual promise. There will be an immense yield of all kinds of straw, and with the prospect of settled weather at present writing, there is much cause for congratulation at the outlook.

Fall wheat and oats will be the finest crops, a good, heavy yield being expected, while spring wheat will be up to the average. Barley will generally be a good crop, and is expected to improve. Peas are varied, but it may be said that the yield will be good in high and well-drained land. Undoubtedly the root crop has suffered most extensively, and potatoes are in some places expected to be almost a total failure. Hay and clover will be a good average crop, especially in the western parts of the province. Although considerably later than usual, haying is now pretty generally under way in all localities. Of the minor crops, corn is in rather a bad condition, but may recover to some extent if fair weather contines. Rye is reported as good, beans. very poor, and the remainder about an average.

THE CROCERS' PICNIC.

That the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association Fourth Annual Picnic and Games will exceed that of last year both in the value of the prizes and the events, is now beyond a doubt. Lack of space prevents us giving full particulars, but there will be a Boys' Race, Sack Race, Fat Man's Race, Old Man's Race, Ladies Race, Commercial Travellers Race, Hop, Step and Jump, Three Quick Jumps, Sack Race, Trotting Race, Egg Race, Catching Greasy Pig, Walking Match, Donkey Race, Three-Legged Race, Professional Race, Flat Race, Trotting Race, Tug-of-War, between East and West. J. G. Gibson will be Captain for the East, and J. Berwick, for the West. Obstacle Race and Hurdle Race, for which handsome prizes will be given. In addition there will be a novel washing competition, for which prizes to the value of $50 will be given by Messrs. Lever Bros., manufacturers of the celebrated "Sunlight Soap," further particulars of which will be given next week. Then there is the "Guessing Competition," for a handsome Silver Cup, presented by THE CANADIAN GROCER, to the grocer, wholesale merchant, or representatives of wholesale houses who are bona fide subscribers to THE CANADIAN GROCER who can guess the nearest as to the number of Beans in a glass jar, which will be on exhibition on the day of the Picnic.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

THE TRADE CONVENTION.

The coming trade convention in Hamilton promises to be a very important event in the history of trade in Canada. All business men who can possibly do so should attend. The committee have sent invitations to all the business men, and everything points to a successful meeting. A special invitation has been received by Mr. J. F. Thackray, secretary of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association. The association should be represented by one or more of its leading members in addition to Mr. Thackray. In fact we would urge the appointment of delegates and the sending of them there at the association's expense. Kingston and Guelph grocers should take the same action.

PATRONIZE HOME STORES.

There are often found people in interior towns who are given to complaints of the alleged lack of progress in their neighborhood, and who are always more ready to lay the blame of this state of things upon others than on themselves. These fault-finders frequently take pleasure in contrasting the growth of other towns with that made in the place where they live, and they are never so happy as when dilating on the shortcomings of their own section. Ten to one, however, if the matter is investigated it will be found that they do little or nothing to build up their town. If they want to buy a little larger bill of goods than usual, particularly when having money in hand, they send to the city or to some larger town, and instead of patronizing local merchants who are paying heavy taxes for the support of home interests, give their patronage to and spend their money with outside dealers. A Canadian journal in commenting on this unfair practice says to persons of this class :

When you return from other towns with a bundle of goods that you could have bought just as well from your home merchants, don't you feel a little mean? Honor bright, now ; don't you? You are doing what little you can to ruin every business man in your town, because we all depend on one another.

There is point and good sense in these inquiries. The best way to build up a town is to encourage your friends and neighbors, the merchants, with your custom. To do otherwise is poor policy, if a community is to be prosperous.—[Grocer and Country Merchant.

THE COUNTRY STOREKEEPER.

The country storekeeper is often placed in an unfortunate position. Farmer customers are not like city customers, for in most cases credit is a necessity to them. This credit means a larger capital on the part of the retailer, a larger percentage of loss from uncollectible debts, and in general an increased expense for doing the business. This often results in an increased cost to the farmer for the goods he purchases, and rightly so, for he cannot in justice expect that the retailer will take these risks and expenses without compensation.

Periodically the farming population in different States wake up to the fact that they are paying to the retail storekeeper too much profit as they figure it; grumblings are heard, sometimes the farmers drive past the old store (with their debts still unpaid) to the nearest town to do their trading, or sometimes the discontent takes a wider range and results in the formation of farmers' granges, as ten years ago was the case, or in farmers' alliances, such as we have been hearing about lately.

It must be confessed that farming is not the profitable business it should be, and no sympathetic person can forbear lamenting this fact, because agriculture is the most important of our industries, and the well-being of the community depends upon it more than upon any other branch of human labor. In the long run, profits of everybody, manufacturer or trader, come out of the ground, and as the world is always within a year of starvation, the importance of prosperity to the agricultural classes is easily seen. Any plan which has for its object the improvement in the money value of farming to farmers should receive the encouragement of everyone.

But saying this, we do not mean that any support whatever should be given to plans for the improvement of farmers, which are wrong in themselves. Farming as a business is not well enough studied, and altogether is much behind the ordinary methods of trading as, for example, between jobber and retailer. One of these wrong methods is too often the plan of the so-called farmers' alliances, that of blaming the whole trouble upon the retail storekeeper, and the bending of the energies of the farmers' associations toward reducing the profits of the storekeeper, which are supposed to be excessive. The storekeeper, in all justice, should not be blamed for the results of the system. Long and vexatious credits, with larger risks and all the accompanying evils, mean increased expense, which the retailer must charge to the farmer if he would continue the business. Farmers' alliances, which are now attempting to open stores for the accommodation of farmers at about cost price for their purchases, will inevitably meet with the same extra losses which affect the sales of the retailer, unless, indeed, the farmer changes his entire method of doing business. In the latter case he could buy of the retailer at a smaller margin of profit. And if the old system is intended to be continued with the stores of the alliance, the result will be the same as before—large losses which must be made up by larger profits to the store, or impairment of capital. No alliance can cheapen the cost of commodities to the farmers, their members, without changing also the entire method of conducting the business in farming communities. This is the rock on which the stores of the farmers' alliances will in the end go to pieces.—[American Grocer.

A QUEER SET OF BOOKS.

There is a good story, a revamped one, in THE CANADIAN GROCER entitled "A Queer Set of Books." It is the old one, of how a country merchant, who could neither read nor write, kept his books by a series of hieroglyphics. A grindstone was mistaken for a cheese because there was no hole marked in the centre.

One similar to this is remembered by the writer. A small tradesman in Nottingham, Eng., was suing a number of his customers in the County Court. The County Court is the lowest court for the collection of small debts in England.

One debtor appeared to oppose the claim against him, and asked that the books be produced.

Our friend, the grocer, produced them. There was a certain mark for a ham, another for tea, and so on. The judge—Wildman, a noted jurist—looked the book over and then asked the plaintiff what each mark meant ; then noting a few, again examined them. The replies were satisfactory, and judgment was given against the delinquent debtor.—[Baltimore Trade.

THE ART OF SELLING.

"The Art of Selling" is the title of a book by F. B. Goddard. We take the following from it :

"There are few persons whose ability to sell things is so superior and remarkable that it may properly be called genius. Like poets, they are 'born, not made,' and they are above rule or a law only unto themselves. There is something about their personality which, so to speak, 'catches on.' They can instantly adapt themselves to all sorts of people, and seem able to please, convince and persuade those whom they encounter, no matter how diverse their characteristics may be. This faculty of influencing others is not in any large degree derived from intellectual attainments, and still less from moral excellence ; it exists in virtue of some innate quality in the mental and physical make-up, accompanied by a quick insight into human nature and motives

"Men so endowed look into the corners of another's mind, follow its windings, and set clearly before him the special considerations which incline or lead him to the wished for conclusion. They avoid discussion which may lead to controversy by quietly parrying objections with pertinent facts, and with few words give to abstract generalities the fitness and force of concrete arguments in support of the main proposition. Yet the possession of these qualities in a marked degree is sometimes counterbalanced by a lack of others which are necessary to a broad and well-balanced business man.

"Aside from the men of genius, the difference in selling ability will be seen to lie less in great wisdom than in common sense, energy, courtesy, patience and tact.

"'We used to think,' said one of the foremost merchants of Chicago, 'that a salesman should be a good talker, very sprightly and quick witted, but we have learned from experience that reliability, good sense and staying qualities are better.'

"It stands to reason that a salesman will succeed best with a line of goods for which he has a natural affinity or liking. For example, a man with a mechanical bent is probably better adapted to the sale of mechanical appliances than bonnet trimmings, and a person with strong literary or artistic tastes may naturally be expected to put more heart into the work of selling books, pictures or art goods than in pushing stoves or lumber.

"A large wholesale grocer in Chicago says: 'We have frequently taken men from the road into the office and transferred men from the office to the road with advantage all around.'

"Men are often classified or divided into types, but no one knows where a classification begins or ends, and no one is a duplicate of another.

"A man learned one day that he had an offensive breath, and he ran home to his lovely young wife, complaining because she had not told him of it and saved him mortification. 'Why,' she replied, 'I supposed all men smelled so!' The little woman had reached a wrong conclusion on prima facie evidence. Persons may, to an ordinary observer, bear a strong resemblance, as the two Dromios, and still differ in temperament, intelligence and characteristics. It is only in a large and general way that people are alike. Human nature hums the same old air, but with innumerable variations.

"The merchant seldom buys off-hand when solicited, even though he may be secretly inclined to give an order; he waits for the inducements to be laid before him, and expects them to be urged in their most favorable light. If, under such circumstances, they are put awkwardly, if the statements are windy and irrelevant, and the arguments pointless or illogical, the merchant, unless indeed the bare facts are convincing, or the goods speak for themselves, and he really wants them, will be likely to conclude that the case itself is lame, or it would be better presented.

"The salesman is therefore justified in doing his best and using all fair means to effect a sale. It is his proper business. He is under pay as an agent for his employer, and it is as much his duty to sell goods if he can as for a lawyer to win a case for his client."

We have made the foregoing extracts to show the character of the work. The commercial man will find in it some useful hints that may do him good service.

Correspondence

We invite correspondence from readers in every section on subjects pertaining to the trade, and shall be pleased to answer questions of general interest in this department. We require with each letter the name and address of the sender, not necessarily for publication, unless agreeable to writers, but for our own protection.

A VERY SPICY PAPER.

PAISLEY, Ont., 8th July, 1889.

GROCER PUBLISHING CO.: Dear Sirs,—I enclose subscription, etc., etc. I like your paper very much; it throws out some very spicy hints in reference to the trade.

Yours truly, D. SHANKS.

LIVE AND LET LIVE.

MR. EDITOR,—While looking over an advertising sheet the other day, the motto quoted above caught my eye. It was the ad. of a butcher, and knowing how prone these gentlemen are to trespass upon the preserves of the grocer and provision dealer, I thought, Well, at last here is a butcher who should be supported, since he keeps to his own business and does not interfere with that of his neighbor. I thought I would at least patronize him since I admire his principles. I went to his store and found a nice display of—what? Eggs, butter, lard, vegetables all kinds, bananas, raspberries, strawberries, watermelons, apples, two kegs of cider, a display of canned goods, bulk and bottle pickles, table sauces, and meat. I turned away in disgust from, shall I say it, a hog—and thought Live and let live should not touch my money. Yours,

SUBSCRIBER.

A DEAF-MUTE RACE.

Institution for the Deaf and Dumb,
BELLEVILLE, July, 1889.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER:

DEAR SIR,—You have doubtless noticed in various newspapers articles stating that a Deaf-Mute variety of the human race is likely to be the result, in the near future, of the marriage of Deaf-Mutes. From the information I have been able to gather up to this time, I have only learned of one deaf child in Ontario (a little boy now about four years of age), whose parents are deaf and dumb. Of the hundreds of children who are now attending, or have attended, this Institution, there is not one congenitally deaf child who has deaf-mute parents. I would like to obtain full and accurate information in regard to this matter, and if you or any of your readers know of any deaf-mute married persons, with or without children, if you or they will kindly send me their addresses, I shall feel obliged.

There are deaf children of school age in the Province that I have not heard of and I am making an effort to get them into this Institution where they may receive an education that will fit them for the duties of life. The condition of an uneducated Deaf-mute is more deplorable than that of any other human being. Will you be good enough to help me to bring these children to school? You can do more than any other person I might address. The parents of some are not aware that an Institution exists where their Deaf children can be taught to read and write. There are others who have heard of the Institution but are probably not acquainted with its real character, or from other causes, fail to send their children to us; these might be induced by a little effort to send them. Deaf children between the ages of seven and twenty are admitted, educated and boarded at the expense of the Province. It is only required that the child shall be of sound mind and that the parents, or the municipality, if the parents are unable, pay the railroad fare and provide the necessary clothing. Application papers may be had by writing to me at Belleville and any information required will be cheerfully supplied. Yours faithfully,

R. MATHISON, Superintendent.

Chat by the Way

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—
592 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Mr. A. M. Smith and family have gone to the seaside.

Our able contemporary, the Monetary Times, is now in its 23rd year. We wish it continued prosperity.

Reports from Halifax state that Chicago and other large western cities are buying mackerel liberally in that market.

Mr. A. E. Saunders, grocer, Broadview Avenue, will have charge of the refreshment booths at the Grocers' Pic-nic on July 24th.

The Delhi Canning Co. has put up a very fine strawberry jam in glass this year. Last season's pack was good, but this year's is better.

Mr. F. James Gibson, of Bryant, Gibson & Co., pickle and sauce manufacturers, has just returned from a trip down East, and reports business good.

Mr. John Butcher, and Jas. H. Falkner have just returned from an extended tour on the Continent, and are now busily engaged in relating the wonders of London and Paris.

RUBBER STAMPS.—Send 25 cents for your name, or name and address with a nickle-plated pen and pencil. Address, GROCER PUBLISHING CO., No. 5 Jordan St., Toronto.

Mr. Joseph McEvoy, grocer, has purchased the house and lot, corner of Niagara Street and Wellington Avenue, for $2,200. He will have it converted into a store for his own occupation.

Mr. Charles Peter, of Smith and Keighley, has taken three months leave of absence for a European trip. His route will be taken by Mr. W. W. Goddard, formerly of Warren Bros. & Boomer.

Mr. Alfred Robinson, the Canadian agent of Sunlight Soap, was in the city this week and established an agency here with Mr. Stark as manager. Mr. Wolfenden, the lightning advertising agent, has also been doing the city. So thoroughly has he done his work that no matter where one goes Sunlight Soap meets the eye.

W. Boulter & Sons, of the Bay of Quinte Canning Factories, are being complimented from all quarters on the remarkably fine quality of their strawberry pack. They certainly deserve it, for their goods are superior to anything ever seen on this market.

We have to thank Wm. Bishop & Co., grocers and Italian warehousemen, of Port Arthur, for a copy of "Port Arthur Illustrated," which will prove an invaluable guide to intending tourists. Bishop & Co. are offering special inducements to sportsmen in the way of camping outfits.

The leaders of the Co-operative Store system in Great Britain are talking of forming an International Co-operative Society. The idea is to first extend the "blessings" of the system to the British Colonies and afterwards include within its scope the nations of the Continent of Europe.

Never place your goods on your shelves without measuring, gauging and weighing them. Clerks in wholesale houses are apt to make mistakes and it is your business to see that you are not a victim of them. When mistakes are found no reputable house will refuse to correct them.—[Penn. Grocer.

Mr. W. H. Murray, Brockville, in renewing his subscription to THE GROCER says he would not be without it. His trade this year is very satisfactory. He thinks the outlook for higher prices for cheese is good and if realized, it will add greatly to the fall business in Brockville in all branches of trade.

Mr. Robert Barron, grocer, Yonge Street, the popular vice-president of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, met with a painful accident at the wharf the other day. In jumping off one of the steamers he slipped, falling heavily against a truck. No bones were broken, but he is compelled to keep to his bed for a few days. We hope to see him around and in the fat man's race at the Grocers' Picnic.

A London cable of Saturday says: "In the Mincing Lane markets beet sugar is dull and about 6d. lower. Cane is slow of sale. Refined is steady and unchanged. Coffee is irregular. Plantation Ceylon is from 3s. to 4s. above last week's prices. Rio is about 1 florin higher. New Congou teas sell at about 2d. decline. Indian is firm, with a good demand. Ceylon has not improved. Rice and spices are quiet.

The Pacific coast is evidently not in favor of reciprocity with Canada. The Chicago Grocer says: Before the Senate committee which is investigating the relations of the Pacific coast with Canada, the details of the canning business were given by E. B. Beck, a prominent canner, last week. He said that British Columbia canneries during the last five years had turned out 800,000 cases of salmon, while American canneries have packed 4,200,000 cases. There would, in his opinion, be no advantage to canners in reciprocity with Canada. Certainly there would not. Canada under a high protective duty, much like our own, is encouraging and fostering her manufacturers. She has much cheaper labour and could undersell us in our markets. This applies to more things than canneries.—[Baltimore Trade.

The following is a simple French test for telling whether eggs are fresh or not: Dissolve two ounces of salt in a pint of water, when a fresh laid egg is placed in this solution it will descend to the bottom of the vessel, while one which has been laid the day previously will not quite reach the bottom; if the egg be three days old it will float in the liquid, and if more than three days it will float on the surface, projecting above the latter more and more as it happens to be lighter with increased age.

The farmers in Southern Indiana are combining for the purpose of purchasing supplies from retail grocers with considerable detriment to many members of the trade. They agree to purchase from only one store in the neighborhood at a net profit of only 10 per cent., and reserve the right to examine the storekeeper's books and invoices. While the other dealers suffer, the lucky one who is chosen generally manages to make a good thing out of the bucolic element, playing the double invoice scheme, the false one being shown to the hay-seeds. These arrangements will probably prove very brief, but it is only what might be expected of the men who denounce combinations and monopolies so warmly.

The New York Retail Grocers' Association has created a fund for indemnifying its members for loss or temporary disablement of their horses which are so extensively used by that class of retail dealers. The scheme involves the payment of a small entrance fee and annual dues to the amount of 1½ per cent. of the value of stock insured. In return for this outlay the insurer receives from the Association the amount of his insurance, in case of his animal's death or injury; limited to $75 as the minimum and $225 as the maximum figure at which he may insure his stock. This method of securing grocers against loss seems to have merit as there is more or less danger always menacing a team in constant use in a large city where a great amount of traffic is carried on.

"Why is it so little good butter is made by our farmers; or, why do they make butter at all, if they do not make good butter? Complaints are general, especially at this time of the year, that some of the butter is rancid and ill-flavored. In fact, good butter is the exception and not the rule. There is no excuse of making poor butter that sells for 14c. or 15c. a pound when choice "gilt edge" butter would sell for one-third more in our markets and for exportation. Farmers if they make good butter by improved appliances, and put it up in an attractive form, are sure of a good price for all they can make, while butter can be profitably shipped to the English market.—[London Free Press.

"Early closing, especially during the hot months, is now generally accepted by merchants in all lines of business as the only proper thing to do. When the movement started a few years ago, it had a hard struggle for existence. People said it couldn't possibly prove successful. But it has, and now that it is generally adopted, everybody sees its many beneficial results. There is sound philosophy back of the early closing movement, in more ways than one. In the first place, it brightens up the clerks and makes them take more interest in their work, so that they can sell more and give better satisfaction to the customers. That is a positive gain, not only to the salesman and saleswoman, but to their employers." So says the Pennsylvania Grocer, and we are sure that these remarks will be re-echoed by the majority of merchants.

We have added to our list of samples the following, received from F. H. Tippet, of Montreal, who is the Canadian agent for these goods. Mr. Tippet says of them: Worcester Sauce (Holbrook & Co's), the enclosed extracts from various papers give you an idea what is thought of it in England. "Health" Cocoa (H. Thorne & Co., Ltd.), without doubt the purest and best yet produced; it is put up in packages as sent, and in ¼, ½ and 1-lb tins, at a price not beaten by any, where quality is concerned. Concentrated borax (The Patent Borax Co.), also a borax book, which will be found full of useful information. "Royal Palace" Blue (John Johnson & Co.), used in Her Majesty's laundry in preference to any other, which in itself is sufficient guarantee of its superior quality; it is 30 per cent. better and is cheaper than any other English blues. Patent Gran. N. S. Blacklead (John Johnson & Co.) is a specialty of Messrs. Johnson & Co., and the special virtues of it will be found set forth on the tin.

In the International Series Counter Check Books, manufactured by Morton & Co., 3 and 5 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, merchants are guaranteed in their use by letters patent. Samples are furnished free of the best check book yet introduced. Thousands now in use.

THE MARKETS

TORONTO, July 11, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

The demand for immediate use is very fair. There are a good many small lots of tomatoes and corn going out and firmer prices are being realized. For futures there is not much inquiry. A few lots of strawberries have been placed, but as a rule wholesale houses are holding off, preferring to wait developments. Last season's experience was not of such a character as to encourage early purchases. Tomatoes have sold at 85c. to 95c. for the general run with a few special brands at higher figures, but dealers find it difficult to get over 85c. when so many houses are willing to sell at that figure. Corn has also sold very well in small lots. Prices are firm, and some holders have advanced 5c. Ordinary brands are selling at 90c. to 95c., with the better grades at $1 to $1.10, and fancy as high as $2. Peas were quiet. Salmon is selling freely at $1.75 to $1.80 for the best brands. Lobsters are very firm ; new pack are selling at $1.65 for Loggies, and $1.75 for Sterling. Mackerel are hard to get, and high prices are demanded, $1.37½ f.o.b. St. John being asked.

COFFEES.

Trade is dull ; demand being light at the moment. Rios are not so firm but prices are unchanged. Javas however are firmly held. The prospects for the coming season do not appear favorable to a higher range of value. The visible supply will be in round figures, a million and a half bags greater than at the same time last year ; and it remains to be seen whether this surplus, in conjunction with the increasing production of Central America and the West Indies will not fully satisfy the consumptive requirements, even allowing for the confirmation of light crop estimates still reported from Brazil.

On Wednesday last a cable was sent to Mr. F. C. Pinto, of Rio Janeiro, as follows : "Give surplus last crop ; give quantity to be exported ; do you confirm estimate of present crop ?" To which reply comes : "Surplus, 750,000 bags ; crop yielding less than was expected ; it is now a certainty that export will be 1,750,000 bags ; you may thoroughly rely on my estimate." Mr. Pinto's estimate is 1,500.000 bags.—[New York Commercial Bulletin.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are in good request, and quite a number of small lots have sold this week at about 5c. Some lots of inferior have been sold at 4½c., but really choice barrels and half barrels are worth 5¼c. and 5½c. Dates are quiet and steady at 6c. Figs are nominally unchanged. Stocks are pretty well cleared out. Prunes are moving more freely. The scarcity of dried apples and the high prices that are asked for the few lots offered has turned the demand on prunes. Figs are going at 5¼c. to 5⅜c. and hdds. can be bought for 4c. The best demand is for cases which have sold from 6¾c. to 8½c. A cable from Trieste says that the crops of Turkish prunes will be decidedly short. It is very hard to get any really sound Valencia raisins. There are only a few small lots on the market. Prices are very firm at ¼c. over last week. Wholesale lots have changed hands this week at 7c. and 7¼c. to 7½c. is asked for retailer's lots. Larger Valencias are getting very scarce also, and sales are being made at 9c. for choice. Elemes are also pretty well cleared out ; they are held at 6½c. to 6¾c. Demand for Sultanas is improving ; sales are being made at 7c. to 8½c. as to quality.

GREEN FRUIT.

Trade in this department is of a fairly satisfactory nature at the present time, although there is perhaps less activity shown than is usual at this time of the year. Taking the season the volume of trade has not come up to that of last year, but it must be remembered that the weather has had a most adverse influence all through. At the present time, when the demand for domestic fruits is increasing day by day, business in green fruit must necessarily suffer to some extent, and this is the condition ruling now. Still, however, business is not dull, and, everything considered, may be characterized as rather brisk than otherwise. The only oranges at present in the market are Rodi, and they are very scarce. All the Valencias have been cleaned out, and none are coming forward. For Rodis there exists but a moderate demand at $6.50 to $7 per box, and when these are cleared out it is not likely that any further shipments will be received, as the season for them is about over. The market is quite bare of lemons, and not many shipments are coming in. Those in stock are spoiling rapidly, but fresh arrivals are generally in pretty good condition. The hot weather has created a pretty fair demand. Prices are firm, the fruit selling from $5 to $6 per box, according to quality. Bananas have been somewhat scarce lately, but the last couple of days has seen considerable fresh stock arriving, which has left the market in a somewhat better condition, as regards stocks. For these there is a continued good request for reds, but yellows, as usual, are comparatively neglected. Prices are firm, ranging from $2.25 per bunch for good fruit to $2 and $2.50 for good to choice quality. New York despatches say : "For oranges and lemons the trade have been in receipt of very few orders, the fact that the auction offerings for this week promise to be liberal, holding the demand at private sale in check. Bananas are quoted at about former rates, but the demand is lacking in spirit. Pines were in good supply, and, though in fair demand, values are quoted as unchanged."

RICE AND SPICES.

Rice is firm and in good request at quotations. Spices unchanged. According to advices at hand there is a continued effort to "bear" pepper in London as well as here, and prices below current quotations are quoted, but holders do not shake out stocks readily. According to cable advices received, the total exports of pepper for six months, ending July 1, from Singapore, were 1,275 tons to United States and 4,350 to Great Britain, against 4,000 tons and 5,100 tons respectively in same period, 1888 ; and these statistics look strong instead of weak, especially as this year's figures include a cargo lost at sea while en route to Europe.

SUGARS.

The local demand has been fair and prices show no change on a week ago. Granulated is moving at 9⅝c. to 9¾c. and yellows at 7½c. up. The outside markets at the moment are a little easier. In the early part of the week New York refiners advanced prices ⅛c., but a couple of days later they declined ⅛c. and are now where they were a week ago. European cables report lower markets for both cane and belt with the market weak and declining. Willett & Hamlin, New York, in their weekly letter say: Quotations for raws remain unchanged. Although this is a broken week, on account of the holiday, the sugar market has shown continued strength, and the few parcels offered have been taken at full prices by refiners. Low grades have come into better enquiry, owing to the increasing scarcity of the better grades, and considerable transactions have taken place in such at prices relatively below the parity of the high grades. Europe keeps ahead in quotations, but without much change for the week. Total stock in the United States has increased for the week 1,248 tons, and is now 92,940 tons under same time last year. Deliveries and meltings for the week were exceptionally small. The month of June gave 101,518 tons receipts in four ports, against 120,472 tons same month last year, and gave 99,263 tons meltings, against 115,948 tons. Average daily meltings in June were 3,971 tons against 4,460 tons in June, 1888. There is no change to note in reports from producing countries. Total stock in all the principal countries is 667,722 tons, against 952,602 tons at same time last year. These stocks are cabled to us to-day by Messrs. Czarnikow & Co., and hence are to the very latest dates. They also say that the market seems to be on the eve of an advance.

Latest mail advices from Cuba report that a continued rainfall has proven very beneficial to the fields and the cane is growing fast and thick in the greater part of the producing districts, promising an abundant yield for the coming crop, and as the grinding is now completely terminated on all the estates, planters can apply all their forces to the cultivation of their fields.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are dull. A few sales of dark are reported at 4c. and the medium at 4¼c.

Molasses are firm with sales of barrels at 50c.

TEA.

The Indian Tea Association believe that the crop this year will amount to 107,000,000 lbs. an increase of 10,700,000 lbs. over last year and 20,200,000 lbs. of the year before.

☞ The articles contained in this Review are written by experienced representatives of the GROCER, are wholly unbiassed, and are an accurate reflex of the market.

WINES AND LIQUORS.

The customs' authority have changed their interpretation of the tariff on brandy, and now charge on the gallon or quantity instead of a percentage on the strength. This alteration increases the cost by about 75c. per case.

FISH.

Business this week is rather slacker than last, and altogether there is a slow trade doing. Supplies are not large, as dealers do not care to order heavily in the face of the poor trade doing. The hot weather has, of course, affected business adversely, and has made the demand of less proportions than it otherwise would be. British Columbia salmon have arrived in small quantities this week, and have met with a moderate request at 17c. per pound. Other prices are unchanged.

PROVISIONS.

In the local market a quiet, steady trade continues, and values remain without any important alteration. Smoked meats have been selling freely at quotations. Hams have been going out at 12c. and 12¼c.; backs have realized about the same figures, while bellies have gone at 11½c. to 12c., and rolls at 10½c. Longclear and Cumberland bacon have been selling at 8¾c. to 9c. in small lots, and 8½c. in tons and half cars. Lard is steady at 9¾c. to 10½c., the top being for small pails. Mess pork is dull at $14.50 to $15 for American, and $16 to $16.50 for Canadian.

The Cincinnati Price-Current says :—The movement of hogs the past week has been surprisingly large for the time of year, packing returns showing a total of 280,000 for Western points, against 260,000 the preceding week, and 175,000 the corresponding time last year. The season's total from March 1 is 3,815,000, against 3,155,000 a year ago—increase, 660,000. The week's gain is not only due to special efforts at Chicago to get hogs into that market before the close of June, but also to very liberal shipments into the Missouri river towns now slaughtering, where the aggregate has largely exceeded corresponding time last year. this unexpectedly large marketing is not likely to be maintained, the indications point to comparative plentifulness of supplies in the Western districts, and calculations as to the season's gain over last year are being enlarged. Prices of hogs receded somewhat during the week, improving later, and closing at about the same figures as a week ago. Packers have purchased freely, and shipments to Eastern markets have been about as usual. The exhibit of stocks of provisions at Chicago indicated larger supplies than generally calculated upon, especially of meats. The receipts of meats in that market during June from Western points were double as compared with corresponding time last year—the net shipments for the month were about the same as last year. While stocks have been accumulating at Chicago they have been kept at a comparatively low point at Western centres, under the shipments to Chicago and the good distribution going on. In view of the continued liberal gain in supplies the provision markets have been well sustained, but at the close reflect the influence of the enlarged holdings at Chicago and the plentifulness of hogs. The prevailing low point of values is attractive to foreign buyers, and exports of product are liberal, the week's movement showing a large gain over corresponding time last year in both meats and lard. The domestic distribution is of good volume, but it is doubtful if the aggregate movement for consumption at home and abroad in the recent past has fully kept pace with the manufacture. This order of things, however, will soon change, with decreased manufacture and enlarged demands from the South and elsewhere.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The high prices prevailing for butter brought in larger supplies last week and early this week, but during the past few days receipts have slackened up and the market is again tending firmer. Tubs and pails, which form the bulk of the supply, if good to fairly good quality, sell readily at 14c. to 16c., with a few selections at 17c. There are not many rolls, a few packages sold at 15c. to 15½c. Choice rolls in refrigerator boxes sold at 16c. There is a good demand for pastry at 13c. to 14c., and bakers' at 11c. to 12½c. There is a fair shipping demand, and a few lots have been taken off the local market for Montreal. A good many sales were made last week at country points by retailers at prices ranging from 12c. to 14c., but mostly at 13c. to 13½c. Creameries are lower. Dealers were offering on the spot fair quality at 18c. to 19c. Some of the creameries are not turning out very well. One dealer bought a lot last week at 18c., but when he went to examine it he found it off flavor, having been badly kept, there being no proper storage. Several sales of good June are reported at 19c. at the factory.

A private letter from Mr. P. T. Dunn, of Toronto, now of Vancouver, B.C., is not very encouraging to Ontario dealers. Mr. Dunn has been making enquiries regarding the British Columbia butter market. He says that market is being supplied by Manitoba creameries and dairies and they do not want our creamery, though later there may be an opening for dairies. The Canadian Pacific runs a refrigerator car from Manitoba to the coast every week and most of the Vancouver merchants have arranged for a weekly supply in this way. They have no good cellars, and therefore cannot carry any quantity of butter.

CHEESE—Weak and lower. Small lots are selling on the spot at 9c. to 10c., as to quality.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—Demand is light, but very few are obtainable. For choice hand-picked stock, $1.80 to $1.90 is asked.

DRIED APPLES—There is but little demand for immediate consumption. A few orders are coming from outside points, and these are being filled at prices ranging from 4c. to 5c. as to quality, in small lots. Any inquiry beyond this is on speculative account. It was reported that one car had been offered at 4c., with no takers; another car offered at 4¼c., and 4⅛c. was bid. Evaporated are also firm at higher prices. Small lots are quoted at 6½c. to 7½c. and trade lots about 6c. to 6½c.

DRESSED MEATS—Are dull. Only a steady trade doing.

EGGS—Demand is fair, and prices are firmer. Dealers are getting 13c. generally for carefully candled stock, but some quote 12½c. Canada eggs are doing well in New York; offerings there are light and sales are made at 14½c. to 15c.

HAY—Baled hay is easier. Receipts are not so liberal as they were a week ago, neither are there so many cars offering outside. The decline in prices, no doubt, having had this effect. Choice timothy is worth about $13 on the track, and good about $12. Mixed and second quality hay rules from $10 to $11.50.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-knowr brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

Markets—Continued.

HOPS—Dull. Demand is very light. Holders are offering 1888's at 20c. to 22c.

POTATOES—Are on the decline. Old are gradually becoming unsalable. Dealers are getting about 40c. for them out of store, and cars are offered on the track at 25c. without bids. New are in fair request and are selling at $2 per bbl. or $1 per bag in small lots.

WOOL, HIDES AND SKINS—Receipts of wool are quite liberal, and all offering are readily taken at 20c. for good merchantable fleece, and 22c. to 23c. for Southdown. Hides and skins are unchanged. Cured hides are moving at 5c. to 5¼c., and green at 2¾c. to 4¾c. Pelts are 30c., and lambskins 35c. Calfskins are taken at 5c. to 6c.

MONTREAL, July 11, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

Since our last the demand for canned goods generally has fallen off considerably, owing to the fact that buyers have filled their wants for the present, and as the offerings of new vegetables and fruits are now large, which are preferred by most buyers to canned goods, dealers do not look for much improvement for some time. The feeling has been steady and prices have been well maintained, as stocks are not large. The volume of business transacted has been small and of a jobbing character. On account of the larger offerings of new lobsters, old have ruled weak and declined to $5.50 to $5.60 per case, while new have met with a fair demand at $6 and some holders asking as high as $.650 per case. Old salmon has ruled firm at $1.70 per dozen. Tomatoes are firmly held at 90c. to 95c. per dozen. Corn is unchanged at $1 to $1.75 per dozen, according to brand. Peas are moving slow at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. Peaches have ruled steady at $2.15, Bartlett pears at $1.90, strawberries at $1.65 to $2, and pine-apples at $2.25 to $2.35. Armour's canned meats have been moving fairly well at firm prices.

SUGAR.

There has been no improvement in the sugar market, owing, no doubt, to the continued quiet advices from abroad on the raw sugar market, but the feeling here in refined sugar has been firm and prices well maintained. The demand has continued slow, as jobbers generally have good stocks on hand and until they are reduced some, refiners do not look for much activity. Granulated sold at 9¼c., and yellows at 7½c. to 8¼c. as to quality at the factory.

SYRUP.

The feeling in the syrup market has been very firm and prices have an upward tendency, owing to the fact that refiners are well sold out and the bulk of the stock is held in two hands. The demand has been good and the market has ruled more active with a larger volume of business including some fair sized lots at 4c. to 4½c. as to quality.

MOLASSES.

There has been considerable activity in the molasses market owing to the improved demand, and some large lines have changed hands at an advance in prices over previous sales. The market has a strong tone, and higher prices are confidently talked of in the near future. One large holder has sold out and the stock is now held in two hands who are strong at 50c., as 49c. was offered for 250 puncheons of Barbadoes and refused. A sale of 1,500 puncheons was made, and we understand the price was 48½c. A sale of 125 puncheons of St. Kitts was reported at 42½c., and another round lot of Porto Rico changed hands at 45c. This season so far about 6,000 puncheons has passed through one of our leading brokers hands.

TEA AND COFFEE.

There has been more enquiry for teas of all kinds and the market has ruled fairly active with a larger volume of business. In Japans several fair sized lots have changed hands on both local and English account at fair prices. Blacks have also been moving more freely and a few large sales have been affected. The tone of the market has been steady although the offerings have been larger. In coffee there has been no change, business being quiet and of a jobbing character at steady prices.

☞ The review of the markets published in the GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER is based upon information gained from personal application to both seller and buyer, as far as possible and quotations here given reflect, in most cases, the actual prices paid.

TO THE GROCERY TRADE.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

(OF LONDON), CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association,

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools: they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application

TELL THIS TO YOUR CUSTOMERS.

"If you ever use lemons," remarked one housewife to a lady friend, "and have a portion of one left over, be sure you do not throw it away."

"I am never without them in the house, as I always use them for flavoring, but of what use are pieces?"

"Just this: the next time you think you have done with a lemon, just dip it in salt and rub your copper kettle or stew pan with it. You will be surprised to find what a brilliant surface you will obtain if you rub the article instantly with a dry, soft cloth. You can polish all brass work by the same means, every stain disappearing as if by magic. A mouldy lemon put into a dirty saucepan half full of water and boiled for half an hour cleanses the utensil amazingly, and removes the odor, such as fish or onions. Try it and see if I am not right."—[Grocer and Canners' Gazette.

THE TRADE CONGRESS.

The committee of business men who have charge of the arrangements for the coming trade congress in Hamilton are now busily engaged in completing the details of the work to be done. A large number of business men from all parts of the province have decided to attend, and the meeting will without doubt be a most important one. In order to give all an opportunity of expressing their views on the various questions that will be brought up for discussion, it is likely that the speeches will be limited to ten or fifteen minutes each. Special committees will be appointed to discuss each question and report upon it. Much valuable time will thus be saved. Mr. Knox, of Knox, Morgan & Co., will be chairman. The sessions will last from 9.30 a.m. to 1 p.m., daily. The afternoon will be spent in sight seeing. Hamilton is making special efforts to entertain her many guests. A full account of the special attractions will be given later. In the meantime we may say she will spend about $2,000 a day during the convention in free shows. Arrangements have been made with the railways whereby every merchant attending the convention will get there and home again for a single fare.

The most important question for discussion will be "Bankruptcy and unjust compromises." Other subjects will be: "Mutual insurance for merchants only." "Better facilities for shipping roll and tub butter by rail during warm weather;" the fish dealers have special refrigerator cars, and why should not the butter dealers? "The peddler nuisance;" necessity of giving increased powers to county councils to deal with them. "Selling goods without a profit; its causes and its remedies." "Whether retailers should not shorten the terms of credit." "Losses by bad debts." "Cancellation of orders." "The egg trade, and the evils of collecting by pedlars." "The credit system generally." "Dating ahead." "Selling to merchants without capital." "Whether stock-taking should be annual or semi-annual." "Cash discounts" (wholesale).

As these are all important questions, and as there are others that should be considered, we would like to have the views of our readers, as the more discussion there is before the meeting the better will be the results.

FOR RETAILERS OF SUGAR.

There has been more or less cutting of late in the prices of yellow sugars on this market. During the past week it has been especially noticeable in some sections of the city. Let the cutters read the following pertinent paragraphs from a recent issue of the New England Grocer:

Every grocer who reads this article, and abides by the principle and common sense set down, will at the end of the year find himself with more money in the bank, and better pleased with the grocery business than he has ever been before.

The question under consideration is the the retailing of sugar at a profit. Now there is no reason in the world why every grocer in a town should not sell sugar at a fair profit. Let the retailers organize in every town, and agree to a certain percentage of profit on all the sugar they sell. It is too patent a fact that the majority of the members of the grocery trade have been suffering from a mania more or less affecting the pocket if not the head, and it takes the form of selling sugar at or below cost.

Don't for a moment think that you can run your neighbour out, if you put the sugar down to cost. It is only money out of your own pocket, for he immediately comes down to your price, and there you are, losing money on every cent's worth of sugar you are selling, for it is costing you anywhere from five to ten per cent. to do the business. If there is something that you must cut the price on, let it be something besides sugar. It is cutting your own throat to do it at all, for your neighbour always meets you, and possibly goes lower.

You may figure that twenty-five per cent. of the business that you do is on sugar. At the end of the year you may think that you have done a good business, judging from your sales, but take off about one quarter that has really brought you no profit, and then make your calculations.

Petty jealousies and beggar-my-neighbour principles should be sunk for the welfare of an honorable trade. We say again, Grocers, organize. You will find that all your competitors will be willing to join you, if some one will only start the ball. Lose no time but attend to this at once, yourself. Convene a meeting, and all agree on a fair, just and equitable profit on sugar.

THE OLD STORY.

Cable advices from Bordeaux report an advance in the price of sardines of 5f. or say, $1 a case. The fishing to date has been very poor, the fish running large in size and undesirable for packing. Packers have been unable to secure any considerable quantity for canning purposes, and the season has therefore yielded very poor results. The fishing has been pursued in the hopes of improvement in the grade of the fish, but the vessels arriving bring the same reports, that though an abundant quantity is obtainable, the fish are too large to be packed under desirable brands. The season for fishing, however, continues up to November; therefore there is an abundance of time to make good the deficiency that is now apparent. A similar condition of affairs has been witnessed in past seasons, and when the outlook has been most unfavourable a change has suddenly come to alter completely the season's results. It has frequently occurred that September has arrived before any good results were obtained, when the packing for that month has brought the totals up to a liberal showing, and made good the previous deficiency.

AN IMPOSTOR.

We have to caution our friends against one T. Lennon, who represents himself as an agent of the CANADIAN GROCER. He is not now and never has been in our employ. He collected several subscriptions in Hamilton, and endeavored to make contracts for advertising. He is well known to the police, but has not been seen lately. He claims to be the representative of several other publications.

LOSSES BY GIVING OVERWEIGHT.

In a recent number of the London Grocer is a discussion on the important subject of overweight given by storekeepers to customers. The question arose through a letter from an experienced grocery clerk, stating that it was foolish for retailers to hire inexperienced assistants at low wages rather than capable men at higher wages, as some grocers had been reported doing. The letter-writer, in the interest of good wages for his class, mentions, among other reasons for skilled clerks, that the grocer usually loses more in overweight than he gains in salaries by employing cheap and poor help. One clerk gives an instance of a young man at the butter counter to weigh out lard for the next day's sales. The employer counted out the number of packages necessary to make twenty-eight pounds and found that they together weighed thirty-one and a half pounds, a loss of three and one-half pounds —equal to the grocer's profit. In another case a quarter pound of cheese weighed six ounces, and in still another, some sausages, were two or three ounces overweight to the pound.

THE LOCAL RAILWAY FIGHT.

The most important matter that has come before the citizens of Toronto for many a day is the contest between the city and the Canadian Pacific Railway for the possession of the Esplanade, as the water front of the city is called. The question has been under discussion for some time, but unfortunately many of the citizens, probably through ignorance, are totally indifferent to the importance of it. Various solutions have been suggested, but the latest and most popular is the erection of an elevated railway along the front. Mr. Hugh Blain is one of the prime movers in this direction, and in the course of an interview this week that gentleman said:

"This is beyond doubt the most important question of a local character that has ever come before the people of Toronto during my time, and I have seen no proposition which will meet the growing requirements of the city except the elevation of the tracks. With a proper viaduct and a union station on the same level the whole problem would be easily solved. The railway companies would have the utmost freedom for rapid ingress to and egress from the city and the citizens would have perfect freedom of access to the water front in safety. With an elevated track the block of land on which the old Parliament buildings stand would, as far as I can at present see, be a more suitable place for a freight yard than the area which the C.P.R. wishes to expropriate. With a railway viaduct overhead the whole water front, as well as all the property adjacent to the railways would double in value and the additional taxes would go a long way toward paying interest on the outlay. In short, the whole front would speedily undergo an entire change alike creditable and beneficial to the city. The space under the tracks could be utilized so as to bring in a handsome revenue.

"I have no patience whatever with those who are unconcerned about a matter so deeply affecting the most vital interests of our city. Let any person walk up Yonge Street from Front Street in the afternoon between one and two o'clock and watch the hundreds of people rushing with ever increasing speed to catch their boat and think of the danger they are obliged to face by their excitement to be on time and say if any other city in the world of equal importance would permit such a death trap to remain at its very threshold. Bridges over the tracks will never give satisfaction. It is not in human nature to climb, and especially where a choice exists of a level crossing. Our carriages might use the bridges, but the foot passengers will rather incur the danger than take the trouble of going overhead. Bridges will never suit the people of the last decade of the nineteenth century. Besides their cost and the damages to adjacent property would contribute largely towards building the elevated road.

"The viaduct must go up, and it is the duty of every good citizen to give it a lift.

"The story of the C. P. R. and its efforts to capture that portion of the Bay almost exclusively used by our people throughout the whole existence of our city is interesting, but too long to go over during an interview. Fortunately the railway plot was discovered in time and Sir John Macdonald has assured us that all representations from whatever source will have due influence in the final decision of the question. It now remains for our citizens to take advantage of the privilege the Premier has thus extended. Of course, in what I have said I have not referred to the effect of expropriation by the C. P. R. of the area between Yonge and Simcoe south of the Esplanade, because I am persuaded that the Committee of the Privy Council will not be able to see its way clear to grant such an unreasonable demand. The viaduct proposal will offer a plan which will enable the Government to arrange a settlement which I believe will be in the interests of all concerned. I have also left untouched the future arrangement of our beautiful bay. With a moderate degree of careful attention by our city the entire water front could be made an endless source of pleasure and comfort to the overcrowded part of our city. To-day this portion of our population have no place for recreation without the disagreeable feeling of being menaced by constant danger. I have also said nothing about many minor points which will be brought forward in considering the question in detail."

THE GROCERS' PICNIC.

The posters for the widely known Toronto Retail Grocers' Association's Fourth Annual Picnic and Games are now being posted up all over the city, and the affair is the talk of not only the grocery trade, but the public at large. The programmes are now being distributed, and the list of events we publish in another column. Among other events will be a boat race open to master grocers only, members of the association, for a handsome epergne trophy with gold and silver stand supported on the head of an antiquated miner, with red and blue crystals in base, beautifully chased and engraved with fine imported ruby glass fruit dish, which has been presented by THE CANADIAN GROCER. The race, one mile with turn, will take place off the Exhibition wharf during the intermission, and will prove one of the most interesting features of the day, as a great many of the grocers of this city are and have been oarsmen. These picnics have become so well known now that hardly a grocer in the city would miss the affair. The Association extends a hearty welcome to merchants of the neighbouring cities and country to be present with them. Now, grocers, one and all, close your stores and be at the Exhibition Grounds on July 24.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

OBJECT LESSON FOR CLERKS.

No better object lesson for young men can be given than the experience of men who have attained that for which they started out in life.

We commend to our readers the words of one of Boston's successful grocers: "My father was a merchant in one of the cape towns. He had been a sea captain, but had retired, and like many other men of his profession, settled down by and by to a quiet business life on shore. He thought there was business enough for both of us, but I didn't, so I came away. I began at the bottom of the ladder and worked up. I always worked for the people I was with as though I was working for myself, and when I did go into business I found my place made for me by my own endeavor. When I was travelling salesman, I didn't look for somebody to play billiards with, I looked out for customers, and I usually found them. I made myself a power among the patrons, and I fulfilled every promise I made to them. Secret—why, there is'nt any secret. Mind your employers' business as though it were your own, which it is, for the time. Don't give eye service, but put your heart into it. Don't spend more money than you earn. Form good habits and good associations, and don't be above rolling up your shirt sleeves and going into hard work if necessary, and, above all, show a willing and cheerful spirit. Isn't that easy, and is there anything wonderful about it? Well, it's all there is."

NOT ASHAMED TO CARRY A BUNDLE.

It is said that Geo. W. Childs, the wealthy and charitable Philadelphian, is not ashamed to carry a bundle in the public street. Many of the young men of to-day would consider it almost an insult to ask them to carry a bundle. Years ago it was the custom of some of our best citizens to go to the grocer, basket in hand, and carry home the provisions bought. They did not feel any loss of pride by so doing. To-day how changed are the condition of things. The best citizens order their goods and the grocer is only too anxious to deliver them. The servants are even more haughty than their employers. They expect the grocer to deliver every order, no matter how small. Trouble, expense and inconvenience are never taken into consideration. The grocer is getting pay for his work, is their argument. I knew a grocer who refused to send a small order to one of his customers at the request of the cook, who made it a point to annoy him by giving the orders in small doses. The cook complained of the treatment, and the head of the house, whom the grocer had never seen, called the following morning for an explanation. The grocer stated his grievance and satisfied his customer that he had acted right in this matter. The result was, that the order for goods needed was written out every morning by the lady of the house, and given the grocer to fill. If anything was forgotten, the cook had to go for the same and carry them home herself. A little independence on the part of grocers, on such matters, would be to their advantage. Airs, frills, and insolence of servants are, as a rule unknown to their employers, and would not be tolerated if attention was called thereto.—[Retail Grocers' Advocate.

PRACTICAL HINTS FOR RETAILERS.

A great many grocers in getting out price-lists overlook the advantage of making their lists of a size which is convenient to the parties expected to use them. This is not so in the case of Mr. A. W. Hawk, of 492 North High Street, Columbus, O., whose price-list to hand this week is a model of neatness and convenience. It is built long and narrow so that it fits into the pocket conveniently, and the type is all of good size and everything arranged in order. It is a credit to Mr. Hawk, and we are pleased, in looking over the list, to notice that the class of goods he keeps is of the very highest character, well known to the trade, and such as to command the confidence and patronage of the consumer. He says in his introduction: "We believe that if any class of merchandise should be kept clean it is that which we are compelled to eat; therefore, we have spared no effort in furnishing our store with the latest and best improved fixtures to keep things fresh and clean from dust. We have taken special care to select only pure and wholesome goods that will give entire satisfaction to the trade, and believe in the protection of the consumer rather than selling inferior goods at large profits." They go on to say: "We have the question asked us very often, 'What are you going to do with all those fine, imported goods I see on your shelves?' We answer the question by saying that there are many persons who would like to indulge in these fine table delicacies, providing the retail grocer does not charge 25 to 50 per cent. more on these luxuries than he does on the necessaries of life. The amount of these fine goods being sold by us is proof that people are perfectly willing to use these goods at the prices for which we we sell them. We do not claim to carry the 'cheapest goods,' but do claim to sell a better grade of goods at a price that is but a shade higher than they would pay for inferior goods."

The above doctrine is so good that we commend it highly to the retail trade generally. There are hundreds of grocers who do not realize the importance of keeping everything in their store clean and free from dust. A grocery store should be particularly attractive by reason of its cleanliness, and there is not a first-class successful store in this country to-day in which cleanliness has not been made an essential feature; and of two groceries, the one which gives this matter closest consideration is sure, other things being equal, to prove the greatest success. Mr. Hawk says that he believes in the protection of the consumer rather than in selling inferior goods at large profits. To many grocers this will seem like a new doctrine, but it is a motive which should govern every man who is in the grocery trade. Goodness knows, the grocer has been looked down upon long enough. It is not so long since the dry goods, the hardware, the drug, the shoe, and other merchants were considered a peg higher than the grocer. Thanks to such men as Mr. Hawk, the trade is gradually facing that down, and rising in the estimation of the general public.

Another point which we commend to our grocery friends is the increasing use of fine goods. This is Mr. Hawk's experience, for he says: "The amount of these fine goods being sold by us is proof that people are perfectly willing to use these goods at the prices we are selling them at." The public, as a rule, are intelligent, at least intelligent enough to appreciate good quality at a fair price. A grocer who charges twenty-five cents for a quarter box of French sardines is not as likely to increase the consumption of such goods as the grocer who is satisfied to sell them at 20 or 21, and the average consumer would rather pay 20 or 21 cents for a can of good sardines than 18 cents for a can of inferior quality. It is so all along the line, and we close by commending our readers to a careful and thoughtful perusal of Mr. Hawk's announcement.—[American Grocer.

TO QUICKEN TRADE.

Many dealers talk about dull seasons in trade. No enterprising merchant should permit a dull season to come to him, but should keep hustling for business, to devise new and ingenious methods of advertising, and not allow his business to lapse into a state of inactivity. A well-known commercial writer says that while merchants, it may be, cannot command the volume of trade that is common in the busy seasons, they can have a constant and profitable business by making it the interest of buyers to become purchasers, and making fresh announcements of just what they have to offer. Let our business houses try the experiment of avoiding dull seasons. Advertising alone won't do it, but carefully studying what may be temptingly offered to the public, preparing to supply it on the most advantageous terms, and presenting it freshly to the people every day, will as surely prevent a dull season in business as the methods of the grandson of his grandfather will create and maintain it. There should be no dull season in trade, and the progressive newspapers are the agents by which it can be prevented.—[Grocers' Criterion.

HONOR IN BUSINESS.

Many storekeepers and clerks have an idea that an overreaching kind of shrewdness is a praiseworthy business quality, and that success in a commercial way largely depends upon this kind of sharpness and chicanery in dealing with customers. We think this is a mistaken idea. It has always seemed to us that it should be the first effort upon the part of a business man to gain the confidence and respect of his customers, not their ill-will and contempt by getting the best of them in a bargain. A customer who once finds himself swindled in buying goods will always be suspicious afterward of the man who swindled him. The dealer who thought himself sharp may make a little money by the transaction, but in the long run he loses a good and prompt paying customer who might have traded with him for years if he had retained his friendship, and induced him by fair and square dealings to continue his patronage. It has been sensibly said that "enduring prosperity cannot be founded on cunning and dishonesty, and that the tricky and deceitful man is sure to fall a victim, sooner or later, to the influences which are forever working against him. His house is built upon the sand, and its foundations will be certain to give way. Young people cannot give these truths too much weight. The future of the young man is safe who eschews every shape of double dealing, and lays the foundation of his career in the enduring principles of everlasting truth."—[Grocers' Criterion.

MARKING GOODS.

That a good deal of the "cutting" indulged in by retail merchants is due to a foggy idea of what constitutes a fair profit on the goods handled is quite evident to persons at all familiar with the grocery business. The prime essential that the cost of doing business must be added to the price of goods before the desired profit can be figured, is forgotten, and the selling price is fixed at an unremunerative rate. When items such as rent, clerk hire, insurance premiums, cost of delivery service, loss from deterioration of goods and bad debts are ignored in figuring prices, is it surprising that the retail grocery business has become far less profitable than it ought to be, considering the variety and the intrinsic value of the average stock? Any dealer of an experience reaching beyond twelve months ought to be able to calculate the cost of conducting his business, but it is doubtful if the average merchant devotes much attention to the subject, or performs the duty in other than the most perfunctory manner. As to the amount of the percentage on sales which the cost of doing business should reach, it varies with different stores. The lower the percentage, as a rule, the better the merchant. But unless a system of marking goods is established and rigidly enforced, a uniform rate of profit can seldom be secured. Here, again, is a fruitful cause of price cutting, due to pure ignorance. To trust to one's memory for the actual cost of a particular article is extremely reckless and hazardous, but that numbers of merchants and their assistants do rely entirely upon so poor an expedient is too true. The marking of the selling price of an article may at a pinch be dispensed with, but in the absence of any clue upon the articles as to their cost, mistakes will be inevitable, and generally losing ones to the dealer. To figure out the cost of goods, as billed by the jobber, is not difficult, and it is a simple matter to divide it by the number of pounds or packages constituting the jobbing unit. It is but a little more trouble, then, to mark the articles with the private cost mark. To the apparent cost should invariably be added the cost of doing business, whatever the percentage may be, then the actual profit desired is added. To legibly mark the total on every package, original or otherwise, will take but little time and trouble if performed promptly on receipt of the goods, but whatever the trouble the result is well worth it. Every person belonging to the store will then have a safe guide in selling goods, which will act as a check to the downward tendency which prices in many grocery stores of late years has so steadily taken.—[Merchants' Review.

TIME SERVERS.

How many men there are, holding good paying positions as journeymen, who are really of no value unless kept constantly under the eye of the foreman or their employer! They are simply time servers, who take no interest in the business they represent beyond the actual time necessary to count them a day's work. They work when closely watched because they are obliged to, not from any motive of honor or interest in the business.

What can be expected of such workmen but that they will shirk their work and idle their time at every opportunity?

If you cannot give your employer your full time for which he pays, and take some interest in his business, you had better leave him at once. To this he is entitled, and has a right to expect it of you.

If your mind is not upon your work, you cannot expect to accomplish it with any degree of satisfaction to your employer or credit to yourself.

In going about from one shop to another it is a very easy matter to pick out the time servers. Upon the slightest pretext they drop their work to talk or look about, and are always ready to get out of the door the moment the clock strikes six, and their example is very rapidly followed by the apprentice or younger workmen. They have to be constantly watched, and this fact, being known to the firm, is not long in having its results.

Employers are more generally knowing as to the habits and qualities of the men they employ than the men often realize, and they invariably know who are the time servers among them, so that when there comes a convenient opportunity or a lull in business, these are the first to be discharged.

It pays to be faithful and to do your best at all times, and more especially when your employer is not watching. If you must idle away time, do it when he is about, but don't dishonor yourself or betray his confidence by taking advantage of his absence.

This is one of the worst features of our American system. It is an example which is set by the older men, and which is readily adopted by apprentices, and it is the exception rather than the rule that we find a young man who is sufficiently interested in his own welfare and his employer's as well to give his full time and attention to his work. Those who do this are sure of success, and it is from among such that have risen those men whose names are written upon the pages of history as having made their mark in the world, and left behind not only pleasant recollections, but a shining example that is worthy of a careful imitation.—[Harness.

THE INCREASE OF SMALL GROCERS.

In all the rapidly growing cities of this country there are far too many small grocery stores. The same appears to be the case in Great Britain; but the causes here are somewhat different. The population of our cities is largely increased by the arrival of families from the surrounding country. They have in most instances been farmers. They have made a little money and have probably enough to keep them in the country for the remainder of their days. They find, however, on coming to the city that it costs more to live here, and hoping to make up for the difference, they open a small grocery store. The trade here suffer a good deal from them.

Somehow or other, says the London Grocer, the ordinary grocer has always been an attractive target to unscrupulous traders and adventurers. As to the profitableness or otherwise of the business, which, it might naturally be inferred, constituted the tempting bait, it would be superfluous for us to weary our readers with a disquisition on one of the features of the trade, the character of which has been only too painfully experienced in a greater or less degree by every member of it, and more especially during the past few years. The more legitimately a grocer conducts his business, the more liable, it would appear, he renders himself to attack: and the fact that the requirements of his neighborhood are already amply provided for, acts as an incentive to his intended assailant rather than a deterrent. If a butcher, a baker or a chemist is about to embark in commerce, he invariably turns his attention to a locality in which he thinks there is an opening ; not so with a section of the grocery branch, whose aim is to get in the crowd at all hazards, and make the trade as unprofitable as possible, with the result that they accomplish nothing themselves and do their neighbors a great deal of harm—to say nothing of the ruinous reduction in prices which is very often the inevitable consequence. Opposition there always has been and doubtless always will be, and so long as it is carried out on lines of fair play and common honesty we shall never attempt to denounce it, but when a suicidal policy such as we have witnessed on different occasions is vigorously pursued, the result proves not only unsatisfactory, but frequently disastrous to those concerned.

Taken altogether, the shopkeeping class has of late years increased at a prodigious rate, and grocers have not been behind in contributing their quota to the number. A large number of the industrial classes having inherited small legacies are induced to embark in the "grocery and provision business" with a view to the profitable employment of their disposable capital. They have had no experience whatever, but considering the facilities offered by small and anxious wholesale dealers, of whose willingness to supply anybody or everybody with goods on credit they have heard so much about, and the fact that Mr. Smith or Mr. Jones commenced under similar circumstances, apparently doing well, they are sanguine of success. It needs no prophet to predict the result of such a venture. Another unfortunate class of people who, animated by laudable motives, embark in the grocery and provision trade is represented, let us say, by the wife of the respectable artisan. By industry and self-denial she has saved a few pounds, and, like her colleague referred to above, without any previous experience, she must needs have a shop. With a light heart she invests her hard earnings in one in some back street, with the result that before the short space of six months has elapsed, her husband's wages are mortgaged, as it were, every week to meet her accounts. Her house, her family, and her husband are neglected ; and what with bad management, together with bad debts, incurred by a set of vampires who are ever ready to fawn upon her, and who are the delusive supporters of these small shops, her social and pecuniary position is truly pitiable. There are, of course exceptions to every rule, but our description of the generality of small shopkeepers is not by any means overdrawn. We could almost fill a volume with the experiences of this class of small traders, who, after struggling on for years, have at length succumbed to the inevitable, and in many instances have never afterwards been able to extricate themselves from their indebtedness.

Our object is not to attack these small dealers, who have as much right to open a grocer's shop as anybody else, and for whom we have much sympathy, but to point out the enormous amount of desultory trading that is carried on at the expense of those who are justly entitled to a larger share of public patronage.

SHOULD PAY THEIR BILLS.

Grocers will have a warm spot for Police Commissioner Gjertsen, of Minneapolis. In speaking about city employees not paying their bills he says :

"I think a man who does not pay his regular bills should not be drawing a salary from the city. I don't care what department he may be connected with. Here he is drawing good money every month from the taxpayers of the city, and then cheating people out of their legitimate dues. A few men of this kind bring disgrace upon the entire department. A policeman, or a fireman, or any other city employee is given credit by virtue of his being connected with the city government. When it is found that a man is taking advantage of this credit and confidence, it is the proper thing, it seems to me, to discharge him from the city's employ."—[Northwestern Trade.

By those in interest it is stated that the proposed gigantic salt company in this country will not be completely formed before October. The arrangements are said to be progressing favourably.

The "Sunlight" soap manufacturers, with their usual enterprise, are introducing something new at the Grocers' Picnic, to be held July 24. One is a washing competition, and the other a prize trip to England. The former is open to the wives, daughters, assistants and helps connected with the business or home of any member of the Retail Grocers' Association, for which three valuable prizes will be given. The articles to be washed, also a supply of "Sunlight" soap and necessary water, will be ready for each competitor at the Exhibition Grounds, where the washing will be done. Also to the first ten thousand persons entering the field at either gate, between the hours of one and five, Messrs. Lever Bros. will give a "Sunlight" card bearing a printed number, which makes the holder a lawful competitor for the "Sunlight" Prize Trip to Liverpool. At the close of the washing competition this prize will be drawn for, and the winning number announced. The holder of the ticket bearing the corresponding number to that drawn will be presented with a first class saloon return ticket to Liverpool, England, and will be invited to visit the new "Sunlight" Works of Messrs. Lever Bros., Port Sunlight, near Birkenhead the largest soap works in the world.

Bankruptcy in England ranks next to a high crime. If a member of Parliament loses his property and be adjudicated a bankrupt, he at once loses his seat in that august body. A mayor, alderman, councillor, guardian, overseer, member of school board, highway board, burial board, or select vestry, also forfeits his office if he prove so derelict in his business affairs as to be unable to pay his debts.

THE MARKETS

TORONTO, July 18, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

Quiet, but with a better feeling all along the list. Corn and tomatoes are held higher, and there is a pretty good demand for them. Packers anticipate a short pack of tomatoes this season, and we know of at least one firm, Lakeport Preserving Co., which refuses to quote future tomatoes just yet. Wholesale houses are asking 85c. to $1.10 for small lots now in demand, and sales are made mostly at 95c. to $1.05. Corn is in fair request at $1 for ordinary good stock; Honey Dew is held at $1.75. Peas are unchanged; packers are asking $1.10 to $1.20 for new pack. Fruits are generally dull, though a few small orders are being placed for forward delivery; there is a fair demand for peaches from retailers, and apples have also sold at 85c. to 90c. for 3's, and $2.25 for gallons. Fish is in good demand, and all varieties are firm. Salmon is selling at $1.70 to $1.80 for pink, and $1.62½c. for white. New mackerel is just in, and is quoted at $.1.50 to $1.60; stocks are light and prices firm. Lobsters are also firm at $1.65 to $1.70 for ordinary brands.

TEA.

Trade on the local market has been of a very limited character. A few new Japans have changed hands, and there have been some small transactions in blacks, but green teas have remained neglected. The New York market has shown a little improvement, with more doing in Japans and Oolongs, Congous and greens remaining steady and unchanged. Advices from London report Congous quiet, but greens held very firm for all grades. Last mail advices from Japan under date of Hiogo, 21st June, say there has been quite an excited demand for low grades, with free buying at the improved prices. Figures have advanced for the lower grades $2 per picul. Teas above $20 remain about the same—if anything, a little weaker.

COFFEES.

Outside markets continue to improve. American markets for spot coffees are, in fact, quite active. Nothing of importance is doing on this market. Rios are selling at 20c. to 21c.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are selling more freely and prices of the better grades are steady at 5c. to 5½c. Vostizzas are worth 6½c. to 7c. in cases and half cases. A London letter of July 4 says, that the crop will be lighter than last year; some say that it will be 20 to 25 per cent. less, but this is indefinite yet.

Dates and figs are unchanged.

The currant crop is estimated to be about ten per cent less than last year.

Prunes—There is not much doing excepting in case goods and the better grades of these are taken in preference to others; they are selling mostly at 7½c. to 8½c. Common are going slowly at 4½c. to 5c.

The raisin market is very firm at lighter prices. Valencias are ¼c. to ¾c. lighter than last week and there are very few here. Reports from New York say that there is only one lot of prime off-stalk there. On the spot, wholesale dealers are getting 7⅜c. to 7½c., and for round lots 7c. to 7¼c. is asked. Davidson & Hay are getting a car in and they offered part of it at 6⅞c. to an-

SUGARS.

This market has undergone no quotable change since last review, but there has been some improvement in foreign markets, which has reflected a better feeling here. Demand is fair, but it is for small lots. Jobbers are not buying much. Granulated remains at 9⅜c. to 9¾c., and yellows at 7¾c. to 8¼c. for dark to bright. There are a few raws offering at 7⅜c. to 7½c. Refiners are very firm in price, and say they will not shade prices. Latest cables report a better feeling, and best higher.

A parcel of 18,600 bags of beet sugar brought here from Europe in February last has been in stock until to-day, when sale for it was found in Hamburg, and it will be re-shipped. This does not look as though Europe had any sugar to unload upon us.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Demand is dull, and prices are nominally unchanged.

PROVISIONS.

There are no dressed hogs arriving by rail these days, but local farmers are buying in a few. Prices are steady, dealers are paying about $7 per cwt. The provision trade is fairly active and prices are the same as a week ago. There has been no change in the Chicago market since last week; receipts of hogs have been larger and are quite liberal; lard has been in good demand for export and middles slow, owing to the cut being heavier. Mess pork is dull; Canadian is worth about $15 and American $14. Long clear bacon is in fair request at 8½c. in lots and 8¾c. to 9c. in small quantities. Lard is quiet; Canadian is scarce, firm, and wanted at 11c. to 11½c.; American steady at 9½c. to 9¾c. for tubs, 10c. for pails, and 10¼c. to 10½c. for small pails. Smoked hams are selling freely at 11½c. in lots to 12c. for smaller quantities. Bellies are also in good request at 13c. Rolls are selling at 10c.

The Cincinnati Price Current says: "While the movement of hogs in the west has been considerably reduced the past week, as compared with the records of recent previous weeks, still there has been a large gain in the comparison with corresponding time last year, when the total packing was quite moderate, aggregating only 125,000, against which the past week shows 220,000, or 60,000 less than the preceding week, and 95,000 gain over corresponding time last year. The season's total packing from March 1 is 4,035,000 hogs, against 3,280,000 a year ago; increase, 775,000. The indications are that the average weight is now moderately reduced, although still considerably above a year ago as a rule. In the provision trade the plentifulness of supply of the raw material has continued to exert a depressing influence; values have been fairly well maintained during most of the week, but close with a reduction, which is the most marked in pork, this article being in good supply at Chicago, and but little speculative interest in it. Meats and lard are moderately reduced in values, the weakness extending to sweet pickled meats, which have previously been well sustained. The distribution of product, both to domestic consuming districts and to foreign markets, is liberal, the exports for the week being largely in excess of corresponding time last year, in meats especially, the movement of which was more than double, compared with a year ago.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

BUTTER—Local receipts of butter have increased during the past day or two, but prices are still fairly maintained. There are a few half barrels and boxes of large rolls. As a rule these have been of fairly good quality and have arrived in fair condition, and have sold at 16c., with a few at 16½c. Dairy tubs and crocks have been in good demand and choice have sold readily at 16c. to 16½c., selections at 17c., and medium to good at 15c. to 15½c. Store packed is also coming in very sparingly and finds a ready sale at 14c. to 15c. There is a good inquiry from bakers for pastry at 14c., and common at 12c., but the supply of these grades is very light, and all coming in is taken up as soon as offered. Creameries are steady; sales have been made at the factories at 19c. to 20c., part of them being on export account. The best sale was that of Mr. Hannah, Seaforth, who sold the product of his three factories at 20c., for shipment to Edinburgh.

CHEESE—Demand is dull, and prices, on the spot, are unchanged. Finest is held at 10c. to 10½c. in small lots, while white can be bought at 9c. to 9½c. The British markets are cabled declining.

The Markets—Continued.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—There is not much demand, but prices are firm, and the few sales reported have been at about $1.80 for choice hand-picked white beans.

DRIED FRUIT—No business reported in large lots of dried apples, but small lots are selling at 4c. to 5c. Dealers say they are not able to get but very few; country merchants are asking 5c., and dealers are bidding 4c. Evaporated are selling pretty freely, in lots of one to three boxes. Sellers have different opinions of the value, and prices consequently vary from 6½c. to 8c. The feeling is pretty strong, and, to-day, one local dealer bid 7c. for new evaporated for fall delivery.

EGGS—Receipts are light, but they are sufficient for the demand which is only limited. Prices are firm at 13c. Offerings are running bad; there are numerous complaints even of the candled stock.

HAY—This market is dull, and prices are lower. Choice timothy is in good demand, and there is not much of it offering. It is worth about $12.50 on the track. Fairly good stock has sold at $10, and good at $12, on the track. Straw is dull at $7 to $8, there being but little demand.

HOPS—Are dull. A lot of 1888 crop was was offered at 20c., with 18c. bid.

ONIONS—American new are selling at $3.50 per barrel for good quality.

POTATOES—Old remain slow and are lower. Cars are unsalable, but small lots are selling 30c. to 40c. per bag. New are steady and in good demand at $2 per bbl., or 70c. per bushel.

WOOL, ETC.—There are a good many small lots of fleece wool arriving; demand is good and sales are being made at 20c. for good merchantable fleece to 15c. to 16c. for rejections. Hides are unchanged. Dealers are buying at 2¾c. to 4¾c., and selling cured at 5c. to 5¼c. Lambskins and pelts have advanced to 40c. Calfskins are unchanged at 5c. to 6c.

MONTREAL, July 18, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no new feature in the canned goods market during the past week. The feeling continues firm as stocks are not large and the offerings from packers are light at present, in consequences prices have been maintained all round. The demand has been slow and business has ruled quiet and of a jobbing character. New lobsters have been offered more freely at $6 to $6.50, but few have changed hands owing to the fact that buyers are holding off in anticipation of lower prices in the near future. Old stock has been moving slow at $5.50 to $5.60 per case. Salmon is unchanged at $1.70 per dozen. Mackerel continues very scarce at $5 per case. Tomatoes are firm at 90c. to 95c. per dozen. Corn has been little inquired for at $1 to $1.75 as to brand, and peas have ruled quiet and steady at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. Fruits have been neglected but prices are steady. There continues to be a fair demand for Armour's meats and a good business has been transacted at steady prices.

SUGAR.

The sugar market has continued quiet and, if anything, easier, owing to the quiet advices from abroad on raw material, but no noticeable change in prices has taken place up to the present. Stocks in refiners' hands have been increasing, as the demand has been limited, on account of the fact that jobbers have ample supplies on hand to fill requirements, and until such are worked off considerably trade will likely rule quiet. We quote granulated at 9¼c. and yellows at 7½c. to 8¼c., as to quality, at the factory.

MOLASSES.

Since our last the market for molasses has been quieter, and few sales have been made, owing to the fact that holders are very strong, and asking higher prices than buyers care to pay at present, but there is little doubt that buyers will have to come to the mark later on, as stocks are held in two hands. Barbadoes is firmly held at 49c. to 50c., Porto Rico at 45c., Trinidad at 41c. to 42c., and Antigua at 42c. to 43c.

SYRUP.

There has been no important change in the syrup market, prices have been firm owing to the light stock held by refiners. There has been a fair demand from jobbers for small lots and the market has ruled fairly active, with a good business. We quote prices 4c. to 4¼c., as to quality, at the refiners.

FRUIT.

The demand for green fruit has been good, and the market has ended active, with a good business. The receipts of most kinds have been large, and buyers have been able to fill their wants without difficulty. Oranges have been more plentiful, and prices have declined to $5 to $5.50 per box, with sales of some Sorrento's at $6. New lemons have been selling at $4.50 to $4.75, with old at $4.50 per box. Bananas have been moving freely, and prices have declined to $1 to $1.25 per bunch. New apples have met with a fair demand at $2 to $2.50 for good, while fancy have sold at $3 to $3.25 per barrel. Peanuts have ruled stronger, and advanced to 10c. to 11c. Evaporated apples have improved to 7c. to 7½c., and as high as 8c. has been paid for some lots. Dried apples are easier at 4c. to 4½c. New dates are lower at 5¼ to 5½c., and Eleme figs are higher, at 9c. to 10c. Valencias have been all cleared from first hands, and trade has been confined to jobbing lots at 7c. to 7½c. Private crop advices on currants are unfavourable.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The demand for teas has been slow and the market has ruled quiet, with only a small volume of business. The offerings are larger, but buyers do not feel disposed to take hold just now. Orders from the country have been limited owing to the fact that storekeepers have sufficient stock on hand and do not care to place further orders at present. The feeling in the market is rather easy, but no noticeable change has taken place. Coffee has been quiet and steady.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

There has been a fairly active trade in flour at firm prices, in fact some improvement has occurred. Sellers are not anxious, as receipts from the west will not be heavy until new flour begins to move. The close was firm and well maintained.

Patent winter	$5 40 @ $5 60
Patent spring	5 75 — 6 00
Straight roller	4 75 — 5 00
Extra	4 40 — 4 50
Superfine	3 50 — 4 25

Strong bakers'	5 25 — 5 55
Superfine bags	1 75 — 2 00
Extra, bags	2 10 — 2 25
Oatmeal, standard, (per bag)	0 00 — 1 90
Oatmeal, granulated, (per bag)	0 00 — 2 00
Oatmeal, rolled, (per bag)	0 00 — 2 10

The grain market has a strong tone but without animation. Wheat has ruled quiet in the absence of offerings. Crop advices from Manitoba are unfavorable, and all old wheat is strongly held. Peas have made a considerable advance with business done at 5c. to 7c. above the prices of two weeks ago, with some holders asking up to 80c. We quote :—No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.17 to $1.18 ; No. 2 hard Manitoba, $1.12 to $1.14 ; peas, 77c. to 78c. per 66 lbs. afloat ; oats, 29c. to 30c. ; barley, 50c. to 55c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

There has been a fair jobbing movement in provisions. Canadian pork has been well exhausted and the remaining stock is held firmly, while Western is in good supply. Lard has continued in fair request, but for round lots prices might be shaded.

Canadian short cut, per bbl	$17 00 @ $17 50
Mess pork, western	00 00 — 15 00
Short cut, western	15 25 — 15 50
Hams, per lb	0 11 — 0 11½
Lard, western, per lb	0 09½ — 0 09¾
Lard, Canadian	0 09½ — 0 09¾
Bacon	0 10 — 0 10½
Shoulders	0 00 — 0 00
Tallow	0 06 — 0 06¼

EGGS.

The egg market has lost the advance of last week owing to heavier offerings and slower demand together with warm weather. Last sales were at 13c. to 13½c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

There has been a larger business in butter and the market has improved. Buyers have bought largely of creamery and Western dairy at country points, but such seems to be held, which lends a speculative aspect to the buying. At any rate the market has gained tone and prices have appreciated some, and as makers have now less accumulation they are correspondingly firmer. Creamery has realized 20c., finest dairy 17c. to 17½c., and Western 13½c. to 14½c., with an occasional lot up to 15c. for jobbing purposes. Creamery, 19c. to 20c. ; Townships, 16c. to 17½c. ; Morrisburg, 15c. to 16c. ; Brockville 15c. to 16c. ; Western, 13½c. to 15. The cheese market has continued mixed and uncertain, in fact operators are completely at sea.

TO THE GROCERY TRADE.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

(OF LONDON), CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association,

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools : they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

BUTTER TOO HIGH.

Country storekeepers are paying farmers too much for butter under the present conditions of the market. There is very little being bought now for less than 14c., while 15c. is quite common, and even 16c. is not unusual. If the outlook favored a light supply and a good export demand these prices would be warranted. But it does not. The pastures all over the Province have not been better for years. The hay crop is heavy. The export demand is only fair. The northern and western merchants have sold up pretty close during the past few weeks, but the stock does not appear to have gone out of the country. The bulk of it is in store in Montreal. Some eight or ten car loads are reported to have gone there last week. Country merchants gain nothing by paying these high prices. On the other hand, many of them lose, for they will hold their purchases until they can get the prices paid, which means that they will hold until the butter goes off in flavor and can only be sold at reduced prices.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The letter from Mr. Morgan, a merchant of Delhi, published in another column, directs attention to several interesting features that should be dealt with at the coming Trade Convention. One of the most important to which he refers is the credit system. A very large percentage of the failures in business is due to the credit system. Retail merchants give too much credit, and do not collect their accounts promptly. Competition is so great that any customer is willingly supplied with all he requires before any inquiry is made as to his antecedents; that is, before the retailer has ascertained whether he is able to pay, or, he perhaps may be able to pay but will not. In Toronto several efforts have been made by retailers' associations to collect and publish for the private information of the trade, the names of those persons who are in the habit of getting credit for everything they buy and paying nothing, and for some reason or other they have not been successful. In the tailor's trade, however, which is small, and the members work in harmony, they have been very successful in dealing with delinquent debtors. In the grocers' association the trouble seems to be that the members are jealous of each other, and do not like their competitors to know that they have made bad debts, and on that account will not hand in their names of dead beat customers. In Guelph we believe they have a retail merchants' association that has been very successful. We quite agree with our correspondent that the retail trade in cities and towns throughout the country should organize and publish a dead beat list every week for private circulation among its members. In organizing such associations the promoters must not be too sanguine of immediate success. They must be prepared for a good deal of hard work. They will almost always meet a few who will not come into the association, and who, if they are in, will not live up to its rules. This should not discourage them, because all successful associations have had the same difficulties to contend with.

His reference to the shoddy-cloth pedlar is timely. We would go further, and would pass a by-law prohibiting him from selling any goods whatever, for there is not the slightest doubt that he imposes on the farmers; they themselves suffer, and so do the retailers. We hope to see a compromise question and mutual insurance for retail merchants only thoroughly discussed at the coming convention.

CASH FOR PRODUCE.

The farmers of the township of Melancthon met last week and formed a Farmers' and Mechanics' Institute Association. One of the principal subjects discussed at the meeting was the public weighing of farm produce and market days. In this respect the farmers of Melancthon have taken a step which retailers throughout the country should encourage other farmers to follow. To use the words of the association, they decided:

That this institute believes that justice exalts a nation, and that the British principle of public weighing of farm produce, with a uniform method of market days in each week for cash transactions, instead of truck in store goods, for butter, eggs and all farm productions is much needed, so as to make public competition with equal rights at all produce-buying stations and market places. Therefore, this institute respectfully urges the municipal councils of Shelburne and Dundalk to arrange so that farmers with their wives and daughters and the public shall have the use of market hall accommodation during the forenoon of one or more days of each week to make cash sales and purchases as herein indicated and published. That all municipal councils shall act accordingly.

From the above it will be seen that they want to do business on a cash basis. There is something novel in this. Farmers generally want to do business on a prolonged credit basis, and retail merchants throughout the country have been for years endeavoring to educate them to this idea. In Eastern Ontario they have been somewhat more successful. In many localities they get cash for their butter and eggs, but in Northern and Western Ontario most of the business is done in trade. While some of the merchants may object to the farmers exchanging their produce for cash, the majority will agree with us that it will pay them better in the end. In butter, for instance, the greatest difficulty country merchants have to meet with is in grading it. As we all know, the majority of us have to pay the same price for all grades of butter. If we do not we at once get into trouble with the farmer's wife who brings in butter so poor that it is not worth within two to four cents per pound of the prevailing price for choice butter.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

Mr. W. M. Milligan is reported to have made a good deal of money in sugars this season. He is reported to have had about 700 barrels when the rise commenced and now he has only about thirty.

Mr. D. R. Ross, of the Embro Oat Mea Mills, writes us to advise the trade generally, and especially his own customers, that, owing to the advance in the value of oats in Ontario, he is obliged also to advance the price of oatmeal. Referring to the crops Mr. Ross says: "Hay is fair and is nearly all in; fall wheat, very good and now being cut; barley, good and about ripe; peas are only a fair crop; oats have suffered from too much rain, but promise a heavy crop."

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ANNUAL PICNIC.

The Fourth Annual Picnic of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held at the Exhibition Park, Wednesday last.

To say that the Picnic was a success only partly conveys the idea of what it was; it was simply immense. Fully eight thousand people passed through the gates. The morning looked dull and cloudy, which prevented many from being present, but their absence was not noticed in the large throng.

The managing committee have been working night and day for the last month, and the result of their hard work and good management was seen in the way in which everything passed off with the regularity of clockwork. They consisted of J. Berwick, Chairman; J. G. Gibson, Treasurer; J. T. Thackray, Secretary; Messrs. F. Britton, A. E. Saunders, D. W. Clark, A. R. Williamson, R. Mills, J. Westren, W. F. Britton, W. Calhoun, F. Johnston, A. G. Booth, W. Binnie, R. Barron, F. S. Roberts, Wm. Mara, J. Butcher, H. W. McCulloch.

Shortly after one o'clock the games commenced, and were watched from the grand stand and from every available point of observation with the greatest of interest. The following are the events, prizes and winners:

THE SUCCESSFUL COMPETITORS.

Thompson, 1 sewing machine, 1 gold ring; Ellis & Keighley, 1 silver fruit dish and spoon; C. Richardson & Co., 1 case pickles, 2 pails of jam; Robertson Bros., 25 lbs. candies.

NOTES.

The refreshments furnished by A. E. Saunders, grocer, of Broadview Avenue, were first-class in every respect.

The ladies' race open to all over forty years of age did not come off, as none of those who entered would admit they were that age.

Mr. B. Winnifrith, grocer, of Hamilton, was on the ground taking notes of how things were done. THE GROCER hopes to see the Hamilton grocers "go and do likewise."

The donkey race was perhaps one of the funniest of the day. The youthful exuberance in the stand could no longer be restrained by the police, and a horde of boys broke through and escorted the rival competitors, Clarke and McCulloch, who were attired pantaloon-like, around the track, while the people nearly went into hysterics with laughter at the antics performed on the way.

There were five entries for the boat race for the handsome epergne trophy presented by THE CANADIAN GROCER, C. H. Lauder taking first, R. Mills, second; D. W. Clark, third; H. W. McCulloch, fourth. Mr. Mills rowed a good race, pushing Mr. Lauder very close for first place. Bradshaw was ruled out, having a boat over the specified length. Mr. Wm. Mara acted as referee.

Night had almost come on when the Tug-of-war was contested. The East and West men were not forward, so that the contest took place between picked teams. Captain Berwick's team consisted of A. R. Williamson, D. Clark, W. Birnie, W. J. Sykes and J. J. McMullen, and Captain Gibson's, John Butcher, W. Martin, H. W. McCulloch, J. M. Lawrence and A. B. Griffin. Captain Berwick's team won.

The enterprise of the "Sunlight" Soap Co. kept the visitors in pleasant anticipation all day. This firm offered $40 and a first class saloon return ticket to Liverpool, with invitation to inspect their new works to the holder of a number to be drawn from among the gate tickets. For this purpose a numbered check was given to each ticket holder and a duplicate sent to the committee. In the afternoon these duplicates were to be churned and one drawn, the holder of the corresponding number to receive the pass. Unfortunately some of the undrawn numbers got mixed with those drawn and the committee were not prepared to make the announcement before the close. Acting Mayor McMillan intimated that the result would be given at Shaftesbury Hall this evening, when the other prizes will also be handed over. This firm added another feature to the picnic, namely, a washing competition. Seven ladies took part, Mrs. Holland being the judge. The awards were: $7 each and utensils to Mrs. Amery, Lemon, and Button, and $4 each and utensils to Mrs. Marshall, Bennie, Lowery, and Ovens.

THE MARKETS

TORONTO, July 25, 1889.

GROCERIES.

The local and Hamilton markets have been quiet this week. London advices say that a fair trade was done there. Values have remained without much change. Outside there has been a drop in sugars, but later advices are more favorable, and the decline is believed to be only temporary.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been a fair demand for tomatoes and corn and also for fish. Prices of tomatoes are firm at 90c. to $1. Corn is held at $1 for ordinary brands. Fruits are unchanged. In fish there has been more activity in canned salmon at $1.70 to $1.75. New mackerel is moving at $1.50 to $1.60, and finnan haddie at $1.50. Lobsters are firm at $1.65 for good stock.

The Bay of Quinte Canning Factory has purchased and packed this season over 70,000 quarts of strawberries. This is said to be the largest output of this kind of fruit of any factory in Canada.—[Picton Gazette.

M. W. Young, from an area of a little over two acres, has gathered 12,000 quarts of strawberries. At one picking he took off over 8,000 quarts.—[Picton Gazette.] These were for W. Boulter & Sons.

COFFEE

Is quiet and unchanged on the spot, and holders are a little firmer, but the quotations are unchanged.

We extract the following from the circular of Messrs. John Moore & Co., Rio de Janeiro, dated 5th June, 1889: "New Crop.—It is now considered that the yield of the present crop will be about 1¾ million bags, which, with one million bags at least remaining over from 1888-89, will, together, give an available supply of 2¾ to three million bags for 1889-90. Small lots of washed coffees are coming forward, but the supply of this kind is likely to be very limited, owing to the poor outturn of the crop, the quality of which will be poorer than that of previous years." P.S., 8th June.—"Planters, generally, have been silent in respect to the prospects of out-turn of the Cafe das Aguas, but we have just heard, on good authority, that the yield of such usually realized about October will reach one million bags, which considerably alters the aspect for 1889-90, as an available supply of about 4,000,000 bags would then be secured."

DRIED FRUIT.

There is a fair amount of business done in raisins and currants. In the latter there has been some cutting done by some of the larger holders; round lots of Patras have sold at 4¼c. in barrels, but 5c. to 5½c. is asked for single barrels or halves. Figs are slow, with small lots of common in 60 lb. boxes selling at 4c. to 5c. Dates steady at 6c. to 6½c. for fine Persian. Valencia raisins continue firm; prime stock is held at 7¼c. to 7½c., but ordinary can be bought at 6¾c. Elemes are offering to arrive in lots at 6¼c. to 6½c. In Malaga raisins there has been a small movement in London layers at $1.50; black baskets at $4, blue at $4.75 and finest Dehessas at $5.50. Fine prunes have been selling at 7c. to 8c.; other qualities are quiet.

Perkins, Ince & Co. have received a large shipment of fine Eleme raisins, which are being used largely in place of Valencias.

Under date of Valencia, 4th inst., the following communication upon raisins is received: "We are now approaching next campaign under very good conditions, because the crop of grapes in all districts is in first-class swing, and promises raisins of very select quality. It would be rather risky, however, to advance an opinion either as to the extent of the crop or its probable quality, because the experience of the last few years teaches that speculating upon it so early in the season is usually upset by the coming of storms which have arrived late in past seasons, thus downing all calculations. The end of September will probably arrive before the true results can be definitely known. Few or none predict a very large crop, and the opening price is a matter of uncertainty, though some venture on the prediction of $4 per quintal at the start."

A cable has been received from Bordeaux which quotes new crop prunes for fall shipment at equivalent to 6⅛c. for the four sizes. This is only a speculative price, but it indicates the prospects and the low figure which some believe will prevail during this year.

GREEN FRUIT.

In the lines at present offering there is a very fair business doing in green fruit, but trade on the whole is rather quiet. Domestic fruits are going into increased consumption, which, of course, attracts the demand from foreign. Bananas and lemons are practically the only fruits offered at present. Lemons are in fairly active request. They are not arriving any more freely, and the market is rather scantily supplied, although there is probably quite enough on hand to fill current wants. Inferior fruits will sell at $5 per box, but for good quality $5.50 to $6 per box will have to be paid. Bananas are abundant, although they are hardly so active this week. With pretty large stocks on hand fresh shipments are constantly arriving, so that there is no danger of any shortness of supply. Yellows are, as usual, slow of sale, but red are in fairly brisk request. Quotations are $1.25 to $1.75 per bunch. New York despatches say: "For lemons and oranges there was a quiet market, but the values ruling at the close of last week were generally retained with firmness. For bananas there is a moderate call and the cargoes arriving realize about previous figures."

PEPPER AND SPICES.

There is no quotable change in the local market, but higher markets abroad have made prices here stiffer.

There has been a noticeable gain in the position of pepper during the week. Some time ago, under temporary full accumulations at London, and what was made to appear an overstock here, the bears jumped on the market, with the bulls helping to some extent, to make a basis to come in on. For afloat parcels of Singapore as low as 12½c. was accepted in a few cases, but when it became generally understood that not only was the statistical position really stronger than last year, but that many holders refused to be shaken out, covering commenced, and a fresh

TRADE GRIEVANCES.

DEAR SIR,—Permit me space for a few remarks on the greatest evil in our system of doing business, viz., the credit system. It is the curse and ruin of many thousands of good, smart business men ; that is, the abuse of the credit system. Merchants should have a mutual understanding between them, and should form some sort of association, meeting, say, once each month, and bring in the list of their poor pay or dead beat customers ; or if, for instance, A has been dealing with B and wishes to change, let him bring a receipt from B showing that he has paid B up before he can get credit from C. While in Buffalo a few days ago, in conversation with a friend of mine in the produce line, I asked him how he escaped heavy losses by selling on credit. "Why," he said, "we have an association. We meet every week, and all delinquents are put upon the black list, and a circular is printed and mailed to every dealer, with the names of dead beats." If this were done among the smaller towns and villages in Canada it would be a great assistance to the trade in distinguishing dead beats. All that is wanted is mutual co-operation amongst merchants in their own villages and towns and neighboring places. I think it would pay well in the long run.

Another evil is the compromising system adopted by the wholesale trade. In some cases it is just to give a debtor every chance to go on in his business, but in cases of neglect to business, drunkenness, cutting prices, and fast living, such persons should be closed out, and instead of selling the stocks of such persons en bloc, to be slaughtered amongst parties who pay 100c. on the dollar, they should be divided up into lots, say of $100 each, and sold. This would give everyone a chance to compete in the sale.

The pedlar nuisance is another evil we have to contend with. County councils should impose a tax upon all pedlars, and especially the shoddy-cloth pedlar, so as to prohibit that class of frauds which the country is overrun with at present.

Another imposition merchants suffer under is the imposition of insurance companies. Why should a merchant pay 2½ to 3 per cent. per annum for insurance, while farm property is insured in the same concerns for 75c. on $100 for three years. A few days ago, while in conversation with the inspector of the Glasgow and London Insurance Co., he admitted that his company lost more money on farm property than on the mercantile, yet we pay four times as high a rate in some cases. It is high time merchants unite on these matters. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space. Yours truly,

E. MORGAN, General Merchant.

THE TRADE CONGRESS.

PAISLEY, Ont., July 22, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—I am glad to see that so many important subjects are to be taken up at the trade congress to be held shortly in Hamilton, all important to the trade. There is no doubt but that bankruptcy and unjust compromises rank as one of the most important grievances in the trade, and I would just like to be there to hear the discussion and listen to the different remedies proposed for the relief of the hundred cents on the dollar merchants. I suppose they will be about as numerous and varied as the patent remedies for dyspepsia. It is rather annoying to a person in regular business that a pedlar should be allowed to go about the country selling to every one without having to pay a cent in the way of taxes for the benefit of the place. There must be something very loose about the license law when a person can evade it by simply going round and taking orders for the goods for future delivery. Sometimes the goods are delivered in a few minutes after the order is given, others again deliver and take orders for the next trip. It is about as barefaced a sham to get out of paying a license as it is possible to get up. Surely a remedy will be found to abate the nuisance. Yours, etc.,

SAUGEEN.

WHO WANTS HONEY ?

DEAR SIR,—I deal in and produce honey quite extensively ; quality excellent, and strictly pure. Could you refer me to any commission house in Toronto or any of the other cities that handle honey? I am yours truly, JAS. SHAW, Kemble.

Kemble, July 20th, 1889.

[Most of the commission houses handle honey, and we have no doubt any of them would act for Mr. Shaw. We send him a copy of this week's GROCER, containing the advertisements of several of the leading firms. [ED. GROCER.]

SUBSCRIPTION CANVASSERS.

Subscription canvassers wanted for THE GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER and for HARDWARE. Active, intelligent men, to make a business of travelling over Canada obtaining subscriptions and collecting accounts. Men who have had some experience in the retail trade preferred. State experience. Must give references. Address J. B. McLean, 5 Jordan St., Toronto.

HAMILTON'S CARNIVAL.

The Hamilton Carnival Committee send us a copy of the programme of events. Want of space prevents a further notice at present. Next week we will republish a few extracts that will be of interest to our readers. Copies can be obtained from C. R. Smith, Secretary of the Board of Trade.

As there will be large crowds in the city during the Carnival, merchants and their friends should secure lodgings before coming down. The Secretary will furnish them with a list if necessary.

Mr. T. O. Leonard the genial representative of Kingston Oswego Starch, paid his monthly visit to Toronto this week. He stayed over a day that he might have an opportunity of attending the Grocers' Picnic.

Mr. John Brown, president of the Citizens' Milling Co., met with an accident Monday last, which came near proving fatal. While driving along Queen Street West behind a street car his horse, which was a young and spirited animal, suddenly bolted and attempted to pass between the car and a brick waggon at the side. The frail vehicle was crushed like an egg shell, and Mr. Brown barely escaped with his life. As it was he was rather badly bruised, but as he received no serious damage a week or so will see him as well as ever.

The following letter from E. W. Gillett, of this city, manufacturer of Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder, etc., has been handed to us, and will explain itself:

MR. J. G. GIBSON,

Treasurer Toronto Retail Grocers' Ass'n:

DEAR SIR,—Owing to the absence of the writer from the city, the matter of contributing something to be competed for at your annual picnic has been overlooked, as it was certainly our intention to appear on your list of donors as usual, and to do our share in making your annual holiday a success. We are reminded of this matter by finding the circular letter from your worthy secretary, Mr. Thackray, among a large lot of correspondence which has accumulated for the reason stated. Assuring you that we will endeavor to make up for our short-comings next year, and hope that the members of your association and everyone attending the picnic will enjoy themselves and feel refreshed after the outing.

Yours respectfully, E. W. GILLETT,

SUGARS.

The feature in the sugar market has been a decline this week of ¼c. in New York and weaker markets abroad. On this market, however, there has been no change. Refiners say they are unchanged, but jobbers and retailers are looking for concessions. White sugars are unchanged, but yellows seem easier; none of jobbers quote under 7⅜c., but some retailers say they can buy at less. The city demand has been light, but there have been a fair amount of orders from the country by mail and through travellers. There is a small demand for raws and Trinidads are selling at 7⅜c. To-day's advances from abroad are more favorable. Cables advise an advance of 6d. in tubs and the market for cane is strong. It is not generally believed that the decline will continue and better prices are looked for in August when the fall preserving season opens.

The sharp decline in the price of raw sugar that took place last week has called attention afresh to the actual position of the world's supply of sugar, and a good many inquirers, who appear to have had their confidence shaken by the events of the past week, having asked for information as to the cause of the previous advance and as to whether the present position of the article warrants a belief in the stability of current values. It is not surprising that a good deal of misapprehension exists, even among those who are more or less interested in the sugar trade, as to the reason why the price of raw sugar is to-day 1⅝ cents higher in this market and 7s. 6d. higher in London than it was a year ago, in view of the many sensational and fantastic stories that have appeared from time to time in the daily newspapers. Many of these have credited the Sugar Trust as solely responsible for this so-called robbery; others have informed their readers that it was due to speculation; while a journal of high repute published in this city, that aspires to be considered an authority upon commercial topics, recently replied through its columns to an inquiring reader that the high price of sugar was due to the partial failure of the beet crop in Europe. It is only necessary to say that each and all of these explanations are highly imaginary. The Sugar Trust for nearly a year past has fought the advancing tendency of the sugar market with might and main, and on several notable occasions at its own cost; the only speculation in raw sugar has been that carried on in continental cities and has been the result, not the cause, of the advance, and lastly, the last beet crop of Europe was the largest ever produced, and the one now maturing promises to be still larger.

It is the cane crop that has fallen short, and notably the production of Cuba, Brazil, and several of the West India Islands, which in connection with a small beet crop in Europe two years ago, and the natural yearly increase in consumption has so depleted the surplus stocks in the world, that the quantity in sight from all available sources will do little else than meet the actual requirements of consumption until a fresh supply from new crops becomes available. Under these circumstances it may be readily perceived that the steady upward tendency of the value of raw sugar in all parts of the world, for more than a year past, has been due entirely to the natural operation of the law of supply and demand. As the months of July and August are the period of heaviest consumption in this country as well as in Europe, and no new crop sugar can become available until the latter part of September or the first of October, there is every reason to expect that a high range of values will be maintained, especially as there has been no evidence that the advance in values has yet reached a point that has checked consumption. The absurdity of the attempt to fix the whole responsibility of establishing the existing high range of value upon the Sugar Trust is best shown by the fact that quotations for raw sugar in this market have been uniformly and relatively lower than in any other consuming market in the world.

With respect to the recent drop in values, there is no occasion for repeating here the full explanations given from time to time in our market reports. A syndicate or consortium of speculators in Magdeburg, having become involved in their operations, have had to ask for an extension from their creditors, and pending the settlement of their affairs a slight flurry disturbed the surface and caused values to decline 8s. 6d. for beet, 3s. 6d. for cane in Europe, and ¼c here for cane, but the relative position of supply and demand has not changed in any respect. As soon, therefore, as the uneasiness produced by this speculative adjustment has passed, the market will regain its former strength, and prices will swing back to their former level.—[N. Y. TEAS.

Teas are moving slowly. Low grade Japans are dearer, and there is great difficulty in matching last year's teas at about 15c. to 16c. A London circular of July 11 says: "The finest new season's Assams do not, as a rule, attract much attention, as, contrary to China teas, the later pickings produce finest teas; still we are pleased to find a decided improvement in the quality of the new teas compared with last year's. If the quality is maintained it will be the death knell of the China tea trade as far as England is concerned, and we shall find at the end of this season the relative proportions of consumption considerably changed.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The flour trade has been quiet during the past few days. Sales have been made by millers at about our quotations. Extra in bags has sold in car lots at $4.10. Bran is easier at $9.50, Toronto freights; $10 to $10.50 in car lots on the track; small lots are going out on the spot at $11.50 to $12.50. Oatmeal is firmer, at $3.80 for standard, $4 for granulated, and $4.25 for rolled, for jobbers' lots; no sales of cars reported. Wheat is lower but steady; in the west fall is worth about 97c.; on the northern, white, red and spring bring 99c. to $1.; and on the midland, $1.01 to $1.02. Manitoba wheat is selling at $1.13 to $1.14 for No. 1 hard, and 90c. for No. 1 frosted. New barley is beginning to attract attention; a few samples are being shown, but no quantities are offering yet; the quality is excellent. No. 1 is quoted at 55c. to 58c., October delivery. Corn is scarce and wanted at 50c., and peas at 60c. Oats are firm at 32c. to 34c. on the track; large sales have been made at these figures.

COAL OIL.

Coal oil is higher, an understanding among the refiners having advanced prices. At Petrolea refined is quoted at 12c. to 12½c. in car lots. On the spot quotations are: Canada refined, 15c. per gallon; carbon safety, 17c. to 17½c.; water white Canadian, 20c.; water white American, 25c.; photogene, 27c.

FISH.

For the season of the year a very fair trade is doing in fish. There is no very active movement reported, but a steady business is doing. Supplies of fish are not over large, but are still quite ample enough for the trade. Blueback herring are somewhat more plentiful and are moving off fairly well at low prices. British Columbia salmon are in good supply, and in pretty active demand at 17c. to 18c. per lb. Bass are scarce and in fair request. Trout and white fish are moving pretty well, and the supply is large enough for the enquiry. A few pickerel are selling at 5c. per lb.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—There are a good many enquiries from outside merchants for green apples: they are worth $1.25 to $3 per bbl. Dried are firm at 4c. to 5c. Evaporated are selling in small lots at 6½c. to 7½c.

BEANS—Very little business doing, a few small lots of white are being sold by dealers to retailers at $1.90 to $2 for hand picked.

EGGS—Receipts are fair; demand good and prices steady. The general run are selling at 13c. to 13½c., but for guaranteed strictly choice stock, 14c. is asked. The association price is 13c. It is expected that the dealers in Eastern Ontario will shortly be working in harmony with their brethren in the West, an association having been organized at Brockville a few days ago.

The Markets—Continued.

HAY—The first car of new hay arrived here to-day. The quality is fair, but there is more clover in it than usual. This, it appears, is general. It was sold in small lots at $13.50 to $14. Old hay is steady. Really good stock is firm and wanted at $12.50 and $13. Other grades are hard to sell.

HOPS—Nothing doing here. Prices are nominal at 20c. to 22c. for 1888.

POTATOES—New are scarce at the moment, and prices are firm at 60c. per bushel, or $1.75 to $2 per bbl. in small lots. Old are slow of sale. Small lots are going at 30c. out of store.

WOOL, HIDES AND SKINS—Wool is steady and in good demand at 20c. for good merchantable fleece, 16c. for rejections, and 23c. for Southdown. Hides are unchanged, on green at 2¾c. to 4¾c., but dealers are getting ⅛c. more for cured at 5c. to 5⅜. Skins unchanged at 40c. for pelts and lambskins.

TALLOW—Is quiet at 1¾c. to 2c. for rough and 5c. to 5¼c. for rendered. Dealers are selling rendered at 5½c. to 5¾c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Is beginning to show an easier tendency. Demand has not been so good at outside points, and receipts here have been larger this week and are increasing. Country holders and buyers are apart. The former want high prices, while buyers want to get the butter at easier figures. The demand for large rolls on the spot has slackened and the supply is now ample; they are selling at 15c. to 16c. for ordinary, and at 17c. to 18c. for choice quality in refrigerator boxes. Choice tubs are selling at 17c. and good, of which the majority of the arrivals are, at 16c., and 15c.; store packed is moving at 13c. to 15c. Bakers' grades are in good request at 12c. to 14c. Creameries are steady at 19c. to 22c. as to quality. Foreign markets are easier. Bristol advices of July 13 say: The welcome rains have altered the tone of the market, and values have declined in buyers' favour. The demand has been moderate and continues principally on Irish makes for immediate consumption. French in poor enquiry. American ladles and creameries to hand exhibit good value.

CHEESE—Steady. Small lots are selling at 8c. to 8½c. for skims to 10c. to 10½c. for full creams.

PROVISIONS.

On this market all kinds of hog products are firm and the tendency of prices is upward, as stocks are light. In Chicago values have weakened owing to the heavy supply of hogs, but the receipts for the next couple of months are likely to be lighter. On this market there is a firmer tone in long clears, but prices are unchanged at 8½c. to 8¾c. Mess pork nominal. Lard steady at 9½c. to 9¾c. for American in tins, and 10c. to 10½c. in tubs and pails. Canadian is scarce and firm at 11c. to 11½c. Breakfast bacon and bellies are also stiffer; bacon being a ready sale at 12½c. to 13c.

The Cincinnati Price Current says:—

There is but a moderate reduction in Western pork packing operations, the returns for the week indicating a total of 210,000 hogs, compared with 220,000 the preceding week, and 145,000 for corresponding time last year. This makes a total of 4,245,000 since March 1, against 3,425,000 a year ago—increase 820,000 hogs, of which the past week gets credit for 65,000. Prices are generally 5c. to 10c. per 100 pounds lower than a week ago, good light qualities holding up, under the rather liberal demand for Eastern shipments and the manufacture of foreign cuts of meats. In the provision market there is a continued good movement of product to domestic consuming districts, and foreign shipments are exceptionally large. But these facts fail to exert a helpful effect for the holding interest, and the situation is increasingly discouraging to parties who are still carrying winter made product. In the light of precedents there is not an absence of ground for hoping for a decided rally in prices yet, but the situation at this time gives no sign of such a movement as likely for the near future. Current packers who have sold freely, especially on the temporary improvement in prices from time to time for forward delivery, have averaged a margin of profit for a considerable time. At Chicago present values are now on the basis of about $4.20 per 100 pounds for hogs, at which figure the larger packers can operate to some advantage. The supply of hogs, however, has exceed prevailing expectations, and offerings of product for future months have been so liberal right along, and Western packers have delivered at Chicago so freely against previous sales, that any temporary strengthening in sentiment or in prices quickly gives way. The week's exports of meats and of aggregate product were greater than for any week during the entire year 1888, being equivalent to the product of about 120,000 hogs, or 57 per cent. of the past week's large production. The total exports for March show an increase this season of 31½ per cent. in the foreign movement of hog products.

MONTREAL, July 25, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

The demand has continued very slow and the market has ruled quiet with only a small jobbing business. At this season of the year business is generally very quiet owing to the large offerings of green vegetables and, fruit dealers do not look for much change until retail dealers make up their minds to lay in the coming season's stock. The feeling, however, continues steady and prices are unchanged. New lobsters are firmly held at $6 to $6.50 with old offering at $5.50 to $5.60 per case. There has been little inquiry for salmon but prices are firm at $1.70 per dozen. Tomatoes have been slow at 90c. to 95c. per dozen. Corn is unchanged at $1 to $1.75 per dozen as to brand, and peas are steady at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. There has been no change in fruits, values being steady all round. American meats have been fairly inquired for at former quotations.

SUGARS.

The feeling in sugar has been easier, owing to the continued quiet and easy advices from abroad on the raw article, but no noticeable change in granulated has taken place as refiners are holding firm at 9¼c., although it has been stated that large outside holders have sold as low as 6⅛c. On the other hand yellows have weakened ⅛c., and prices now range from 7⅜c. to 8⅛c. as to quality at the factory. The demand has been limited on account of jobbers having ample supplies on hand and no improvement is looked for until such are worked down. Stocks in refiners' hands have been steadily increasing and are claimed to be heavy now.

SYRUP.

In syrup there has been a weaker feeling and prices have eased off ⅛c. to ¼c. at the refineries to 3⅞c. to 4c., but jobbers who hold the bulk of the stock are selling in

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

small lots up to 4¼c. to 4⅜c. The market has been quiet owing to the light offerings from refineries and business has been of a jobbing character.

MOLASSES.

The market for molasses continues strong and prices have been well maintained. The demand for Barbadoes has been good and the market has ruled more active with a larger volume of business. Sales of round lots are reported at 40c. and one of the largest holders refuses to sell at anything less than 50c., which will no doubt be obtained before long as stocks are not large and the market for other grades has been well cleaned up.

FRUIT.

There has been no important change in the market for fruit, prices having ruled steady all round. The demand has been good and a fairly active business has been transacted. Oranges have been steady at $5 to $5.50 per box. Lemons have been selling freely at $4.50 to $4.75 per box. The demand for bananas has been good at $1 to $1.15 per bunch. In nuts a fair amount of business has been accomplished at steady prices. Advices on the coming crop are commencing to arrive and contain the usual reports of damage from various causes. It appears, however, that currants are going to run short of last year. Prunes in Bosnia and Servia are reported unfavourably, while the French crop prospects are good.

TEA AND COFFEE.

There has been a decidedly better feeling in the tea market owing to improved advices from abroad where prices have advanced considerably within the past two or three weeks. The demand here for Japans has been much better and sales of some round lots have taken place at 22c. with a good inquiry for grades ranging from 17c. to 20c. The stock of teas in second hands is light and prices have been advancing their limits and a number of orders have been placed for future delivery. The prospects for trade look better and dealers expect to see higher prices as few consignments are coming forward this season.

RICE.

Trade has continued of average volume at steady prices. Two more rice steamers have arrived, which makes three this season. Car lots of ordinary, $3.70 ; Patna, 4¾c. to 5c. ; Japan, 4c. to 4¼c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

Flour has maintained a steady to firm tone, especially in best grades, which have been in small supply. There has been a good steady trade, both for domestic and shipping accounts, but prices have not varied to any appreciable extent. Strong baker's has been in good request and grades above extra have been very firmly held.

Patent winter	$5 40 @ $5 60
Patent spring	5 75 — 6 00
Straight roller	4 75 — 5 00
Extra	4 40 — 4 50
Superfine	3 50 — 4 25
City strong bakers'	5 60 — 5 70
Strong bakers'	5 25 — 5 55
Superfine bags	1 75 — 2 00
Extra, bags	2 10 — 2 25
Oatmeal, standard, (per bag)	0 00 — 1 90
Oatmeal, granulated, (per bag)	0 00 — 2 00
Oatmeal, rolled, (per bag)	0 00 — 2 10

Spot business in grain has been of the between crops character, there being little offered, but there has been considerable done on through account. The unfavorable Manitoba crop reports have created a firm tone in wheat, but prices are greatly nominal. Peas have weakened some, although Quebec crop prospects are no more than fair. No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.17 to $1.18 ; No. 2 hard Manitoba, $1.12 to $1.14 ; peas, 75c. to 77c. per 66 lbs. afloat ; oats, 29c. to 30c. ; barley, 50c. to 55c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

There has been nothing special in butter, but the market has been well maintained. Exporters have shown a fair degree of interest and up to 20½c. has been paid for desirable creamery, with factorymen now asking 21c. The quality of much of the offerings of dairy is not satisfactory. Creamery, 19½c. to 20½c. ; Townships, 16c. to 17½c. ; Morrisburg, 15c. to 16c. ; Brockville, 15c. to 16c. ; Western, 14c. to 15.

The cheese market has had an inclination toward weakness, with trade uncertain and unsatisfactory, with most operators having no definite opinion over the prospects, although at present it looks like a sagging market, especially as quality is running poor, which makes finest scarce and relatively firmly held. About 8¾c. is the general top, but good useful cheese can be had readily at 8⅜c. to 8½c., but which would not pass for finest, especially at present. Finest colored, 8¾c. ; finest white, 8⅜c. to 8¾c. ; medium to fine, 8c. to 8½c.

TO THE GROCERY TRADE.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

(OF LONDON), CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association,

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools : they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application

A STORY FOR BOYS.

"We have had a good many boys with us from time to time," said Mr. Alden, the senior member of a large hardware establishment in Market Street, Philadelphia, "as apprentices to learn the business. But the best boy we ever had is now with us, and a member of the firm. He is the one man in the establishment that we couldn't do without. He was thirteen years old when he was apprenticed to us, and he was with us for eleven years, acting for several years as salesman. When he first came we told him that for a long time his wages would be very small, but that if he proved himself a good boy, his salary would be increased at a certain rate every year, and as it turned out, when according to agreement we should have been paying him $500 a year, we paid him $900, and he never said a word himself about an increase of salary. From the very outset, he showed that he had an interest in the business. He was prompt in the morning, and if kept a little over time at night it never seemed to make any difference with him. He gradually came to know where everything was to be found, and if information was wanted, it was to this boy, Frank Jones, that every one applied. The entire establishment seemed to be mapped out in his head, and everything in it catalogued and numbered. His memory of faces was equally remarkable. He knew the name of every man who came to the store to buy goods, what he bought and where he came from. I used often to say to him, 'Jones, your memory is worth more than a gold mine! How do you manage to remember?'

"'I make it my business to remember,' he would say. 'I know that if I can remember a man and call him by name when he comes into the store, and can ask him how things are going on where he lives, I will be very likely to keep him as a customer.'

"And that was the exact case. He made friends of buyers. He took the same interest in their purchases as he took in the store, and would go to no end of trouble to suit them, and to fulfil to the letter everything he promised.

"Well, affairs went on in this way until he had been with us eleven years, when we concluded to take him into the firm as a partner. We knew that he had no extravagant habits, that he neither used tobacco nor beer, nor went to the theatre. He continued, as at the beginning, to board at home, and even when his salary was the very lowest he paid his mother $2 a week for his board. He was always neatly dressed, and we thought it was very probable that he had laid up $1,000 or $2,000, as his salary for the last two years had been $1,200. So when we made him the offer to become a partner in the business, and suggested that it would be more satisfactory if he could put some money into the firm, he replied:

"If $10,000 will be any object I can put in that much. I have saved out of my salary $9,400, and my sister will let me have $600.

"I can tell you that I was never more astonished in my life than when that fellow said he could put in $10,000, and the most of it his own money. He had never spent $1, or 25 cents, or 5 cents for an unnecessary thing, and had kept his money in bank, where it gathered a small interest. I am a great believer in the Bible, you know, and I always keep two placards in big letters up in the store. On one was this text: 'He that is faithful in that which is least, is faithful in that which is much:' and on the other: 'He that is diligent in business, shall stand before kings and not before mean men.' And Frank Jones' success was the literal fulfilment of those two texts. He had been faithful in the smallest things as in the greater ones, and diligent in business. That kind of a boy always succeeds," concluded Mr. Alden.—[Wide Awake.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

TRADE GRIEVANCES.

That the retail merchants of the country have many serious grievances is clearly shown by the intense interest that is being taken in the coming Trade Congress. We publish several letters in this week's issue which have been selected from a number received from all parts of the Province. Our correspondents are experienced and successful business men who have themselves suffered from the grievances complained off. The pedlar nuisance, to which most of them refer, is a greater evil than many people imagine, and if some plan for the total extinction of this parasite can be devised at the Convention, the promoter will earn the heart-felt thanks of the entire trade. We would stop short of nothing but the enactment of by-laws by county councils which would totally prohibit peddling from house to house. Some may think this is going too far, but if they will carefully consider the losses they themselves suffer through this unfair competition, they will, we have no doubt, agree with us. As one of our correspondents remarks, the compromise question has been pretty thoroughly discussed in the columns of THE GROCER. It will stand a good deal more. So far no remedy that has not numerous defects has been suggested.

The interest taken in the Convention by all classes of business men must be very gratifying to Messrs. Knox, Bristol and Gillard, the leading spirits of the Convention Committee, but especially to Bristol who is the father of the scheme, and who has given it his undivided attention for some time.

MR. ADAM BROWN, M.P.

We are pleased to notice the appointment of Mr. Adam Brown, M.P., of Brown, Balfour & Co., Hamilton, as a member of the commission that is to visit Australia and other British colonies to discuss the development of trade with Canada. The other members of the commission will be Hon. Mr. Abbott, of Montreal, and Mr. Parmelee, of the Customs Department. No better man than Mr. Brown could have been got to fill the position. He is one of the leading business men of Canada, and as a railroad man he has had an experience which gave him an insight into the development of the country and a knowledge of its industries that will be valuable to him. Mr. Brown will uphold the fair name of Canada socially as well as politically on his coming mission, for he has the reputation of being an excellent after dinner speaker and a capital entertainer.

HAMILTON'S SUMMER CARNIVAL

Hamilton, many years ago, was dubbed the "Ambitious City," and retains the name at the present day. If the ambition of its people was for establishing a clean, healthy, orderly, well paved, lighted and drained city, the title has been fully established; for very few cities in America can claim to equal it in those respects.

The city was first laid out and settled in the year 1813 by a person named Hamilton, from whom it derived its name. It is built on a plateau of slightly elevated ground, winding around the foot of a hilly range which extends from Niagara Falls, locally known as "the mountain," and which is the height over which the Niagara plunges. The streets are wide, and for the most part cross each other at right angles, those extending back from the bay having a direction nearly south and north. The banks, churches, wholesale houses and many retail stores are handsome structures, and the east, west and south limits contain a vast number of elegant residences. From the summit of the hilly range the spires of Toronto may be dimly discerned on the north side of the lake, forty miles away; and on a clear day the smoke of Niagara, at about the same distance, may sometimes be seen. The broad, blue waters of Lake Ontario stretch away to the eastern horizon, and Hamilton Bay (a second Bay of Naples) lies at the foot of the city—a magnificent sheet of water, which in the summer season is dotted over with hundreds of yachts and boats of pleasure.

The inhabitants of Hamilton number over fifty thousand, all more or less interested in manufacturing industries, for which Hamilton stands pre-eminent in the Dominion of Canada, the capital invested being nearly one-thirty-fourth of the whole capital invested in manufactures throughout the whole Dominion. The average annual wages of each person employed in Hamilton industries amounts to $345.93; this includes boys and girls, as well as the adults employed, and is in excess of the average earnings of similar employees, taking the whole of Canada into account.

The merchants of Hamilton organized a Board of Trade in 1845. That body, from its inception, has exercised a salutary influence over the mercantile affairs of the city, and has ever been on the alert to promote the construction of railways, canals and other works for opening up the resources and trade of the country. The list of Hamilton merchants is an interesting one. Several stand in the front ranks of Canadian trade, and some have won more than a Canadian reputation for their public spirit. The Board of Trade has always taken deep interest in everything which would tend to bring the city and its people before the country, and at all times has been active in supporting all efforts with that end in view.—[From Carnival Circular.

Mr. C. E. Colson, of Montreal, the Canadian representative of Epp's cocoa and Crosse & Blackwell, is here on his semi-annual trip, taking orders for fall goods. He reports trade very satisfactory and prospects excellent.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

PUT YOURSELF IN HIS PLACE.

It is always in order to talk about the deportment of clerks towards customers, says Geyer's Stationer. Almost every person one meets has a theory on the subject which, on investigation, will be found more or less tinctured with selfishness. Admitting that clerks are not always as affable as they should be, it is just as true, on the other hand, that customers are often at fault in manners, and too frequently excite similar shortcomings in those who are serving them for the time being. Still, in the world of clerks, patience should never cease to be a virtue, and a good salesman or saleswoman will never show a ruffled temper even under the most trying circumstances. Next to affable manners a cool head is of vital importance, for who likes to deal with fussy, confused people, and when rapid work is necessary, as at the busy season in large retail stores, the man or woman with a rather short supply of nerves will generally come out ahead.

Alertness and promptness are conceded requisites and obligingness a positive essential. But the faculty most valuable in a salesman is that of reading character, and if it is backed by ready adaptability and a mind sufficiently well informed to cater mildly to discoverable idiosyncrasies, so much the better.

A salesman's business is, of course, to sell goods, but it is equally his duty to make the store a pleasant place for customers; and above all, to make them carry away a feeling of perfect satisfaction with the business they have transacted. This can be done without giving overweight or over-measurement, which are nothing less than a betrayal of trust, and as reprehensible as giving short weight and measure, the odium of which must, in the nature of things, fall upon the employer.

"Put yourself in his place" is an excellent guide to practice. A clerk who considers what qualities and qualifications he would like in employees were he, himself, an employer of men, and governs his conduct accordingly, will not stray far from the right course. An employer who can, in fancy, put himself behind the counter and view himself from the clerk's standpoint, will be vastly wiser and more successful in his management, and customers who can imagine themselves in the salesman's place, and can comprehend the thousand and one trials they are subjected to by careless and indifferent humanity, will, if they choose, be able to save both themselves and the clerks an infinite amount of wear and tear of nerve force, and at the same time, receive vastly more satisfactory service.

DRAWING CUSTOMERS.

The main object with every merchant is, of course, to have a satisfactory number of profitable sales, otherwise whatever be the merits of his management, the business is a failure. There are fewer and fewer cases in which a merchant has the monopoly of the trade from the remoteness of other stores. Wherever a good living is to be made, some new aspirant starts up to divide it with the first occupant, and in most places competition is so rife that a pro rata division would be insufficient for a subsistence. In almost every case, therefore, the competitive struggle is for the survival of the fittest, and unless a tradesman understands and practises some of the legitimate arts which attract customers, he is at a great disadvantage compared with those who possess and employ these means.

Every year sees a greater fertility of resource displayed by those who are competing for trade, and every year an increased number of persons reaching out for custom instead of waiting for it to enter their doors. Many persons of conservative notions may object to the expedients to attract trade resorted to by younger and more energetic men, but it must be borne in mind that adaptation to circumstances is the law of success, that usages that do not violate right principles acquire a sanction after they have been taken up by the majority, and that our truest wisdom lies in conforming to them. For example, there was a time when few grocers advertised. One by one enterprising men took advantage of the local paper or sent out circulars as a means of informing the public of what they had to sell, and, perhaps, thus stealing a march on some competitor. Now almost every grocer advertises, and not to do so is to miss one of the best recognized means of drawing custom.

While there are means of attracting customers which are perfectly legitimate and commendable, there are others which are demoralizing, and which we would recommend no merchant to adopt; and if we can show a principle on which the dividing line may be drawn between the two classes, it may assist many in pursuing a right policy. As a principle, we would say that whatever contributes to and helps regular, bona fide business is to be commended, even though it be a new departure, while anything that conflicts with established business principles, however effective it may seem to be in bringing results, is not to be regarded favourably. To illustrate: A well-worded circular, calling attention to one's store and goods, sent round to every resident, may be a new departure in a place, but it directly aims to bring customers to make regular purchases, and is, therefore, an excellent idea. But the promise of a large chromo or a metal teapot to every purchaser of a pound of tea is a departure from legitimate business that we cannot approve of. A person who purchases an article is entitled to receive the best value that can be furnished for the money, after allowing a certain profit to the seller, and this does not admit of distributing other articles as gifts. Besides this, it encourages purchasers to look for that which they have no right to expect, and in practice we believe it is found to be attended with no permanent good result.

The same principle will be found to apply to the practice of cutting prices. In all cases where production is cheapened or transactions are conducted on such a scale as to popularize a commodity and it can be sold at a less price than formerly, the benefit is felt in the increased consumption, but where profit is placed below a living rate for the sake of inducing persons to patronize the store, the action is hazardous, and if extended, it must lead to bankruptcy. Where custom dictates that certain articles shall be sold at cost, it is, perhaps, necessary to go with the tide, but this is no defence of the principle, which is manifestly a doubtful one. It is a bad principle to sell poor, indifferent, trashy goods because they can be offered at very low prices. Such goods it is against the interest of the public to buy at any price, and where a grocer fails to satisfy his customers, in his attempt to sell cheap, he is destroying all hold upon their confidence and their trade. To give indiscriminate credit is also very injudicious. It is sometimes done to ingratiate customers, but it is acting in defiance of all prudence, and it is no wonder—as in a notable instance described to us recently—that the career of merchants who pursue this policy is a short one.

Provided the plan does not conflict with good business principles, there is a field for all manner of devices for securing the preference of customers, and the ingenuity and enterprise of the merchant who takes the additional trouble deserve reward. The time is long past when a merchant could sit still and leave the public to wait upon him; he must be stirring, must offer good value at reasonable prices, and take pains to make the public aware of the fact. He must make himself popular by all the means that his good taste and good sense may suggest—a cleanly, attractive store, prompt and polite attendance, careful study of the wants and interest of customers. If there are any legitimate means of advertising himself he should not neglect them. But it is well to discriminate between that which really helps the business and that which, like the gift system, or cutting prices, or loose credits, may afford a momentary stimulus, but loads a man down with burdens that he must either carry or disappoint the expectations created. No method is good that demands the surrender of self-respect. Cheap, flashy and tawdry methods of advertising, as by a profusion of red paint and colored lamps, make a man conspicuous rather than popular and really offend those who are most worth pleasing. That popularity is worth most which is built up on solid, sterling qualities, on people well served with good reliable articles for which they come again, and which they recommend to others. Such a reputation cannot be built up without much pains and knowledge, but if it costs the most it is worth the most; and all ways of making one's self popular and of drawing customers may well be shaped on this plan—of winning good will, confidence and respect while pursuing purely legitimate methods in the conduct of the business.—[American Grocer.

ON TIME.

A want of punctuality is a fault in a business man that cannot be offset by any other good qualities. It will be constantly causing serious loss of time, money and temper to those who deal with him, and will naturally lead them to look elsewhere for their supplies. Nothing short of an utter impossibility should cause one to neglect the fulfilment of an engagement, or to be behindhand in filling an order.

When the great warehouses of an extensive provision merchant were smoking in ruins, he at once made out a circular and sent it to all who were expecting orders filled, stating that a fire on the premises had caused a delay, but that the next day they expected to dispatch all the goods ordered. It required all the energies of a masterly mind to accomplish the task, and all the hands he could bring to bear upon the business, but it was done, and his many customers had the inconvenience of but a day's delay. It was a part of the man's religion, as well as his business science, to keep no one waiting. That was but one of his many strong points, but they were all of the same reliable character. No wonder he rose to a true and substantial greatness in his chosen line. It is very hard turning over a new leaf in this particular, so it is a good plan to begin right. Prompt, punctual boys are apt to make the same kind of men, and vice versa.

You know that you "boys" are to be the future merchants of the land, however small the chances seem for it now. "The posts of time run swift," and soon one and another will be dropping a line to this department, telling of their small start in business on their own hook. They will be sure of congratulations and good wishes all around, which will be cheering and inspiring, and so far real help to the worker. The habits he is forming while a clerk will, however, decide more than anything else his future success or failure.

If one has fallen into careless, unmethodical habits in any of his affairs, the only safe course is to "right about face." The earlier, the easier. Self-interest alone would prompt such a course as well as honesty towards his employer.—[American Grocer.

A conference of delegates from the countries engaged in the production of beet sugar was held in Brussels Monday. The conference founded a syndicate bank, which will establish branches and agencies in all the principal cities in the world. The capital will be $15,130,000. The bank will do no speculative business, but will sell sugar on commission and make loans to manufacturers. The profits of the bank will be divided among the members of the syndicate. The bank will also furnish the members with news concerning the sugar markets. The books for the subscription to the capital stock will be opened simultaneously in the European centres in a short time.

RUBBER STAMPS.—Send 25 cents for your name, or name and address, with a nickel-plated pen and pencil. Address, CANADIAN GROCER, 5 Jordan Street, Toronto.

Mr. John J. Millman, late of Millman Bros., Woodstock, is out in the interests of Richard Tew & Co. in the city, and we learn from him that the Toronto merchants know a good article when they see it in the way of crockery.

M. Alley, grocer, Campbellford, says good butter is scarce in that neighborhood; supply of eggs fair, and trade good. Money is rather light, but great hopes are centred on the abundant crop. The excessive rain at present is putting a damper on our crop prospects. A goodly quantity of the barley is already housed; the hay crop is secured; much of the wheat is in shooks, and a few warm dry days will be worth thousands in this and the adjoining townships.

We are pleased to notice from our Pacific Coast exchanges, that editor Frank N. Barrett, of the American Grocer, is having a good time on the Pavific Coast. In a letter to the editor of THE CANADIAN GROCER, written from San Francisco, Mr. Barrett says: "Trade is quiet here. The raisin output will be heavy. At least, 1,000,000 boxes—I think more. The yield is twenty-five per cent. greater than last year. Peach crop less. This is a wonderful country and I am amazed at its soil and climate.

Messrs. Richard Tew & Co., the cut of whose handsome warehouse on Front Street West appears on page 12, make a specialty of new shapes and designs, and are now arranging with their customers throughout the Dominion for the exclusive control in certain districts of the celebrated Maple Leaf and Fern Granite and Porcelain Opaque decorated and painted ware, and will be glad to hear from customers in towns not yet represented. It is claimed these lines are superior to any yet put on the market. They carry a large stock of Jem, Crown, and porcelain top mason fruit jars.

The practice of May shippers of eggs at this season of the year in using case fillings that have contained rotten or musty eggs should be discontinued as many buyers rely to some extent on the smell of a case when opened and a smeared filling will convey the impression that it contains rotten eggs, when the eggs may be perfectly fresh. Grocers who ship more or less eggs will do well to make a note of this. One such case may cost them more than fillings for a dozen cases. The Northumberland Egg Case Company furnish their fillings we think, for ten or twelve cents a set, for thirty dozen cases; so it will not pay you to use damaged fillings.

THE TRADE CONGRESS.

DEAR SIR,—As the time is drawing near for the Merchants' Congress, to be held in Hamilton, to discuss the greatest evil that exists in Canada to-day, so far as the mercantile trade is concerned, I want to urge upon every merchant, wholesale and retail, in Ontario the importance of their attending the Convention from 19th to 23rd August, to take part in the discussion of the greatest curse that we have to contend with, namely, "Bankrupt stocks and unjust compromises." As this is the first opportunity that has ever been given for the merchants to meet together and give their disapproval of such unjust trading, it is to be hoped that every one will do what he can to stamp out the great evil. Every effort is being made to perfect the Convention and make it a success, and if the merchants do not turn out, and help to devise a scheme to remedy the evil, they are not entitled to any sympathy when they are overrun with bankrupt stocks hereafter. I hear from many of the travellers that there is lots of talk about the Convention, and many merchants are arranging to attend it. Let every town and village be represented at the Convention. I believe that satisfactory arrangements will be made that we can go on and do business in a profitable way, for we have been doing business long enough for fun and without profit.

RETAIL MERCHANT.

Exeter, July 18, 1889.

HECKSTON, July 24, 1889.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER.

DEAR SIR,—I am interested in some of the discussions at the Trade Congress; compromises, pedlars, and the credit system, especially. As to the first, I think there should be no compromises, except in case of fire, or such like, because nine out of ten failures are the result of want of business knowledge, extravagant living, or cutting prices, and it certainly is an injustice to honest men to encourage such.

The second should be done away with altogether, in all forms; I mean selling any article by agents. No merchant can compete with a pedlar. For instance, an agent goes to a man's house and sells him an article that he could and would do without, only he is persuaded by long credits, etc., to buy. He gives his notes, which must be paid at maturity, and consequently, the storekeeper will have to wait for his bill until the man can get it. He would have been prompt if he had not been induced by the agent.

The credit system ought to be put an end to, but that is impossible in the country sections. It should be regulated some way so those who pay cash will not pay the bad debts of credit buyers. I do not know any reason why the system of wholesalers with the retailers should not work between retailers and other customers, that is, sell goods at a certain discount for cash. I do not suppose any of these thoughts are new, but they just came to me on reading your article and are the things that have troubled me most in a general business of over twenty years without a compromise.

Yours respectfully, H. HUGHES.

STRATFORD, July 25, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—I will give you my opinion on a few of your questions as requested. 1. The bankruptcy has had a good share of discussion and has been well ventilated.

2. "Mutual insurance for merchants only.' I am not posted on that, but we have a plate glass mutual insurance company in our city, and I had the misfortune to have a plate glass broken and it only cost each member sixty-nine cents. It works like a charm, and I think insurance on goods and buildings could be worked to great advantage the same way.

3. "The pedlar nuisance." I think there is good reason for merchants to complain, as we have heavy taxes to pay and other city burdens, while they come and tramp from house to house, talking and bothering customers till they buy, and in nine cases out of ten they don't give as good value as the merchant. They ought, at least, be made to contribute something to the expenses of the city. One of my customers told me the other day a pedlar called to sell tea, and asked to see the tea she was using. "Oh," said he, "I can give you as good tea as that for forty cents," while she had only been paying twenty-five cents for it in the store. In Hamilton, I hear they have to pay $4 a day license. I believe county councils have the power to deal with them, but they will not act.

4. "Selling goods without profit." I canvassed the city this spring to get up an interest in the compromise business and I found all the grocers were anxious to do something and jealousy seemed to be the only trouble. Then customers are in the habit of going from one store to another telling how cheap they can get goods in some other store. The way I stop that is, I go to the telephone and ask the party if that is so and do not drop my prices till I either send and buy the article or telephone. I am not bothered much now on that score.

5. "The egg trade." There are a few collectors who go in the spring when they can make a good thing on them; they go out and gather them. This ought to be stopped or they should take them all the year. They make confusion of prices. I don't know how to remedy that, only I don't let such men have any eggs from me. Some one else may suggest a remedy.

6. Short credits would be a move in the right direction.

7. Selling to merchants without capital is one cause of bankruptcy.

I might say I have very little bad debts the last five or six years, as I don't give the goods unless I am pretty sure it is safe; rather do without the customer.

Yours truly, W. T. BARKER.

BALMORAL, July 24th, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—I am greatly pleased to find that THE CANADIAN GROCER is taking such an active part in the coming trade congress, to be held in Hamilton shortly. With regard to the subjects to be discussed at the convention, I am sure they are all very important, and should be looked upon by merchants with the greatest care and attention. If I mistake not, "Why Merchants Fail" should be also brought up and thoroughly discussed, because bad business principles are to a certain extent accountable for so many failures and so much bankrupt stock being in the country at present. The cause of so many merchants failing in the country is because they pay, or are forced by competition to pay, too much for produce.

For an example: I am personally acquainted with merchants who have been paying for June and July butter 14c., 15c. and 16c. Butter worked in tubs will shrink 2 lbs. Tubs cost 30c. They sold the same for 11½c. to 13c., or at a loss of about 30 per cent. I might call your attention to other produce questions, but I think the above is enough.

This kind of business has been going on in this section for years. Is it a wonder merchants do not meet with better success?

I remain, yours respectfully,

OBSERVER.

LAKESIDE, July 23rd, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—I should be very much pleased to attend the trade congress in Hamilton, but am afraid I shall not be able to do so. I am glad to see the "Pedlar Nuisance" is among the topics to be discussed, as it is a great nuisance in these parts. There is a question I do not see in the list that I would like to see discussed; that is, the retailer allowing a higher price in trade for produce than he knows he will be able to get for it.

This species of "cutting" is, perhaps, more the custom in small villages and country stores than in the towns, and is probably oftener the case with eggs than with other kinds of produce. Most of the stores around here are now paying one or two cents more per doz. for eggs than they are selling them for.

Yours truly, A. G. WILLOWS.

[This last is a matter to which THE GROCER referred last week. If the merchants in each village or town would form an association, or come to a common understanding on this question, so that each would pay the same price for produce, all this cutting could be got over. ED. GROCER.]

CANADIAN PACKERS' ASSOCIATION.

A special meeting of the Canadian Packers' Association was held at the Walker House Wednesday afternoon. Mr. W. Boulter, Picton, president, was in the chair. There were also present : Messrs. W. P. Innes, Simcoe ; B. R. Nelles, Grimsby ; A. E. Carpenter and E. Decew, Hamilton ; W. A. Ferguson, Delhi ; J. Teskey, Welland ; S. Fenton, St. Catharines ; A. Anning, Picton ; H. I. Matthews, Lakeport. The greater part of the afternoon was spent in revising the constitution and by-laws. A number of changes were made in the selling prices. The most important was an advance of 5c. on tomatoes, making the selling price $1.05; pumpkins were advanced to $1 ; and apples, 3's, 85c. to 90c. Selling prices for the Maritime Provinces were adopted. Reports were made by the members on the condition of the crops, showing that tomatoes and corn were likely to be a very short crop, not more than one-third as large as last year ; peas will be about one-half crop ; cherries, not more than one-fourth crop ; for peaches the prospects are poor ; plums in some sections are fair.

SUBSCRIPTION CANVASSERS.

State experience. Must give references. Address J. B. McLean, 5 Jordan St., Toronto.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SHIPPERS.

TO SHIPPERS OF DRESSED HOGS.

Now that the season for marketing dressed hogs has fairly set in, country shippers should pay special attention to the shipments thereof to this market. After they are properly dressed, too much care cannot be bestowed upon their selection, it being desirable that hogs of nearly equal weight and quality should comprise each lot ; they ought then to be placed in clean cars, with a sufficient layer of straw at the bottom to prevent their being marked. Well-fatted, even, clean and bright-looking lots command a sale at top figures when buyers will not look at mixed and uneven lots, although they may be well-fatted. Each hog should have its weight neatly and distinctly marked upon it, and a list of weight of every shipment should be forwarded by mail as early as possible, so that no trouble may arise upon the arrival of the goods here. If shippers to this market will attend to the proper selection of light and heavy weights of good and proper qualities, they will be amply repaid for their trouble on the receipt of net proceeds of their consignments.

A PRACTICAL SYSTEM.

Some business men do a vast amount of work without any apparent effort ; they are rarely, if ever, rushed, and are seldom compelled to seclude themselves from their friends on account of the pressing demands of their business. Other people. who really accomplish very little, are always in a hurry; they seem to have a dozen things to do at once, and the result is, they are in a state of almost perpetual confusion, and the little they accomplish is only done by the greatest difficulty. In a very small country store perhaps a merchant can get along without any system or method in conducting his business. He knows where everything is in his stock, and can lay his hands on it at a moment's notice, and if a customer calls for it he can serve him without any very great amount of trouble ; but, on the other hand, if he is at the head of a vast business, some great establishment, perhaps, in which there are a hundred departments, it would be utterly impossible for him to keep track of things without the most methodical arrangement throughout the concern with which he is connected. Our great merchant leaves the details of his business to subordinates, who are accountable to him that everything goes right in the departments over which they are placed. Some of the great establishments in our city employ thousands of men, yet so perfect is the system that every man can be located at a moment's notice, and the closest watch can be kept upon the work which he is doing. There is a system for receiving and shipping goods, a system for keeping track of stock while in the hands of the producer or dealer ; there is a cash system, a system of bookkeeping by which a mistake of a penny can be detected at the close of every day's business. It is only by these wise and sensible precautions that a great business can be carried on successfully. Thousands of losses, little and great, are averted that would certainly occur did not this watchfulness prevail in every department.

A writer in the Detroit Free Press said not long ago that "there are some occupations which compel those who follow them to be orderly and methodical. There are none in which these qualities, where they have been neglected, can not be cultivated to good advantage. Deficiency in them is far from being a token of genius. It signifies something of indolence and much that is slipshod. Every man knows whether or not he is as orderly and methodical as he should be. If he is not, unless he is too old to attempt the task, he should endeavour to improve in these respects. There is no danger of his carrying it to that excess which marks persons who have a passionate love of order, but there is a likelihood that he will materially lighten his work, or find that he can do much more than he has been in the habit of doing."

It seems to the Criterion that this is the keynote of a business man's success. No man who conducts his business in a slipshod manner can expect to achieve desirable results. He should determine to be orderly and methodical at the very commencement of his career. Order soon becomes a habit with a business man. and by its observance he is enabled to do a hundred things that it would be impossible to accomplish if he did not go at them in the handiest and most effective manner.—[Grocers' Criterion.

WHY THE WHOLESALERS MAKE MONEY.

There is no question in the mind of the retailer that the wholesaler does make money. At any rate he gets rich steadily, and don't seem to fail with any great rapidity. The retailer plods along making his slow dollar, and hoping for more by-and-by, while the wholesaler makes his quick and frequent dollars and lays them out for heavier returns. It is often stated by wholesalers' representatives that, "the house" does business on an average of less than six per cent. of profit. One has only to figure on this statement in a cold, practical way to discover that it encloses a fallacy. Six per cent. may cover expenses, but it never covers expenses and profits too.

But why does the wholesaler make profit when the retailer makes so little? They handle the same goods, and the retailer handles them at a larger profit than the jobber. His expense account is larger, and the advantages of the market are seldom with him, though its disadvantages always are.

To illustrate, take the matter of sugar alone. When the price at the brokers' goes up, the prices at the jobbers does likewise. Does it go up with the retailer? Well, hardly; he has a neighbor whose stock lasts a little longer than his, and who proposes to sell at the old figure until he has to make a new purchase. And then he has a hundred or two hundred customers besides who have to be carefully instructed every time that it becomes absolutely necessary to raise the price. And there are, as a rule, women whose ideas of the whys and wherefores are as clear as their ideas of who was the father of the man in the moon. Those are two reasons why the wholesaler makes his profit and the retailer makes none, as a rule, when prices go up.

On the other hand, when the market drops, instead of our friend, the retailer, holding on a while to recoup himself for losses, he drops down as quick as he can. If he doesn't want to himself, some of his customers remind him of it! That's a curious thing, by the way, how acute the average customer is to discover a drop in prices, while he is absolutely obvious when the market goes the other way. It's on a par with their quick discovery of a mistake in an account which tells against them, and with their absolute non-seeing of an error in their favor.

The Wholesalers' Association seems to have been founded just at the right time. Up goes sugar, and with it sails that one-quarter of a cent a pound. Those who have fair stocks on hand are making several quarters just now. Another reason that the retailer's profits don't hold out in fact as they look on paper, is because he has to break packages, and weigh out and measure. No one who gave honest measure could ever make a barrel of potatoes, for instance, yield as many quarts as calculation say should be in a barrel. Nor can anyone make a sixty pound tub of butter weigh out sixty pounds. Tares are wrong, always under than over the actual figures; clerks are careless or generous at the employer's expense, and the scales sometimes count for more than they should.

We do not believe that the most careful retailer can guard absolutely against some one or the other of those troubles incident to his business. Hence his profits are never actually what his calculations say they should be. On the other hand, the wholesaler sells in packages, as a rule, and if there is a mistake in their contents either the manufacturer or the retailer gets the benefit of it. His goods are easily traced and a mistake in counting of packages, or over-delivery can be readily traced.

These are most of the reasons why the jobber makes money. We might add, also, that he has larger capital and a more extended field of operations, and a better class of customers to deal with than the retailer. And these, we think, are reasons enough to show why the wholesaler makes money.—[National Grocer.

FILL ORDERS PROMPTLY.

I was chatting a few days ago with a downtown stationer on the subject of filling orders. Strange as it may appear, this merchant held the opinion that the most pernicious, if not the most damaging, habit in daily business was the lack of promptness in supplying what was ordered. "To secure an order," said he, "some men will promise anything and everything. You may ask as a favor to have your order filled on the day agreed upon, and he will promise faithfully that it shall be done. You then make your arrangements and find that you cannot execute them. The worst of it is that some of the men who make these promises are of business repute. They mean well, no doubt, but I contend that they should show more regard for their word and respect for other people's business."

These are somewhat severe words, yet they are probably warranted, although the breach of faith complained of is not common. Business men, as a rule, while anxious to obtain an order, are equally as anxious to fill it, for the very obvious reason that the motive governing them in the one case is the same which governs them in the other. The truth is that in these competitive times everyone is desirous of doing all he can, and hence he accepts orders with the belief that, barring accidents or other unforeseen circumstances, he will be able to redeem his promise. Of course the wilful promise breaker and his business, too, regulate themselves, for if a man's word is not to be generally trusted, depend upon it his goods will not find a very extensive patronage for any length of time. ADVICE TO COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS.

Mr. W. H. Maher, the well-known writer on commercial matters, recently delivered an address on "Commercial Travellers," from which the following extracts are taken :

"Back in war times, when business seemed to run itself, almost any man could go out and sell goods. Wages were high, profits were large, people lived on a broad-gauge basis. A man who could write a letter had a sufficient education to go on the road, and those of us who recall those days plainly will remember that among the small army of drummers was a large percentage of young fellows who seemed to be travelling solely for their health. With the change in financial affairs, the curtailment in business, the lessening of profits and the increased competition for trade, the weeding process began, and the loud-mouthed, shallow-brained fellows were sent to the rear and finally dropped out of the ranks of travelling salesmen. To-day commercial travellers are fairly representative of the average business man, because they are business men, or if not, they are failures.

"They are a class peculiar to themselves, but still they are the class from which our business men select partners, and there are few houses to-day that are not managed by men who were fitted for their present duties by their years of experience on the road. It is exactly the experience needed to fit a man to be a good merchant, if the right stuff is in him. There are few concerns who sell to every buyer at exactly the same prices, and on the same terms. There are places where some slight concessions are necessary ; there are men who are not entitled to bottom prices. When these men come to the factory, or to the wholesale house, the proprietor decides if concessions shall or shall not be made, and the salesman acts accordingly. But when the salesman starts on the road he must settle these questions for himself. The concern he represents is carried from town to town under his hat. He must decide as to credits, as to prices, as to quantities safe to send, and often as to legal proceedings upon overdue claims.

"These powers cannot be delegated to a shallow, loud-mouthed man, as the newspaper 'funny' man so loves to picture the drummer. They require capacity, and the field is the best in the whole realm of business in which to educate a man and increase his usefulness. A man of experience can quickly gauge the men at the head of a house by the men sent out on the road by them. The wishy washy merchant figures that two $600 men are a better investment than one $1,200, but this class is the one forever mourning over the way travelling men slaughter goods and ruin trade.

"There is no doubt in my mind that travelling men are much to blame for the demoralization existing in prices, but the men employing them are far more blamable. Men are sent out with but one order ; to meet prices. This looks simple, and in the hands of an interested man is simple, but as construed by most salesmen it not only means to meet competition, but it means to beat competitors. The house keeps account of all sales, but very rarely of profits ; the man who sells the most is petted and patted on the back before his fellows, while another man who made more dollars and cents for the concern feels that he is lucky in not getting discharged.

"Manufacturers are popularly supposed to sell every man who buys the same quantity at the same price. When the salesman whispers in my ear that he is giving me 5 per cent. better than he does the largest house in Chicago, I always thank him, but have my doubts as to the 5 per cent. Of course if all men are selling at identically the same price, the one who sells the most is the best man. But with jobbers prices vary ; if the salesman cannot get all he wants he is wise to take what he can get, and the size of a bill, or of a year's trade is no criterion of profit. I remember looking with awe upon a man who was on the road in my day, and who sold $3,600 worth of boots and shoes to one of my customers. It was told all along the road, and he was hailed as a lightning salesman. But I afterwards learned that he made exactly 1 per cent. on the bill, and that the sale was all for glory. But his praises were sung at home and abroad, while a quiet fellow who made 15 to 20 per cent. on every sale he made was never mentioned.

"Business is full of just such injustice as this. The lightning salesman is paid the best salary, and for this he demoralizes prices and ruins trade. Were his salary based upon his profits he would quickly drop to the rear, but too often the head of the house is as anxious for the glory of large sales as is the travelling man, and encourages him to send in his big bills, though he mutters to his partner about the lack of profits. It is a common saying that any fool can give away goods, but that it takes a smart man to sell for a profit. Most of us know this to be true, yet the practice is to pay the large salary to the fool.

"When there is no backbone in the head of the house there is rarely any in the man on the road. It is so easy to cut prices, one wonders at himself that he ever resisted the temptation. If there is any dread of fault being found at home, it is easier to cut than to remain firm, and a cut in one store paves the way for a cut in the next. Two merchants were discussing business. Said one, 'Everything is cut, even patented specialties ; here's an article that cost us $3.75, and our men are selling it at $4 ; it ought to bring $6 ; there are so few sold.' 'Do your men sell at $4? Why, we sell at $5.50. We sent some of them to Blank to-day at that price.' 'That place is where ours went,' said the other ; 'how do you get such a price?' 'Well,' said the other dryly, 'I suppose it is because we ask it, principally, and my man knows if he sold for any such fool price as $4 the order wouldn't be filled.'

"I am not good at morals, but I think there is one in this conversation, which is truthfully reported. The man who knows his prices will be carefully watched and criticized will strive to get the best he can ; while he who knows that his order will be filled, and nothing said, be the prices good or bad, will go on cutting, and imagine himself a success because he gets an order by giving goods away.

"I know of no school, no business college, no position which offers the same opportunity for education and advancement as does that of travelling salesman. He must be dull, indeed, who can learn nothing from the men he meets daily. The bright minds of the world are not, by any means, to be found solely in the city. In the country store are men who read and think, something most of us have little time for in the city. I am reminded of the answer given by the little girl when her teacher asked her, 'What is memory?' 'It is the thing you forget with,' she said ; and those of us who shoulder the everyday cares of a city business know that this answer is wonderfully true.

"To the man on the road questions arise that never meet the house salesman ; questions as to methods of doing business, as to means to ends, as to the policy to pursue in a business course. He is daily and hourly listening to men's experience with men, and he is learning details that cover every phase of commercial life. If his head is not full of wood or putty he is laying up a store of experience that shall be of immense value to him.

"There is no position that honestly demands so much of man's time and thoughts. His employers have a right to demand that his thoughts, his whole thoughts, and his whole life, while on the road, shall be given to the furtherance of their business. Men build up trade for their houses often by simply being sociable and friendly, and the men who succeed as salesmen, and who in turn become successful merchants, are those who never found a day too long for their work on the road.

"Above all, waste no time in regrets. Thank God every day of your life that you have health and strength, and envy no man his riches or position. Nine-tenths of the pleasure to be found in money is in the making of it, and that pleasure is before every man if he will have it. In this country no one can keep you poor but yourself. But there is a greater success than that of mere money-getting ; it is in winning the respect of your associates, the confidence of your friends, the love of a good woman, and the approving conscience of yourself. These outlast money and are a noble estate. And this I heartily wish to you all."

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-knowr brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

"A stitch in time saves nine," a little precaution taken now, before the flies get in their destructive work, will add to the appearance of the store and save money. Fly netting can be bought at reasonable rates; shelves, gas fixtures, and goods exposed should be covered with the same. We have often seen canned goods so fly-specked as to be almost unsalable. This can and ought to be avoided. As before recommended, such goods should be wrapped in paper, so that when offered the appearance will not injure the sale.

"If I had the money lost yearly by grocers through carelessness in cutting cheese, I would have a splendid income," said an old grocer to me the other day. "Very few grocers know how to cut cheese so that there need be but little waste." Desiring information, I asked him to tell me how it was done, to which he replied: "The first thing to be done is to cut your cheese through the centre, so as to make two layers; then take the scale board, found in every box of cheese, and put it in the centre where you have cut; then commence by cutting from top of cheese to scale board, selling the top half first; a little practice will enable you to cut exact weight nearly every time. In hot weather it is better to put one-half of the cheese back into the box in which it came, carefully keeping it covered from flies. If the cheese gets moist on top, a little white corn meal rubbed over the surface will help to improve it." If grocers will take our friend's advice, we guarantee that there will be considerable saving of cheese, thus increasing profits for them.

"I like a little novelty once in a while to draw trade. Last summer I had a free lemonade tank every Saturday night. You would be surprised to see how many people came into my store to get a drink of lemonade, at the same time making purchases. Alongside of the lemonade tank I had some samples of tea put up in small trial boxes. The young man in charge, while a gentleman or lady were refreshing themselves, would take one of these sample boxes and talk tea for all he was worth. I made the lemonade push my tea trade, and it has proved a paying investment. A gentleman called at my store one day last winter for five pounds of tea, who told me that the free lemonade sign caught his eye while passing with his wife, one night during the previous summer. He came in, took a drink and sample of tea, and became a customer until he had removed out of town a few weeks previous. He was so well pleased with the tea that he had called to take some home with him. Some of the largest grocery houses in Boston furnish coffee at one cent a cup, thus introducing their goods."

"I am always very careful and pay particular attention to orders for groceries that I receive by mail or through my clerks," said a prosperous grocer. "I take it for granted when I get an order that the party sending it expects that it will be filled with care, and that I will not overcharge or take any advantage, because of absence of the sender; in short, they trust me to do right by them, and I endeavor not to disappoint them." He also claimed that in many instances there was lack of care in packing orders for delivery. "I make it a rule, which every clerk must obey, that green peas, beans, tomatoes, and mostly all other vegetables, with the exception of potatoes and turnips, be put up in paper bags. What looks more careless than to deliver these goods all mixed together as you often see them? Paper bags are not expensive, and I am surprised that many grocers continue the 'mixing' method, as I call it. The expense for bags would not amount to more than five cents on a crate of tomatoes or beans. Goods so put up can be delivered quicker and more easily, and, at times, save considerable wear and tear of temper on the part of customers. There is another matter that I am a crank about. I will not allow codfish, mackerel, soap, kerosene oil, or any highly scented articles to be packed in baskets which contain butter, coffee or tea. There are enough of old boxes in every grocer's cellar to pack this class of goods in without running chances of having customers complain of goods being flavored or scented by coming in contact with the goods spoken of."—[Retail Grocers' Advocate.

CLEANLINESS.

It is an old saying that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. And so it is, but it is also the price of trade and of everything else in life worth working for and keeping. It is not of so grand a theme as liberty that we are writing, but of a far humbler one. To keep one's hands clean requires an effort of will and a perseverance in doing right which is deserving of all praise. We often forget that in the small things of life eternal vigilance is as necessary as in great.

To go direct from the mackerel barrel to the cracker counter is an extreme illustration of carelessness. But it is to be feared that smaller sins against cleanliness are often committed. It requires determination in order to keep the hands and clothes clean, but duty to ourselves, our trade, and our success requires the continued effort.

Not long ago, in England, the Prince of Wales startled the community by stating that a salesman in a London market was daily handling meat with hands covered with leprosy. It proved true, and the leper was found, and by kindness of the Prince and others was pensioned off. The case occasioned wide discussion and not a little alarm. It was asked, How many butchers and grocers in London were handling food when afflicted with skin diseases? and, to go further still, How many assistants and clerks free from disease were yet not careful to keep hands and clothes clean, especially among the poorer classes?

We have too much pride in the grocers of this country to believe that the gospel of dirt is very generally believed in. Nevertheless it may do all of us good if we take note of the question and make efforts to see not only that ordinary cleanliness is observed, but that scrupulous care is taken to make ourselves and our stores above even suspicion.—[American Grocer.

GROCERIES.

Trade has been dull all week, and values have generally tended easier in groceries. Sugar is very flat and weak ; demand is almost at a standstill, as there is not so much being used at present, and buyers have lost confidence in the market. Payments are up to the average for this season of the year. Prospects are bright for a good fall business, as crops are likely to be above an average in most sections of the Province. Reports from a few places in central Western Ontario say that wheat has suffered from blight, but this does not appear to be general. Money is easy again. Good commercial paper is discounted at six per cent.

CANNED GOODS.

Canned goods continue firm, but there is very little business doing. Tomatoes are quoted at 90c. to $1, but a round lot sold at 82c. a few days ago. Corn is firm at $1 to $1.10, and peas will bring about the same. Canned fish does not appear to have been so active this week, but prices are the same. Salmon is held at $1.70 to $1.75, which is less than British Columbia packers are asking for new pack, delivered here. Lobsters are going at $1.65 to $1.90 ; mackerel, at $1.50 to $1.60 ; mackerel herring, at 85c. to 95c. ; and finnan haddie at $1.50 to $1.60.

COFFEES.

Coffees are dull. Rios are selling in small lots at 20c. to 22c. Javas have changed hands at 28c. to 36½c., roasted. Outside markets are generally easier, and as there is every prospect of large crops, lower prices are looked for.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are fairly active. A round lot of barrels and halves sold at 4¼c. this week. Small lots are held at 4¾c. to 5½c., and cases at 5¾c. to 6¾c., as to quality. An inquiry was heard for choice quality figs a few days ago, but the market is completely bare ; there are a few natural in large boxes which can be bought at 4c. to 5c. per lb., and 14oz. boxes at 7c. to 8c. There is a pretty fair demand for prunes at quotations. Valencia raisins are very scarce and firm ; New York has made a further advance ; on the spot wholesalers are selling at 7¼c. to 7½c. for prime off-stalk. There has been a little flurry in Sultanas on an active buying demand from manufacturers : several large lots changed hands ; good stock is steady at 8c. to 9c. Elemes are selling freely at 6c. in lots, and 6½c. in small quantities ; inferior quality is offered at 5¾c. Nuts are unchanged. Cables offer Sicily almonds, October shipment, at 22s. 6d. ; Valencias, September shipment, at 24s. 6d. ; and Jordans at 29s. 6d.

A cable from Denia to J. Lockhart, Watt & Scott says the probable opening price of four-crown layer Valencia raisins will be 25s. f.o.b., and for fine off-stalk, 21s. f.o.b., August shipment.

Under date of the 1st instant the following advices from Patras regarding the position of currants are received. After referring to a steamer loaded with 1,100 tons for London, the communication says : "Including above, shipments amount to close upon 150,000 tons, or say 20,000 tons in excess of the largest currant crop ever produced. Notwithstanding this enormous increase in the production, stocks in the United Kingdom are not nearly as heavy as they have often been in years past, when the total crops were under 100,000 tons, and this is of course due to the large importation of currants into France, and to the large increase in the shipments to the north of Europe. Indeed, if the lower quantities had been more carefully cured and dried so as to fully meet the requirements of the French trade, there is no doubt that with the low prices which have prevailed since the beginning of the year, the importation of France would have exceeded 50,000 tons, and the enormous crop of 1888 would have been then entirely disposed of without any of the markets of consumption being unduly stocked. There still remain in this country about 8,500 tons, of which the greater portion is unfit for export. The growing crop is progressing very favorably, and we have heard no complaints whatever regarding the weather. As to size of crop, in some districts the falling-off, as compared with last year, is reckoned at from 20 to 25 per cent., while in others not over 10. There is no doubt that, even if everything goes well to the end, the crop will be smaller than last year's, but we are inclined to estimate the probable decrease at not over ten per cent. ; this naturally is not taking unforeseen events, such as damage by rain, rot, etc., into consideration.

Bendelari & Co., in their report of yesterday, say :—Malaga fruit—Mr. Casodo writes under date July 8th :—"The weather has become settled and we are having heat which is favoring the raisin crop. If it continues favorable you can depend on good quality. I estimate the crop at not over 600,000 boxes." Sultanas and figs—C. Whittall & Co. write under date July 11th :—"Figs continue to promise good results. In Sultanas we stick to our idea that the deficit will not exceed 10 to 15 per cent. on last year's crop, though heavy advances have been obtained for what remains of last year's crop in anticipation of heavy shortage." Currants—Barff & Co., in letter of July 9th just received, report that growers having received a severe lesson owing to careless cutting and curing of 1888 crop, they expect much more attention to these points this season and look for generally fine quality, and a crop 10 to 15 per cent. below last years (about 140,000 tons against 158,000 in 1888). From the low prices received for the bulk of '88 crop and low prices now ruling, they look for reasonable prices at opening of market. With poor vintage prospects in France, it is quite on the cards that a strong demand may set in about end of September. Turkish prunes—J. & U. Liebman & Co., Trieste, write that owing to unfavorable weather the crop of Turkish prunes is estimated at much less than it was three weeks ago.

RICE AND SPICES.

Rice is very firm. The manufacturers are asking $3.70 per cwt. in 100 bag lots at the mill Montreal. Wholesalers are selling on the spot at $3.87 per cwt.

SUGARS.

We mark our quotations on granulated and all white sugars ¼c. lower, the guild price having been reduced to that amount on Saturday. We have been looking for a further decline this week, as New York has dropped another ¼c. and all cables are lower. The trade, however, is very dull, and Canadian refiners are not doing any business. The St. Lawrence has shut down for the present, and is storing sugars here and in Montreal. Refiners have been shading yellows, and, on Tuesday, wholesale houses were enabled to cut to 6⅞c. for a low grade yellow, equal to about 6⅝c. at the refinery. Raws are also lower. Trinidad, in bags, is offering at 7¼c. The wholesale prices of white sugars now are as follows: Granulated, single bbl., 9⅜c.—15 bbl. lots, 9½c.; Paris lumps, boxes, 10⅛c.; Extra ground, bbl., 10⅜c.—boxes and less than bbl., 10⅝c.; Powdered H., bbl., 9½c.—less than bbl., 9¾c. Willett & Hamlen's New York weekly circular says of sugar: Raws, ⅜c. lower; refined, ¼c. lower. After a period of stagnation, resulting from the demoralization of European markets, business has resumed in raw sugar at ½c. reduction from the highest point. At this reduction large purchases of muscavadoes were made, and buyers seem satisfied to go on, but other holders do not yet accept the decline. Refined continues to accumulate in the hands of refiners in the absence of demand, but this accumulation is the opposite of a cornering movement, and will tend to prevent the crisis of a dearth of sugar this season, as at one time seemed possible. Meltings show a large falling off from preceding weeks—say 18,000 tons less—while receipts have largely increased; and stock in all hands in United States has increased 20,391 tons. At the same time the total stock in all the principal countries shows a large decrease, and is now 572,380 tons, against 920,387 tons at same time last year. Advices from producing countries are favorable for growing crops.

TEAS.

The inquiry for teas seems to be improving and prospects are cheerful. As a rule this is a dull season of the year, but this season is more active than usual. Values have reached such a low point that retailers now recognize that there is little or no risk in carrying fair stocks. Japans are in an anomalous position; the Japan market has advanced $2 to $3 per picul, but on the spot they are as low as before. There are some very fine quality offered here this season. New blacks are in high favor on account of the low price and fine flavor. The consumption of Young Hysons is getting smaller and smaller; stocks are quite ample for the demand.

☞ The GROCER is everywhere acknowledged as an authority, and its market quotations are accepted as official.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

Flour has been very quiet all week. There is not much enquiry, and stocks in millers' hands appear to be light. There is, however, reported to be a good deal held in the East. Straight rollers are held at $4.70 and extras at $4.25. Bran is quiet. Holders are asking $9 at outside points. On the spot holders are asking $10.50 in car lots on the track. Wheat is in active demand. Millers are asking for lots of two to five cars. Prices are steady. Sales are made on the Northern at $1 for white and 99c. for spring. White sold in the West at 98c., and red winter at $1.03 on the Grand Trunk west. Spring is worth 1.02 on the Midland. Manitoba wheat dull; No. 1 hard was offered at $1.12 to $1.13 to arrive, and No. 1 frosted at 90c. Barley, nominal. Samples of new crop are being shown, but no business being done. Corn in active demand at 50c., but very little offering. Peas are scarce and firm, with an active demand for all offered and sales at 60c. f.o.b. Oats are steady, with a good demand at 33c. to 34c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—There are only a few small lots selling, and dealers are getting their own prices, which vary from $1.40 to $2 per bushel for about the same quality.

DRIED APPLES There is a good demand for dried apples but offerings are very light. Purchases have been made in the country at 3¾c., and consigned lots at 4c. Dealers are reselling at 4½c. to 5c. Evaporated are in request in small lots at 6½c. to 7½c. per lb.

EGGS—Are coming in more freely and prices are tending downward. Most of the sales are being made at 13c. to 13½c., but occasionally a few are going at 14c. to 14½c. New York reports are not favorable and there are not many being shipped there.

HAY—Is dull. Choice timothy has sold during the week in car lots at $13 on the track, and in small lots at $13.50. Good stock is worth about $11.50 to $12.50.

HIDES—Green remain the same as before. There is a little better local demand for cured, but the low prices prevailing in Chicago prevent any material advance on this side. Cars have sold at 5¼c. to 5⅜c.

HOPS—Are nominal at 21c.

POTATOES—All the old Canadians appear to be cleared out. There are a few new in, but they are not sufficient to supply the demand, and a good many cars of Americans are coming forward. They are selling at 65c. to 70c. per bushel, or $2 per barrel.

SKINS—Prices of lambskins and pelts are likely to advance to 45c. to-morrow. Calfskins are dull and in light demand.

TALLOW—Continues weak with dealers buying rendered at 5c. and selling at 5½c. Rough is being bought at 1¾c. to 2c.

WOOL—In good demand. Fleece is coming forward slowly. Dealers are paying 20c. to 20½c. for lots coming forward. In pulled there is not much doing; stocks are almost nil and prices are comparatively strong.

The evaporated apple syndicate that started in last fall to gather and control the stock of this staple are quietly laying to await the result of this year's crop. For the past six weeks or two months the market has been improving in tone, and outside parcels have been gradually passing out into consumption, both upon domestic and foreign account, until to-day the combine are thought to have a pretty firm hold upon the situation so far as relates to spot supplies. From the great apple-growing sections in the western part of this State the crop reports are of a very unfavorable character, and in many localities the yield, it is said, will not exceed one-half an average. This naturally strengthens the ideas of those interested in the large quantities of evaporated goods carried over, and expressions of confidence are heard in materially higher values this coming fall and winter. Their calculations may possibly prove correct as the season advances, but they should not lose sight of the fact that the evaporating process is revolutionizing the apple business as well as all other varieties of fruit, the crops of to-day yielding much better returns than in former years. It was formerly the custom with growers to give no consideration to the droppings from the trees, and when the fruit came to the ground prematurely, there it was permitted to lie and rot, or was consumed by live stock that were frequently turned into the orchards to pasture. Under the present system of evaporation the farmers now are more alive to their interests, and instead of standing by and seeing their fruit go to waste, the same is gathered from the ground and disposed of to the evaporators at a fair valuation. This process, it can therefore readily be seen, adds materially to the supply of the country by its saving method, and in periods when short crops are probable it aids to stretch out the season's result by securing the fruit that in former years was permitted to rot upon the ground. The crop of fruit last year was a large one, and values in consequence ruled very low. This fact led to the formation of the combine in the western part of the State referred to, with the result of large purchases made. The stock secured was placed in cold storage, and the bulk there remains to bring out when the situation is favourable to the unloading. Naturally those inside the ring anticipate a boom market this fall, but most in the trade believe there will be sufficient stock, taking the old and new goods together, to meet in full the requirements of consumers at moderate values.—[New York Commercial Bulletin.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Is coming in more freely in pails, tubs and crocks, and prices are tending lower. The quality is generally very good. The stocks in the hands of local dealers are reported to be quite liberal, but consignments have not been large. Country merchants who sold up pretty close a short time ago have commenced to accumulate stocks again. Good quality dairies are being taken at 14c. to 15c. There are not many mediums, but the few coming are selling at 11c. to 13c. There are hardly any large rolls coming, but they are worth 15c. to 16c., if of good quality. Pound rolls are in light supply, and being taken at 18c. to 19c.; demand is good. Creameries are dull at 20c. in tubs, and 23c. in rolls. There does not appear to be any shipping demand.

CHEESE—Dull and easier. Dealers are buying full creams at 8¾c. to 9c., and selling at 9c. to 10c.

The New York Times says:—The large accumulation of butter in this city at present is almost without precedent, for there are about 13,000,000 lbs. of this article stored in this city and immediate vicinity, and the supply is increasing at the rate of about 3,950,000 lbs. a week. The end is not yet, for from all parts of the country come the reports that water and succulent grass are plentiful, that the cows have good appetites, and continue to make milk as fast as they can. The supply from this State is large, but the great bulk of the supply of butter comes from the Western States. It is true that most of the fine table butter remains in this country, and that mostly inferior grades and butter whose flavor has been affected are shipped to Europe, where they are skilfully doctored and improved. The average quantity exported from New York each week has been about 500,000 lbs. at this season of the year. During the last six days 850,000 were exported. The amount of butter consumed in this city and vicinity per week is about 1,600,000 lbs. As will be seen by the figures, the quantity that comes in every week greatly exceeds that consumed. Most of the produce merchants here are refusing to buy any more butter on their own account, and will only agree to hold and sell it on account of the shippers.

HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

The Cincinnati Price Current says: "Considerable reduction is shown in the movement of hogs the past week in the west. Packing returns indicate a total of 145,000, compared with 210,000 the preceding week, and 120,000 a year ago, decreasing 65,000 from the preceding week and gaining only 25,000 over last year. The season's total from March 1 is 4,390,000, against 3,545,000 last year—increase 845,000. Eastern shipments were somewhat smaller than a year ago for the week. Prices of hogs have improved, and at the close are generally 15c. to 20c. per 100 lbs. higher than a week ago. Quality generally good. In the provision trade the distribution of product is large, both for domestic consumption and export movement. Receipts of product at Chicago have been large for some time from western points, the accumulation in that market serving more or less to depress values, but this concentration of stocks has been incident to depletion of supplies at Missouri River points of manufacture. The speculative interest continues of very restricted volume, and the movement of product from Chicago is largely direct business from the leading packing establishments. The trade is in an un ertain frame of mind as to the near future—recognizing the force of low prices and the significance of the current large movement of product, but fearing relatively liberal supplies of hogs right along, and the lack of support from speculative interest in the market. It is also confronted with the apprehension of large selling offers by local speculative operators on any moderate enhancement in prices. It is this fear that chokes outside inclination to operate in the leading articles. The concentration of stocks in Chicago and lowering of supplies elsewhere are elements favorable to such control of the situation a little later as may lead to a decided upward turn in values. Exports of product were again very liberal for the week of both meats and lard, exceeding the large movement for corresponding time last year. The manufacture of meats the past week has fallen largely below the domestic consumptive and export movement—the latter aggregating an equivalent of fully 225,000 hogs, or 50 per cent. more than the week's killings.

COAL OIL.

The market continues very firm. Car lots are held at 12c. to 12½c. at Petrolea for common, and 17c. for water white. Spot prices are: Refined, per gallon, 15c.; carbon safety, 17c.; water white Canadian, 20c. to 22c.; water white American, 25c.; photogene, 27c.

☞ The articles contained in this Review are written by experienced representatives of the GROCER, are wholly unbiassed, and are an accurate reflex of the market.

MONTREAL, August 1, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

The feature of the canned goods market has been the improved demand for tomatoes from speculators owing to the general opinion being that the crop will be short and the pack smaller than usual; in consequence buyers have been looking around more and picking up all the lots offered as they are under the impression that they can buy just as cheap now as they will be able to do from the packer later on. Round lots have changed hands, including one lot of 350 cases, at 85c., at which figure the seller did not make much profit. Outside of the above business the market has continued quiet under a slow demand, and few sales have been effected. New lobsters are held at $6 to $6.50 per case. Salmon is firm at $1 70 per dozen. Corn is moving very slow at $1 to $1.75 per dozen as to brand. Peas are quiet and unchanged at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. Canned fruits have been neglected and business dull. Bartlett pears have ruled weaker and declined to $1.80 per dozen. The demand for Armour's canned meats continue good at steady prices.

SUGAR.

The feature of the sugar market has been the weakness in refined, and granulated has declined ¼c. owing to the continued weak advices from abroad on the raw article. Speculators who held large lines of granulated which showed a fair profit have been realizing. Granulated is now quoted at 9c. In yellows there has been a weaker feeling, and prices have declined ⅛c. to ¼c. to 7⅛c. to 8c. as to quality at the factory. The market on the whole has been very quiet, and little business has been transacted owing to the fact that buyers seem to have ample supplies on hand for the present.

SYRUP.

There has been no improvement in the market for syrup, business having continued quiet and of a jobbing character on account of the light offerings from refiners who are well sold out, and the stock is held by outsiders who are jobbing it out at 4¼c. to 4⅜c.

MOLASSES.

There has been a quiet tone to the molasses market during the past few days as the demand for round lots has fallen off considerable, and few sales have been made outside of some small lots. The feeling, however, is very firm as the stock is held in two hands and the inside price for round lots is 49c., with small selling at 50c. for Barbadoes. The market is bare of other grades.

FRUIT.

The demand for fruit has been good and the market has ruled active with a large volume of business. The receipts have been large of most kinds, but the market has ruled steady and prices are unchanged. New apples have been arriving freely which meet with a good demand at $3 to $3.50 per barrel. There continues to be a good enquiry for oranges at $5 to $5.50 per box. Lemons have been moving fairly well at $4.50 to $4.75 per box. Cherries are very scarce and dear at $1.25 per basket. In other lines of fruit and nuts a fair business has been transacted for this season at steady prices.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The feeling in the tea market has continued strong as advices from abroad have been stronger, in consequence, the recent advance in prices has been well maintained, in fact, the prospects are for a further advance in the near future, as stocks here are small compared with former years and few consignments are coming forward, consequently, holders are strong and expect a sharp improvement before long. The demand for Japans has been good and sales of several round lots have been made at 19c. to 20c. with a good inquiry for teas ranging from 16c. to 20c.

TO THE GROCERY TRADE.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

(OF LONDON), CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association,

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools: they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application

POINTS ON THE RECEIPT OF GOODS.

Even in the best managed and most systematic manufacturing and jobbing establishments errors are liable to occur in the shipment of goods, and it behooves the retail merchant to carefully examine all his purchases to see that the goods are of the kind ordered, that neither quality nor quantity is lacking. Orders may be delivered, time after time, and no mistake occur. The dealer then is tempted to relax his vigilance, when suddenly a serious mistake may happen and escape his notice. Therefore the examination of all goods must be systematic and careful. It will not do to delay this work too long. Promptness is essential in making the examination, also in sending notification of any shortage or other errors to the shipper. Most manufacturers and wholesale dealers print across the top of their billheads a notice to the effect that all claims for allowances must be made within a specified time. This statement is not a mere empty form, and some merchants have discovered the fact through that best of all teachers, experience. A case came to our notice a short time ago, illustrating this point. A retailer in the interior purchased a lot of goods from a local manufacturer, and upon receipt of the goods examination showed a larger quantity of certain descriptions than the order called for. The retailer ordered his clerks to lay the goods aside until the salesman who took the order again made his rounds. Some weeks elapsed, and the drummer failing to call, the merchant shipped the goods which he had not ordered back to the sender, with a request that credit be given for the extra goods. In reply, the manufacturer stated that the time for the allowance of claims had elapsed, that he could make no allowance, and demanded payment of the bill in full. Later developments have not changed the situation, and the manufacturer threatens to enter an action for the settlement of his account. This case may be an extreme one, but many merchants will find in it a warning against unbusinesslike methods which may save them from a great deal of anxiety and pecuniary losses. Bills and statements also require close examination, and comparison with the quantities and values of goods. Mistakes in entering items on the shippers' books, and figuring up the totals, are as likely to happen as in the matter of filling the orders. Neglect of these particulars cannot but lead to losses which the average retailer can ill afford in these days of small profits and close competition.—[Merchants' Review.

And now comes Gillett and says that it is time there was a good baking powder, and that his Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is far superior to all others.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is t benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE OATMEAL TRADE.

A staple article in a grocery store is oatmeal, and the use of this healthful and nourishing article is largely on the increase in Canada and the United States.

The process of manufacturing oatmeal has undergone quite a complete change within the past two or three years. In the Province of Ontario very little of the old fashioned stone ground is now sold, although it is still largely used in the Eastern Provinces. The process of kiln drying and removing the shell of the oats is about the same as practised by the ancients, but instead of grinding with stones rollers are now used to flatten the groat, and the product is much preferred wherever introduced. Other changes have taken place in the method of selling oatmeal by millers and the tendency now is like many other manufactures of a special nature, to fewer mills and larger capacities.

While this Province was being opened up wherever there was a water power a flour mill was erected, and if there were a few Scotch settlers in the neighborhood, machinery for oatmeal was added, but which was generally a primitive affair, and as much like a modern oatmeal mill as an ox sled of that day is like the fashionable cutter used at present. The making of oatmeal in the old mills, as a rule, was a secondary consideration to flour, and the quality was often secondary also, and it is no wonder many people could not be induced to use it.

While the original stone mill became merged into the modern roller mill, the oatmeal attachment has either been turned into a chopping mill or pulled down, and the owner, if he continue at the oatmeal business, must erect a new building, with as much and as expensive machinery as for a first-class flour mill. He must also employ skilled men, be in a position where he can get a regular supply of the best quality of white oats, and be convenient for shipping his product promptly. A mill that cannot now manufacture a first-class article and at low expense will be forced out of the business. Along with being in a position to furnish a good article regularly to customers, the miller must also adopt modern methods to retain and enlarge his trade.

The old-fashioned oatmeal mill was designed principally for custom trade immediately surrounding the mill, and to supply the villages and towns within a radius of 10 or 15 miles. But that is all changed now. The average mill in Ontario has a capacity of 1,000 bushels of oats per day and some even more than that, while some men own and operate more mills than one. While the mills had a small capacity and railroads were not so plentiful, the usual custom was to allow the surplus over local sales accumulate until there was 100 barrels and then send the car load to Toronto or Montreal to be sold on commission, and if the commission merchant did not keep all the proceeds the miller usually had some profit, as there was not then much meal on the market. From those two cities it would be re-distributed over the country where there were no mills. Any oatmeal miller that will now consign his goods to be sold on commission in Canada either has a very inferior quality which he is willing to sacrifice, or he is anxious to raise money without counting the cost, as half-a-dozen cars of oatmeal on consignment will load the market of any city in Canada. It has become a custom among millers now to allow thirty days' time on sales, so that in addition to having from ten to twenty thousand dollars invested in plant as much more of either capital or credit is required to carry on the business.

During the last two or three years several of the larger mills have employed agents to travel and sell their product by sample, and the result is that the smaller mills and those whose product is of inferior quality are gradually and surely losing their trade. A mill with small capacity and small capital cannot afford to keep a traveller on the road, and dealers are being educated to the fact that it does not pay them to handle inferior oatmeal at any price. There is no doubt but grocers, feed dealers and others who handle oatmeal would sell double the quantity and at the same rate of profit if they refused to buy or promptly returned to the miller every sack or barrel that was not of first-class quality. Nearly all families buy oatmeal to use the first dish at breakfast, and if the porridge is full of hulls or black specks, suggestive of something worse, is it any wonder that they turn from oatmeal in disgust? If millers wish to have the consumption of oatmeal doubled in Caanda they must furnish a better quality and dealers should refuse to handle what is not first-class. Another means of creating trade is being adopted by one or two of the more enterprising, that is by advertising in trade journals and keeping the millers' names continually before the dealers, and as one leading dealer remarks, "I know of no better paper in Ontario for this purpose than THE CANADIAN GROCER."

TEA TESTING.

The art of tea testing in commercial houses which formerly proved detrimental to the health of so many men has now been reduced to such accuracy that the testing part of it has been practically eliminated in all but the name, and the tea is now tested by sight and smell.

Boiling water is first poured on an accurately measured portion of the leaves. In a few minutes the liquid shows some tint of green or brown, and the length of this time and the shade of the color produced are important elements in the test. The taster then with the aid of a spoon, inhales the rising steam from the mixture. This is called "getting the aroma," and is the most important part of the test. He may, perhaps, in some cases, actually taste the liquid but this is no longer generally done. Color, aroma and the "liquoring" qualities of the tea are sufficient grounds to judge by.

The old time tea taster was a high-salaried expert, who frequently ended his career with heart disease or fits the result of slow poisoning from the quantities of adulterated tea he tasted ; but now as a rule every merchant tastes his own teas by the recent and aproved method.

A SUGAR SEIZURE.

One of the most important customs seizures of the year has just been made at Hamilton. It consists of 1,325 bags and 75 barrels of Muscovado sugar, valued at over $20,000, consigned to Mr. W. G. Reid, of Hamilton. The owners are either Turnbull, Stewart & Co., of Trinidad, West Indies, or George Christall, of New York. The grounds of the seizure are false invoicing and excessive undervaluation. The seizure was made upon information received that at the date of shipment at Trinidad the value of the sugar was much greater than the price at which it was invoiced and entered for warehouse.

The explanation given is that the sugar was shipped from Trinidad many months ago and held in bond in New York. When it was shipped to Hamilton it was invoiced at the original cost.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

SEND IN YOUR NAMES.

Those merchants who have decided to attend the Merchants' Convention in Hamilton, August 19th to 23rd, should at once notify the secretary, Mr. C. R. Smith, Board of Trade, Hamilton, as the Committee is anxious to know how many to expect. It is to be hoped that every one who possibly can will attend.

"We are getting everything in shape for the reception of our visitors," said Mr. John Knox, Chairman of the Merchants' Convention to a reporter. "How many people do we expect and what are we going to do with them? Will it be hard to answer the first question? I will be much disappointed, however, if there are not 1,000 storekeepers from a distance at the Convention, and I think there will be at least 2,000. Every traveller who sends in a batch of orders encloses a line or two from the storekeepers, and many bear this legend, 'Will see you during the Carnival.' Judging from our customers, I feel sure there will be an immense gathering. I have not any idea of who will comprise the speakers, but we want to hear what the storekeepers have to say, and the wholesale men must be kept in the back ground, and not assume a dictatorial attitude towards the country merchants. We don't want any wholesale men getting up and addressing the Convention in the same manner as a minister would preach to his congregation. We want to hear the views of the store-keepers. Regarding our programme, we will meet and organize on Monday, August 19th, then each day will meet at 9 o'clock in the morning and adjourn at 12 o'clock ; this will give us just four days' session, and in order to facilitate matters we will prepare a number of resolutions which will be placed before the Convention for adoption. It will be a labor of considerable magnitude, and the speakers will be limited from ten to fifteen minutes each, perhaps less. The subject to be discussed : 1. In relation to bankrupt stock—the best means for their disposal so as to cause the least injury and annoyance to others in a similar branch of business in the same locality. 2. Unjust compromise. 3. Insurance. Many merchants have already written to express their views and to suggest further subjects for discussion, but the three subjects I have named will pretty thoroughly cover the ground. Our Convention will be held in the court room. We are sending out a new circular to about 14,000 merchants. This circular is just a last reminder of the date and importance of the Convention. Every visitor will be well taken care of, well fed and given a nice clean bed to sleep on."

The following extracts from some of the letters received shows the interest being taken by merchants. One writes : "I am fully in sympathy with such a council and of the three leading subjects enumerated. I would have remarks to make on only one, insurance, as I have not yet been able to see that any rule could be followed in disposing of bankrupt stocks and companies ; circumstances and interests involved must govern each individual case. Another matter to which I would call especial attention would be, selling goods without profit, its causes and remedies. This, it appears to me, to be the chief reason for failures in business."

Another says : "The subjects you propose to discuss are worthy of careful consideration, especially the first, which is most injurious to the retail trade in some localities. There is another evil that I think effects the country storekeeper more universally and to a far greater extent than the sale of bankrupt stocks. I refer to peddlers, and I believe the Convention should try and devise some scheme to put peddlers down, by either refusing to sell them goods or in some other way."

Another merchant writes : "Hawkers and peddlers injure trade by giving credit and charging enormous prices. Bankrupt stocks should be thrown back into the wholesale houses, if possible, or arranged so that they are not sold at a sacrifice. Wholesale men should exercise more judgment and not sell to those who have no means and no knowledge of business. They are to blame to a certain extent for goods being sold at less than regular prices."

Still another writes : "I want to add my dying kick in protest of the present method of treating with bankrupt stocks. I think the creditors of a man when he fails should as well hold a mortgage on the stock, and in the event of their not being satisfied to allow him to resume business, the stock bought in by one of them paying the highest price and then dealt out to buyers from all over the country among their regular stock."

Mr. George E. Tuckett is another Carnival enthusiast. "I have been in England until the past two weeks," he said this morning, "and consequently I have not had an opportunity of knowing just what has been done, but I feel assured that the Carnival will be a grand success. The Merchants' Convention is one of the features of the Carnival, and a very important one. Bringing together people in the same line of business and exchanging views on important business problems, cannot fail to be productive of grand results. It will help to remove prejudices and will be a benefit to the merchants generally. I think a gala day should be arranged during Carnival week, when all the manufacturing houses should be open for inspection to the public. This would enable visitors to see the men at work at the different manufactories."

Mr. W. H. Gillard said : "The Carnival is a success, of that I feel sure. The crowd will be immense; but still we will be able to accommodate every one. The whole thing has been reduced to a system ; people will be accommodated with beds and there will be an abundance of food. What more can we expect? The different branches of the Carnival are all in excellent working order. The results of the Merchants' Convention will be, I have no doubt, beneficial. Some serious questions regarding the trade will be disposed of. All the merchants and storekeepers in the country are coming."

Mysterious disappearance of Mr. Dyspepsia. It is said he was driven and is kept away by the use of Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all Grocers.

NECESSITY FOR DISCRETION ON THE ROAD.

Though occasionally it might prove to be of value for the commercial traveller to hint in an off-hand way that he has received orders from other firms in the same town, still it would be the height of stupidity to tell the fact right out, as many of the brotherhood are in the habit of doing, that Mr. John Smith, for example, has to-day bought goods at such or such a price, and mentioning all the particulars of the sale, with the addition that the man solicited, if he will give the order, shall get the same article at a much lower rate. Any one who has an eye to business can in a moment see what this talk means. Besides, the commercial traveller who adopts such mistaken measures in his attempt to do business, will certainly lose the confidence of the man addressed, for no sensible person can think otherwise than that the agent would say exactly the same thing to a third and fourth customer as to the first and second. Without doubt a customer has the right to feel sure that the amount of his order and the price he paid for goods will not be made known to any business competitor, and he certainly would be little disposed to give his orders to an agent who shows a readiness to gossip about the affairs of neighboring merchants.

The commercial traveller who is wise will either avoid talk about purchases made of him in the place where he is doing business, or will say very little, always avoiding in this case the mention of details. And this even when questions are asked about them, for, though they may be pleased for the moment at having their curiosity satisfied, people will, as a rule, look with suspicion upon the imprudent discloser of other peoples' business, believing, and not unjustly, that such a man would manifest the same willingness to reveal their secrets to others. Discretion in business matters will probably have its reward in the esteem of others, which readily develops into their confidence.

In the International Series Counter Check Books, manufactured by Morton & Co., 3 and 5 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, merchants are guaranteed in their use by letters patent. Samples are furnished free of the best check book yet introduced. Thousands now in use.

The "Sunlight" prize ticket has at last been claimed. Of the last ten tickets drawn a Mr. Davidson held the sixth, No. 40, and was offered a considerable sum for his chance, but he was soon left by Mr. J. H. Hargraves, grocer, claiming the third in list, viz. 3038. Until Tuesday this looked like the winner, but the first drawn, No. 7438, was claimed by a young man named Slack, who was formerly a clerk with Mr. W. M. Milligan, but now out of employment.

HOW TO BUY.

"How can I buy best?" is a question that agitates more than one mind in the commercial world, and one that very seldom is solved to the perfect satisfaction of the querist. I propose to go into some of the phenomena of the art of buying in this issue and, if possible, portray some of the obstacles in the way of the non-successful purchaser. There are two prominent classes of successful buyers, which are subdivided into many, but I intend to treat of these two only at this time, first among these, and the most favoured is the one who has intimate knowledge of that which he intends to buy, and who is thoroughly informed as to the best goods to purchase ; the prices ; where they are from, etc. The second best buyer is he who makes a great plunge among those from whom he intends purchasing and endeavours to impress them with his importance as a buyer, and his pretended knowledge of the subject on hand. This last fellow is styled the bulldozer. As to which one of these two classes of persons buy the closest and best there can be no dispute, the person of knowledge is free and unfettered because he is on an equal or superior footing to him from whom he intends buying, inasmuch as his information gives him the necessary leverage. The second is in the power of the seller because if a misstatement of fact is made, the purchaser is at a disadvantage in not knowing whether it is fact or not, and he has to rely upon his powers of depreciation and arraignment of the goods to carry him to success.

I remember once being in a merchant's store and his tactics and manners on that occasion created the impression, which has lasted up to the present time, that he was the best buyer, or at least one of the best, I ever met. I will tell you what he did and you can then see for yourself. I walked in and awaited my turn ; as soon as he was at leisure he came to me, and telling me his name, asked me if I wished to see him personally. I answered him I wished his attention, and told him my business. He said he was exceedingly busy and would like me to call again. I specially requested his time for a short space, and he gave me five minutes. I pulled out my watch and taking it off the chain laid it upon the counter, open. I commenced to tell him about my goods, and as fast as I could, dealt out the points respecting them. As the minute hand crossed the point, and my time expired, I was in the middle of a sentence, but I stopped abruptly and informed him "time was up." He said he was sorry he could not grant me a longer interview as he had an engagement "but" said he, "I am interested in the information you have imparted, and I want you to come and see me when I have time to listen." I promised I would, and did so. I went into all the details. I gave him all the knowledge I had amassed by months of study of that one object, and when I left him it was with a feeling of satisfaction that I had been partly repaid for my labour in informing myself of the subject, and that man at least knew enough to buy of that commodity intelligently.

The great difficulty in the way of most merchants becoming good buyers is because they are not satisfied to expend from three to five minutes with a salesman when he comes into their stores in finding out his prices, goods, etc., so that when the next one comes along if his prices are below he can take advantage of it, but at any rate, I would suggest the following to all merchants : Treat the salesman coming to your store with courtesy, politeness, and consideration, and you may be sure you will receive in return information that will repay you for the expenditure. I am sorry to say a great many business men forget that a compliment to their credit is paid to them when a man enters their stores to solicit their trade. Then remember the "goods well bought are half sold."—[Review.

HAMILTON'S SUMMER CARNIVAL.

The Carnival Circular says :—On the 6th of May, Mr. W. H. Gillard and Mr. Geo. E. Bristol, two of Hamilton's enterprising and public spirited merchants, having conceived the idea of a Summer Carnival, brought up the matter before a Board of Trade meeting, and which was so well received that a committee was appointed to wait on the City Council to obtain their co-operation.

On the 13th of May the committee appeared at the Council Chamber and stated that from the manner the idea of a Carnival had been received by the Board of Trade and citizens generally, it had been decided to have one. The delegation sketched out graphically to the aldermen assembled the lines of action to be adopted in the way of attractions—such as a Military Day, a Labour Day, Baseball Matches with International Teams, International Cricket Match, Annual Regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen, Bicycle Club Races, Trades Procession, Illumination and Decorations, and Annual Meeting of the St. George's Society of North America, as well as a Commercial congress of the Business men of the Dominion.

The Board of Aldermen took prompt action the same evening. Alderman Moore moved, seconded by Alderman J. J. Mason, that the Council should grant to the Carnival Committee $1,500 toward the expenses required to carry out the object in view.

Alderman R. Griffiths, seconded by Alderman Wm. McDonald, moved in amendment that $2,000 be granted.

The amendment was lost on a vote of 9 to 8.

Alderman McDonald moved, seconded by Alderman Griffiths, that $1,750 be granted, which amount was carried on the same vote.

On the following day, the 14th of May, a citizens' meeting was held which was largely attended by the leading merchants of the city, and a Summer Carnival was started off in dead earnest by the appointment of officers and committees to carry out the scheme (which at the same meeting was decided should be held on the 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd and 23rd of August), as follows, viz. :

His Worship WM. DORAN, Mayor, President.

MR. W. H. GILLARD,
MR. GEO. ROACH,
MR. GEO. E. BRISTOL, } Vice-Presidents.

MR. C. R. SMITH, Secretary-Treasurer.

COME TO HAMILTON.

People resident in the inland cities and towns long to get away once in a while for a change, and the greatest attraction is always to get near the water. The month of August is perhaps the best time of the year afforded to business men and their families to have the desired change. This was one of the reasons why Carnival Week has been fixed upon during the 19th to 23rd of August—at that time everything at lake points is generally at its best. The weather is settled, the lake calm, advantage can be taken to enjoy it to its fullest extent. Hamilton expects thousands of visitors from those inland places—because there is no lake port that has so many advantages to make their outing a pleasant and enjoyable one; combining as it were a sea-side trip with all the comforts obtainable in a large city.

The Carnival Commiitee have not been unmindful of the wishes of those who may desire to spend time on the bay and on Lake Ontario, and have looked carefully at the supply of steam, sail and row-boats, to meet the demand which undoubtedly will be made at such a time.

The Modjeska and Macassa, the two finest steamboats on Lake Ontario—owned by Hamilton men—both built on the Clyde, specially for passenger traffic on the lake; both fitted up with everything which science could suggest for speed, safety and comfort, and either of them worth any one's while making a journey on purpose to see, regardless of any other attraction. These vessels will run from Hamilton out in the lake every day. The Mazeppa, another fine little steamer belonging to the same company, will run to the Beach every hour during Carnival week. Other steamers will also run to lake, Beach and points across the bay. Sailboats and rowboats in endless numbers for hire by the the hour. The Grand Trunk Railway Co. will run trains to and from the Beach and Burlington every few hours; while street cars run every five minutes to the railway stations, and from there to the east, west, south and north parts of the city—connecting direct with all boats, trains and every place of amusement.

The Board of Trade rooms will be open during Carnival Week to all visitors, and all information will be cheerfully given there to those who may apply for it. Merchants and others attending the Merchants' Convention might find it advantageous to have their telegrams and other correspondence addressed to care of the Secretary of the Board of Trade.

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH INSOLVENT ESTATES ?

The following is a copy of a letter received by the President of the Hamilton Board of Trade from a well-known business man: In conversation with a Hamilton gentleman a few days ago on the above subject, he suggested that I put in writing to you a few ideas that I expressed to him, thinking they might be of some use at a meeting that I understood is to be held soon in your city to discuss that and other questions. I trust you will accept them, as they are meant in the interest of business men generally.

One of the great difficulties that business men have had to contend with for years in Canada has been bankrupt stocks. They have demoralized those who have them, as well as those who have to compete with them. To-day they are as bad as ever they were, and likely to continue so unless some remedy is found to do away with them.

The cause, of course, is the compounding with insolvent debtors.

Now, if you do away with compositions, you remove the difficulty at once.

The question is, How is this to be done? I make the following suggestions :

Let a joint stock company or companies be formed, say one in Toronto and one in Montreal, to be called the "Assets Company," composed of say all the wholesale merchants, or as many as can be got to join. These companies will be worked like any other limited joint stock company for the benefit of the shareholders. They will have the usual officers, with such others as may be necessary, especially a "committee of say three," who will be valuators.

Now at present when an insolvent calls upon his creditors he usually makes some proposal of settlement, something like the following, say : John Robertson, finding that he cannot meet his engagements promptly, takes account of his stock; he finds he owes $10,000. With assets nominally the same, he calls his creditors together, tells them the case and expresses his regrets. One or two of the creditors abuse him, then ask him if he has any proposal to make? He says he has seen his father-in-law, who is willing to help him by indorsing for say 50c. on the dollar. The creditors accept, thankful that it is no worse. The creditors wiping out $5,000. Robertson goes home; the first thing he does is to mark down his goods, determined to make a run and absorb the business of the district; his neighbor, Jones, in self-defence has to compete, gets ruined and repeats the same; the wholesale men bearing the loss. The amount thus lost during the year is enormous, and who is benefited ?

Now what I propose is that, instead of accepting a compromise, this company takes possession of the assets of the estate, removes the stock into Toronto or Montreal, the company paying the creditors a sum for the estate as the valuators may decide, which is likely to be as much as the insolvent offers at present. The assets to be disposed of weekly at auction, in small lots to suit purchasers. Thus no man will have a whole insolvent stock to demoralize his neighbors with. The insolvent, of course, has to step out of business. Not necessarily. If he can obtain capital, or credit, he can go on again; but he does not begin with a bankrupt stock to ruin his neighbors. The probabilities are that in one year a very large nnmber of the weaker men will be weeded out of the country and those remaining be made stronger.

The company may not be able to realize all that the insolvent might have done out of the assets of the estate, but they will likely be able to realize sufficient to pay as much as is obtained at present.

I feel confident, however, that this company could not only pay as much as the insolvent usually pays at present, but could realize sufficient to pay handsome dividends on the capital invested.

Suppose the company handles 100 estates in a year with only a margin of $1,000 on each, this would yield a handsome sum. So that this scheme could be carried out without any loss to the wholesale merchants, further than they make at present, and probably at a profit.

The great object, however, is the removal of all bankrupt stocks from the country; disposing of the same in small lots; weeding out all the weaker merchants; making stronger those who remain; result, fewer losses each succeeding year.

You may say there are great difficulties in the way of carrying out this scheme. I am sure there are, but surely they are not insurmountable.

There is the difficulty of book debts, of leases and fixtures—very true. On the other hand, there are the benefits.

We run the risk for one year of reduced dividends, but ever afterwards reduced losses.

Surely the combined intelligence of our merchants can devise some means of overcoming the difficulties.

We have relied on Government to aid us without avail. Let us help ourselves.

I have endeavored to make this as concise as possible; there are many details that can be worked out.

I will be pleased to have your expression of opinion on the subject.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

(OF LONDON), CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association,

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools : they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application

ELECTRO-AUTOMATIC TRANSIT.

Two miles a minute—not for passengers, but for newspapers, letters and light freight is the speed claimed to have been actually made around a heavy curve, equivalent to three miles a minute on a level, straight track, by the Weems railway system, incorporated under the name of the Electro-Automatic Transit Company of Baltimore. The experimental line, which is at Laurel, Md., is a circuit of exactly 2 miles, with 29 changes of grade, some of them as heavy as 108 feet to the mile. The company have taken out 143 patents in the United States and other countries, and propose to deliver letters almost with the promptitude of the telegraph in conveying a message. They give us to understand that when their system is fairly in operation the morning papers may be delivered for the breakfast table, and the evening papers before supper time, at distant points—which, by the way, will not increase the affection of the provincial newspapers for their big metropolitan rivals ; that the mails between New York and Omaha will be carried in a night ; that perishable light freight will be hauled from long distances, mails and parcels delivered with celerity in cities and suburban towns, and the business of the postoffice multiplied many times.

The reader will perhaps be interested in what may be called a semi-official account given in the Baltimore Sun of the details of the system and its operation. As there described, the motor car is 18 feet long and 2½ feet square at each end. It is pointed in front, the wedge or point being below the longitudinal centre, adjusting it to the air pressure, thus keeping the car down to the track. To reduce atmospheric friction to a minimum all wheels and electrical appliances are placed within the walls of the cars. The road is to be built on the surface of the ground, with track of 24 inches gauge, and will cost about $5,000 per mile. In thickly settled districts the road can be elevated, the varied length of the uprights being a cheap mode of covering irregularities in the surface of the ground over which the road passes. The mail and the express cars are telescoped in forming a train, the former into the end of the motor car, and the latter into that of the one preceding it, forming a flexible train.

A good way to prepare for a summer vacation is to substitute for your own active exertions the force which comes from a good advertisement in your trade paper. This puts a worker in the field who will keep at it every day while you are gone, and when you come back will present you with a package of orders which will prove that rest pays, when you can thus secure a coadjutor which can work right along without fatigue.

It seems that there is a future in store for cocoanut oil as a lubricant, and it has been found equally serviceable for lighting purposes. A Frenchman in the island of Cuba has just established a factory for the manufacture of this oil. He has imported the most perfect machinery, in order that the oil produced shall be as pure as possible. It is said to be very fluid, to oxidize slowly, and to keep long without turning rancid.

GROCERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

There is no denying this is the age of combinations. Real or fancied grievances have caused innumerable associations to be formed in every trade and vocation. From the common day laborer to the great merchant has been but a step, and the chain is nearly if not quite complete, and each has its association. While the chain is apparently complete it is weak in many places, and it seems folly to expect a perfect degree of harmonious strength either among associations with kindred objects and aims or among the associations as a whole. The association must have a cause for existence. It is not necessary to have a genuine cause, however, and at times it is really amusing to read the rules and aims of some of the organizations, as without exception they are all touched here and there with the humanitarian plea for the moral good.

Back of and behind the scenes there is usually the "almighty dollar." The long preamble and "resolves" are frequently but the Sunday clothes for a purse lining, and by this we do not intimate it is necessarily wrong, as the dollar is what we are all after and should strive for, using all honorable means. The point to be understood is that no matter whether the object aimed at be good or bad they all start, in print, from the common point. They all read alike on the philanthropist question, and the more one reads the various whereas, to-wits, and resolves, the more fully will he become persuaded that he is reading the by-laws of some charitable association.

There is no need of arguing the benefits that accrue from associations based on proper motives and the fact that the retail trade has gained much by their various organizations is a point on which to base the need of a jobbers' association. The same evils that the retail grocers complain of afflict the wholesale trade and in a larger sense. The jobber like the retailer has to watch the "cutter." The jobber like the retailer must watch his credits or succumb to the disaster which is sure to follow. On the question of making prices there is fully as much diversity of opinion among the retail organizations as with the jobbers' associations. Each recognizes the delicacy of the subject and each handles it gingerly, with here and there the radical element taking firm stand on either side of the question. Regulation of prices seems to be just as vital with the retail associations as with the jobbers. In fact we hear more about regulating prices from the retail than the jobbing associations. And is it more necessary? The fact is, these is just as much necessity for one organization as for the other. The objects are similar and the evils alike.

The perplexing question is how to regulate and then sustain prices. Some retail associations have made great strides by taking advanced ground on the question, and as a result have been greatly benefited. On the other hand, some have attempted it and failed. Others, timid or lukewarm, have not had the courage to make a stand on either side. The jobbing trade is but the reflection of the retail associations. One association of jobbers (the Minnesota) has taken the most advanced, and we might add the most imprudent stand of any association, retail or wholesale. This association took the ground that salesmen should not be allowed to make prices on several staples, the most prominent of which was sugar. If a retailer wished to order ten barrels of sugar from a salesman, he could not buy it with a knowledge of the value of the article or the price which he would have to pay for it. The salesman had to take it "open," and the house from which the goods were ordered used its own sweet will about how much profit they would take. This is almost "holding a man up." It is blind one way and all light the other, thus taking an unfair advantage of the buyer by making him an unequal partner in an equal business transaction. In towns where Chicago or other jobbing centres competed, a "Chicago price" was used to meet competition, and the result was that towns and villages only a few miles apart paid a difference of ¼ cent to ½ cent per pound. If the town "belonged" to the Minnesota association a good price was charged, but if it was fortunate enough to be on the other side of the line it bought where it could get the lowest prices. The Minnesota association worked harmoniously together until recently, when Geo. R. Newell & Co. withdrew. This firm did right in our judgment in withdrawing from so unfair an association, but the manner in which the firm withdrew has already been commented on in previous issues.

From a careful study of the subject the Grocer is compelled to admit the good of associations, but it wishes to impress the fact that they must deal fairly with one another, and not expect to monopolize all the good things of the earth ; and further, the best associations and the ones accomplishing the most good are those that are striving for harmony and unanimity of action. There is no reason why a jobbers' association should not work in harmony with its retail counterpart ; in fact, that is the only way of securing agreeable and permanent action.—[Chicago Grocer.

A good tea trade is the earnest desire of every retail grocer. That many grocers never attain this greatly-to-be-wished-for consummation is probably to some extent their own fault, or rather, we should perhaps say, their misfortune, the trouble being a lack of knowledge of the herb ; an inability to distinguish between different qualities of tea and no acquaintance with the art of blending. In the hope that it may be of some assistance to our readers who believe that their tea trade can be extended, we give the following blend which is used with great success by a large retailer in this city :

⅛ lb Souchong (Eng. Breakfast).
¼ lb Young Hyson.
¼ lb Gunpowder. Merchant Review.

THE GROCER AND HIS GIRL.

The grocer loved a charming girl,
As lovely as the day :
He wondered if she'd marry him;
And said, "Let Soap she may."

And straightway to her house he went,
Her lovely face to see,
Exclaiming, "Ah, I know full well,
That Cheese the girl for me."

The girl was very kind, and said
That she was very glad
To see him there, and then remarked,
What a bad Coffee had.

And soon they got most intimate,
She let him kiss her brow,
But when he spoke of marriage, said,
"Oh, do not Teas me now."

The grocer's spirits fell at this,
He felt as though he'd die,
And hinted at a suicide,
When she Bacon to cry.

"You silly boy, you don't suppose
I'm blind to all your merits,"
It's evident she knew a way—
Of Raisin up his "sperits."

But true love's course did ne'er run smooth,
Her father saw them kiss ;
And kicked him from the room and said,
"You'd Biscuit out of this !"

And thus adjured, he soon got out,
It hardly need be said ;
And tumbling headlong down the stairs,
Mustard have hit his head.

"Oh, father, you are cruel, to So roughly handle us ;"
Thus spoke the girl, and father said–
"I think it's Candle us."

Papa relented when he saw
His child begin to cry ;
"There, there, you think my treatment harsh,
My daughter, Soda I."

"There, keep your lover, dry your eyes,
And let's have no more row ;
I did not like the man, but my Opinion Salt-ered now."

The two were wed, and made a pair.
By no means ill-assorted ;
And happy ever after were,
It's Currant-ly reported.

THE ADVANTAGES OF SPECIALTIES.

During recent years much has been said and written upon the subject of trading in special lines, and great divergence of opinion has been manifested in the various discussions which have ensued. The interest in the matter now is keener, and the battle is waged more heatedly than ever, and with a view of placing the controversy in a brief way before our friends abroad, we take as our premises that the point in question has not reached that acute form in other climes which it has here. There are many in the trade who look upon the introduction of novelties in business as altogether radically impolitic, and view with dismay the growing tendency of the age which apparently encourages them. This class of traders is to be found among the very best of the community, and who always have, and perhaps always will, pay their twenty shillings in the pound as readily as others. They assert that trade cannot be "caught" by exposing new goods without detriment to the standard stock, and prefer to go on in their own sweet way, unheeding and unheeded. On the other hand, they are too much of business men to allow customers to go away unserved, and always appear delighted to procure any particular article enquired for, whilst at the same time refusing to stock it among their standard goods. The thick and thin supporters of the opposite policy look upon such as we have described as old-fashioned, too conservative, lacking in go, and consider it high time traders of this class should be rooted out of existence. Indeed, we know of not a few instances where opposition stores have been opened in exceedingly close proximity, and on these especial grounds alone, and frequently doing the older established concern considerable injury. By the striking display of colored almanacs, cash coupons, together with the addition of other novel, though by no means over honest modes of trading, a rupture between the two becomes well nigh inevitable, and is a matter of serious concern to both. So matters progress until either the believer in "novelty," through injudicious prices is compelled to seek fresh fields and pastures new, or our old established trader wakes up, and adds the latest and newest goods to his store, cutting thereby the ground underneath his opponent, and compelling him to close his store. Or, it may be, and we have known of more than one case, that the disbeliever in specialties has continued obstinate and been obliged to change his venue himself. At the same time we do not recommend a policy of all change and novelty. On the contrary we view with regret the action of many in this direction. To our own knowledge we are cognisant of some stores where it is almost next to impossible to get the same class of goods two months in succession, however highly they may please, but be always confronted with remarks to the effect that it is something new, the very latest, sure to please, large demand for it, superior to everything else, and such like phrases, which become irritating from their constant repetition. We are inclined to think this policy is the greater evil of the two. What is necessary in all matters of this kind is to keep abreast of the times. Never allow a "demand" to spring up without being in a position to meet it. Make the latest specialties and productions a constant study, viewing the pages of special trade journals with the knowledge that they are produced for trade purposes, and bound to afford information and instruction. Utilise judiciously all and any novelties which may add to the attractiveness of the store, and which may in any way tend to increase trade and make the store popular. Whilst, then, maintaining the legitimate standard trade, never let the opportunity pass which would in any way add to reputation and publicity, for in these days storekeepers, merchants, and importers cannot remain stationary. They must go ahead or retire to a distance. Surely the former course will be the legitimate goal for all traders worthy the name.—[The Storekeeper.

SAVING THE BERRIES.

"Every grocer who deals in berries should provide himself with glass fruit jars," said the wife of a prosperous grocer. "I made it a practice for years to can all the berries left over from each day's sale, which I thought might not keep for the next day. It did make a little extra work, but I did not mind that as it was for my husband's interest as well as my own. There is always a good demand for home made goods of this description, and we have had no trouble in selling all that I put up. In fact some seasons when berries were very cheap I put up an extra quantity for the store. All that is necessary is to provide yourself with a preserving kettle, brass or agate ware, and as I stated some glass jars. I prefer the pint size as I have found them to be the most salable when filled with fruit. Strawberries are about done for this season. There will be plenty of raspberries, blackberries and huckle berries. These are very easily handled as they do not require hulling like strawberries. I will give you the receipt I use for making jams hoping that some grocer or his wife may take a hint from what I have told you. To every pound of fruit, after washing carefully, take a pound of sugar, put the fruit in the preserving kettle and mash it with a wooden spoon, and stir them constantly until they have boiled long enough to express about two-thirds of the juice ; then put in the sugar and continue the stirring until it is completely dissolved ; when the sugar is dissolved, simmer the jam slowly for five minutes, stirring it often to prevent burning : when done put into the glass jars, screwing the top on tightly. You will find that the jams thus made will meet with ready sale and be a source of profit instead of loss, as is often the case with many city grocers."—Retail Grocer Advocate.

An experienced grocer clerk states that loss from overweight to grocers who employ unskilled and inexperienced salesmen will more than balance the extra cost of better help. This important item, if overlooked, will often prove the cause of failure, and, in justice to himself, the grocer should see that his clerks are competent and careful in this regard. It is the small things which need most watching, the greater will take care of themselves.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

RAINY DAYS.

Trade is always dull on a rainy day; nobody is out except compelled by necessity, and your goods lie untouched. In fact, there is that about a real rainy day which makes one wish to get away from business and get as near to the domestic hearth as possible.

It is safe, moreover, to say that the rainy day customer cannot be interested in bargains, nor, perhaps, in a much needed arrangement of financial matters.

Your clerks get sluggish, everything becomes "sticky," and the hours roll by with leaden wheels.

That is everything will be that way if you let it become so, and I do as the pious old farmer's widow did, pray for "rainy days and Sundays, so that the men could rest." But you need not have it that way unless you wish it, for such days can really be made profitable and very useful.

We know a grocer who holds such days as a Godsend, for as soon as his regular deliveries are over he gets the whole force at work overhauling stock. Everything is dusted, the shelves are cleaned, places where waste has accumulated are carefully looked after, and stray stock traced up and put in place. It would astonish one if he could know how often stock does get lost, and how much of it seems really to persist in hiding itself.

This grocer of whom I speak, one day stood directing operations, and thus delivered himself:

"To-day I have found so far two articles which I had on my list to buy. I thought I was entirely out and so did my clerks. You see we have to carry several hundred different kinds and varieties of articles, and it is the easiest thing in the world to get the smallest package mislaid behind the larger. This 'rainy day' house cleaning serves not only to bring such articles to light, but fixes firmly in my mind just the condition of my stock.

"It keeps me busy and keeps the boys from getting rusty or getting into mischief. And then when to-morrow comes bright and clear we have everything spick-span clean."

Well, this gentleman's store was a credit to the trade. All his glass on cases and in the windows shone bright and clear; scoops, and all metal was shining, and every corner was free from the slightest approach of dirt.

This idea seems to me to solve the rainy day problem.

Put everybody to work making things clean and attractive. In the hurlyburly of rushing business many little omissions caused by lack of time, cause quite an amount of disorder.

If possible, this should be attended to at the first leisure moment, for above all places in the world a grocery store ought to be the cleanest.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no improvement in the general situation of the canned goods market. The demand for all lines has been slow and the market has ruled quiet with only a small volume of business doing in a jobbing way. The feeling has been steady and prices are unchanged all round. There has been a fair inquiry for tomatoes from speculators and the bulk of the lots offering have been picked up at 85c., but outside of this line few large sales have been made. New lobsters have been offered around more freely at $6 for round lots, and $6.50 for small, but buyers are holding off expecting low prices. There has been little inquiry for salmon, but prices are firmly held at $1.70 per dozen with prospects of an advance later on. Corn is unchanged at $1 to $1.75 per dozen, as to brand. Peas continue to rule quiet and steady at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. Canned fruits have been neglected and the movement has been very light, which is generally the case at this season of the year. Armour's canned meats have met with a fair demand at steady prices.

SUGARS.

Latest private cables from London on the raw sugar market report a firmer feeling and most holders withdrawn from the market. New crop sugar 6d. dearer. A private despatch from New York says: "The tone of the market is better and looks for some improvement in consequence. There was a better feeling among refiners here on granulated, and prices have ruled steady at last week's decline at 9c. at the refinery, but speculators who held large lines in some cases have been realizing, and sales have been made as low as 8¾c. There has been a weak feeling in yellows, and prices have declined ¼c. to ⅜c. to 6⅞c., to 7⅝c. as to quality at the factory. However, the market on the whole has been very quiet, with only a small volume of business.

SYRUP.

In syrup there has been no important feature to note, the market having continued quiet and steady on account of the light offerings from refiners, and the fact that the bulk of the stock is in outside hands, who are jobbing it out at 4¼c. to 4¾c., but prices at the refinery are 3⅞c. to 4c.

MOLASSES.

Owing to the recent weakness in the raw sugar market there has been an easier feeling in molasses, but prices are not quotably changed, owing to the fact that the demand has been slow, and the market has ruled quiet, with little business, which is generally the case at this season, consequently we have not heard of any sales, and, in the absence of such, prices may be quoted nominally at 49c. to 50c.

FRUIT.

The market for green fruit has been active under a good demand, and a large volume of business has been transacted. The receipts of new apples have been large and the market has ruled weaker, and prices have declined to $2.55 to $2.75 per barrel. Oranges have met with a good demand at $5 to $5.50 per box. Lemons have ruled weak, and sales have been made at $4 to $4.50 per box. The market has been glutted with bananas, for which the demand has been slow at 75c. to $1.25 per bunch. The demand for all kinds of California fruit has been active, and the most of the offerings have been taken. A moderate amount of business has been transacted in dried fruit and nuts.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The tea market has continued active under a good demand from both local and country buyers. The feeling has been strong and prices are steadily improving, owing to the strong advices from abroad. Teas ranging from 15c. to 18c. have been in good demand, and any lots offering are quickly picked up, as the stock of this class of tea in second hands is very light; in consequence there is scarcity, and higher prices are looked for in the near future. Several large sales of Japan teas have been made at 20c.

TORONTO, August 8, 1889.

GROCERIES.

There has been very little change in the grocery market this week. Trade continues very dull. No improvement is looked until the September demand begins. Payments are up to the average. Crop reports are quite satisfactory. The recent rain has done some damage especially to the color of barley but other crops are turning out well. In some sections it is complained that the wheat is not as good as it appears to be. Samples received here, however, are all very good and if they represent the average of the province we will have a good crop of fine wheat.

CANNED GOODS.

The action of the canned goods packers in advancing prices of future tomatoes to $1.05 has considerably strengthened the views of the holders of last season's pack. Salmon packing on the Skeena river is over; result, two-thirds pack. River's Inlet, full pack. The Fraser river still runs full, and the probability is that the pack will exceed the previous year by over a hundred thousand cases.

Three hundred cases canned corn sold to a Hamilton house last week at a little less than $1. A bid of 90c. was refused for a car of tomatoes delivered in Montreal.

Sloan & Crowther have received a car load containing 300 cases of the celebrated "Clover Leaf" brand of lobsters, packed in Canada by Delafield, McGovern & Co., New York. They are the finest lobsters in world. Sloan & Crowther have secured the control of them for this market. They have never been offered here before, as all the supply has been taken by the best trade in the leading American cities. In New York they retail at 40c. per tin, but at present they are offered to the trade here at $2.25 per dozen, which allows them to be retailed at 25c. a tin here. It is likely the price will be advanced. They have also secured control of the "Lynx" brand of Fraser River canned salmon. There are five carloads coming on.

In vegetables and fruits there is not much done, but there is much more than usual at this season of the year, especially in vegetables. There are a good many inquiries for tomatoes and corn, chiefly on speculative account. Holders are very firm. They are asking $1 in round lots, but in small lots tomaare selling as low as 85c., and corn at 95c. There is not much business in futures. Wholesale merchants are buying very sparingly. There is a very active demand for salmon at $1.75 Lobsters are selling at $1.65 to $1.90; packers are firmer. Finnan haddie and mackerel are going at $1.50. The shortage on the American salmon pack will only be 40,000 tins and this is more than made up by the increase on the Canadian side.

COFFEES.

Coffees are higher outside, but no change is noted on the spot. Here, Rios are selling at 20c. to 21c. Rio cables report an advance of ¾c. from the lowest point touched.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are quiet; Filiatra are moving in small lots at 4½c. to 5¼c. in barrels and halves according to quality, and Vostizzas at 6½c. to 7¼c. in cases. The new crop is estimated at 140,000 to 150,000 tons against 160,000 tons last year, but the new crop will be very much superior in quality to last years; moderate opening prices are looked for. Dates are dull at 6c. and figs are moving slowly. There is a better demand for prunes owing to the scarcity of and higher prices for dried apples; sales have been made at 4½c. to 5½c. in barrels. Raisins are all firm. Valencias are very scarce, and bring 7¼c. to 7½c. for any prime off-stalk. Elemes are also selling well at 6c. to 6½c. Sultanas are firm on the spot; advantage is being taken of a reported shortage on the crop of ten to fifteen per cent. to boom the market, but it is not believed that it will advance prices to any extent.

GREEN FRUIT.

Trade at present is rather quiet. The variety of fruits offering is limited, and no particular demand is visible. Domestic fruits are attracting the attention of consumers at present, so that trade in foreign may be expected to remain light for some little time to come. Very little fresh stuff is coming forward, and not much is held in stock. In lemons a moderate demand only is exhibited. Stocks are low, and but light shipments are arriving, dealers buying only for immediate requirements, and not caring to lay in any stock. Prices are from $5 to $6 per box. A few boxes oranges are offered on the market, but although the quality is good, prices appear to be rather high for the views of consumers, and as a consequence they are buying sparingly at $6 to $6.50 per box. Business in bananas has fallen off considerably lately, although there is still a fair trade doing at $1 to $1.50 per bunch. Arrivals of fresh stock are not so heavy, but there are plenty on the market for the trade. New York despatches say: "The market is quiet for both oranges and lemons. Few orders are reported from the country, but in the absence of any large stocks in dealers' hands there is no important pressure to realize upon good fruit at below present prices. Bananas continue to meet with moderate sale at about former prices."

SUGAR.

There has been no change in the local sugar market since last week. The demand is very dull, and all the refiners are shut down and are carrying pretty large stocks. A better feeling prevails in the market, owing to more favorable cable reports. The statistical position is very strong and warrants high prices when it is compared with that of a year and two years ago; but the advance in prices has decreased the consumption. Referring to this point, a correspondent of the London Grocer communicates the following:—

> The buyers of sugar are wise in keeping low stocks? These figures may help a judgment. The reduction of the "visible supply" was, between May 25 and July 20, 1888, 225,000 tons; 1889, 176,000; the reduction from July 20 to October 12, 1888, was 416,000 tons. Work a rule-of-three sum, and the probable reduction this year to October 12 will be 324,000 tons; this allows for a very considerable falling away of consumption. Mr. Licht estimates the entire "visible supply" of the world on July 20 as 667,750 tons; deducting the above, and the "visible supply" on October 12 will be 343,750 tons. The stock in Great Britain may be taken at one-sixth—it is often less—of the "visible supply;" hence the probable stock in Great Britain on October 12 will be 57,850 tons. According to the Board of Trade returns, the home consumption for the six months ending June 30, was 630,563 tons, so that on October 12 we shall have slightly over a fortnight's consumption in Great Britain. But if, instead of the very large falling away of consumption estimated above, the falling away is only half that amount, there will be about three day's consumption in the country. To prevent this impossible exhaustion, what will prices be in August and September?

Granulated is selling here at 9⅜c. to 9½c. and yellows at 6⅞c. to 8⅜c. A few sales of Trinidads are reported at 7¼c. to 7⅜c. in bags.

Beet is now nearer the parity of cane. The fact should not be lost sight of that the statistical position continues to be exceedingly strong, especially for the next two months. Attention is called to this by the most conservative authorities. Total stock in all the principal countries is now 575,165 tons, against 849,142 tons at the same time last year.

Mr. Licht's report of July 20, 1889, gives the following estimates for 1886-90, based on previous year's root and sugar yields, thus:

	1889-90.	1888-89.
Germany	1,030,000	990,000
Austria	630,000	525,000
France	505,000	470,000
Russia	525,000	510,000
Belgium	145,000	140,000
Holland	47,000	45,000
Other countries	58,000	55,000
Together	2,940,000	2,735,000

The same circular gives total stocks of first products in first hands in Germany, 1,350 tons, against 34,694 tons in 1888, and 31,194 tons in 1887.

The New York Shipping List says of the sugar situation: There appears to have been a general reaction in sentiment in all the the principal markets of the world, and a bearish feeling has come to the surface which not only disregards statistics and all comparisons with previous years, but furthermore is inclined to magnify whatever unfavourable features are to be discovered. This condition of affairs finds expression in the fluctuations of value and temper of the London market, where beet for August delivery has dropped to 19s. 9d., and September is being offered at 17s. 3d., with little desire to operate at these prices, as the market is quoted flat. The development of this bearish feeling has probably been brought about by the splendid condition of the beet crop, which, it is said, rivals that of any previous year in the productive qualities of the root, and the probability is that the new estimates of yield will be larger than the preliminary figures already published. Then there has been a falling off in the demand, while the depressing advices received from this country have had a discouraging influence.

Up to within a very short time European holders had counted with much confidence upon the large consumption in this country and consequent active demand for raw material, and recent developments have very much weakened their faith in the ability of this country to absorb the large supplies with which it had been credited. The fact that refiners have in the middle of what is claimed as the most active season for consumption, accumulated an unwieldy surplus of refined that is seriously hampering their operations has caused holders to lose faith in the future and show more disposition to sell than has been evinced for several months past. This, in brief, seems to comprise the prominent features that have slowly been coming to the surface during the past three days, and that have resulted in a condition of stagnation in every important consuming market. In view of past events and the present position of supplies, the situation is certainly unique, probably unprecedented in recent history of the trade, but it must be admitted that the outlook is one of increasing uncertainty, and calculated to result in the exercise of extreme caution on the part of buyers, who seem to feel that the tide is at last turning in their favour. So far as the local situation is concerned there has been no material change since the early part of the week. Refiners still find their product moving out slowly, and are seriously handicapped in their operations by the heavy surplus of refined that dealers are forcing them to carry, and with abundant supplies of raw material on the spot and afloat, and in view of the unsettled condition of affairs noted above there is not the slightest disposition to enter into fresh operations.

SYRUP AND MOLASSES.

A Montreal despatch says: For the past eighteen months a combine of grocers has existed to force up the price of molasses. The price rose from 35c. to 49c., but some of the members were discovered underselling and now the whole trust has collapsed, reducing prices to the former limit."

The above seems doubtful, as all the molasses held in Montreal are in the hands of two leading firms there, and there does not seem to be any necessity for cutting prices.

TEA.

The tea trade has been quiet on the local market with little business to chronicle. A few small lines of new Japans have changed hands at fair prices; black and greens have remained inactive. The London market remains quiet, greens firm, but last advices report new seasons black leaf Congou 2d. to 3d. lower than opening of the market. The New York market has been quiet, with slight improvement in new Japans. Advices from Japan report low grades up to medium as scarce and dearer, and the appearances are now that we shall have higher prices for all Japans up to good medium. The finer teas are being neglected. The first new greens of this season arrived on this market the end of last week; they came via Canadian Pacific Railway.

TOBACCO.

Tobacco is unchanged. McDonald's Honeysuckle tobacco has been changed from a smooth to a rough and ready plug, but the size and price remain the same.

PROVISIONS.

The local market is quiet, but generally firm, and a better tone and a more hopeful feeling is reported from Chicago. On the spot there is no business doing in mess pork. Long, clear bacon is in fair request, and values are steady at 8½c. to 8¾c. and 9c. Lard is very dull, and values are weak and declining; Canadian has dropped to 10c. to 10½c. in tierces, tubs and pails; American can be bought at 9c. in tierces, 9½c. in tubs and 9¾c. to 10c. in pails. Smoked meats are firm and in good demand. Hams are scarce, and are selling readily at 12½c. to 13c. There is a fair demand for rolls at 10c. and breakfast bacon at 11c.

The Cincinnati Price Current says: The movement of hogs in the West continues of moderate volume, packing returns for the week showing a total of 135,000, which compares with 145,000 for the preceding week, and 95,000 for corresponding time last year, indicating 40,000 increase for the week in comparison with a year ago, for which period the packing was exceptionally small. For the season from March 1 the total packing is 4,525,000 hogs, against 3,640,000 a year ago —an increase of 885,000. Shipments of hogs to Eastern markets continue light. The average price of hogs shows a reduction of 15c. to 20c. per 100 pounds compared with a year ago. In the provision market there has been a further reduction in values, prices at Chicago being moderately but steadily downward during the week until yesterday, although the changes have not yet been large enough to be considered of much significance under ordinary circumstances, but coming as they have now upon the previous low point, especially with reference to the cost of a considerable amount of product held by packers, every fractional reduction, however small, has been regarded with more or less of surprise, as well as discomfiture.

The report of stocks of provisions at Chicago to be submitted this week will be regarded with considerable interest. If the exhibit, with reference to meats, shows much reduction compared with a month ago, sentiment will strengthen with reference to probable course of values in the near future. So far as can be judged from the indicated movement and manufacture of product for the month, it is reasonable to expect a fair reduction in the supply of cut meats, possibly 5,000,000 lbs. or more, compared with a month ago—which, if shown, while not equalling the reduction last year in July will be a favorable exhibit, in view of the larger packing and the unusual volume of receipts of meats in that market during the past month—these receipts reflecting a depletion of stocks in Missouri river packing points. The gain in supply of meats at Chicago which will be shown in the comparison with a year ago, is mostly balanced by the increase in the receipts of meats at that point during the month compared with last year. But the trade seems to ignore the situation of supplies not reflected in the Chicago exhibit, and thus undue depression is liable to result while that market is shown to hold more than its usual proportion of the western supply. The current distribution of product is large, notwithstanding the influence in the declining tendency of values calculated to retard the movement. Exports of meats and lard for the week were again of large volume, nearly double compared with a year ago. The close shows a turn better in the Chicago market, and it might be wished that it foreshadows the inauguration of an improvement for the coming few weeks, which the general situation of affairs would seem to warrant. The trade, however, lacks the influence of speculative interest. There is a great disparity between present values of product at Chicago and those a year ago, when pork was $3.95 a barrel, lard $2.82½ per 100 pounds, and short rib sides $3 per 100 pounds higher than now for September delivery—or over 50 per cent. higher than now on meats, and 45 per cent. higher on lard. Present prices at Chicago for January delivery of product are on the basis of about $3.75 per 100 pounds for hogs.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Lighter receipts and a better demand for a day or two made a little steadier market. The supply has again begun to increase and the market is correspondingly weak. There seems to be, however, an increasing scarcity of fancy dairies. There are any amount of good to choice, but there are also none too many good mediums. Fancy tubs and pails are worth 17c. to 18c., but the general run of good dairies are going at 15½c. to 16c., with mediums at 13c. to 15c. Several lots of good quality have been cleared out at 14c. Bakers have picked up a few lots at 12½c. to 14c., but they are looking mostly for good quality. Dairy pound rolls have sold at 20c. to 22c., but there are only a few coming forward, and these are mostly from near-by points. Large rolls are in good demand at 16c. to 18c. in refrigerator boxes, according to quality. Creameries are steady at 21c. in tubs and 24c. in pound prints. There is very little shipping or export demand. A few lots were bought for shipment to Ontario points at 14c., but no business has been reported for export. Some Eastern townships' dairies were taken last week at 16c. to 16½c. for export to Glasgow, but there is no business being done with the Lower St. Lawrence and Maritime Province ports owing to the low prices at which American butter is being put in there.

CHEESE—There has been nothing special to note in the cheese market. Prices are nominally unchanged. Small lots of fine are selling at 9½ to 10c. At Ingersoll on Tuesday thirteen factories offered 6,000 boxes, balance July's sales. Buyers and sellers were apart. July cheese is about all sold in this section, the above offering comprises about all that is left.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

Flour continues flat. There is no demand, and quotations are purely nominal. Bran is quiet. Cars are worth $10.25 to $10.50 on the track, and they can be bought outside at $8.25 f.o.b. at the mills. Wheat is very dull, and prices are weak and unsettled. There was a slightly better enquiry to-day and a little more business was done. White sold on the Northern at about 68c. and on the Grand Trunk west at 96c.; the same grade was offered this afternoon on the Northern at 96c. Two cars, one each of No. 1 and No. 2 spring, sold at 97c. f.o.c. No. 1 Manitoba hard sold at $1.10 and $1.11, and No. 2 hard at $1.05. No. 1 frosted was offered at 85c. and No. 2 at 70c. Barley is nominal. A few quotations are heard, but they are purely speculative, as it is not known how the barley will grade. Peas steady and in good demand at 60c. to 61c. Oats are easier at 33c. to 34c. for mixed to white on the track. Not much business doing. White sold equal to 34½c. for shipment east to-day. Oatmeal is firm at $3.80 for standard, $4 for granulated and $4.25 for rolled in less than car-load lots.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Green are in liberal supply, and choice are selling at $2 to $2.50 per bbl. It is difficult to arrive at the exact value of dried apples. The market is undoubtedly excited and higher, but there are very few transactions. Dealers say they will pay 4c. to 5c., and they have purchased small consignments at these figures this week. Demand is purely on speculative account. Speculators are asking 6c. to-day, but they are not anxious to sell. There have been sales at 5½c. Evaporated do not appear to have advanced in proportion to the rise in dried; they have been somewhat neglected; the demand is very light; a few small lots sold at 7c.

BEANS—Demand is very limited; only a few small lots selling. Prices are mostly about $1.80 to $1.90 per bushel, but some dealers have not advanced prices with the market, and have been selling at $1.30.

EGGS—The supply is large, but prices are unchanged. The association is selling at 13c. and other dealers at 13½c. to 14c. New York market is steady, and Canadian eggs are selling at 15c. to 15½c.

HAY—The market is flat owing to liberal receipts of medium quality. Prime old hay is in demand, and buyers were bidding $13 for it on the track to-day. Very few car lots selling, the demand being mostly for smaller quantities, which are going at $13.50 to $14. Not much new coming in; the quality is not choice, being dark in colour, but feeds well. It is selling at $12 to $12.50 on the track.

HOPS—Are dull. The only sale of importance reported this week was a lot of choice 1888 at 22½c.

POTATOES—American continue in liberal supply, but there are not a great many Canadian coming forward yet. Prices are easier at 90c. per bag.

TALLOW—Continues quiet. Dealers are paying 5c. for rendered and selling at 5½c. Rough is being bought at 1¾ to 2c.

COAL OIL.

The market is firm and the demand good. Ordinary Canadian refined is 15c. per gallon, carbon safety, 17c.; water white home, 20c.; water white American, 25c., and photogene, 27c. At Petrolea ordinary refined is selling in carloads at 12c. to 12½c.

Mr. Chas. Peter, the able representative of Smith & Keighley in the West, has gone home to Aberdeen, Scotland. His good-looking face will be much missed on the road. It is rumoured that Charlie will not return alone, but will in all likelihood bring a bonnie lassie from his native heath.

Mr. Harry Stark, of Grand Valley, is moving into new premises shortly. Harry was with Mr. Hugh Mitchell, of Fergus, for a number of years, and every person in that place has a good word to say of him. Mr. Stark started in Grand Valley a few years ago and has built up a first-class business, a good example of what a young fellow with push and perseverance, and knowing his business can do. Harry has a nice boat, and we understand some particularly nice young ladies have been practising the art of rowing lately, and, of course, some one has to go along to steer and look after the boat. We wish our friend additional prosperity when when he gets settled in his new store.

Mixed Stocks advises retail storekeepers who are desirous of extending their trade to offer every customer a ticket entitling him to have his shoes blacked on the premises free of charge. All that is necessary to carry out the scheme is a placard announcing the offer, a number of plain pasteboard tickets, a competent boy to do the shining who can be hired for a moderate weekly wage, and a few boxes of blacking, which being taken from the stock, would not swell the total cost very materially.

Nearly every country storekeeper, as well as his city brethren, suffers more or less from the presence in his store of the loafer. This individual is, as a rule, a worthless, shiftless character who finds great enjoyment in beguiling away dull care on the chair or box at the store ; and, much to the chagrin of the storekeeper, he has little respect for the property of others, especially if it be perishable eatables. This species of humanity is by far too numerous in the grocery store, and should be most unceremoniously excluded from the storekeeper's premises.—San Francisco Grocer.

ONTARIO MERCHANTS' CONVENTION.

The Merchants' Convention which has excited so much attention for some weeks past among the retail merchants of Ontario opens next Monday at the Court House, Hamilton. Its success is assured. THE GROCER will be present and trusts to find hundreds of its readers there. Apart from the practical benefit derived from discussions we are all looking forward with pleasure to the many attractions of the Carnival. We trust that many of the merchants will bring their wives and families with them. Hamilton is a big open-hearted city and will find ample accommodation and entertainment for us all. By reference to the last circular it will be seen that the committee are anxious to make all those attending the Convention as comfortable as possible. Those who have not made arrangements for their accommodation should send word to the Secretary, Mr. C. R. Smith, Board of Trade.

The following circular has just been issued to the retail trade of the province.

ONTARIO MERCHANTS' CONVENTION.

HAMILTON, August 6th, 1889.

GENTLEMEN :—The numerical success of this, your first Convention, is now assured, and I am directed by the committee to impress upon you the necessity of coming prepared to speak or read a few words on the subjects proposed for discussion in which you feel most deeply interested. Retail merchants in the larger towns, where the evils of overtrading are more felt, might with profit discuss among themselves and prepare suggestions for permanent county and central organizations, whose duties would be by united action to minimise the present and check future trade evils. Much can be accomplished by discussions, matured decisions, and organization among the square and responsible merchants, whose opinions and decisions the wholesale merchant will will always respect. The committee will meet and organize on Monday, 19th August. The Convention will meet for business in the Court House, at 9.30 a. m. on Tuesday, Aug. 20, also on 21, 22, 23, the session lasting till about noon each day, the speakers being limited to ten or fifteen minutes each, perhaps less.

The following subjects will probably be discussed in the order given :

1.—In relation to Bankrupt Stocks. The best means for their disposal so as to cause the least irritation.

2.—Unjust Compromises.

3.—Insurance. High rates charged—Margins—Agents—Unprincipled advantages taken at settlements with assured by some adjusters.

4.—Inadequate profits. Selling at cost—Gift enterprise stores—causes and remedies.

3.—The Credit System as it affects wholesale and retail—the evils of dating forward and of yearly credits. Is it not possible to have more prompt settlements than yearly?

6.—Pedlars. Their regulation—Enforcement of Act.

7.—Eggs and Butter trade. Evils of pedlars collecting—Grading, Packing and Shipping butter. Refrigerator cars might be used in hot weather, same as for fish.

8.—Cash Discounts. Uniformity needed.

9.—Stock Taking—Annual or semi-annual.

I am also directed by the committee to enclose you Carnival programme, and railway certificate entitling you to attend the Convention at single fare.

Be particular to have this completed at railway point of departure, otherwise I cannot help you at this end.

The Board of Trade Rooms will be made a general rendezvous for country merchants, where letters may be sent to them, and where appointments may be made between Commercial Travellers and their customers.

The Merchants Convention Committee desire that every one shall have comfortable accommodation, and I request that you will send me a Postal Card in advance stating the sleeping accommodation you desire.

The Committee trusts that you will be present.

I am, dear sir, your obedient servant,
C. R. SMITH, Secretary.

PLATE GLASS INSURANCE.

MONTREAL GROCERS' PICNIC.

The pic-nic of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association was held last week and a very successful and enjoyable affair it proved to be. The pic-nickers took a special train to Otterburn Park, a delightful spot not far from Montreal. We take the following account of the affair from the Gazette :

For the purposes of general entertainment there was provided a very ample programme of games, and the first number on this bill was a quoit contest. A number of old hands at the game gathered round and looked on. Mr. Connaughton, who acted as judge, awarded the first prize, gold and silver medal, to Mr. Hugh McPhie, and the second, silver medal, Mr. F. Willoughby. Next came the quarter-mile race, open to bookkeepers and salesmen. Mr. B. Taylor, a junior lacrosse man, secured the first prize, a silver cup, and Mr. P. Dixon carried off a box of baking powder for his trouble in having come in second. The drivers and storemen ran a quarter of a mile for a barrel of flour and a box of baking powder, which fell to Mr. F. Willoughby and J. Vanier respectively. The following are the results of the remainder of the events in the first part of the programme:

100 yards dash, open to all in any way connected with the grocery trade—1, J. Hughes, silver medal; 2, B. Taylor.

Running hop, step and jump, open to bona fide grocers and their employees—1, J. Hughes; 2, B. Cuthbert.

Boys' 100 yards dash—1, McEvoy; 2, Desautels; 3, Gaffney.

Girls' (12 and under) 100 yards dash—1, Miss Nellie Christie ; 2, Emma Spriggins ; 3, Nellie Hughes.

The party now dispersed for lunch ; some rusticated among the trees and partook of the fresh air in addition to the more material food they had with them. Others again repaired to the restaurant, but a great number, including the committee and invited guests, partook of luncheon in the tent, served by Mr. Joyce in his usual high class style. Everything was up to his customary standard and was delicately served, supplemented, however, by some "old and dry," a term which those initiated will fully appreciate. There was a terrible onslaught made on everything in the way of eatables.

Mr. A. D. Fraser presided at one table aud the other was under the surveillance of Mr. Gauthier, both of whom exercised every effort for the comfort of their guests. This being effected, there were of course a few toasts, the first of which was "The Queen," which was received with due loyalty, "The Judges" were next toasted by Mr. J. Robertson. Mr. A. Desjardins proposed "Our Guests," and these toasts were all suitably responded to.

"The Corporation" was the next toast, and it was ably responded to by Ald. Rolland, chairman of the Finance Committee; Stevenson, chairman of the Fire Committee; Jeannotte, chairman of the Police Committee, and Tansey, a member of the Light Committee.

Mr. Fraser, the President, in a few happy remarks, proposed "The Press," and expressed the appreciation of the Society for the uniform courtesy they had received from all connected with the Montreal press.

Mr. Monier, editor of Le Prix Courant, responded for the French press, and the Gazette representative responded for the English.

"The Ladies" were remembered by Mr. Hector Berthelot and Mr. Wilson, who took their part in responding.

Ald. Rolland, in a few well pointed terms, proposed the health of the organizers of the Grocers' Pic-nic, of which the present was the ninth annual one.

Mr. Fraser responded, but he thought the principal credit of the undertaking belonged to another, Mr. John Robertson. He thought that the toast really devolved on Mr. Robertson to answer—he had been the prime mover in founding not only the pic-nic, but the Retail Grocers' Association. Then there was another gentleman, who had been among the French what Mr. Robertson had been among the English, he referred to Mr. Gauthier.

Mr. Robertson spoke a very few words, and Mr. Gauthier rose to his feet. He thought they had been given too much praise.

"Paw bo coo," said Mr. Fraser.

Mr. Gauthier went on to say that there had been no race or nationality question among the members of the society. They were formed for the sole object of helping the trade generally. Anti-Jesuit agitations or other questions were dropped; those who could not speak French wanted to learn, and vice versa. If the retail men were alive to their interests they would club more together and then there would be no combines. The retailers always fought combines, and he thought that if the 7,000 or 8,000 grocers here would join in the work, the wholesale trade would not be allowed to dictate to them; on the contrary, "I have been twenty-seven years in the business, and always knew how to mix whiskey," concluded Mr. Gauthier amid roars of laughter.

The party adjourned to the grounds where the following games were finished:—

One hundred yards dash, open only to grocers and their employees, whose places of business are closed on the day of the picnic—1, P. Dixon; 2, B. Taylor.

One hundred yards dash, open only to members of the General Picnic Committee—1, Denmers; 2, Fournier; 3, Manning.

Quarter-mile race, open only to those in any way connected with the biscuit trade—1, W. Watkins; 2, T. J. Potter.

Quarter-mile race, open only to subscribers to the picnic and their employees—1, Duckworth; 2, Lapointe.

Hundred yards dash, open only to reporters on the city press—1, O. C. Bass; 2, J. Monier.

Potato race, open to all—1, Willoughby; 2, Horner.

Smokers' race, 100 yards dash—1, J. Lemieux; 2, C. Cousineau.

The most interesting item was a competition "for the best and handsomest lady waltzer." After a very severe test, Miss T. Reed carried off the gold medal offered by Messrs. L. A. Wilson & Co.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

WE WILL FEED THEM.

"I would like to say," remarked Secretary C. R. Smith, of the Hamilton Board of Trade, "that perhaps we will have a few thousand more visitors during the Carnival than at first expected. I now think, judging from the letters I am daily receiving, that we will have 10,000 more, which will swell our estimated visitors up to 160,000. Some person has said that it will be impossible to feed our visitors. I want to say that we can and will feed them. We may have some difficulty in putting them up, but they will not starve. The farmers from the surrounding country will keep us supplied amply with provisions aud the hungry will be fed; yes, and well fed too."

SUBJECTS FOR DISCUSSION AT THE CARNIVAL.

MERCHANTS' CONVENTION.

1. The best way to avoid business failures.
2. The best way to dispose of bankrupt stocks.
3. The wisdom of insurance.
4. When should compromises be granted?
5. Can country and town merchants be more successful by doing a credit or cash trade?
6. Who to trust and how to collect, by court or by personal effort?
7. The necessity of keeping business and personal expenses within the volume of business done, and how to do it.
8. What gross profit is required for the retail trade?
9. How many times should a stock be turned over in a season.
10. The wisdom of having a stock well kept, well assorted and light in volume, and how best to do it.
11. What kind of help should be employed?
12. The best way to inspire confidence between the wholesale and retail dealers.
13. The necessity of punishment for misrepresentation.

LECALITY OF TRADE COMBINATIONS.

The extension of the principle of combination in the economic sphere has, as a matter of course, recently brought into the foreground the question as to the legal limits of the operation of the principle in practice. A considerable amount of litigation must be had before the legal status of combinations in the forms which they have assumed in recent times can be fixed with any degree of definiteness. In the meantime, decisions of the courts bearing upon the question will naturally be regarded as of unusual interest. A decision bearing upon one side of the question, which has just been rendered by the English Court of appeal, is deserving of more than passing notice. The specific question involved in the case was as to the legality of a combination between a number of ship-owners and transportation companies which, with a view of securing exclusive control of the tea-carrying trade from Hankow and Shanghai to London, allowed a rebate of 5 per cent. on the freight to firms which shipped exclusively by the vessels of the combination and denied the rebate to firms which shipped by other than combination vessels. One company, which had been for some time admitted to the combination or conference, was afterward excluded therefrom, the China merchants being warned by a circular that anyone shipping in the vessels of the company would lose the rebate. The company sought to gain a portion of the trade by cutting rates, and the excluded company lost its freights. It brought suit against the members of the combination on the grounds that the combination amounted to an unlawful conspiracy to deprive it of its share of the trade.

The case was tried in the first instance before Lord Chief-Justice Coleridge, who gave judgment for the defendants. He held that the combination among the defendants to secure the trade in question to themselves was not illegal, but came within the bounds of legitimate trade competition. The defendants had, he said, the right to offer inducements to customers to deal exclusively with them by giving them notice that only exclusive customers would have these exceptional advantages. He saw in the circumstances of the case nothing upon which to base a charge of coercion or bribery, and nothing to show that the combination was one in restraint of trade in the legal sense. This decision of Lord Chief-Justice Coleridge has just been affirmed by a majority of the Court of Appeal, who hold in substance that the combination of the defendants being simply in order to promote their own gain there was nothing illegal in it, provided the members did not circulate false rumours or resort to intimidation or fraud in order to destroy the competition of the plaintiff. The Master of the Rolls dissented from the opinions of his colleagues. It is probable that the question involved will be brought before the House of Lords, the court of last resort in England, for final review. Whether it will be sustained there remains to be seen. If it should be upheld, the decision will settle for Great Britain the principle that combination, as such, without the elements of intimidation or fraud, for the purpose of competition is lawful. But, as will be seen from the facts in the case, combination for the purpose of competition may be tantamount to combination for the suppression of competition, so that the decision may be found to have a wider bearing as a precedent than is apparent just at present.—[Bradstreet's.

AN "OLD BIRD'S" ADVICE TO TRAVELLING SALESMEN.

Don't be easily scared. If the hotel clerk remarks after you have registered that you are the fifteenth boot and shoe salesman that has arrived in the town that day, smile sarcastically, and tell him you always believed in the luck of odd numbers, and then get ready to work.

Don't fail to notice the general appearance and condition of the stores you sell to. A shrewd man may sometimes be invaluable to the anxious credit man of your house, who is often doubtful about extending credit.

Don't try to "paralyse." Country merchants are more at ease with salesmen who dress plainly and simply. City retailers, on the contrary, like to see spruceness and fine clothes.

Don't miss calling on a single customer, no matter how tired you feel or how unlikely it is he will buy from you. Sometimes the extreme last will surprise you with a liberal order.

Don't forget to size up your man. Old men should be addressed differently to young men. The clever travellers are discriminating.

Don't believe more than half you hear about competitors offering goods at prices below yours. This is an old advice to scare inexperienced sellers. Listen deferentially and smile respectfully though incredulously.

Don't use asperity when declining to cut prices. A little good temper will disarm suspicious inspectors of your goods. One secret of value is the ability to secure your own terms.

Don't fail to discuss local styles and fashions while travelling in different sections of the country. Many an observant salesman has furnished his firm with hints and points that have been appreciated.—[Chicago Review.

KEEP YOUR EYES PEELED.

We believe there is a saying that runs something like this : "Always believe a man innocent until proved guilty." This answers very well for men who have been arrested upon criminal charges. The grocer and butcher, however, want to keep their eyes peeled and constantly be on the lookout. One or two cigars taken from the case every day as a matter of course doesn't amount to much, still at the end of the year the same makes a nice little aggregate. The same with the butcher in his help taking meat. Let any retailer sit down and figure up what he would have saved if his employees had paid him for all they have taken. The result would even surprise him. It's just such leakages as these that cuts the retailer's profits down to a narrow margin and all the time he is wondering where the profits are going. A very shrewd retailer in this State who understands the great loss that takes place every year in this one respect has adopted a rule, that cannot help but save his money and makes more difficult the operations of any clerk who has the desire to "knock down." If a clerk wants groceries he must enter it upon the order book and another clerk puts the order up. Saturday night the amount of goods ordered are deducted from the clerk's salary. Yet even with such an arrangement, doubtless the man with a desire for stealing can find opportunities for so doing. When trusted clerks are found every day going astray the only safe guard for the merchant is to have his eye constantly peeled.—[Tobacco Record.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION

Secretary's Address:—

592 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

The phonograph is now replacing the shorthand-writer in American mercantile houses.

Whether the methods of the Standard Oil Company have been to the advantage of the merchants of the country may well be doubted, but there can be no question that its affairs have been managed with remarkable ability. An instance of this is afforded by recent operations of the Company in Europe, where the sales of American oil of late have been reduced by Russian competition. The first move made by the Standard Company was to secure and place out of reach of the Russians all the second-hand empty barrels on the Continent. The Russians had laid out a pipe line, but when they went to contract for pipe none could be had in time for this year's business. Two avenues of competition were thus blocked, and only one other remained open, namely, the bulk-oil steamers employed in the Russian oil trade. By some means these steamers have found their way to American ports for Standard Oil, and no bulk steamers are now available to move the Russian Oil, while it is impossible to ship in other vessels, as barrels are necessary for such shipments, and cannot be had in Europe for loading Russian Oil.

There is in the City of Hamilton a packing house, owned and operated by F. W. Fearman, that is not only a credit to that city but to the whole Dominion—widespread and far-reaching in its operations, it gathers the stock from the farmers throughout the area of Western Ontario, and distributes the manufactured article in its various forms of hams, breakfast bacon, rolls, shoulders, long clears, barrelled pork, lard, etc., to every nook and corner of the land. The reputation of these goods has always been that they were the best, and, to-day, they stand before the public unrivalled in quality. Fearman's English Breakfast Bacon is not only the favorite of the epicure in Canada, but is extensively used by private families in the United States, who have become acquainted with it while visiting here. In these days when it is desirable to be certain that you are getting pure lard, it is as well to know that the brand, "Our Own," put up by Mr. Fearman, is pure, and can be depended upon. This house is more than ordinarily careful in selecting the hogs from which the "Star Brand" goods are made. Patrons of this brand may rest assured they are getting the finest that can be produced.

We invite correspondence from readers in every section on subjects pertaining to the trade, and shall be pleased to answer questions of general interest in this department. We require with each letter the name and address of the sender, not necessarily for publication, unless agreeable to writers, but for our own protection.

TRADE CONGRESS.

Toronto, Aug. 13, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—I am glad to notice that the Hamilton people are up and doing—doing something which Toronto should have done long ago; but since Hamilton has taken the lead let us as merchants of this city help along the movement. From all I can hear the Merchants' Convention will be productive of good. All trade associations should be represented by delegations of five or more, but where that is impossible their President and Secretary should be sent. They can do no harm and would without doubt gather some very profitable information. By the way, what are the grocers doing in the matter? Do they propose letting the Convention pass without being represented? If not, it is time they appointed delegates. It is not too late, however, and if they have not done so already they should at once consider the matter.

Yours, etc., SUBSCRIBER.

[The above letter is from a well-known Toronto grocer, and voices the sentiments of the majority of the trade. The reference to the Toronto Grocers' Association is important. If it is impossible for the Association to meet to appoint delegates to go, we think the President and Secretary, Messrs. Berwick and Thackray, should certainly go on their own responsibility as the representatives of the Association. We feel sure that the Association would willingly pay their expenses, as the information they would gather would be invaluable to the Association in the future. Another Toronto merchant who should be present is Mr. R. Mills. His long experience in the wholesale and retail trade; his thorough knowledge of the practical side of business, and his common sense views on all questions would be of very great assistance in the discussion on the various matters to come before the Convention.—EDITOR CANADIAN GROCER.]

NICOLA, B. C., August 5th, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—I do not pride myself in being well enough up in the trade to offer suggestions that would be of interest to the Congress about to be held in the good old city of Hamilton, but I have read so much of interest and value in your estimable journal, that I feel it a duty I owe you to acknowledge your efforts in laboring for the advancement of the grocers' interest, as well as the trade generally.

It cannot be denied that in many branches of business the grocer has been looked down upon, and not without cause, when we consider the loose manner that is so common to many in the trade, and the numerous failures. The practice of cutting prices, and the "rule" of selling sugar at cost. How many grocers figure the cost of running a business? I venture to say not one in twenty; yet it is an item of from ten to twenty per cent. on their gross sales, counting clerk hire, insurance, interest on money invested, shrinkage, etc.

Grocers, it has always occurred to me, have less system in conducting their business than is the case in many branches of trade. Why this should be, when they are handling such large quantities of perishable goods, is a matter of surprise, and can only be accounted for by the fact that many who engage in the trade are without the knowledge requisite in a country where the credit system is universal and so often fatal.

There is no class of goods sold wholesale on such close terms, yet I feel assured you may take any town in Canada and place on equal footing two merchants: one in dry goods and one grocer; the dry goods man will take in more cash in proportion to the goods sold than our grocer. Now the terms are to the dry goods on an average five months (counting dating ahead) with a profit of from 25 to 50 per cent., and far less expense, no short weights, while the grocer's credit is from 60 to 90 days, with a profit of from sugar to 25 per cent., a horse to keep, and, safe to say, double the expense. What we want is unity in our ranks, with a "thorough understanding" to live and let live, and keep our promises.

More caution should be exercised by the wholesale merchant. He is too often ready to trust men with goods who are not capable of managing a business.

In my adopted province, British Columbia, great care is observed to credit only solid men, and the result is found most satisfactory to all.

On the subject of discounts I am strongly in favour of a liberal allowance to the trade for cash, and a proportionate rise in prices to those who ask for credit. This would weed out small dealers and men without capital, and strike a blow at the credit system.

"Mutual insurance" we need very much. Let a company be incorporated, and give the trade a chance to take stock, then sell only to men who are insured, and make this compulsory.

I sincerely trust much good may result from the Congress about to assemble, and that it will not end in talk, but that some definite policy will be marked out and followed rigidly.

We in British Columbia will not likely be benefited by any act of the Congress, yet it might cause our merchants to look more closely into matters affecting the welfare of those who now form a great factor in the trade relations existing between the East and West.

In conclusion I would like to make one suggestion, that is, the Congress to urge on retail grocers the necessity of becoming subscribers to your valuable journal, and to those who cannot be persuaded, send it to them free, the Congress becoming the subscriber. I am convinced it would open the eyes of many, set them thinking, and result in much good that cannot be effected by any other means. Wishing you every success,

I am, very truly,

A. E. HOWSE.

The following was received by Secretary Smith, of Hamilton Board of Trade:

WOODSTOCK, June 12, 1889.

To C. R. Smith, Esq., Sec. Board of Trade, Hamilton, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—In response to your circular of May 29, I write a few lines in reference to a matter which I think is important to merchants generally, wholesale as well as retail, and especially in my line of business. What I refer to is the unlimited amount of credit that is given in the retail trade, without the least security, and which has became almost compulsory to those engaged in this business on account of its having become so prevalent, and there is not the least doubt that there is more money lost and more failures caused by this than there is by all other means put together. Now, I would just briefly say that I believe if this matter was brought before the meeting properly it would be taken hold of unanimously and a movement started which would soon abolish the abominable system entirely. Hoping these suggestions may be of some value.

Yours,

August 10, 1889.

EDITOR GROCER,—I hope there will be something done at the meeting at Hamilton to better the situation of merchants. I think a piece entitled "What shall we do with Insolvent Estates?" is very good. I don't believe in those parties going from one place to another auctioneering, as parties are in Belleville now, doing no steady established business. They take a lot of money out of the place, which is not fair. Am sorry I cannot attend the Convention. If there were less chance for compromises and less credit our country would be in a better state. The bankrupt law was intended for honest men and not to make rogues of men. As they have a combine on a good many things, merchants ought to combine against monopolies, and "Live and let live," as the saying is. Hoping the Convention will be a grand success, I remain, yours truly,

W. A. POTTER.

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools : they know a cup of good tea.

EDGAR'S MILLS, Aug. 12, 1889.

FRIEND GROCER,—As a country merchant I am pleased to see that the pedlar nuisance will come up for discussion at the Merchants' Convention in Hamilton. I believe we in this county (Essex) suffer more from this class of sharks than any county in Ontario. As there is no license imposed they hold high carnival. Every main road and small village is overrun with from two to four per week. These men pay no taxes, do no statute labor, have no reputation to build up, still are privileged to go from house to house, in many cases selling goods for double their value to persons ignorant of their value. and taking the trade from the legitimate trader who has a trade and reputation to build up and has an interest to improve the place. And I for one, and I think all county merchants, would earnestly and respectfully request the Convention to urge county councils, through circular, or in whatever way they think best, to impose a heavy license on all hawkers and pedlars of all descriptions of merchandise.

Yours respectfully,
SUFFERER FROM THE PEDLAR MOVEMENT.

J. W. Lang & Co. have fitted up their sample room with a new style of tea cans. They are square with an attached top.

HOW TO HAVE A POOR CLERK.

Hire the cheapest applicant.

Set him to work without ascertaining how much he knows of the job he is to perform.

Don't watch him, but take it for granted he is an expert.

Growl at him if he does wrong, but be careful not to teach him to improve.

Keep him engaged only on the menial classes of work.

Needn't show him how to replace stock ; if it is not where it ought to be when you want it you can easily hunt around until you find it, and amuse yourself in swearing at the boy. That will make him look out next time.

Pay him his wages whenever you get ready; it will impress the little rascal with your large business importance.

Never raise his salary unless he first gets an offer from somebody else.

Try to convince him that he is of no great account.

If he doesn't succeed in selling goods look sour and harbour your wrath at his stupidity; if you should talk it over with him quietly he might convince you he has done his best, or at least he might learn something, and by-and-by he would know as much as you know, which would never do, don't you know?

Don't let him help on the books, for he might learn to be an accountant and so become expensively valuable.

Never invite him to your house or allow your children to regard him as their equal.

A barrel full of money is a good thing to have, but what's it good for if your health is poor. Preserve your health by using Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder.

ARE PEDDLERS OF ANY USE ?

Peddlers and street hawkers of fruits, vegetables and produce are of no earthly use. The public does not require their aid, for the wants of the people are completely satisfied in this particular by the legitimate retail grocers, who are located convenient to every residence in this city. Peddlers are not only of no use, but they are a serious damage, not only to the grocery merchant, but to the consuming public, who are lured to purchase their wares at cheap prices when, in fact, they are decaying goods that a grocer would not handle, and of these they give short weights and measures. For this privilege of swindling the people who have the credulity to buy of them, and the injury they do to the honest tax-paying merchant, they pay into the city treasury the sum of $10 a year, or for less time in that proportion. The aggregate amount of license they pay—360 of them—is less than $1,500 a year, while it is carefully estimated that the retail grocers of this city pay taxes on over $1,500,000 worth of property.

This being the true state of affairs, the Retail Grocers' Association is making strong efforts to compel these "fakirs" to pay their just share of the cost of the municipal government by increasing their license to $100 a year. We believe there is not a city in the country where the license price of peddlers is as low as in Detroit. In Cleveland peddlers with one horse have to pay $92 a year, and in Denver, Colorado, $400 is the modest assessment they are required to pay for the privilege of competing with the tax-paying grocers, and even at this figure they are not allowed to cry their wares on the streets.

The grocers of Detroit will in all probability get this measure through the Common Council, as there is no one to oppose it except the peddlers and the commission men two closely allied branches of trade.—[Detroit Grocer.

THE FEMALE DRUMMER.

Have you seen the latest comer
In the field ?
When you gaze upon her, know your Fate is sealed !
It's no sort of use to throw your Self before her
And implore her,
In your weakness
And your meekness ;
Nor to mutter
You are but a
Man, and she a female drummer !

She will talk you deaf and dumber
Than a clam ;
Tho' you know the goods she's selling
Are a sham,
You give in There's no repelling
Her invasion !
English, Asian,
White or yellow,
Where's the fellow
That is human
Born of woman,
Can resist the female drummer ?

Be it winter, be it summer
She will drum ;
On her tours of devastation
She will come ;
And your bump of approbation
Can but dwindle
At the swindle
You submit to ;
Wife will twit, too,
Till you wonder
Why in thunder
Heaven e'er made the female drummer !

REMOVING PAINT.

The ordinary process of scraping old paint, or burning it off, is hardly expeditious enough for general purposes, and is also laborious. Soda and quicklime are far more thorough, and the paint is more quickly removed. The solution of half soda and half quicklime is thus made : The soda is dissolved in water, the lime is then added, and the solution can be applied with a brush to the old paint. A few minutes is sufficient to remove the coats of paint, which may be washed off with hot water. Many preparations are sold for the removal of paint, all of them having some basis of alkali. A paste of potash and strong lime is far more effectual in operation, and the oldest paint can be removed by it. Afterward a coating of vinegar or acid should be used to cleanse the surface before repainting. One authority on the subject recommends the gasoline lamp, a quart of oil being sufficient to last 3½ hours. The method is considered superior to gas, as the flame is stronger, and the cost less, besides which the lamp can be carried to any part which cannot be done conveniently with a gas jet. But the use of flame of either is dangerous and to be avoided when possible. Many a house has been burnt to the ground from using jets of flame. For removing varnish, spirits of ammonia is used, but it is a slow process, and several applications are necessary. Scraping and sandpapering can be employed ; but it must be done carefully by experienced hands, or the surface of wood will be injured. The chemical process of removal has the advantage of leaving the surface in a better condition than burning off or scraping, and for large surfaces of paintwork is to be preferred.

The retail grocer, in his struggles to make a livelihood and a fair profit, has much to contend with from many causes. One item which he often overlooks is the urchin who makes a five or ten cent purchase and demands, as a commission, confectionery or fruit which is always forthcoming. Single instances of this generosity amount to little, but if the grocer were to think how much the total of a month would be he might come to the conclusion that too large a percentage of profit was being distributed gratis among his customers. It is only with care and judgment that a grocer can realize any profit in small sales of the kind mentioned, and he will come out at the small end of the horn if he indulges this class of trade too much. GROCERIES.

The local grocery market continues quiet and unchanged. The drop in sugar has knocked the bottom completely out of that market, for buyers have no confidence in the future, and will only buy what they actually require for immediate wants. Payments are about an average for this season of the year. Money is plentiful, and rates on ordinary commercial paper remain at 7 per cent., with best accounts at 6 per cent. The outlook for the fall trade continues favorable. With few exceptions the crops are excellent.

CANNED GOODS.

There is quite an active demand for canned fish of all kinds, but especially for salmon and lobsters, but fruits and vegetables have dropped into their usual dulness of this season of the year. Opinions vary very materially as to the new pack of salmon; the general impression is, that there will be an excess of about 70,000 cases over last year, but there are many who look for a shortage, and who assert that the demand from Australia and England cannot be satisfied. So far as we can learn, no new salmon have arrived here, although several shipments are overdue. On the spot, choice brands are going, as before, at $1.75 to $1.80. There is also a good demand for lobsters at $1.65 to $1.75 for ordinary brands, and $2.25 for "Clover Leaf." Mackerel is also going out freely, in small lots, at $1.50 to $1.60. While retailers are not buying vegetables, there have been several enquiries from jobbers who think this an opportune time to stock up in anticipation of an advance. Holders are not inclined to sell, and consequently values are firm. A lot of 300 cases of tomatoes changed hands at 95c. for shipment to an outside point.

No action was taken by the Wholesale Groceries' Guild at their meeting on Friday last in regard to the arrangement with the Packers' Association.

COFFEE.

Market is dull. Only a few small lots of Javas are going out at 25c. to 28c., and Rios at 20c. to 21c. Rios continue to advance abroad: a Rio cable says the yield is less than was expected owing to the drouth.

Telegrams from the Amsterdam sale of Government Java coffee indicate the price at 51 florins, which is 2¾ florins above valuation; but also state that only 20,000 bags were sold, the balance, 30,000 bags, being withdrawn. This is a very unusual occurrence; indeed, has not taken place before in many years, and is considered a bad move, and calculated to excite distrust and suspicion. It simply places the Government (from whence the offering comes) in the position of a speculator, and the action in withdrawing the portion of supply as noted is characterized as an attempt at manipulation.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants continue low, but there are a good many selling. Filiatras and Provincials are going at 4¾c. to 5½c., in barrels and halves, for small, and 4¼c. to 4¾c. for jobbing lots. A few Patras, half barrels, sold at 5½c. Not much inquiry for case currants; Vostizzas are selling, in half cases, at 6½c. to 7c. Dates are slow at 6c. Prunes have been selling quite freely, and spot stocks are getting light; holders are stiffening values; reports of the new crop continue unfavorable, indicating a short crop; kegs are going at 5c. to 5½c., and hogsheads have sold at 4c. to 4½c., and holders are now asking ⅛c. to ¼c. more. All kinds of raisins are very firm. Only a few boxes of Valencias here, and they are held firmly at 7½c. Elemes are going at 6¼c. in large boxes, and 6¾c. in small. Sultana raisins are firming up, but stocks are pretty well cleared out; sales are being made at 7½c. to 8½c.

Bendelari & Co. had a cable, Tuesday, from Smyrna, reporting the opening of the market for Sultana raisins at higher prices than last week; the crop is smaller, but the quality is better.

Mail advices on Valencia raisins say that in spite of favorable weather the crop is still backward, and likely to be smaller than last year.

Cassado writes from Malaga, on July 26, regarding Malaga raisins:—"Weather continues favorable. Grapes are ripening in good condition. The yield will be small, and as foreign markets are out of stock, indications are that prices will be high. This, of course, depends upon the demand that may prevail."

SUGARS.

A further decline of ¼c. per lb. has taken place in all white sugars. Part of this was looked for two weeks ago, but it did not come, and some confidence in the situation was restored. A drop of ¼c., in New York, on Friday seems to have settled the matter, for this market followed on Saturday morning. On Wednesday another ¼c. decline in New York resulted in a corresponding reduction here. The sugar trade is now apparently in an unsatisfactory condition. Although the statistical position is regarded strong, the consumptive demand is light, and is likely to be less than usual, owing to the higher prices and smaller crop of fall fruit. Then the new beet crop promises to be large. Of course there are a good many who look for a recovery in values at an early date, but buyers should go cautiously. White sugars are now quoted as follows:—

Granulated, 1 to 15 bbls	$0 00
" 15 bbls. and over	0 08⅞
Paris lump, boxes	0 09⅝
Extra ground, bbl.	0 09⅞
" boxes and less than bbl	0 10⅛
Powdered II. bbl.	0 00
" less than bbl.	0 09¼

Yellows are nominally from 6⅞c. up, but transactions are reported at less money, but this is not generally the case. Wholesale houses who bought largely before on the upward market appear to have sold out. The same may be said of retailers.

Messrs. Willett & Hamlin, New York, in their weekly sugar circular, say:—The strength of the general position of sugar is quite overshadowed by the local conditions. On July 1, the total stock of sugar in all principal countries was 555,896 tons, against 891,980 tons July 1, 1888—a deficiency of 336,084 tons. The reduction in 1888, from July 1 to October 1, was 500,845 tons. The same reduction this year would leave but 55,000 tons stock for all the countries—a remarkably strong statistical exhibit; but local causes during the past four weeks have put this out of sight, and temporarily, if not permanently, changed the conditions, as will appear when we have the August 1 figures for comparison. On July 10, from causes still incomprehensible in the United States, the bottom suddenly dropped out of the foreign sugar markets, and they have been drifting about for a foundation ever since. On July 10, the American grocers, having every confidence in prices being maintained, were carrying, on the average, about three times their usual stock of refined sugar. They immediately began marketing this extra stock, and left the refiners with no market for their daily production, and, until within a few days, there has been no evidence that the grocers had reached a "hand to mouth" basis. The refiners in the meantime cut down the production very considerably, and also stored what there was no outlet for. The production of refined sugar on the Atlantic coast is about 28,000 barrels per day (4,000 tons). The grocers usually carry ten or twelve days' supply, say 280,000 bbls. (40,000 tons). On July 10 they were carrying about three times this amount, say 840,000 bbls. (120,000 tons), or an excess of 560,000 bbls. (80,000 tons). It is the disposal of this excess of 80,000 tons into consumption, and the further accumulation by refiners of say 175,000 bbls. (25,000 tons), which has made the market of the past four weeks what it has been, and will change the August 1 figures, so far as the United States can change them, into a surplus of say 160,000 tons stock on October 1, to be divided between the several countries. This amount is still so small as to lead us to expect the recovery of a portion if not all of the recent decline in raws and refined, particularly if the new beet crop proves to be a later one than has been, until quite recently, anticipated. The latest information is against an early crop. Looking further ahead, we see many indications in the latest information of growing crops, that 1890 will give a higher average price for sugar than 1889. The consumption of sugar in the United States during the coming fruit preserving season will not be as large as last year, as the fruit crops in the East are much smaller (although reported large in the West), and a very large quantity of canned fruit still remains over from last year's enormous crops on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. A ship with 40,000 to 50,000 cases canned fruits arrived in New York this week from California, and two more cargoes are on the way. The above facts, together with the higher price of sugar, will curtail the consumption of sugar, possibly to the extent of 20,000 tons. With the country now on a "hand-to-mouth" basis we may soon expect a more active market for refined, to be followed by a demand for raws a little later. Meltings, this week, are at the low point of 9,302 tons, which did not prevent a small reduction in refiners' stock. Next week the changes may be more important, as our to-day's cable from Magdeburg gives a firm market with few sellers.

TEA.

The tea trade is dull and without change. Mail advices report a decline of 2d. in Assams and Ceylons.

TOBACCO.

A circular issued by a Louisville firm on the condition of the tobacco crop, states:—"The acreage this year is between 51 and 25 per cent. of that of last year for the territory embracing the dark production sections of Kentucky and Tennessee. The general condition of the crop may be described as bad. The continued and excessive rains have in many places retarded the growth of tobacco, and have prevented proper cultivation generally, and leave the crop in a foul condition."

The Cincinnati Price Current says :—This week's packing returns show a total of 135,000 hogs handled by Western packers, the same as for the preceding week, and compared with 110,000 last year, indicating an increase of 25,000 for the week compared with a year ago, and an increase of 910,000 for the season, the total from March 1 being 4,660,000 hogs against 3,750,000 a year ago. Prices of hogs have been firmer, and at the close are generally somewhat higher than a week ago, the gain not exceeding 5 to 6c. per 100 pounds as a rule. The quality generally is good. Packers are taking a liberal proportion of the offerings, the Eastern shipments evidently not being in excess of a year ago, probably somewhat smaller. In the provision trade the week began with considerable evidence of firmness in the Chicago market, which was subsequently lost, especially for speculative cuts of meats, the reported stock of short rib sides in that market showing an increase of over 3,000,000 pounds compared with a month ago. There was a reduction in the aggregate of cut meats, however, to the extent of 11,000,000 pounds, which was quite a favourable exhibit. As has been previously mentioned, the relatively large supply of short rib sides in that market has been due to large deliveries from Western packing points, which have been correspondingly depleted. For the month of July the reported receipts of meats at Chicago were about 30,000,000 pounds, gross, in comparison with 11,000,000 pounds last year. It is evident that the current movement of product into consumption, in this country and by exports, is of decidedly large volume, making a marked gain over the current manufacture, while the period of most active distribution of meats during the year is now setting in. It seems quite reasonable to look for an improvement in values in the near future, as an incident to the enlarged consumption and moderate volume of manufacture. But the season has been one of disappointment in the continuous absence of rallying characteristics in values, and speculative interest is slow to develop, under any circumstances, without which influence the market lacks an important support at such a juncture. The week's exports of hog product were again largely in excess of corresponding time last year, in both meats and lard. Compared with a week ago, the Chicago market is in about the same position as to prices of short rib sides, slightly better for pork for deferred deliveries, with more of strength shown in lard.

PROVISIONS.

On the spot there has been a good business done in bacon and smoked stuff. Quite a few lots of long clears were shipped during the week, some going to the North-west at 8½c. Smoked hams are very firm, selling at 12½c. for large and 13c. for small sizes. There is very little of other kinds of smoked stuff to be had. Lard is weak. Canadian is selling at 10 to 10½c. in tubs, and at 10½ to 11c. in pails ; American is moving at 9½ to 10¼c. though one dealer was offering Fairbanks to-day at 8½c. in tubs.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The situation appears to be a very weak one. There is a good deal of butter held ; the make is large and there is nothing encouraging in the foreign markets. Most of the June make in the west and north of Toronto was sold, but the July, which by the way is nearly as good, appears to be still in hand. In New York and vicinity there seems to be no let up to the accumulation, and a private letter from there says the situation looks serious. With an abundant crop of grass in Canada the make will be more than can be taken care of this year. On the spot best dairy tubs and large rolls are selling at 16c. but the most of them are going at 14 to 15c. Store packs are selling at 12 to 14c. A lot of ordinary store was offered to a commission house to-day at 10c. delivered. Country merchants are now asking 14c. for choice dairies, but no business is reported. There are buyers, but they will not touch anything at that price, and are not making bids but asking for offers. There are some enquiries for cars for the lower ports, but no prices are quoted. Creameries are dull. A few small lots are going into consumption here at 19 to 20c. but no business is reported outside.

CHEESE—Is quiet but steady. Small lots are selling at 9½ to 10c. for prime quality and dealers have bought at the factory at 9¼c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

Flour dull and neglected. Values are nominally unchanged. Bran quiet. Millers are offering to sell at $9 at the mills outside. Car lots are worth about $10 to $10.50 on the track. Wheat continues dull and unsettled. Some business has been done in the west on the Grand Trunk at 93c. to 95c. for red, white and Democrat. Five cars of the latter sold yesterday at 94½c. f.o.b. Some new No. 2 white was offered to day and 90c. was bid for it. On the Northern old No. 2 white offered at 96c. and 95c. was bid. Western Ontario millers in the Guelph and Berlin districts are bidding 82c. to farmers for new wheat. Manitoba wheat is very unsettled as to price. It is reported that ocean space had been taken for 200,000 bushels Manitoba wheat for export. There is no doubt but that some space has been taken, but whether for this amount or not is not definitely known. In barley no business doing yet. A good deal of the crop has been threshed and it is yielding well, but complaints are made that it is a little off in color. Peas are easier. Old have sold at 60c. outside, and that figure is bid for more. Holders are asking 60c. for new, with buyers at 55c. Oats are easier on the spot. Most of the retailers appear to be stocked up. Sales have been made on the track at 33c. for mixed. Heavy white sold to arrive at 33½c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

The local wholesale movement in general produce is light. Most of the business is done on the street. Any movement has been in small lots.

BEANS—Are dull. Holders are asking $1.70 to $2 per bushel for hand-picked. Only an odd bushel or two is selling.

DRIED APPLES—Are dull, but firm and advancing. A bid of 5c. was made this week for a round lot lying at an outside point, but this failed to attract it hither. Dealers are asking 6c. for small lots, but there is not much doing. There was an enquiry for a carload of evaporated to-day, but no price was quoted. Part of a car was offered at 6½c. Small lots are selling at 7c. to 7½c., but there is no business doing.

EGGS—Dealers have nearly all dropped ½c. in price, but the combine is steady at 13c. Fresh gathered are selling at 13½c., but country shipments are going at 13c. for single cases and 12½c. in lots. The general impression is that prices will harden, if they will not advance before the Industrial Exhibition.

HAY AND STRAW—Not much doing in hay. Receipts are light, good demand is heard for choice old or new at $12 on the track. Ordinary is at $10 to $11. Straw nominal at $7 to $8 on the track.

HIDES AND SKINS—Hides are steady. Receipts are light and not equal to the demand, but the accumulation of old stock has not yet been worked off, and prices, therefore, continue unchanged. Cured have sold in car lots at 5¼ to 5⅜c. the top being for selections. Green are being taken at 2¾ to 4¾c. according to grading. Sheep and lamb skins are steady, at 45c. but prices will be advanced in a day or two by 5 or 10c. Calfskins are dull and unchanged.

HOPS—Held at 20c. to 22c. for choice 1888 and at 10c. to 14c. for 1887.

POTATOES—Dealers are buying at 40c. per bushel in cars on the track and selling in smaller lots at 70c. per bag. Receipts are increasing.

SEEDS—No business has yet been done in seeds, but dealers are beginning to receive a few inquiries for timothy, but owing to the scarcity of spot supplies prices are higher than in the spring. Buyers are therefore holding off in expectation of lower prices when the new crop arrives at the end of the month. The price of timothy will, it is expected, rule higher than last year, and futures are selling in the west at higher figures than a year ago. The clover crop in Ontario is expected to be larger this season, but nothing definite has been learned yet.

TALLOW—Dealers are buying rendered at 5c. and selling at 5½c. but the markets continue quiet.

WOOL—Remains unchanged. The few lots of fleece coming forward are readily taken at 20c. to 20½c. for good merchantable fleece.

COAL OIL.

The market is firm and the demand good. Ordinary Canadian refined is 15c. per gallon, carbon safety, 17c.; water white home, 20c.; water white American, 25c., and photogene, 27c. At Petrolia ordinary refined is selling in carloads at 12c. to 12½c.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

The feature of the canned goods market has been the strength in tomatoes, which have advanced 5c. to 10c. per dozen within the past few days owing to the fact that the bulk of the offerings in first hands have been bought up and the stock is now in the hands of speculators who are jobbing it out at 95c. to $1.00 per dozen. The market on the whole has had a quiet tone as the demand for canned goods generally has been slow and only a small volume of business has been accomplished. New lobsters are scarce and firm at $6 to $6.50 per case. The bulk of the old crop has been pretty well cleaned up and few lots are now offering at $5.50 to $5.60 per case. Sardines have been weaker and declined 50c. per case to $8 to $9 for American brands, and $6.25 to $6.50 for Canadian. No new salmon has arrived on the market yet, but dealers expect it will be here in the course of two weeks. Corn has ruled quiet and steady at $1.00 to $1.75 per dozen as to brand. Peas are unchanged at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. There has been no change in fruits, the demand having continued slow at unchanged prices. The demand for canned meats has been fair and sales of some round lots have been effected at steady prices.

SUGAR.

Since our last report there has been a weaker feeling in the market for refined sugar, and we have to note a decline of ¼c. on granulated to 8¾c., which is owing no doubt to the weaker advices from abroad on the raw article, while prices have declined 6d. on prompt beet, and 3d. on cane. There has been no change in yellows, prices having ruled steady at last week's decline, and range from 6⅞c. to 7¾c. as to quality at the factory. The market on the whole has been quiet, and will likely continue so for some little time, as speculators who were large holders have been unloading freely, and filled up outside buyers.

SYRUP.

There has been little or no life in the syrup markets, owing to the continued slow demand from wholesale buyers, on account of the fact that the stock is pretty much held in two hands, who have been filling the wants of the trade to a great extent, and as refiners have shut down their works, the stock has not increased much in their hands ; in consequence the feeling has been steady, and prices are unchanged at 3⅞c. to 4c. at the factory, and 4½c. to 4⅝c. in small lots from jobbers.

MOLASSES.

In the market for molasses there has been a weak feeling, and Barbadoes has declined to 47½c. owing to the weak advices from the Islands, and the fact that the second run of molasses could be laid down to-day at between 46c. to 47c. The demand, however, has been slow, and the market has ruled quiet with little business doing at present.

FRUIT.

There has been a quiet tone to the fruit market since our last, the demand having fallen off considerably, which was fully expected by most dealers, as August is generally a quiet month and the volume of business has been small. The receipts of apples have been larger, for which the demand has not been so good and prices have declined to $1.50 to $2 per barrel. Oranges have ruled steady at $5 to $5.50 per box, and lemons are unchanged at $4.25 to $4.50 per box. Bananas have been abundant and moving slow at 75c. to $1.25 per bunch. In small fruit a fair volume of business has been transacted at steady prices.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The tone of the tea market has been strong owing to the continued strong advices from abroad, and buyers who are anxious to have orders filled have been advancing limits. The demand is principally for low grade Japans, which are scarce on spot and few consignments are on the way out. Buyers are picking up all the tea offered at 16c. to 18c. The market on the whole has been fairly active under a good demand and a number of small invoices have changed hands, and the indications are that an active business will be done later on.

HARD WORK.

Nothing conduces more to a man's happiness than hard and persistent work, provided it be of the kind suited to his capabilities and tastes. It is natural to man to work. Every healthy, well-constituted person delights in activity, and even if his circumstances are such that he need not labor for subsistence he will still be found just as busily engaged in something that his hand finds to do as though working for daily bread. Every faculty with which man is endowed bespeaks exercise and work. Some-persons have a notion that it is contrary to the original design of their Maker that man should labor and that the necessity for it has only been imposed as the result of disobedience ; but we will state advisedly that we believe there is nothing to be found in Scripture or elsewhere to support such an idea ; indeed everything tends to an opposite conclusion. Viewing man's mental and physical nature, if anything is evident, it is the fact that he was designed to be a reasoning and a working being. His brain was given him to plan and his hand to execute. Every part of the human fabric was designed for exercise, activity and endurance, and it would be more reasonable to imagine a machine of human contrivance constructed to stand still and finally to rust and fall to pieces than to suppose that man was made to subsist on the earth and do nothing.

The right view on this subject is desirable, because the man who sees clearly, no longer views labor as a hard necessity, but as a part of his nature, as much as eating and drinking ; a sign of health, and like every other form of healthy life, a source of pleasure. There is another reflection which abundantly strengthens this view : It is that there is no more fruitful source of evil than indolence. The truly unhappy man is he who has nothing and can suggest nothing whatever to do, and to prove that man's true nature is to be busy, a person in such a case will speedily do something useless or positively wrong rather than continue long in a state of total inactivity. On the other hand, no man is thoroughly unhappy who is at work, Work is the only dissipation in which one may innocently indulge by which to drive away care, and most persons who have tried it will say that it is the most effectual.

We have said that man is endowed with the brain to plan and the hand to work. These organs were designed to act in concert, the one with the other, and the exercise of both is necessary to constitute the really industrious man. It is not only necessary that he should work hard, but intelligently, and it is only by laboring in this way that his work is crowned with success.

A man can begin life with no better inheritance than a capacity for hard work. He may be poor, but work is the best remedy for poverty, and it is one of the best safeguards against all manner of evil. The young man in the store whose services are most valuable is he who works hard. It is true that some lads are brighter than others, but so much depends on the exercise of the faculties, and provided one only works and thinks at the same time one need never fear being set down as deficient in ability.

No one except the few brought up with the traditional silver spoon can expect to gain anything in this world without industry, and even they must work hard in many ways to qualify themselves for their position, or else be set down as a disgrace to the society in which they move. Not only is every substantial outside advantage obtained in this way, but no valuable inner qualification is to be reached without it. If a man desires wealth and a respectable position he must work for it, and if he would make himself a good man of business, a good judge of goods, a shrewd buyer, or if he would gain any kind of knowledge he must work for it also. No amount of proficiency in anything is inherited by nature, but it has to be purchased by much painstaking and the exercise of much self-denial. If we were asked what, as a purchasing power, will buy a man the greatest number of benefits, we would name labour and not money, for though money will buy outside and material good, the benefits of those inner qualifications whereby a man increases his usefulness in the community are without money and without price.

The advantages of hard work are above all to be commended to the young. They have the working power of a long life to expend, and, by proper use, they may derive from it the largest reward. There is no young man, however poor and inauspicious his surroundings, who may not expect a happy future, if he will only make up his mind to take advantage of every opportunity, shun every temptation to evil, and above all, work hard.—[American Grocer.

to China, took with them the dried leaves and also some cuttings of an indigenous shrub, which was said to have the power of correcting any injurious properties in the brackish water they might meet with on the way. The decoction thus made pleased the missionaries so well that they continued, as a matter of taste, to drink it after they had reached China, and introduced it to their converts. They also set about planting the precious shrub, and, although it did not thrive so well in China as in its native Assam, becoming smaller both in stem and leaf, it was so well liked that it soon formed the foundation of the favorite beverage of all China. Thence it was brought to Europe, to be drunk and desired by Englishmen of every degree. And it is only of late years that Assam tea has come into the European market, to be looked upon rather suspiciously as the rival of its own degenerated Chinese daughter.

TO THE MERCHANTS OF CANADA.

The following very able letter is written by a general merchant at International Bridge, Ont., to be read to the merchants of Canada at the Convention in Hamilton next week :—

GENTLEMEN,—Realizing as I do the importance of the subjects proposed for discussion at this Convention, I have presumed to offer a few suggestions on these subjects for the consideration of this assemblage.

I should premise at the outset that wholesale and retail merchants are mutually dependent upon each other for support in business, and that any movement for the advantage of either must be made mutually beneficial to insure its success. To this end, and with this object in view, I presume this "Merchants' Convention" has been called, and the vitally important questions mentioned in the invitation circular have been propounded.

Having assumed these premises, I submit the following thoughts as being possibly helpful toward a basis of common understanding between wholesaler and retailer.

The Satisfactory Disposal of Bankrupt Stocks is a difficult problem to solve, inasmuch as their disposal in any form necessarily conflicts with existing trade in the locality where they are disposed of.

For instance, if a stock is sold at a very low figure, as is frequently the case, the purchaser will be more than likely to slaughter the goods, either at the place of purchase or at other points where he may prefer to sell them. In either case, the injury to legitimate trade is obvious, and is just in proportion to the amount of stock and the rate of purchase.

Neither is the evil in any degree modified, by the scattering of such stocks over the country promiscuously through peddlers or packmen. That is simply spreading the poison a little thinner over a larger area.

Again, if these stocks are consigned and confined to central points, as Toronto, Hamilton, London, etc., to be auctioned off at retail, the same injustice faces us, for the immediate effects would be necessarily injurious to city trade.

Being confronted with these objections on all sides, I can see only one way of disposing of bankrupt stocks satisfactorily, or rather justly and equitably to all parties.

As the principal creditors of an estate are generally wholesale dealers, I would suggest that they buy in these stocks, and resell them in the ordinary way with other goods through travellers, thus keeping the goods out of the hands of cheap jacks, and placing any plums there might be in the way of regular trade. And who is so justly entitled to share in these plums as the honest-going tradesmen, who has had to bear the reckless and unprincipled competition which so generally precedes bankruptcies? And if this scheme is practicable, what a wholesome effect it must necessarily have upon wholesale dealers? How cautiously would they open or extend accounts? How they would measure every retail merchant as carefully as possible! How many mercantile aspirants who now obtain credit readily, only to prey like vultures upon legitimate trade, would be rejected as unworthy alike of confidence and credit? For what firm or traveller would care to sell their goods twice over? And further by thus removing largely the incentives to and causes of bankruptcies, and so reducing their number, this system would tend to minimize the evils of unjust compromises.

It will be seen by the foregoing that I hold the creditors almost entirely responsible for these, believing, as I do, that compromises are largely the outcome of over-competition among the wholesale trade, just as bankruptcies are the fruit of the same evil among retailers. Granting that healthy competition is essential to the proper development of trade, both wholesale and retail, the present indications are that competition has grown so keen and unprincipled as to exceed its usefulness, and become the bane of business. This is seen in the retail trade, when merchants are loth to press dilatory customers for their accounts from fear of appearing harsher or more severe than their competitors, and so losing trade. Excessive competition also produces long and forward dating.

It is seen among wholesalers, when merchants who have slaughtered goods, and given credit recklessly (to the incalculable injury of their fellow tradesmen), get extension after extension, and renewals galore, until they are advised by their creditors to assign ; and effect compromises at twenty-five, fifty, sixty or possibly, but not probably at seventy-five cents on the dollar, and are then supplied with goods to go on again, and repeat the same story on a larger scale ; while the square-dealing men, who ask fair profits to live by, and who give credit cautiously, and strive to meet all obligations promptly, are too often outwinded in the handicap, and wound up, and closed up box and dice by their conscientious creditors, because their custom, and their failure alike, are too small to be worth renewing.

How oblivious the wholesale trade often appears to the fact that, the business of the country which must be done by someone, can be done by honest pay-as-you-go men, and will be done by these, if properly encouraged and protected by their natural allies, the wholesale dealers. And how great would be the benefit to the latter, from such a desirable condition of trade, those who are most deeply interested can best surmise.

Far be it from my purpose to assume that compromises are never justifiable. I have reference in the above to the unjust compromises only.

I rejoice to know, that this present Convention is in itself the most conclusive evidence of the most honest desire on the part of wholesalers, to pave the way for better relations between themselves and retailers, and to modify as far as possible the existing evils of trade ; and I trust that the result of these efforts, will be an appreciable benefit to all concerned.

On the question of insurance, I can only say that any honest merchant, will scarcely fail to see that his first duty to his creditors requires the careful insurance of his stock, for at least the average amount of his indebtedness, thus securing them against total loss in case of fire, and so placing himself in a position to resume business. Any man who is unwilling to give his creditors this assurance of good faith on his part, is unworthy of their confidence, and should be forthwith refused credit.

In committing these few scattered thoughts to paper, I do not presume to be an infallible judge of these subjects ; neither do I assume that I have in any wise exhausted them.

My chief aim has been, so to express these ideas, as to induce others to follow them up with criticisms and with better and more fully developed views upon these vital questions.

If I have achieved my object, and if by this means a satisfactory solution of our mutual grievances is arrived at ; I shall feel that the time and thought I have bestowed upon the matter have not been misdirected.

Faithfully yours,

JOHN T. JAMES.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-knowr brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

SHOW-WINDOW DRESSING.

In a review of a work on the foregoing subject, the New England Grocer remarks:

"There is as marked a distinction in character between the styles of shop window displays and decorations of the English and those of the French, as there is in national traits between the two peoples. Some English displays are very handsome, especially those seen in the great shopping thoroughfares of London, Liverpool and Manchester. The characteristic British tendency to emphasize the idea of massiveness and grandeur, however, too often produces the oppressive effect upon the mind of bulkiness.

"Paris owes no little of her favor and prosperity to the exercise of artistic taste, which amounts almost to an instinct among the French in the decoration of the windows of her incomparable magazines.

"'When the proprietor of a grand establishment wishes to attract the public to inspect his wares,' said a Boston window dresser lately, he doesn't rudely fling them in the face and eyes of the populace in a bulk and then leave the goods to speak for themselves. His plate glass front will most likely have a good part of its space taken up with a representation in tableau. Incidentally, as it were, but none the less effectually, he achieves his real purpose. His store becomes the talk of the town.'

"'Window dressing as a regular and exclusive employment,' continued the dresser, 'is not followed by many Americans, and the few who have devoted themselves to it as a profession have only taken up the business of late years. In Philadelphia, John Wanamaker is said to give employment to 15 men, whose sole duty it is to see to it that the windows of his great emporium are always kept attractive. There are quite a number of professional window-dressers in New York; only a few in Boston. There are men and women to be found almost everywhere and in large numbers who are equal to the task of accomplishing a tasteful and attractive display with the articles of merchandise dealt in at the places where they are employed. But a real professional dresser is one who is not cramped in the exercise of his talent, and who is expected to turn his head with equal skill to the construction of an obelisk of tomato cans resting on a base of sardine boxes, or a miniature lake in which silver shotted trout are darting about, with moss covered banks, pebbly bottom and a tiny torrent of tumbling water, or a game and poultry show in a butcher's stall at Thanksgiving or Christmas time, or a display for a grand 'opening' in a large dry goods or clothing establishment.'"

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

A special meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held last Friday night in Shaftesbury Hall. President John Berwick occupied the chair. There were present Messrs. J. F. Thackray, D. W. Clark, F. S. Roberts, W. S. Williamson, D. W. McCulloch, J. G. Gibson, John Western, William Binnie, Arthur Saunders, William Mara, R. Mills, W. F. Britton, and Frank Britton.

The Secretary made a few remarks on the tobacco question and reported that he had written to the soda water manufacturers in the city regarding the sale of their products to consumers direct. Only one of them, Mr. Pearson, had favored him with a reply. This gentleman expressed himself strongly in favor of selling through the retail trade only. He had written a second note to the others and all answered to this but one; Burns & Armstrong, 381 Dundas Street. The majority were willing to sell through the retail trade exclusively, but some said that the retailers would not buy from them and that therefore they had to sell direct to consumers. The Association, however, did not agree with the latter, but contended that if there were any demands for these goods the retailers would keep them and the Secretary was instructed to write them to that effect.

A long and interesting discussion took place on the selling of goods that are not strictly perishable to consumers by produce and provision merchants. It was reported that Mr. Thompson, of Church Street, had done so, and the Secretary was instructed to get Mr. Thompson's explanation. The Secretary was instructed to notify commission merchants that if it were shown that they had sold non-perishable goods to private families, the retail trade would be notified of the fact. A similar letter was ordered to be sent to a local brush manufacturer.

The prize waggon question was settled by a motion of D. W. Clarke, by which it was decided that the first prize should be $30 and the second $15.

A letter was read from Mr. Louis Docringer, Brantford, regarding a delinquent debtor, whose name the members made a note of.

An invitation was received from the Hamilton Board of Trade inviting the Association to attend the Merchants' Convention. All the members spoke strongly in favor of sending a deputation, and it was unanimously decided that President Berwick, Secretary Thackray and Messrs. Mara and Mills should go at the expense of the Association. Nearly all the other members present expressed their intention of being present during part of the convention.

Mr. Thackray gave notice that he would move, at the next meeting, to amend one of the by-laws, to make it read, that when a firm in which two or more partners joined the Association it should be represented by the senior member.

TRADE CONGRESS.

THE FIRST ONTARIO MERCHANTS' CONVENTION.

BUSINESS MEN PRESENT FROM ALL PARTS OF THE PROVINCE.

Questions of Vital Importance to the Trade discussed—Report of the Proceedings for the First Two Days.

The first convention of the merchants of Ontario which has been looked forward to and talked so much about for some weeks past, is now in progress in Hamilton. About 300 of the representative business men from all parts of the Province are in attendance and the gathering is a success in every particular. Papers on important subjects are being read and very interesting and intelligent discussions are in progress. The editor of THE GROCER has attended conventions of all kinds in Canada and the United States, but never before did he see a meeting conducted in such an orderly manner. This is due largely to the tact and energy of the chairman, Mr. John Knox, who is ably assisted by Mr. George E. Bristol, as vice-chairman. The arrangements for the meeting and the reception of the delegates could not have been better.

Toronto should take a hint from Hamilton in the arrangements for the press representatives. In Toronto they are too often allowed to forage for themselves, no attempt being made to assist them to get correct reports. In Hamilton, the Chairman, Vice-Chairman and members of the Committee see that they want for nothing. Want of space prevents our giving more than a partial report of this week's proceedings up to the time of going to press, but complete reports will be given next week together with a list of those present. In another portion of the paper we present a few engravings of leading houses in Hamilton from the daily Spectator's handsome and attractive Carnival number, kindly lent to us. We hope to give a few additional illustrations next week.

MR. G. E. BRISTOL, Originator of Merchants' Convention.

A preliminary meeting of the Convention was held on Monday at the Court House at noon for the purpose of arranging a programme. There was quite a large attendance, and in a very short time the work was completed. In opening the meeting—

Mr. John Knox, the chairman, explained that the question of the management of bankrupt stocks occupied a very important place in the minds of the retailers. The committee having charge of the matter had come to the conclusion that the subjects of bankrupt stocks, unjust compromises, the credit system, and adequate profits would form a group of subjects, and that they should be reported upon to the Convention. They would like the commercial travellers to tell just how they found in their travels that the retailers felt on these questions. The discussion on the pedlar nuisance was a matter which the country visitors would be chiefly interested in, and it was to be hoped they would take a leading part in it.

It was expected that there would be a deputation present from the Grocers' Association of Toronto, to address the convention. The committee having charge of the arrangements for the convention had drawn the plans carefully. They had prepared measurements and specifications for a new and untried ship. Her development and size could be conceived from the plans which had been laid out. It must be admitted that the craft looked well and that the prospects for the convention were promising. County after county had been heard from, as they say in the general elections, and many merchats had informed the committee that they were coming. Many more subjects had been suggested than were embraced in the programme. The committee would do all they could to make the retail merchants feel that this was their meeting. This convention was not exclusively for the wholesale men. It was not intended that the attention of the meeting should be monopolized by Hamilton men. The object of the gathering was not a selfish one. Those who had promoted the convention were citizens of no mean city and no mean land. They desired to obtain larger markets for this city and a greater share of trade. This would be a benefit to all. He looked to the commercial travellers, who would be indirectly benefitted, to aid the movement. They must endeavour to get the retailers to attend and take part in the meetings. This gathering would facilitate and help the work of the travellers. It was not only their duty as employes to aid in making the meeting a success, but it was to their own interest to see that every customer attended. They must not let them stay out late at night and lie in bed till one o'clock the next day. (Laughter.) They must see that every merchant who visits the city attends every meeting. He had heard the complaint already made that Toronto and Montreal travellers were already taking advantage of this opportunity to invade the city. He reminded Hamilton travellers that it was their duty to work in influencing trade to Hamilton houses. During the convention it was proposed to adopt parliamentary rules of procedure. In concluding he trusted that the result of the meeting would greatly benefit trade in Ontario. (Applause.)

The official programme was then adopted as follows :—

After deciding to change the place of meeting to the Opera House the Convention adjourned.

On resuming on Tuesday morning, over 200 merchants were present. Among them were Messrs. J. F. Thackray and R. Mills, of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, who were warmly welcomed by the committee and others present. Mr. John Knox took the chair and delivered his opening address as follows :—

In opening this the first Convention of the Retail Merchants of Ontario in this picturesque city and during the week of Hamilton's Summer Carnival, I confess that the scope of the subjects to be discussed, and the causes which have led to the present position of the distributing and retail trade, are so complex and varied that to an inexperienced public speaker like myself, I have had difficulty in determining what thoughts to discard and what and how others ought to be placed before you. I am not here as the mouth-piece of a board of directors like a bank president or general manager, or cashier of a mortgage or insurance society, all of whom have opportunities of training themselves from year to year to note the changing aspect of affairs, when addressing their stockholders, and who necessarily have broader standpoints from which they can view the business horizon; nor am I here as a wholesale dry goods merchant to tell you what that important business would wish you to do.

MR. JOHN KNOX.

The selection of subjects for discussion has been made from letters and correspondence with prominent retail merchants over Ontario and the merchants of Hamilton unite in hoping that while this Convention has been organized by them it will be utilized as it is intended to be—to afford the retail merchants of this the "Banner Province" of Canada an opportunity to discuss the present evils which have unconsiously crept into the trade.

A well conducted mutual discussion and a frank statement of the iritations in business will disseminate useful knowledge and I trust lead to the reform of some trade abuses, and should you deem it wise to form an association which would the decisions of this Convention, legislation might be influenced in the interest of business men, reasonable freight rates might be secured, equitable insurance rates and settlements might be arranged, and the credit business, which is at the root of most of our troubles and irritations, now be restricted and gradually curtailed and the standard of business men and business methods improved.

It has been remarked by a shrewd observer that retailers as a class in Canada have more sympathy and are on closer terms of intimacy and good fellowship with their city brethren than in any other British colony. Guided many times by his friendly advice and assisted out of his increasing financial strength, the country merchants have not only been strengthened but inspired to greater achievements in the business world. I hope that our deliberations now may be such as will conduce to the protection of the interests of retail and wholesaler alike, and mark me, the successful retailers by unity of action can influence the loose and long credits which excessive competition has produced of late years in Ontario.

I have been brought into contact with not a few retailers

WHO WERE IN BUSINESS

before the country was opened up and settled; before the era of railways, when freight was teamed or carted and profits ample, who have labored along with varying success, who have lived economically, have possessed the public spirit needed to build up and develop a new country—genial, big-hearted and liberal in their actions and ideas—but whose fortunes from various causes after 20, 30 or 40 years' constant labor amounts to the store and dwelling they occupy and a margin of $1,000, $2,000 or $3,000 in their stock and book debts. These men ought to have made a fortune when skill was less needed, when customers were less critical about the style and quality of their goods and profits were ample.

Not only this, but the limited quantity of produce offered enabled them to dispose of it at a profit or without loss, owing to the undeveloped nature of the country and the home consumption, most of it being retailed over the same counter. What causes have and the average honest and industrious storekeeper in Ontario? Some have lost through endorsations, some through the depreciation of their real estate. Many lately, almost annually now, through foolish speculations in produce or paying more than the market value to attract trade. Many through overloading themselves with stock, tempted by the snare of forward dating in a falling market, involving loss of interest on renewal of notes. Many through the irritation caused by the sale of bankrupt stocks in a limited market, where a merchant has either failed or effected an unjust compromise, to meet which the honest traders have had to make considerable sacrifices of their own stocks, at inadequate profits, to save themselves from losing the grip on their trade or bankruptcy and all this in its turn has taken the pluck and enterprise out of them in their later days. The development of the country by railways have killed some towns as distributing points, while the newer and better locations have attracted the trade owing to the establishment of younger, better educated and better trained business men.

The change in business conditions has not been confined to Canada or Ontario.

IT IS WORLD WIDE

and may be said to have commenced in 1873 and is largely consequent upon the increased control which man, by the aid of labor-saving machinery, steam and electricity, has attained over the forces of nature, and which inventions have practically annihilated space, and have vitally affected not only the methods of business, but the interests and pursuits of business men making more of them speciallists and parts of a great machine.

Through the aid of labor saving machinery, more expeditious modes of transit and communication, business is better organized and methods improved.

Measured by quantity in ratio to a given amount of labor we far exceed what it was possible to accomplish twenty or thirty years ago. It is impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy in time and labor has been accomplished in the world's great work of production or manufacture and distribution, but it is claimed by an American that the minimum gain in the displacement of labor by the improved methods of manufacture in some of the leading industries of the United States is at least one-third, while other authorities on this subject make the average much higher.

Let us, however, confine our observation and turn back again to Canada. Failures increased steadily from 1873 to 1879. In the latter year there was no doubt an unusual crop by the number of shaky traders who took advantage of the Bankruptcy Act before its appeal. A lull then took place temporarily. Every merchant was immediately benefitted in proportion to the stock he carried by the adoption of the present Protective Policy and the increased value of his assets. Since then the until in 1887 they touched 693 with liabilities of $5,357,375. In exact proportion to the number of failures is the number of bankrupt stocks, the disposal of which you propose to discuss to-day and this seems to have had more attention from merchants than any other subject, judging from the correspondence received during the past two months.

What is the cause of this increase in failures and consequently in the number of bankrupt stocks lately. My opinion is that it is largely, principally, owing to the reduction in values of all commodities—the longer and more lax system of credits which has lately prevailed and generally a want of perception by some merchants of the changed business conditions.

The migration to the North West of the better class of farmers since 1880 has depopulated many districts and localtiies has reduced the market value of farm lands and village property, has temporarily and consequently has curtailed the amount of our trading. I admit a national increase and also an increase from immigration in our population but the former are still young and non producing and the latter have not compensated for the depopulation.

To add to the intensity of these things we have experienced a series of poor harvests and lower values, not only for the classes of merchandise we produce or import and consume, but also in those articles we export, such as lumber, grains, cattle, wool and dairy products and which enrich and increase the spending power of our farming and outdoor laboring population. These poor harvests and lower values have reduced the volume of the country's business and of its spending power and changed the conditions of business.

While falling markets and lower prices mean more and better food for the poor and a larger share of the comforts of existence yet for the merchant, whether wholesale or retail, where the monetary value of goods is reduced, and if the expenses of management and selling continue the same the net profits are lessened and consequently a continued reduction of values means a diminished earning power for the merchant or distributor.

THE VOLUME OF SALES IS LOWERED

This long and acute depression—it can scarcely be called a crisis—has demanded all the skill and energy possessed by merchants to save themselves from loss and ruin and caused prudent merchants to reflect and no doubt has been one factor which has led up to this convention. It has developed amongst the importers much skill and enterprise in finding new sources of direct supply and which as markets were little known to Canadian merchants ten years ago.

The greatest hindrance to sound business in Ontario is the credit system. Credit is too cheap. There is too much banking capital seeking profitable investments, and the lower range of values in merchandize enables to be carried on with less bank money in the hands of merchant distributors. Banks lately competed amongst themselves for deposits and discounts and even to-day depositors in Hamilton only get 4 per cent, while in Dundas or Jarvis they get 4 per cent. Money is often being offered to borrowers in this country with collaterals, tempting some to enter into financial transactions which otherwise would never be entertained and which result in loss or bankruptcy to borrowers. Borrowers should seek the lender and not the lender the borrower. This is an old rule or practice and a sound one. The reverse makes credit too cheap and leads to overtrading and laxity in credits.

It may seem impudence on my part to some bankers, but I believe that did the same mutual confidence exist here as did when in Scotland I served my apprenticeship to a banker and writer there—regarding minimum rates of discount and deposits and the same discrimination in rates on big paper, the banks themselves would induce merchants to buy and sell on 30 and 60 day terms if this class of paper were discounted at a lower rate. There is not the same risk in a note at one or two months as there is at four months, yet the rates are alike. The merchant from the village no longer goes to the city soliciting credit based upon a full statement of his financial position. An immense selected from the most energectic and competent men in the country, have invaded every town and hamlet in Ontario through the instrumentality of and competition. Amongst the travellers prices have been reduced to the minimum of a living profit—below it on some known lines—dating forward has become extremely common, too large discounts have been allowed and many merchants have been induced to purchase much larger stocks than business prudence would sanction, and looseness has been permitted in granting credits. We cannot blame the travellers personally, they are paid ; it is their business to make sales. Some of our best and most esteemed retail merchants are as much to blame for this long credit as the wholesale houses or commercial travellers. In their eagerness to gain an advantage and drive a close bargain they squeeze better dates, forgetting that they are thereby when he meets as keen a merchant though not so well rated, who, before he will place his order or look at the goods offered, badgers the traveller until he concedes the same terms as a larger buyer has got, or at least promises to submit the order to the house without comment or remark—and you all know how unpleasant it is to have trouble and irritation between the house and an esteemed employee or customer.

HAMPERING THE SALESMAN

Gentlemen, you will gather that in my opinion the remedy for the irrtation presently caused by the disposal of bankrupt stocks, unjust compromises, and inadequate profits, would be a gradual, persistent and united, action on the part of both whole salers and retailers alike, to curtail our credit system so as to cause the least amount of financial disaster possible.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

Mayor Doran, on coming forward, said that he was very proud to have the opportunity to welcome the merchants of Ontario to the ambitious city. He was pleased that they would discuss mercantile questions, and trusted that they would be enabled to adopt a trade policy which would be beneficial to the country. He was pleased to see so many of the merchants of Ontario present for the purpose of discussing trade questions. On behalf of the corporation of Hamilton, of which he had the honor to be head, he welcomed them to the ambitious city, and he would remind them that the entire population—and the people of Hamilton who were noted for their hospitality—welcomed them also. He would remind them that the traders of a country were its pioneers, and that their experiences, told in meetings of this kind, could not but prove beneficial to themselves and the country at large. The proud title, ambitious city, given to Hamilton, was largely the result of the energy, intelligence, ability and fair business methods pursued by the wholesale merchants within its borders. They were men in whom confidence could readily be placed ; men who pushed business in a legitimate manner. Of the wholesale merchants of Hamilton he could tell them that they would find them a lot of jolly good fellows, not actuated by selfish motives, but honestly desirous of benefitting the trade of their province and country. He closed by saying that as one interested in trade, he would endeavor to hear as much of the discussions as possible, as he liked to hear sound business principles advocated, and he trusted something would be done to curtail the unlimited credit which was too much indulged in by many persons.

President Bruce, of the Hamilton Board of Trade, next addressed the meeting. He so thoroughly coincided in Chairman Knox's address that he felt he had not much to say. They would, he felt sure, thoroughly understand that even corporate bodies were subordinate here to that fine old reformer, John Knox, who had been resuscitated and presided over their meeting to-day. (Laughter.)

THE CONVENTION AT WORK.

Chairman Knox then announced that the Hamilton committee's work was done, and the meeting was now in the hands of their visitors.

On motion of Messrs. Carling, of Exeter, and McKenzie, of Chippewa, Mr. Knox was LUCAS, PARK & CO.

In the van of the grocery trade of Hamilton stands the firm of Lucas, Park & Co., whose magnificent solid stone premises are situated at 59 Macnab street north, a central and convenient location. The premises are arranged in such a manner as enables the firm to handle enormous quantities of groceries with the utmost promptitude. The warerooms are spacious, the cellarage vast, and the business offices are fitted up in excellent style.

The business was founded in 1859 by G. J. Forster & Co., which firm carried it on for eleven years at 55 and 57 King street west. Mr. Forster died in 1870, and was succeeded by R. A. Lucas and J. H. Park, both of whom had long been connected with the business. These gentlemen successfully carried on the business under the firm name of R. A. Lucas & Co. until January, 1881, when the rapid growth of the business made it necessary to take in additional partners. R. Tasker Steele and G. E. Bristol were admitted as members of the firm. The admission of these gentlemen added strength to the already prosperous firm, and the business continued to increase with such rapidity that, in 1882, the spacious premises on King street were quite inadequate to the needs of the trade that had been built up by the firm. Casting about for a good site for much more extensive premises, Lucas, Park & Co. decided upon the Macnab street location, upon which their imposing stone edifice now stands. Here was erected a building of such dimensions, and with such arrangements as are necessary to the enormous business now being done by this popular and energetic firm of grocers.

In addition to their large staff of assistants in their Hamilton house, Lucas, Park & Co. maintain a special staff in Winnipeg, who control the business of the new provinces. The Northwest business has acquired very large proportions, a fact that is highly creditable to the Hamilton firm, for the reason that the retail merthants of the Northwest are keen buyers, sharp business men, and have every wholesale city in Canada to choose from. Notwithstanding this the merchants of Manitoba and the Northwest choose to buy the bulk of their groceries in Hamilton, and a very large proportion of that bulk from the firm of Lucas, Park & Co.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

(OF LONDON), CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association,

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools : they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application chosen chairman of the convention, and he briefly expressed his thanks for the honor done.

BANKRUPT STOCKS.

Mr. Weismiller, of Kippen, read a very able and comprehensive paper on this subject, and, after sketching the well known evils which arose from the indiscriminate slaughter of bankrupt stocks, said their deliberations would be barren of results unless they sought for and applied a remedy. They must not treat the symptoms as the disease, but rather seek for the causes and eradicate them. He compared the present method of dealing with bankrupt stocks as "the internal cancer of trade," and declared that external applications would not cure the disease. Among the causes he enumerated as leading to bankruptcy were incompetency, want of care, extravagance, lack of capital, and these should be removed as far as possible. His opinions might not be endorsed by all, but they were his own, and he believed that one chief cause of bankruptcy was the system of commercial travellers. In speaking as he did, it was the system, and not the travellers themselves, that he was attacking, and the effect of the present system he felt was to injure trade immensely. He described the modus operandi by which the traveller succeeded in selling a bill of goods to a retailer, of whose resources the house knew practically nothing, and when this "bill of goods" was repeated by many travellers thinking that the buyer was good for one bill anyway, the result was as apparent as disastrous.

The greatest evil of bankrupt stocks, however, was the crippling effect they had on those businesses the owners of which endeavoured and did pay 100 cents on the dollar. One method of remedying this was the better acquaintance of the wholesaler and retailer, and if the former took more pains to know his man there would be fewer bankrupt stocks slaughtered, and consequently better trade for honest merchants. While credit had its proper uses, its abuse was frequent and a great cause of trade disturbance. Credit was undoubtedly too cheap, and incompetent men, over-conceited men, were enabled to overstock in times of stagnation by that evil known as dating ahead. He, therefore, concluded that any system which tended to cause further removal from the cash system of doing business was not to be tolerated. Too many men were in business through this abuse of credit, and as professional men raised the standard of qualification in order to keep down the numbers, as merchants, wholesale and retail, they should unite in demanding a better and higher credit standing from those who would transact the country's business. After touching on unjust compromises, he summed up the observations he had made in terse sentences : (1.) The system of commercial travellers. It was not calculated to work as it did. It was like the N.P.—not intended to foster combines, but it turns out they have become a part of it. A traveller often thought he could see a chance for payment of one bill, but when many such travellers saw as he did the evil was done and thus bankrupt stocks multiplied. (2.) The wholesaler had not the same chance to know his customer and could only have a report at second hand, and not at all like that of personal contact. (3.) The credit system. Good in its place, this credit system was responsible for much of the evil. It gave incompetent men a chance to get stocks and to start out on a "5 per cent. advance on cash" basis. (Laughter.) Unfortunately the credit system had recently been extended, instead of contracted, and the result was the longer credit the wholesaler gave the longer the retailer was forced to give. Incompetent men cannot be prevented from entering into business, but men without resources could be shut out and the wholesalers' duty was to do so. (4.) Travellers should not urge weak men to over-buy, the wholesaler ought to know his customer, the stocks of bankrupts should not be sacrificed, and men who habitually cut below living rates should be refused credit. During the delivery of his paper, Mr. Weismiller was frequently applauded.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

On motion of Adam Ballentine, Mr. Bristol was unanimously elected vice-chairman, several gentlemen eulogizing his eminent fitness for the position, and recognizing his services to the convention.

In putting the motion, too, the chairman took occasion to say that Mr. Bristol had spent more time and thought in making the convention a success than any other man, and he heartily concurred in the selection made.

C. R. Smith was elected secretary of the convention on the recommendation of the chairman.

PROFITS OF A RETAIL BUSINESS.

In order to adjust prices so as to secure a good average profit, grocers should post themselves as to the relative amount of one class of goods sold to another. If one-fourth of the total sales is made up of sugar, it will require a heavier profit on all other goods than if the proportion was one-fifth, or one-sixth. Every dealer should know just what proportion of his sales is of sugar, flour, butter and provisions, all of which, as a rule, pay the smallest percentage of profit. A thorough master of the grocery business can make flour and butter pay good profits. Thousands of dealers fail to get anything more than a nominal margin out of these two articles, simply because—

First—They are not first-class judges of the article.

Second—They are not shrewd buyers.

Third—Because they fail to study the tastes, habits and style of living of their patrons.

Fourth—Because they do not count, measure, weigh or gauge everything they buy.

If a grocer secures a 12½@15 per cent. profit on flour and butter, it becomes an easy matter to make a good average profit.

To determine the quantity of staple to fancy groceries sold, take time to keep a separate account of the purchases of all leading articles. It requires time and patience to acquire a thorough knowledge of the details of any business. The merchant who does it is at once master of the situation. He will not sell citron, for instance, at a profit of 1 or 2 cents per pound. From a number of lists containing prices at which goods are sold, we learn that grocers—

First—Push the sale of proprietary articles at cost.

Second—Sugars are sold at a loss.

Third—Goods that by common consent have paid very large margins for years are sold at nominal profits.

Fourth—Poor goods are sold on small margins and advertised as the BEST.

Fifth—Provisions and flour are sold at a profit that barely pays the waste, shrinkage and cost of selling.

Sixth—Grocers do not push their own specialties into prominence.

The merchant who can anticipate the requirements of a community or create it in a demand for a line of goods not generally kept by competitors, can obtain a much larger average profit than he who is satisfied to keep only such goods as "people call for." We recognize that the make-up of communities differ, and therefore methods of doing business must vary. One succeeds where another fails. Methods that bring success in one location, fail in another. Quite as much depends upon the man as the method, but no one can make a permanent success who fails to master detail.—[American Grocer.

OF INTEREST TO DEALERS IN PAINTS.

One of the most prominent and influential men in the paint and oil trade suggests, in the New England Grocer, an era of reform with regard to clerks and salesmen in paint and oil lines. He says that clerks and salesmen are not well enough posted upon the cause and effect of certain conditions in the use and application of goods, which results in a good deal of annoyance and trouble to the houses, which might be averted were the clerks and salesmen educated up in the lines of goods which they handle. For example: Of late there has been an unusual quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, which has prevented the use of paint with good results, and paints are returned by customers, which, under ordinary circumstances, would be acceptable. If a painter puts paint upon the outside of a house during moist weather, there is very liable to be more or less moisture upon the surface which he covers. This causes blistering by reason of the vapor formed by the action of the sun upon the moisture underneath. Such weather also causes paint to run, which makes work very unsatisfactory.

In consequence of this, painters often complain of the stock. Dealers in paints and oils suffer a great disadvantage because people do not realize the difficulties they labor under in relation to water, and that paint spread during damp weather is liable to blister. Varnishes will work badly also, will pit, draw and crawl, particularly shellac varnishes, which will be most unsatisfactory when applied under the above circumstances. A person will come to his jobber and complain that paint does not dry. Perhaps he has applied it to a floor or woodwork that has not been thoroughly cleaned, he perhaps laboring under the old idea that it is easier to paint over it than it is to clean off the dirt. Paint will not dry upon any surface that has been much touched by human hands, on account of the oil imparted to it from the hands. A person paints a house and complains that the paint peels. Both coats come off, but he does not stop to consider that the first coat was undoubtedly applied before the new clapboards were thoroughly seasoned, consequently the paint having nothing to cling to, is drawn off by the new coat. A day may be ever so clear, apparently, yet the air may be filled with humidity, in which case paint is liable to blister. An improper amount of oxygen in the air will prevent paint from drying. If people were educated up to the point where they could appreciate these causes, effects and conditions, there would be less unreasonable claims and complaints, because goods are not fairly tested, which, if used under ordinary circumstances, would have proved entirely satisfactory. Jobbers therefore, during such weather as we have been having of late, prefer not to sell goods, or if complaints are made, to have them returned, because they cannot convince a man who has not scientific knowledge. Clerks and salesmen could often make these matters clear if they possessed the same knowledge.

TORONTO, August 23, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

The market for the staple lines of fruit and vegetables is firm and advancing as it becomes more apparent that prices during the coming season will be higher than those which prevailed during the past season. There is not much business being done by the packers. Jobbers bought a few strawberries and raspberries early in the season but the higher prices asked by packers prevents purchases. Wholesalers have however been buying round lots from each other. Hamilton has had a good buyer, over 2,000 having been reported to have been taken for that market within the past ten days. Prices are private but we understand that about 95c. for corn and 90c. to 95c. for tomatoes. These sales should net a very fair profit to the sellers, and it will be seen that those packers who held on to their goods instead of slaughtering a few months ago will come out very well. There is very little retail demand but the few sales reported have been at better prices. Tomatoes have sold at $1.10 and corn and peas at $1 in small lots. There is a good demand for salmon, mackerel and lobsters at unchanged prices. Notwithstanding the reports of a largely increased pack of salmon some of the packers have advanced prices explaining that the larger demand from England and Australia will take up all the surplus.

The Victoria colonist reports the pack of salmon in British Columbia to date at 376,000 cases, being 127,000 cases above the largest pack of any previous year. Of this amount the northern canneries contribute 100,000 cases, the remainder being from Fraser River. The fish are still running freely on the latter, and some canneries will pack fall salmon. It is estimated that the year's pack will reach 420,000 cases. This has all been sold at from $5.50 to $6.50, and calculating at $6 per case, makes a total value of over $2,500,000. The Fraser canneries have from ten to thirty thousand cases each. Cable advices from Bordeaux report sardine fishing as very poor, and prices for desirable grades advancing. The rise during the past month has been fully five francs on small fish.

COFFEE.

Local markets continue unchanged, but Brazils are higher. Not much business done here.

DRIED FRUITS.

Currants arriving very slowly. Ordinary stock is selling at 4½c. to 4¾c. and choice at 5¼c. in barrels and halves. Good Patras are worth 6¼c. to 6¾c. in cases and Vostizza in ½ cases 6½c. to 7c. Figs are dull; 14 oz. boxes are offered at 7½c. and large boxes of natural at 4c. Dates steady at 6½c. There is a good demand for prunes and stocks here are getting into small compass. Holders are firm at 7c. to 8½c. in cases and 4¼c. to 4½c. in hogsheads.

For Valencia and Eleme raisins the market is very firm. Valencias are firm at 7½c. to 7⅝c. for prime and there are very few obtainable; there will probably be none here when the new stock arrives a month hence. The fresh shipments of new Valencias were made from Denia this week and they will be worth about 8½c. laid down here. Elemes are sold out pretty well, the few still on hand are firmly held at 6¾c. to 7c. Sultanas are very firm and in good demand at 8c. to 9½c. for choice to extra quality; there is a good spot enquiry for round lots; the market for new fruit has opened at 30s. for fine; London cable prices 4s. higher.

GREEN FRUIT.

The trade doing at present is of the quiet nature previously reported. Wholesalers report that the demand for foreign fruit is quite moderate, although they state that fair buying orders are being received from the country. However, at the present season of the year it is not expected that there will be an active demand for foreign fruit, and dealers are therefore not disappointed. There is the average amount of business doing, and they are satisfied with this, and perhaps the movement is slightly greater than at the same time last year. At present, when domestic fruits attract the attention of consumers, foreign fruits are in little request, and both wholesalers and retailers, realizing this, are very careful in placing orders, and purchase only what they consider is immediately required. Little or no stocks are carried, and arrivals of fresh stock are by no means large. Prices continue steady and no change is this week made in values. The lemon market is a dull one. Beside the conditions noted above the weather has been rather unfavorable and this has made the sale slow. Very little stock is held, but the quality of the offerings may be considered first-class. They sell at $5.50 to $6.50 for boxes and cases. There is almost a nominal demand for oranges. A few box oranges are offered, but they are held rather high for the majority of buyers, and even the light supply finds but a quiet sale at $6 per box. The demand for bananas has been steadily getting lighter, and although they are in fair request, not nearly so many are moving as a month ago. Receipts are just about large enough to supply the trade and leave a fair quantity held in stock. Yellow are very slow, the demand existing being almost entirely for red. They are quoted at $1.25 to $1.50 per bunch. New York despatches say: "The lemon market is without change The demand is disappointingly light for the season, but holders are maintaining values steadily, claiming the margin of profit to be very small. Oranges are slow of sale, but steady in price. The market is pretty well cleared of bananas; next arrivals held at previous prices.

RICE.

Latest advices from Havana, Cuba, reporting upon rice say that, under increased stocks and a quieter demand prices have receded 7 rs. arrobe for Rangoon of current, and 7⅛ to 7¼ rs. ditto for superior classes. Patna is firmer at from 9½ rs. to 10½ rs. ditto for old, and 10¼ rs. ditto for new, which is rather scarce.

SUGAR.

The sugar market shows more strength and demand has been more active. Stocks in retailers hands are very light. So low have they become in some instances that a local paper reports that some of the retailers have been borrowing from friendly neighbors rather than buy with prospects of a declining market. The improvement in New York, however, has given more backbone to buyers and quite a few orders have been booked some of them being for fifty barrel lots of granulated. London cables, however, are not as encouraging, the market for both cane and beet being dull and weak.

In New York there has been an advance of ⅛c. all round. On the spot, yellows are firmer; old sales of dark have been made at 6¾c., but 6⅞c. to 7c. is the prevailing prices for this grade. Mediums are moving at 7¼c. to 7¾c. and brights at 8c. to 8⅜c. There is very little doing in raws, but a few small lots have sold at 6⅞c. to 7c.

Referring to the decline on sugars Willett & Hamlen in their weekly circular say:—The change has been caused by singular and unexpected conditions in Europe and here, and not by any improvement in the statistical position. It has been rather a sort of semi-panic, under the influence of which nobody dealing in refined cares to carry any sugar. This universal policy, for it is the same in Europe as here, is causing a tremendous vacuum to be formed, such an one as has probably never occurred in the history of the trade, and the problem is, as to how far th filling of it up will affect values. Several European and American refineries are closed, and the meltings are absurdly small for the season. Total stock in all the principal countries, at latest irregular dates, is 555,092 tons, against 798,355 tons at same time last year.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are scarce and firm, but the demand is duller. Molasses are firm at 45c. to 46c. in hogsheads, 47c. to 49c. in barrels, and 49c. to 50c. in halves.

TEAS.

There is a fairly good retail demand for this season of the year. The local demand for lines continues quiet. There has been a little more business in medium Japans, as some lower priced teas have come to the market and have met with a ready sale. The scarcity of low priced Japans has created a demand for low grade Young Hysons, and it is reported that good sized lines have sold at 12½c. to 14c. London markets continue the same; greens are very firm; blacks dull and neglected. New York is showing very little improvement.

PROVISIONS.

There is but little change in the market for provisions. Long clear bacon is rather weaker; case lots are selling at 8½c. to 8¾c., and half-ton lots at 8¼c. to 8½c. There is an active demand for smoked hams, and prices are very firm; stocks are very light; holders are asking 13c., and a few sales are making at 12½c. Rolls are selling at 10½c. for uncanvassed. Lard is dull and unsettled; several different brands of American are different prices. As a rule, tubs are going at 9c. to 9¼c., and pails at 9½c. to 9¾c. Canadian is worth 10c. to 11c.

The Cincinnati Prices Current says:—There is a continuance of a moderate aggregate movement of hogs in the West. The week's packing returns show a total of 135,000, the same as the preceding week, and compared with 110,000 last year, making a gain of 25,000 in this comparison, and a total increase of 935,000 since March 1—the aggregate packing this season being 4,796,000, against 3,850,000 hogs a year ago. Subsequent to this date last year to the end of October, the weekly average packing was something over 125,000. The excess over this number likely to be packed this season, for the corresponding period, will probably be

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF

A PERFECT FOOD.

This statement is made upon the results of Scientific Analyses by the best Chemists in the world.

FRANCIS WYATT, Ph.D., Analytical Chemist, New York, after giving an exhaustive analysis, says : "Here we have the whole of the elements, without a single exception, necessary for the formation of flesh, muscle and bone."

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF is not a mere meat extract, or a concentrated decoction, but simply fluid beef, containing, besides the Albumenoids and Gelatinoids, the correct proportion of those Phosphates so essential to the support of life.

fully balanced by grain in the export movement, judging from the liberal proportions of this business in the past. The current and prospective domestic consumption, at the greatly reduced prices, will compare very favorably also with last year. The trade, however, feels that there is, and will be, enough product to meet all requirements, and the power of speculative operations to set aside sustaining influences is continued, causing depression of values to a point below any previous time in the entire year. It is often said, with much apparent force of logic, that prices do not advance on demand alone, however good this feature of the situation may be. Therefore, if there be no organized or central speculative interest developed, calculated to control the situation for a time, the forces which have been so persistently brought to bear against prices of hog product this season may prevent any important recovery or substantial encouragement for those who are holders of product.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Demand on both local and foreign account is light, and although receipts are limited, there is more than enough butter here to supply it. Stocks are accumulating in retailers hands all over the Province, and present appearances indicate a weak market unless an improved shipping and export demand should arise. There are a good many lots of July and a few June make lying about which are going off-flavor. There is a pretty fair local demand for choice to fancy dairies and rolls at 16c. to 17c., but they are scarce. The general run of good dairies and best stores sell at 14c. to 15c., while mediums are going at 12c. to 13c. There is no shipping demand. Creameries are quiet and small lots are selling at 19c. to 21c.

CHEESE—Is dull. Small lots of prime full creams were bought on local account at 9¼c. to 9½c.

The Seaforth Expositor gives the following report of a sale by Mr. Hannah: Mr. John Hannah, of the Seaforth, Londesboro' and Kirkton creameries, shipped from this station on Friday last a carload of creamery butter to Edinburgh. There were 18,400 pounds of butter and some cheese which Mr. Hannah had purchased from the Blake factory to ship with the butter. The butter was sold for 21 cents per pound and will realize the patrons 17 cents per pound. This, when home-made butter is selling at 13 cents, should rejoice the hearts of the creamery patrons. The great wonder is that any person will make butter themselves when they can make so much more on it by having it made at the creamery and save all the labor. This one shipment will distribute among the patrons of the factory the snug sum of $3,128. We venture to say that they will not clear that much from their wheat crop.

SALT.

A fair amount of business is doing. To-day two cars Canadian dairy sold at $1.10 on the track, and two cars coarse at 65c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Plenty are coming forward for the demand, which is quite active. Prices are 35c. to 50c. per basket, and $2 to $2.50 per barrel.

BEANS—Prices of new crop are unsettled as yet. Dealers are selling small lots on spot at $1.75 to $1.90, and outside holders are asking all the way from $1.75 to $2.20.

DRIED APPLES—No fresh business is reorted and values are nominal. Most of the local stock is in the hands of two or three dealers who are not inclined to sell, but are prepared to buy at 5½c. to 6c. Evaporated have not improved in proportion to dried, for round lots are offering at 6½c. and single boxes are selling at 7c. to 8c.

EGGS—The supply is abundant, but the demand is moderate; more activity is looked for with the return of the citizens from the various resorts. The exhibition will also lead to more activity. Dealers are asking 13c. as a rule for ordinary stock in single cases, and 12½c. in lots, which are also the egg combine prices. The few dealers who have strictly fresh gathered stock are getting 13½c to 14c.

HAY AND STRAW—There is now very little old hay moving excepting on the street, and there is only a limited business doing in new as dealers are a little afraid to ship yet. Good average quality cars sold at $12 on the track. Straw has been in better demand at $7 to $8 per ton on the track, the top being for oats.

HIDES AND SKINS—There is no change to note in the market for hides. Very few lots are coming from the country, but there is a light supply from the city butchers. There is a fairly active demand for cured at 5¼c. to 5⅜c. in carlots. Green are 2¾c. to 4¾c. as to grade. Pelts and lamb skins are steady and unchanged at 50c. Calf skins are dull at 5c. to 6c.

HOPS—There is not much business doing, but still there has been more enquiry. Good 1888's are worth about 20c. to 22c.

POTATOES—The street supply of Canadians is fair, but there are none arriving on track. The supply of American is, however, abundant and the market is easy. Car lots are selling on the track at 40c. per bushel, and broken lots at 70c. to 75c. per bag.

TALLOW—Continues quiet. Dealers are buying at 5c. and selling at 5½c. to 5¾c.

WOOL—A few small consignments of fleece are coming forward and dealers are taking them at 20c. for good merchantable stock. Occasionally ½c. more is paid.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The local breadstuffs market has been fairly active on most lines, but values are somewhat unsettled. This is especially so regarding wheat, the same grades of which have varied 2c. to 3c. per bushel, though at the moment it exhibits a good deal of steadiness. For flour the demand continues light, and values are lower and weak at the decline. Extras are offered freely at equal to $4, Toronto freights, but no one seems to want them at that price. Patents are generally quoted at $4.60 to $4.90. Straight rollers are worth $4.50. Bran is dull. An occasional car is sold on the track at $10.50, and a few sales have been made at the mills in the west about $9. Wheat is steadier on Ontario grades and there appears to be a better feeling in the market than for some days. Millers are more active enquirers but they want to buy cheap, and as holders are pretty stiff in their views, the amount of business doing is not large. White wheat is held on the Northern at 97c., and on the Grand Trunk, west, at 95c. The spring wheat on the Midland is pretty well cleared out; holders are asking 98c. on the line. Manitoba grades are somewhat unsettled. No. 1 hard is worth $1.02 to arrive. No. 2 hard is held about 97c. No. 1 frosted is moving at 82c. to 83c., and a round lot would find buyers about 80c. The barley market will not open for some time. Speculative quotations are occasionally heard, but the market is purely nominal. Peas are steady. Four cars of old sold outside to-day at 60c. New are nominal with buyers at 55c. outside. Oats are dull and lower. On the call board a car sold at 31c. on the track, with the same figure bid for more. There may, however, be some dispute regarding this sale. Off the board they sold at 32c. on the track. A lot was offered on the Grand Trunk, west, at 27½c. on the track. Oatmeal is unchanged.

☞ The review of the markets published in the GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER is based upon information gained from personal application to both seller and buyer, as far as possible and quotations here given reflect, in most cases, the actual prices paid.

COAL OIL.

The market is firm and the demand good. Ordinary Canadian refined is 15c. per gallon, carbon safety, 17c.; water white home, 20c.; water white American, 25c., and photogene, 27c. At Petrolia ordinary refined is selling in carloads at 12c. to 12½c.

MONTREAL, August 22, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no improvement in business in the canned goods' market. The demand has been slow as is always the case at this season of the year, and trade has been of a small jobbing character. Tomatoes have continued strong and prices advanced to $1 to $1.10 per dozen on the prospects of a short crop and a small pack this season. Packers have sold out pretty well with the exception of one who is a large holder and is now asking $1. The pack of lobsters has been small and prices are firmly held at $6 to $6.50 per case, but the pack of salmon has been very large and latest advices say that there are 126,000 cases more put up over last year, and the indications are that prices will weaken before long as buyers generally are holding off as most have a fair supply of old stock still on hand. There has been no change in corn, prices having ruled steady at $1 to $1.75 per dozen, as to brand. Peas have been dull at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. Canned fruits of all kinds have been neglected and prices are nominally unchanged. There has been a fair demand for Armour's canned meats and business has ruled fairly active at firm prices.

SUGAR.

Owing to the continued weak advices from abroad, on raw sugar, which private cables to-day quote weak and dull with prompt, but 3d. lower at 18s. 3d., there has been a weak feeling in the market for refined sugar and granulated has made another decline of ¼c. per lb. to 8½c. at the factory, while yellows have ruled easier and fell off ⅛c. on outside prices to 6¾c to 7⅝c., as to quality at the factory. A private despatch from New York to-day quotes the market for refined more active and stronger with granulated ⅛c. higher. The demand here has been very slow and the market has ruled quiet with only a small volume of business and no improvement is looked for until jobbers clean out the bulk of the stock already on hand.

SYRUP.

There has been a weaker tone to the syrup market in sympathy with the weak sugar markets and prices are somewhat lower. The demand has been slow and the market has ruled quiet with business dull but stocks have not accumulated in refiners hands as the works have been shut down and in the absence of transactions prices are quoted nominally at 3¾c. at the factory but outside holders are jobbing out at higher prices.

MOLASSES.

The tone of the market for molasses has been weak owing to the fact that the arrivals at Quebec have been much greater than was anticipated, in consequence some large holders here became nervous and commenced cutting prices which resulted in a sharp break and recent sales of Barbadoes have been made as low as 44c. for round lots with small lots up to 47½c. A sale of 1000 puncheons is reported but we did not hear of the price. Cargo lots have been offered to arrive but buyers are holding off and do not care to bid at present. The market has been very quiet.

FRUIT.

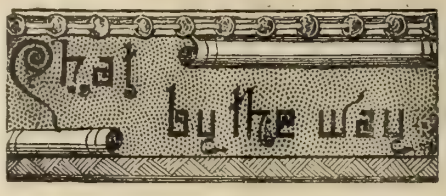
The first direct steamer the S.S. Elfrida is now loading a cargo of currants for Montreal and will sail at the end of this week, and there is also a steamer at present loading for New York which is unusually early. The crop though reported short in quantity will be good in quality and owing to the virtual loss of the French market as a customer for currants prices are expected to be moderate. The market for Valencia raisins opened at 20s. 6d. to 21s. and some shipments are now on the way to Canada. The first direct steamer to New York only took 270 boxes which is a very small shipment for the first. Sultanas have opened high at 26s. to 29s. The market on spot is almost bare of stock and only a small jobbing trade has been transacted. In green fruit, business has continued quiet on account of the limited demand and the market has been inactive and steady. Apples are abundant and offering freely at $1.50 to $2 per barrel as to quality. Oranges are unchanged at $5 to $5.50 per box, and lemons have ruled steady at $4.25 to $4.50 per box. In nuts a moderate amount of business has been done at steady priees.

TEA AND COFFEE.

Owing to the continued strong advices from abroad and New York, where prices have been steadily advancing, the tone of this market has been firm and values have been well maintained; in fact, holders in some cases have made sales at higher prices. The market on the whole has been active under a good demand for most classes of teas and a large volume of business has been transacted. There has been an active inquiry for low grade Japans, and the bulk of the stock has been bought up by western buyers at 13c. and 14c., and which included some round lots. A round lot of Japan tea was placed at 17c. The prospects are bright for an active trade in the future, as stocks generally are small here.

SUBSCRIPTION CANVASSERS.

Subscription canvassers wanted for THE GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER and for HARDWARE. Active, intelligent men, to make a business of travelling over Canada obtaining subscriptions and collecting accounts. Men who have had some experience in the retail trade preferred. State experience. Must give references. Address J. B. McLean, 5 Jordan St., Toronto.



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION

Secretary's Address:—

592 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Mr. John Western has purchased the Sunlight Soap ticket to Liverpool from the winner and will probably go to England after the Christmas holidays.

Smith & Keighley expect a car of new Bosnia prunes to arrive in New York in a few days. They will be brought on here at once as there is no surplus stock here.

Grocers who have sent for sample of Swan Bros.' Blendings of Black Tea invariably order a quantity after trying it. Messrs. Swan Bros.' experience of twenty-five years in the business, and the extensive trade they have established, is a guarantee that to try it is to buy it.

A small fire occurred in Ellis & Keighley's coffee and spice mills on the Esplanade on Monday evening. A policeman saw the blaze, and sounding an alarm, the firemen were quickly on the spot and extinguished the flames before serious damage was done. The mills are running as usual and the damage will be repaired in a few days.

Mr. Frank Britton has invited the picnic committee of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association to visit his farm near Niagara Falls. It is likely that they will accept and take a day's outing. It would be a graceful act on the part of the Association if they would request the committee to go at the Association's expense. They certainly deserve it for they worked hard and in a most disinterested manner for the good of the general trade and derived no enjoyment from it themselves.

When good paying customers, for no apparent reason, take their patronage elsewhere, the merchant is justified in assuming that by some oversight upon the part of himself or clerks the said customers have taken offence. It is then good policy for the dealer to call upon the disgruntled party and inquire the reason for the withdrawal of custom. It will probably appear that the trouble can be easily settled satisfactorily to both parties, and the customer, feeling gratified by the attention of the dealer, may be secured for life. It will pay to look after the old customers, even when only a slight dropping off of trade is noticed; the dealer should never cease his efforts to hold them while there is hope of retaining their trade.—[Merchant's Mail.

94 Yonge Street, Toronto,

RIVERSIDE ORANGES.

We beg to call the attention of the Fruit Trade to the improved quality of this class of Oranges. They are marketed in Toronto within ten days of their being picked, consequently retaining all their native, fresh flavor. Florida Oranges being practically out of the market this fruit will be in great demand, and prices being low now we advise the trade to send in their orders.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-knowr brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

W. H. GILLARD & CO.

The City of Hamilton enjoys a continental reputation for the variety and extent of her industrial interests, but there is no branch of her commerce which has been so conspicuously successful as the grocery trade. Notwithstanding the great strides and development made during the last decade by Montreal and Toronto, Hamilton still holds the fort as a great distributing centre of the grocery trade. The position is the result of the unceasing and well-directed efforts of her grocers, than whom a more shrewd, energetic and enterprising class of men could not be found.

Of the firms prominently engaged in this business, there are none who have stronger claims upon our notice than the firm of W. H. Gillard & Co. This firm, comprised of W. H. Gillard, John Gillard, and Henry N. Kittson, was founded in 1879, the senior partner, W. H. Gillard, having been for twenty-four years previously prominently identified with the wholesale grocery trade. The progress of this firm since its formation has been such as to afford striking testimony to the discriminating judgment, business tact and enterprise of its members. This success is due to the intelligent application to their business of sound modern business principles, among which we might enumerate :

Buying from place of production.

Handling none but merchantable goods.

Selling on close margins.

W. H. GILLARD.

Faithful execution and quick despatch of orders.

In this connection we were surprised to learn on inquiry that the excellent facilities for shipping in their commodious and thoroughly equipped warehouse, enable this firm, even under the pressure of their extensive business, to ship all orders on the day of their receipt. The importance to the trade of such prompt attention can not be too strongly emphasized.

The condition of business and the method of transacting it to-day are widely different from what they were twenty years ago, when the principals of business firms had the pleasure and advantage of personal contact with their customers. Now-a-days a large proportion of trade is done through the medium of travellers, who thus become important factors in the success of any business. Being fully alive to the importance of being represented by men that will command the respect and confidence and deserve the attention of business men, this firm have on their staff only high-class men—men of integrity, who have a thorough knowledge of the trade. Their large staff of travellers, comprised of Thomas Haywood, John Stoneham, G. A. Turner, Sam Wilkins, M. P. Malone, Gerald Haskins, G. Findlay and H. C. Beckett, are kept actively busy covering the large area of territory in the provinces, Ontario, Manitoba, British Columbia, and the North-West, over which their business extends. These gentlemen are favourably known in their respective territories.

Aside from their well known business qualifications and their rectitude, promptness and deserved success in matters pertaining to trade, the members of the firm of W. H. Gillard & Co. are highly esteemed and most popular citizens. They are in the front rank whenever the city needs enterprize and liberality to promote the progress of her people.

JOHN GILLARD.

H. N. KITTSON.

TRADE CONGRESS—Continued.

Mr. Bristol said he esteemed it a matter for pride that he had been elected vice-chairman of so important an assemblage. He could not help expressing the idea that such meetings as these must be provocative of much good, and he thanked them heartily for the honour of electing him as an officer of the first merchants' convention of Canada.

LETTER FROM MR. JAMES.

Mr. Bristol now read the letter from Mr. James, International Bridge, published in our issue of last week.

VARIOUS MATTERS.

Thomas Mitchell, city, said his thoughts were very well expressed in Mr. James' letter. His idea was that the wholesale dealers should handle the bankrupt stocks. It was they who wanted to recover, and this they could better do, without injury to the retail trade, if a dozen of them would become competitors for the stocks of bankrupts. A bankrupt department for broken lots would thus be created in wholesale houses, while unbroken lots could go into general stock. Retailers with money, who are always on the lookout for bargains, would thus have a chance, and the general retail trade would escape much of the demoralization which at present resulted from the slaughter of bankrupt stocks. Wholesale dealers could, by placing a restriction on buyers not to slaughter the goods thus secured by cash retailers, help legitimate trade very much.

T. B. Carling, Exeter, said he endorsed the remarks which tended to show that wholesalers had the matter in their own hands. There were men who went about the country buying up bankrupt stocks and seeking whom they might devour, and the fact that wholesalers sold to weak men tended to keep this never-ending round of cheap-jack sales, much to the injury of the retail trade. The persuasiveness of travellers was also a great deal to blame for this state of affairs, and the whole business was very discouraging to those men who strive to pay 100 cents on the dollar. Dating ahead, selling goods in advance of the season, the failure of municipal by-laws to prevent bankrupt dealers from despoiling a town's trade, were also mentioned as fruitful effects of this evil.

W. J. Gilroy, Mount Forest, said he believed wholesalers should take bankrupt stocks. In his own town a cut trader had begun without means, and did a very heavy trade, much to the injury of men who had ability to conduct business. The public, of course, did not know how it was done, but they knew and deplored the result. If the wholesalers would take back such stock, the legitimate traders would have a chance of buying and sharing the profits of these snaps.

Isaac Smith, Chatham, said that in forty years of business life he had ample opportunity to recognize the evils of bankrupt stock slaughtering. He therefore coincided in the idea that wholesalers should deal with these stocks, and he thought unwise pushing of goods by travellers should be mitigated by them also. He paid a high tribute to Hamilton wholesalers, and he was glad that they were uniting to help remedy this evil.

T. H. Pratt, Hamilton, said he thought wholesalers should take back bankrupt goods in proportion to their claims, and thus establish a bankrupt stock department for the bargain dealers who paid cash. If such a plan were followed the evil would eventually be cured.

H. B. Ostrasser, Cultus, said this plan would give the wholesalers a little of their own medicine, and this would be right, as they and their travellers were much to blame primarily. Indeed he would place the blame first on the travellers, and secondly on the men who sent them. A capital of $500 would command $3,000 credit, and experience and facilities were not awarded their rights. He agreed with the idea that the wholesalers should furnish the remedy, but if they would uot do so the retailers would have to take the matter up. Bankrupt stocks were bought to make money and they were at any rate. The public thought they were selling cheap and would do so anyway even if the wholesalers controlled the stocks. The advantage, however, of the latter method was that the legitimate trades would reap the benefit of increased profits.

Mr. LeSeur, Sarnia, while agreeing with much that had been said, considered that the wholesalers should be consulted. When they do as was suggested the whole matter would be settled. He advocated the appointment of district committees for the purpose of inquiring into the causes of failures and whether a man should be compromised with, which should only be done if the failure were an honest one. He also thought that travellers would do much better by, in many instances, selling one bill in a town than two or three.

E. B. Palmer, Simcoe, moved that it is the opinion of this meeting that wholesale men should take bankrupt stocks, shorten credit and curtail long credit paper. In support of his motion Mr. Palmer said he agreed with the remarks about wholesales having the remedy in their own hands, and he believed they could sell bankrupt stocks so that little harm would result.

N. F. Yeo, London, seconded the motion, and said long dates was the great curse of credit. He gave his experience from his beginning with $100 cash, and said if a man refused to give his notes and resisted travellers and paid cash, bankruptcy would soon be a thing of the past.

Mr. Ellis, Ingersoll, expressed sympathy with the retail merchants. He brought matters to a head by asking if it was the sense of the meeting that all retailers should be closed up without compromise. (Cries of "yes" and "no.") It was thus seen that all were not agreed, and that was the first thing they should do. The wholesaler must be consulted, and the interests of the honest dealer in difficulties must be recognized.

The second and third clauses of the resolution were withdrawn by the mover and seconder.

G. McKechnie, Durham, said he considered the resolution entirely premature, and he thought a committee should be appointed to deal with the question and make a comprehensive report at next session. The wholesale merchants here had expressed concurrence in taking back stocks, but others were to hear from, as they should endeavor to deal equitably with all. If no other remedy could be got, when public opinion was ripe, legislation might come to their aid.

Moved by Messrs. Weismiller (Kippen) and Husband (Hagersville) that the subject be referred to a committee composed of one member of each of the boards of trade and one from each county.

The original motion was withdrawn.

Mr. Ashbaugh, Aylmer, suggested adding the name of a wholesaler to the committee.

Mr. Aiken, Orangeville, said he thought if wholesalers were to take back the goods of bankrupts they should have representation on the committee.

Mr. Ostrasser, Cultus, advocated that none but retailers be on the committee, and that their report would be submitted to the wholesalers.

Mr. Bristol asked if the wholesalers were to take back the stocks at 100 cents on the dollar and sell them at less, or were they to get 100 cents from the retailers? Were they to get the privilege of selling at whatever price they liked, or were they to be sacrificed at both ends?

Wm. Badger, Stroud, said that any such scheme to succeed must have the approval of both. He also favored an agent or bureau to list bankrupt stocks en bloc, and the issuance of circulars by the wholesalers to the retail men offering these. The latter would gobble up the bargains offered in this way.

Mr. Kittson was glad to support the relegating of the matter to a committee composed of both wholesalers and retailers. He moved that the names of the president and vice-president be added. He pointed out that some creditors might be doctors or others not traders, and how would they take back their goods? He feared the wholesalers in thus taking the stocks back would be running them in the front door and out of the back door. The system of retail credit was the root of the evil. The retailer should not expect to be fed and clothed at the expense of the wholesale trade for a year. He urged organization by counties in order to prevent incompetent men from ruining the trade. A tenet of this organization should be that not a dollar of credit should be given.

The mover of the motion accepted the names added by Mr. Kittson.

Mr. Good, Seaforth, thought taking back stocks impracticable, and that the credit system was the whole trouble.

Mr. Bristol suggested the formation of local, county, district, and provincial associations, and defined the object of these associations to be: First, to encourage well directed enterprises, and thus promote the growth of the town or village where situated and the extension of its trade; second, to promote a more social feeling among business men and to foster the strictest commercial integrity among those engaged in the various lines of business; third, to take concerted action in matters where the general good of business men is concerned and where individual effort is powerless, such as needed concessions in freight, express, and insurance rates, shorter hours of business, immunity from adulterated goods, short weights and measures; fourth, to prepare a list of delinquents in the neighborhood for protection only, so that they may no longer abuse the confidence of business men and evade the payments of their just debts; fifth, to compel the peddlar to assume a portion of the burdens borne by the merchants.

These suggestions were vigorously applauded.

Mr. Climie said he thought the committee should report from day to day, and that they should begin the work of orginization as soon as they got home from the carnival.

President Knox called for the names of the committee, and these were appointed:

WATER FOR TEA OR COFFEE.

All tea and coffee drinkers can tell by their taste if the water from which the beverage is made has not been boiled or has boiled too much. Either of these conditions will spoil the flavour of the costliest tea or the best coffee berry, but not every one knows the reason or how to avoid the result. The secret is in putting good fresh water into a clean kettle already warm and setting it to boil quickly, and then take it right off to use in tea, coffee and other drinks before it is spoiled. If the water is allowed to steam and simmer and evaporate till all the good of the water is in the air, and the lime and iron and dregs left in the kettle, you must not expect a well-flavored cup of tea or coffee. —[Scientific American.

BILLS OF SALE.

Mr. George E. Bristol, of Hamilton, suggests an important amendment to the law relating to bills of sale. At present, when a merchant wants to defraud his creditors he goes to a moneyed man and explains his position. He says he wants to sell out his stock and leave the country. He has $1,000 but offers to sell for, say $300. The moneyed man jumps at the bargain. The merchant gets his money and disappears ; the moneyed man gets his goods, while the creditors get nothing. This is no imaginary case. These are occurring every day. Mr. Bristol's remedy is a very effective one. He proposes that official notice should be given in the local papers and in the Canada Gazette before any sale of goods could legally take place, and that no sale could be legally made for fifteen days after the notice had been given. Under such a law if the sale were made the creditors could take possession of the goods at any time.

THE BUSINESS MEN'S CONVENTION.

The continuation of the report of the proceedings of the first convention of business men of Ontario appears in another column. We hoped to have been able to give our readers the official copy, but the stenographer has not yet transcribed his shorthand notes. However, the report we publish is very complete. Next week we hope to give a full list of delegates. From this list it will be seen that eight hundred representative business men of Ontario, and several from other provinces, including British Columbia, were present. The success of the affair has been beyond all expectations, and the Hamilton people must feel very much pleased with the results of their untiring efforts to make it so. The business men of the province certainly owe them a great deal. The immediate results were not easily seen excepting by those who took part in the deliberations or listened to the discussions. To these, however, the meeting has proved of very great value. Very few of those present but went away better business men. They learned to think more of their fellow men and more of their business. There is no doubt but that we shall at once see the results in the trade of the numerous country towns represented. We could mention instances in which men in the same town were barely on speaking terms before the convention, and who sought every opportunity of cutting into each others business from "pure cussedness" by shading prices and paying higher figures for produce, who will now work together for common good. If the convention did no more than this it could be called a success, but it did far more.

Briefly speaking the direct result was a decision to organize an Ontario Business Man's Association. A committee composed of Chairman Knox, Vice-Chairman Bristol and Messrs. Ballentine, Kavanagh, Carpenter, Hamilton ; Parkinson, Exeter ; Scott, Woodstock ; Weismiller, Kippen and McKechnie, Durham, was elected to draft a constitution for the proposed Association. Local and county associations will be organized. Mr. Knox put an end to the assertion that Hamilton wanted to monopolize the Association by saying most emphatically, in answer to a questioner, that all that Hamilton wanted was to organize the business men. When that was done they could themselves decide where to meet. It is likely that for some time at least Hamilton will be the meeting place. As far as the majority of those present was concerned, they were quite willing to make Hamilton the headquarters, and it is not improbable that this course will be pursued.

TRADE CONGRESS.

THE FIRST ONTARIO MERCHANTS' CONVENTION.

BUSINESS MEN PRESENT FROM ALL PARTS OF THE PROVINCE.

Questions of Vital Importance to the Trade discussed—Report of the Proceedings of the Third Day.

Mr. Knox, chairman, in opening the Convention, expressed his pleasure at the discussions yesterday, and trusted the same enthusiasm would be manifested to day. He then called upon

Mr. Parkinson, of Exeter, who, in beginning the discussion on bankrupt stocks, expressed his pleasure that a Convention had been called to consider the questions which interested them so much. He said, after an experience in business of twenty-five years, that at no time was it so much possible to say as it is at the present time that mercantile men were not making any money. The primary cause of bankruptcies was long credit. Wholesale men almost gave retailers a premium to go into business, so hard was credit pushed. He sketched the methods of cutting and slashing, and by selling off the merchant has made some money, but there was no law to prevent a man from so doing after the wholesaler had given him the goods and accepted his paper. Then an assignment was made, and the wholesalers accepted the offer made of 25,50, or 75 cents on the dollar. Then the bankrupt went on selling for and paying cash at slaughter prices, the tools of trade having been supplied by the wholesalers in the first instance. The keenness of the wholesaler to sell was well sketched, the fact being that the retailer was able to say to all inquiries into his standing that if one wholesaler did not sell him another would. This was growing ; many went into business just to play the trick of getting a start at the wholesaler's expense in the first instance, and the honest 100-cents-on-the dollar retailer in the second. This should be stopped, and he closed with an appeal for organization to remedy this and the credit evil.

REPORT ON BANKRUPT STOCKS.

The committee appointed yesterday to draft a report on bankrupt stocks in accordance with the expressions at the Convention, reported that the following resolution had been carried in committee and was its report :

Moved by A. J. Chalue, Penetanguishene, seconded by T. B. Carling, Exeter, that this committee, appointed to report on the best mode for the disposal of bankrupt stocks so as to cause the least irritation, now begs to report to the Convention that, in their opinion, the most satisfactory way to stay the evil of bankrupt stocks is by the formation of business men's associations in every county in Ontario, by which said association could buy in these bankrupt stocks and dispose of them to the best advantage. The resolution was unanimously agreed to by all present, the committee feeling that the proposal to ask the wholesalers to take back these stocks presented insuperable difficulties.

The report was received with enthusiasm by the meeting, and the applause was loud and long continued.

Mr. Moyer, Mildmay, asked was it the intention of the report to form a provincial association ?

Chairman—Yes, an association for Ontario.

Mr. Grant, Woodstock, thought a better idea would be for county associations to handle and buy the bankrupt stocks. Although much could be done by these associations, the wholesalers must do very much if anything of practical good was to be done.

Chairman Knox said the wholesalers were looking at this question in a very different way from the point of view they did a few years ago, and could be depended on to do their duty. They now wanted able, intelligent and honest men in the retail.

Mr. Weismiller, Kippen, thought the intention was to have a central association and branch county associations.

Mr. LeSeur, Sarnia, thought this system would throw the whole onus on the retailers and allow the wholesalers to go scot free.

Mr. Badger, Stroud, asked the chairman to explain the details as understood in committee.

Chairman Knox said, in reply to a gentleman from Chesley who did not give his name, that bankrupt stock had been discussed fully yesterday and the report on that question was before them. The other subjects would come up later for discussion and report. As to the organization, after a very full discussion in committee, it was argued that if a dealer sold at less than legitimate profits, was reckless in giving credit, etc., he would be reported by the association and such trader would not be granted a compromise. Such a report could not be ignored by the wholesale dealers, and he hoped the organizations would lead to a healthier state of trade.

Mr. Weismiller, Kippen, explained that at an auction sale of such stock one man would get part and another part.

Mr. McKechnie, Durham, defined the objects of the association. It was, if possible, desired that the goods should not be removed from the county in which the bankruptcy occurred.

Mr. Good, of Seaforth, said it was also the idea that the local organizations should deal with other matters of interest.

Mr. Ostrasser, Cultus, suggested that the secretary of the Convention notify the secretary of each board of trade to meet and organize in the country towns of the Province.

Mr. Anderson, of Windsor, said he was afraid the scheme would cut the connection with the wholesalers, and that the latter by the means employed might be in a position to run the prices of the bankrupt goods up.

Mr. Knox said the county associations would value bankrupt stock goods, and whenever a bankrupt stock dealer would give more he was welcome to have it.

Mr. Parkinson said he thought they were going too fast. He thought the question was hardly fully understood by the Convention yet.

Mr. Ellis, of Ingersoll, said they had covered the ground completely yesterday, and it was simply intended to leave the details to be worked out by the local organizations.

The report was unanimously adopted.

INADEQUATE PROFITS.

Mr. Badger, Stroud, in reading a paper on this subject, started out with the axiom that all mercantile business should be conducted with a constant profit within all reasonable limits. Inadequate profits were very common, and it was a wonder that so many dealers succeeded in view of this fact. One great reason for inadequate profits was overstocking. To get rid of a too-large stock of goods which had been on the shelves for years was a nice question, and required nice management. It could be better accomplished than by a sacrifice sale, for that would not gain the end aimed at. Of course, when a business was to be saved, the wholesalers should be approached and they would assist, if matters were fairly placed before them. Thus would trade be kept intact and the demoralization by slaughtered bankrupt stocks would be unfelt. Inexperience is another fruitful cause of under profits, and the youthful aspirant for business success soon finds that everything is not couleur de rose as painted to himself when he began. The shrewd customer was well sketched, and the cut inevitable in prices was the result of an interview with him. The reckless competition between dealers was also touched upon, and it was pointed out that nerve would eventually overcome this drawback to profitable trade. The Grange, too, had had its day ; but it had often obliged country dealers to cut down prices to lower than a living profit. They should make up their minds that they would never under any circumstances sell goods at lower than a living profit.

Mr. Headley, of the Monetary Times, Toronto, made an excellent short speech advocating the necessity of getting a fair living profit. In closing, he paid the Hamilton merchants a high tribute of praise, and said that they were entitled to infinite credit for organizing the carnival and making its merchants' convention so great a success and the central feature.

Mr. Moir, Mildmay, pointed out that one result of inadequate profits was the loss of the entire cost of freight in business, often amounting to 10 per cent.

Mr. Weir, of York, said he thought all business men should know better than to mark goods down too low. Marking too low, in his opinion, was done either when men were overloaded or in difficult straits. And the reason was that merchants paid out too much for advertising. He did not believe in putting goods on people that they did not want ; in eighteen years in business he had not spent $18 in advertising.

Mr. Weismiller—What is a living profit ?

Mr. Badger, Stroud, explained that it was one which would meet all legitimate expenses, afford a living to the dealer, and a small margin of profit to put by.

Mr. Saunders, Goderich, said he had noticed that the division had been drawn between honest and dishonest dealers ; he would divide them into those who had ability to do business and those who had not, and he showed that this was the key to inadequate profits.

Geo. D. Griffin, of Parkdale, author of a work on banking and currency, summarized a paper he intended to read on the origin of bankruptcies under the head of this discussion. He introduced his paper with this remark that the eradication of a disease required that the physician must thoroughly understand its origin, and he proceeded to point out the origin of bankruptcies as concisely as possible. He was prepared with data to prove this assertions. The great factors in bankruptcies were (1) shoddy and fraudulent goods ; (2) over importations ; (3) conducting business on borrowed capital, which necessitated a large payment in interest yearly ; (4) incompetence of business men ; (5) he urged an association of business men to enlighten the people of Canada as to their financial condition. As a third leading head inadequate currency was treated of as a leading cause in bankruptcies, and he sketched the financial history of the old lands in drawing lessons for Canada ; which tended to prove that scarce money meant dear money and that was a fruitful source of bankruptcy. Fourth, the debt currency of the Dominion as well as the bank debt currency were factors in hastening bankruptcies, indeed it might safely be said that the debt currency of the Dominion had been of incalculable loss to the people and the source of countless bankruptcies. Fifth, the excessive cost of government, it was pointed out, and which must be simplified before trade would flourish, was a heavy factor in the conditions of trade success. As a remedy, he advocated a true national currency, a stoppage of over-importation and high rates of interest, and the prevention of shoddy and fraudulent goods. The questions of who owns Canada, and delusive United States prosperity were also treated of in the paper.

Mr. Horrell, Midland, advocated an average profit of 15 per cent. and the chairman pointed out that they could not get the same profit on all goods.

Mr. McKee, Simcoe, wanted to know whom they would come on for short weight or short measure.

Mr. Mills, Toronto, thought they were narrowing the question too much. He believed the question of inadequate profits was bound up in the matter of nerve, following in the footsteps of their neighbor, etc., and could be better settled under the head of unjust compromises.

The discussion was closed on inadequate profits at this point.

UNJUST COMPROMISES.

Mr. Turnbull, cashier of the Bank of Hamilton, read the following excellent and comprehensive paper on Unjust Compromises :

It is with some diffidence that I venture to address the convention on a commercial subject at all, for I am well aware that my knowledge is small and experience limited in comparison with many of those who are present, and especially on such a part of the programme as unjust compromises, for these can be spoken to by many others with greater practical acquaintance than I can pretend to. I could not, however, very well decline to accede to the request of the committee that I should take part in the discussion under this head, but I trust that the convention will accept what little I have to say rather as suggestive of and preparatory to the fuller and wider expressions of opinion

F. F. DALLEY & CO., HAMILTON.

The building shown here is the manufacturing establishment of Messrs. F. F. Dalley & Co., Hamilton, manufacturers of Spanish blacking. As usual, they were conspicuously represented in the trade procession at the Hamilton Carnival, August 22nd, but we draw the line at the boot-black, and conclude that the only reason Messrs. F. F. Dalley & Co. had in employing such an artist was simply to show the public what an easy matter it is for even a lazy man to have an excellent shine on his boots. Spanish blacking will do it without much labor. Messrs. F. F. Dalley & Co. do nothing by halves, therefore none were surprised to see the handsomely decorated turn out of this firm. People expected it, looked for it, saw it and were satisfied with it.

THE LATE MR. CLECHORN.

The trade generally will regret to learn of the death at Sault Ste Marie of Mr. Andrew Cleghorn of Edward Adams & Co., London. The deceased was one of London's most prosperous and well known merchants, having been for many years associated with Edward Adams in the grocery business, which is one of the oldest and largest wholesale houses in the Province, and which he took supreme control of on Mr. Adams retiring to live in England nearly twenty years ago. The deceased has been a prominent business man in this city for the last forty years. He was admitted a partner in the firm twenty-five or twenty-six years ago, and at that time Mr. H. D. Long was associated with Mr. Adams and Mr. Cleghorn in the business. The retirement of Mr. Long and Mr. Charles Richardson's connection with and retirement from the business left Mr. Cleghorn as the sole proprietor, but soon after that his son Edward A. was made a partner, and it was Cleghorn & Son who carried on the business of late years. The deceased spent the earlier portion of his life in the West Indies, but came here from Laprairie, near Montreal, at the age of twenty years, and travelled for the house for a short time. He married a daughter of the late Dean Boomer, and leaves a widow and family of children, including two sons who have arrived at man's estate. Mr. Cleghorn was a keen sportsman and an excellent cricketer, and to his love of outdoor sports may be attributed his excellent constitution and vigor in business. He was about sixty years of age, though he looked much younger.

The funeral took place on Saturday last and was largely attended. A deputation was present from the Hamilton Wholesale Grocers' Guild. The pall-bearers were the four sons of the deceased, Mr. George A. Boomer, of Toronto, and Dr. Niven, of London.

Mr. W. Boulter, of the Bay of Quinte Canning Factory, was here this week buying peaches and pears for his factories.

COLD STORAGE OF EGGS.

In answer to an inquiry on this subject the New York Witness says :

The right temperature for keeping eggs is about 36 degrees. Ice should be kept at the top or over the cooling room, and no air admitted except through the ice. There are several processes to prevent dampness, and also for turning in quantities (which should be done daily), but they are all patented.

Cold storage houses for use in a larger way, as for creameries, cheese factories, or for dealers in dairy goods, are constructed upon the same principle of an ice house, without any packing around the house, but with a water-tight and well drained floor over a lower apartment. There is a space of a few inches left between the body of ice and the wall through which air may circulate and pass to the room below. A number of holes or gratings are made in the floor for the cold air to descend. The house is built with non-conducting walls, having usually a space of a foot between them, packed with dry sawdust, or a new and most excellent material which is made of furnace slag, blown by a blast into fine threads. These cold storage houses are now in frequent use by fruit growers, butchers, brewers and poultry men, as well as dairymen, and are extremely useful.

WISDOM IN AN ADVERTISEMENT.

There is an amusing side to the fierce cutting of prices now going on in St. Paul among the retail grocers—amusing to those, of course, who are looking on from the outside. Those in the excitement also seem to be getting some fun out of the fight. Business men can obtain a good deal of wisdom by merely watching the advertisements of the rival stores. Now, here is a specimen advertisement that speaks volumes. It is a whole sermon in itself and might be called a multum in parvo :

We expect men to buy where they can buy the cheapest. We have built up an immense trade largely on this class of men. To them we want to say :

DON'T BE HUMBUGGED WITH LEADERS !

Sugar costs 9½ cents per pound by the the ton. We can't sell twelve pounds (192 ounces) for a Dollar and make any money.

THERE IS A NIGGER IN THE WOOD PILE SOMEWHERE.

Compare our Prices !
Compare our Weights !
Compare our Goods !

$5 goes farther in our store than any other grocery store in St. Paul.

We do not think this advertisement needs any further comment from us.—[Northwest Trade.

Mr. L. Gibb, has returned from a ten weeks' visit to his native soil, Scotland.

which are to follow than as anything valuable or important in itself. That there should be compromises at all, just or unjust, is, I suppose, a misfortune to which we have to submit as one of the many fruits of human error, miscalculation and disappointment. Many are just—I mean as to their cause—for instances are within the knowledge of us all where commercial disaster has been the result of circumstances beyond the reasonable control of the debtor, and I am sure that in such cases the great majority of creditors gladly extend not only every fair financial concession, but all possible sympathy and help, for there is certainly no one in the commercial world more entitled to such than he who with every desire to pay, is, through no fault of his own, unable to do so, and is compelled to come in that position before his creditors. Many compromises resulting from what may be quite fairly termed bad business are justly carried out, that is to say, the debtor honestly surrenders all which he possesses, and does his best to make the most of his estate for his creditors, and to secure a fair and equitable division of its proceeds among them. Unfortunately, however, a large proportion of compromises are altogether unjust—some as to cause, others as to method and result, and many as to the whole three. It is the existence of these and their various phases, with the possible remedies applicable to them, which the convention, as I understand it, is asked to consider to-day. It is perhaps difficult to separate the injustice of a compromise—as to its carrying out—from the causes of the insolvency which have led to its necessity. It may simplify matters, however, if I confine myself to the actual compromise itself or after-insolvency part of the question, as I fancy that we are generally agreed, and on the whole fairly well informed, as to the causes of insolvency, and besides these are, or will be, more or less referred to and opened out during the deliberations of the convention under other heads. It is probably wholesome to begin the consideration of possible improvement by blaming outsiders for part of the fault. At all events it appears to me that one of the great operative factors in the injustice of compromises is the indifference, not to say the limpness, of the creditors themselves. The difficulty of getting a large meeting of them in ordinary cases is well known, and frequently when important creditors are represented they are not well represented, and the result often is that the proceedings at the meeting are aimless, rambling and without vigor, penetration and decision, and the effect is that the bankrupt and his solicitor get things pretty much their own way. Now, I think that every creditor having any material interest should see that an attendance is made on his behalf, and it would be infinitely better and by no means a waste of time if the principal attended himself and brought all his experience, energy and judgment to bear on the conduct of the meeting and its result, for it goes without saying that if we expect to succeed in minimizing unjust compromises it is imperative that we should make the way of the transgressor hard. If a creditor desires to bring his solicitor with him, good and well, but, at all events, he should come himself. His opinion is likely to be of more commercial and practical value in the great majority of cases than that of his solicitor, and its expression, unless perhaps in involved and tangled or fraudulent insolvencies, calculated to lead to better, quicker and more profitable results. Further, it is highly important, if the best issues are to be reached, that there should be a sinking of mutual jealousies between creditors and all desire to get ahead of another. I am pretty well satisfied that the exhibition of such tendencies by the creditors is eagerly watched for and promptly taken advantage of by the unprincipled or dishonest debtor in the well grounded hope that they will enable him to make an easy bed for himself. Absolute good faith should be observed between creditors after an assignment has been made. Let each be as diligent as he can before it, but after the estate has passed from the insolvent there should be rigid and unswerving fair play. I think, too, that a mistake is often made in the appointment of inspectors. Usually three of the creditors are appointed with no stated and ultimately trifling remuneration—generally busy men with their own pressing daily affairs to attend to and with no special inducement to look into the details of the estate. The effect not infrequently is, that the debtor and the assignee or his assistants are brought into unnecessarily close and frequent contact, with the resulting tendency that the assignee (often himself a fully occupied man, with many estates in charge and compelled to leave much to and be largely guided by his subordinates), however desirous he may be to honestly represent the creditors, and do the best for them, is, perhaps insensibly, influenced in favor of a compromise unduly advantageous to the insolvent. Would it not be an improvement if, in estates of any magnitude, creditors were careful to see that one of the inspectors appointed should be a creditor of comparative leisure and known business capacity and impartiality, and be fairly paid for his services? Failing a creditor, then some independent third party possessing the qualifications named should be nominated. If this were done I think the creditors could reasonably count on the full value of the estate being obtained, and would avoid the risk of indifference or incapacity on the part of the assignee, or the exercise by the insolvent of undue influence over or pressure upon him. Speaking of inspectors, it is perhaps well to call attention to the fact that in the Mowat Act the duties of inspectors are entirely undefined, so that it is doubtful whether an assignee is legally bound to consult them or to follow their instructions. This omission might lead to very grave consequences if the assignee were unprincipled or in collusion with the debtor, and the matter should certainly be brought to the notice of the government at the next session of the Legislature. It is easy to see what prejudicial sales of assets might be made—good as to third parties—under the law as it stands at present. Attention should also, I think, be directed to the absolute necessity of the legislature providing some easier means for the change of an assignee. When insolvency has occurred the estate of course, becomes the property of the creditors, and it would be a decided betterment of the present system if, when the insolvent makes his voluntary assignment, he were prohibited from assigning to other than some public officer. It would have to be provided, of course, that the duty should be imposed on such officer, of immediately calling a meeting of creditors, in order that they might appoint their own assignee, who should have full legal powers for the winding up of the estate. My idea is that the public officer should only be an intermediary, for I apprehend that experience has shown that public officers have been anything but successful assignees. As matters stand now, an assignment can be made to clerk, friend or anybody else, residing in any locality, however inconvenient, and all sorts of affidavits, evidence, etc., as to unfitness, must be presented to the court before its consent to and direction for a change can be obtained, with, in the meantime, needless delay, expense, and almost certain prejudice to the estate. I notice that many—notably the Monetary Times—advocate the common practice of assignments being made to an employe of a leading creditor as being rapid, economical and advantageous towards a restitution of the assets. If these advantages can be always counted on, which I doubt, I think that the securing of them is more than offset by the possibility of suspicions, however unfounded, being entertained that the estate has been handled to the preference of the house with which the assignee is identified. Another frequent discovery by creditors in the case of compromises is that some property has passed to wife, relative or friend not very long before the crash. To set such aside, insolvency, fraud or the absence of consideration has to be proved. All are difficult to do—especially the first—and more so if some considerable period has elapsed. Would it not be desirable that efforts should be made to have some influential member introduce, and vigorous pressure brought to bear on other members to support, a bill throwing upon the wife of an insolvent the burden of proving that property claimed by her has been inherited or otherwise independently acquired, or that if obtained from her husband, his solvency at the time of grant was so redundant that the gift was, in the opinion of the court, justifiable and was free of bearing on or effect towards the subsequent insolvency. There is no hardship in this, for a wife who is a bona fide owner as described can have no difficulty in satisfying a judge of the fact, and the possible trouble and comparatively trifling cost which might be imposed upon her would not be an unreasonable incident of the situation, and would be, at all events, much less unjust than that creditors should be compelled to prove in an inferential or negative, and in any case almost impossible way that the holding was not bona fide.

As to dower, too, I know that many people think that the maintenance of a wife's dower in real estate is proper. I am sure, however, that among commercial people who have seen the fact or realized the possibility of a debtor making investments in real estate in the comfortable assurance that he can fall back in case of unfortunate eventualities on his wife for a substantial part of it, will be a unit in favor of the abolition of this relic of a by-gone age. The same shifting of the burden of proof should also, I think, be asked of the legislature in the case of alienation of property without apparent valuable consideration to friends or relatives. The grantees should be compelled to show adequate consideration or undoubted solvency of the grantor at the time, otherwise restitution should be compelled. The Mowat Act is intended to secure an equitable distribution of assets, and is a good Act so far as it goes, but it does not go far enough, and I trust that the Convention will not separate without taking definite steps to suggest and press such needed amendments and additions. One subject is particularly worthy of consideration; that is, the weight still given by the courts to the old doctrine of pressure as justifying what are in fact preferential payments made frequently by practical collusion between the debtor and the beneficiary creditor, who is usually some friend or relation, or other person from whom something equivalent is expected to be obtained. While admitting

TO THE GROCERY TRADE.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

(OF LONDON), CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association,

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools : they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application the value of the Mowat Act and recognizing that a provincial statute is better than none, it is useless to shut our eyes to the fact that many prominent lawyers have great doubts as to its constitutionality, and the existence of these doubts seems to handicap the operation of the Act, and may possibly influence the government towards unwillingness to raise the question by attempts at improvement or extension. Be that as it may, it can hardly be disputed that what is wanted is a comprehensive and well-considered, and simply and cheaply administered Dominion insolvent law, and, in my opinion, without discharge clauses. The latter have been, I think, the rocks upon which former Acts have split, and I don't wonder at it, for I believe that, apart from the difficulty of Legislating for equitable discharge, no legislature has the moral right to enact that a creditor shall, contrary to his desire and judgment, accept less than his just due. That ought to be left as a matter of common liberty to himself. An honest debtor has in very few cases, indeed, any difficulty in obtaining a fair, and often a considerate and liberal, discharge. If the Dominion Act confined itself to a full and clear definition of insolvency under its provisions, and to the promoting of a really impartial and effective method of realizing on and distributing assets, with stringent clauses against preference, fraud and imposition, it is all that parliament should, I think, attempt, and great and general commercial benefit would result if it succeeded.

Mr. Moir, Mildmay, said a feeling of warfare between retailers had largely contributed to bring about many of the evils complained of.

Moved by Mr. McKechnie, seconded by Alex. Munro, that the Association be known by the name of the Business Men's Association of Ontario, and that the objects of the Association shall be :—1. To encourage well-directed enterprise, with a view of encouraging a greater degree of prosperity and to further increase the general trade of the Province. 2. To increase acquaintances and further the highest commercial integrity amongst those engaged in the various lines of business represented. 3. To take concerted action in matters pertaining to the general good of business men, where individual effort is powerless, such as concessions in freight, insurance or express rates, unjust values, or discrimination by any class or corporations. 4. To take action regarding the sales of bankrupt stocks with a view of minimizing the evils to the general trade arising therefrom. 6. To compel the pedlar to assume a portion of the burdens borne by the merchant. 7. That the President, Vice-President and Secretary are hereby appointed a special committee to draw up a constitution and code of by-laws regulating the same and to be ratified at a future meeting of this Association.

The Convention then adjourned.

SUBSCRIPTION CANVASSERS.

Subscription canvassers wanted for The Grocer and General Storekeeper and for Hardware. Active, intelligent men, to make a business of travelling over Canada obtaining subscriptions and collecting accounts. Men who have had some experience in the retail trade preferred. State experience. Must give references. Address J. B. McLean, 5 Jordan St., Toronto.

Eight hundred tons of raw sugar are stored in the warehouses of Woodside Refinery, Halifax. Prices have dropped two cents per pound since it was imported, and the speculative owners will lose heavily.

"See here, Mr. Grocer," said a Hartford housewife, "if you are going to bring me any more goods I want them to be the very best." "We keep none but the best." "I presume so ; you must sell the worst in order to keep the best."

The New England Grocer, referring to the Hamilton Convention, says : "A convention of retail grocers in New England could not do better than to discuss such questions as these. If our grocers are in Canada during August we advise them to attend the Convention. There will also be many sports, games, etc."

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

In canned goods there has been no important feature this week. The demand has continued slow for most lines owing to the large offerings of green vegetables and fruit, consequently the market has ruled very quiet with only a small volume of business in a jobbing way. The tone has been steady and prices are unchanged. The prospects at present are not very encouraging for trade in the future, and dealers generally do not look for much change in the situation of the market until late in the fall. Tomatoes are attracting the most attention at present, owing to the recent sharp advance in prices, which has been well maintained, as crop reports from all over the country have been unfavorable on account of the cold nights and the indications are that the crop will be short and the pack small. Holders, therefore, are very firm at $1 to $1.10 per dozen. Lobsters are in light supply and firmly held at $6 to $6.50 per case. Salmon has ruled quiet and steady at $1.70 per dozen. The movement of corn has been light at $1 to $1.75 per dozen as to brand. Peas are unchanged at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. The demand for canned fruits has been slow and few sales of any consequence have been made. Prices are unchanged. Armour's canned meats have met with a fair demand and the usual amount of business has been accomplished at this season of the year.

SUGAR.

The tone of the raw sugar market has been very weak and private cables to-day from London note a decline of 3s. 3d. on the week for prompt beet to 15s., which is a break of 13s. 6d. from the top price, 28s. 6d. since July 10. The market has been more active at the decline and a larger volume of business has been done. Prompt beet for October shipment is offered at 14s. 3d. The strike in London may have a further depressing effect on the market, but the general opinion here is that prices have no doubt touched bottom this time. A private dispatch from New York says: "The market for refined sugar is more active and steady at 8¼c., with refiners' sold ahead on soft whites." There has been no change in the situation of the market here, business having continued very quiet on account of the slow demand, and few sales have been made as buyers continue to hold off and will likely do so until the market firms up. Prices, however, have ruled steady at 8½c. for granulated, and 6¾c. to 7⅝c. for yellows as to quality at the factory.

SYRUP AND MOLASSES.

In syrup business has been dull on account of the continued slow demand, and the market has ruled quiet and steady at the recent decline. Stocks are not large in refiners hands, but one or two outsiders who bought largely some time ago still hold a considerable quantity and are disposing of it in small lots at higher prices than we quote. At the factory 3¾c. is the outside figure. There has been a weak tone to the molasses market, and a further decline in prices has been scored, owing to the fact that several cargoes have come to hand which have been offered freely on the market, and the best bids obtainable were 43½c. on spot, and 42½c. to arrive, which prices were refused, consequently we do not hear of any important sales. The market on the whole has been quiet, and holders do not expect much improvement in trade before next month. We quote Barbadoes in cargo lots at 42½c. to 43½c., with small quantities up to 45c. to 46c.

ECHOES OF THE CONVENTION.

One of the many amusing incidents of the Convention originated with Mr. Carling, a big, good-natured man from Exeter, and who is, by the way, a nephew of Hon. John Carling, Minister of Agriculture. A speaker was endeavoring to explain a point in a roundabout way, when he was interrupted by cries of "question!" Mr. Carling, who saw he was leading up to the question, called out: "Let him alone, he's coming to the point. You cannot get the bull by the horns at once; you have got to get him by the tail and work up." It is needless to say that Mr. Carling's story was understood, and after the laughter the speaker was allowed to proceed without interruption. Mr. Carling also made a good point in discussing the butter question by saying that, "though people are fond of half-and-half in liquor they are decidedly opposed to it in the color and quality of butter.

Great regret was expressed that Mr. Parkinson, of Exeter, was not well enough to read his paper on "Bankrupt Stocks," owing to illness. He has kindly given it to us, and it will be published in these columns in a future issue. To Mr. Parkinson belongs the credit of being one of the first, if not the first retailer to propose holding the Convention which the enterprising business men of Hamilton so successfully carried out.

Mr. T. C. Irving, Canadian Superintendent of Bradstreets' Mercantile Agency, was present and took a lively interest in the proceedings.

Mr. G. McKechnie, of Durham, Grey Co., was one of the leading spirits. He is a fluent speaker, and never speaks without saying something important. He always commands the attention of the audience. He is as popular at home as he was at the Convention, for he has been Reeve of his town for many years. No one has worked harder and in a more disinterested way for the county of Grey than has "Mac," as he was familiarly called at the Convention. At the same time he did not neglect his own business, for he is reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in the county.

Chairman John Knox apologized for his inexperience as a public speaker and explained that it was the first time he had spoken in public. If he had not said so no one would have known it.

The Toronto delegation were the pets of the Convention, being received with very marked attention. Messrs. Berwick, Thackray, Mills, Mara and Gibson took a prominent part in the discussions, while Messrs. Berwick and Thackray did some good work on the committees. It is not until we go away from home that we know what an influence our association really has.

We do not like to boast, but our readers will pardon us if we take a little of the credit for the large attendance at this, the first business men's convention. Over eighty per cent. of the merchants present are on our subscription lists. We have been advocating the claims of the Convention for weeks previous.

Chairman Knox and his energetic Vice, Mr. Bristol, were particularly careful to make a distinction between the new organizations, Business Men's Associations and Boards of Trade. All present agreed.

Mr. Carling, of Exeter, spent from Saturday to Tuesday in Toronto, and favored us with his company.

Mr. Adam Ballentine, one of the representative retail grocers of Hamilton, was indefatigable in his efforts to make the Convention a success, and his action was fully appreciated. He paid particular attention to the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association delegation. His only regret was that he could not do more for them.

Mr. Knox, the chairman, who worked night and day preparing for the Convention, leaves for England and the Continent next week to purchase his spring goods.

The heathen Chinee and all Christian people are fast finding out that the only reliable is the Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder, made by E. W. Gillett, Toronto, maker of the famous Royal Yeast Cakes.

In the trades procession in Hamilton, on the 22nd instant, we noticed no fairer representative of the business and manufacturing interests of that city than that of Mr. F. W. Fearman, pork packer. Mr. F. has been identified with Hamilton's interests for thirty years or more, and his trade has steadily increased until it is now second to none in Ontario. The Star Brand hams, bacon and spiced rolls stand first in the provision market of Canada. Fearman's pure Canadian lard need no mention here; grocerymen throughout Ontario will recommend this lard as pure unadulterated goods, and many will handle no other brand. The lorry, on which was a pyramid of hams, bacon, spiced rolls, pork, lark, etc., handsomely decorated, did but simple justice to the house it represented, and contributed largely to the success of the day.

TEAS AND COFFEES.

The strong tone to the tea market has continued on account of strong advices from abroad and the small stock held here. Prices have an upward tendency, and the indications are that a further advance will be scored in the near future, as very few consignments are coming forward compared with previous years, and bond dealers have not been importing so largely on their own account this season. The demand has been good principally for low grade Japans, which are very scarce, and those who hold any are very firm in prices, and in some cases are asking an advance over previous sales. The market has been active, and a large volume of business has been transacted, including some large sales on spot, and a number of consignments now on the way of Japan tea at prices ranging from 17½c. to 20c. The prospects are favourable for business in the future, and dealers generally are looking forward to an active trade.

TORONTO, Aug. 29, 1889.

GROCERIES.

The grocery trade has been very dull this week. The entire month of August has been disappointingly dull. July was the same and it was thought that August would have been above the average, instead of as it is an average month. When the sugar market lost its backbone it upset the confidence in the entire market. Payments are fair for this season of the year, which is always a dull one, and prospects are very bright for the fall and winter trade. Stocks are light prices low, and and crops turning out well. One country merchant writing to THE GROCER says he has just finished threshing and the result is 30 bushels wheat to the acre, 75 of oats, and 32 of barley.

CANNED GOODS.

Usually at this time of the year the movement in fruits and vegetables is slow, but the present is an exception, for there have been a good many large transactions. One Front St. house has sold 2,500 cases in assorted lots during the past seven days, and all at prices which net them a good profit. The greatest activity has been in tomatoes which have been selling at 90c. to 95c. in lots of 50 and upwards. Corn is selling as before at 90c. up. The best inquiry is for fish which has sold quite freely in retail lots. Salmon is firmly held at $1.70 to $1.75; no new pack have arrived yet, and dealers are anxiously waiting for some news as to the probable time of the arrival of first shipments, as stocks are beginning to show signs of giving out. Retailers have been buying some large lots of mackerel at $1.50 to $1.60. Fruit and vegetable packers are all busy with their fall pack. Some of them are being put to very great delay and inconvenience by a fire in a local photographer's in which a large number of labels were destroyed.

COFFEE.

Nothing to note in this market. Values are unchanged both here and abroad.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are dull and easy. New crop are now on the way here, the first shipment having been made on Saturday. Prices opened lower than last year, and prospects are that values will rule lower during the season. The shipment will arrive here in about a month or six weeks. On the spot barrels and halves are quoted from 4¼c. to 5¼c., according to quality. Dates are firm at 6c. to 6½c. Cables report an advance in Persian owing to reports of cholera.

Prunes have advanced ¼c. in New York and are tending upwards. The local market is unchanged, but will probably be higher. The scarcity of apples ensures a large demand this season, and purchases at the moment promise to be a pretty safe investment.

Raisins are steady. Valencias are selling at 7¼c. to 7½c. in small lots and several little lines were sold at 7⅜c.; early shipments of the new crop, to be here in about a month, are offering at 8½c.; later shipments are offering a good deal lower. Elemes are very firm. Sultanas also command full prices. Malayas are dull, cables report the opening of the market this week.

GREEN FRUIT.

Lemons are meeting with a moderate demand only, and this line has been quite featureless for some little time past. Stocks are low and not many are coming forward. The quality of the fruit offered is, as a usual thing, first class. They are quoted at $5.50 to $6 per box. A very few box oranges are offered, and they sell at $6 per box, but on account of the high price the enquiry is light. A fairly good trade is doing in bananas, they showing more activity than either oranges or lemons. They are quoted at $1 to $1.50 per bunch. Yellows are almost out of the market, and the trade is principally doing in the red varieties.

NUTS.

Nuts are dull and neglected. A few reports are coming from foreign markets. Jordan almonds are cabled to New York at 30s. c. and f.

SUGARS.

The market has relapsed into its former dull and neglected condition. No one wants to buy at present. Locally buyers have no confidence in the market, and are content to take just enough to keep them going. There is certainly not much encouragement to buy. The statistical position is strong, but that is the only favorable feature, for everything else conspires to bring down the prices of the article. The consumption is very light, owing to the scarcity of green fruit, and the higher price of both fruit and sugar. The outlook for better prices is rather blue. Unless the long-looked for demand should come at an early date the market will likely receive the worst black eye it has had for a long time. An increased demand would no doubt give confidence to holders and thereby stiffen the market. It is anticipated that the demand will come, if at all, in September, which is naturally the largest month in the year. The course of the market has been so erratic this season that the unexpected generally happened. Total stock in all the principal countries at the close of last week was 548,113 tons against 776,824 tons at same time last year. On this market there is no change on last week. Low-grade soft sugars are very scarce, and prices are maintained at 6⅞c. up; any increase in the supply would likely reduce the quotation. Granulated is moving at 8⅞c. to 9c.

TEAS.

The market is in an extremely strong position. Reports from abroad say that the crop of Paklings is very short, and holders are advised to have faith in the market and keep a tight grip on supplies as there is every probability of better prices in the future. Japans are in a good healthy condition. Desirable medium and low grades are about unobtainable either here or in Japan. The consumption of greens has been so light in this market that it is of very little importance whether prices go up or down. The demand is light and the supply is ample.

HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

Dressed hogs are in fair supply and dealers are buying at $7 to $7.25. The market for mess pork is dull; American is offering at $14 to $14.50 and Canadian is steady at $15. Long clear bacon is more active, in fact a greater business is being done now than at any time this season; prices are somewhat unsettled owing to cutting in prices; as a rule small lots are selling at 8½c. to 8¾c., and for round lots 8¼c. is quoted, though it is claimed by many that this is an exception to the rule. Lard is weak; Canadian tubs are selling at 10c. to 10¼c. and pails at 10½c. to 11c; American varies from 9c. to 9½c. in tubs to 9¾c. to 10¼c. in pails. Smoked meats are in active demand. Hams are very firm at 13c. and stocks are very light. Smoked backs are going at 12c. and new rolls at 10½c.

The Cincinnati Price Current says:—The week's packing in the west has been 115,000 hogs, which compares with 135,000 the preceding week, 90,000 last year and 110,000 two years ago. The season's total from March 1 is 4,910,000, against 3,950,000 a year ago. The increase for the week is 25,000 hogs, and for the entire season 960,000 compared with last year. Prices of hogs have undergone moderate changes during the week, and at the close are about the same as a week ago at leading markets. Several western houses have ceased operations, finding no inducement at current values. Ruling prices of hogs are too high to encourage manufacture against prices for September or October delivery, which are on the basis of $3.75 to $3.80 for hogs at Chicago, while good hogs in that market are selling at $4 to $4.25 and higher, and in other markets the relation of values is similar. The exports of product for the week were of large volume, over 50 per cent. in excess of corresponding time last year, and equivalent to 80 per cent. of the western manufacture. The domestic consumption is large, and stocks of meat are being materially reduced. With all the favorable aspects of the trade there is no indication of a shaping of affairs by which the near future can be expected to show an important rally in prices of product. It is not unlikely that the winter prices have been reduced to about as low a point as they will reach soon, now representing about $3.65 per 100 pounds for hogs, for January delivery at Chicago. Between now and that period, if the influential packers believe prices are likely to rule as low, they will probably endeavor to have a shaping of values to a higher average, on which to secure sales of product for forward delivery. As it is, there seems little inclination to sell largely for future delivery at current figures, and also a hesitancy in regard to purchasing freely. Present prices for September delivery at Chicago are fully 35 per cent. lower than a year ago. The gain in exports of product since March 1 compared with corresponding period last year equals the product of fully 650,000 hogs.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The butter trade is in rather an unsatisfactory condition. Stocks are large in the hands of country merchants and farmers, and the outlook for any but choice grades is not good. Unfortunately, much of the stuff held in country stores is off flavour, and cannot possibly realize within

2c. to 3c. per lb. of what it would have brought a month ago. At the moment receipts are not large, but the supply of medium and low grades is more than sufficient, while choice and fancy butters are scarce and in demand. The latter are selling in tubs and rolls at 15c. to 17c. There is a particularly good demand for large rolls which are in light supply; all offered are taken readily at 15c. to 16c. Medium grades are going slowly at 14c., and low grades are dull at 12c. to 13c. Shippers are inquiring for a few lots of good store or dairy for the lower ports, but as their views as to values are away below those of the country holder, no business is doing. Some round lots have been taken by the local trade on a basis of 13c. delivered here for choice store. Creameries are maintaining their price well. On the spot choice makes are selling at 21c. Most of the factories in Western Ontario have apparently contracted for the seasons make with the exporters; the price is generally 21c. They are shipping in 20 lb. and 30 lb. packages.

CHEESE—Steady. Local dealers are buying old lots at the factories at 9¼c., and selling, in a small way, at 9½c. to 10c. At the markets this week only a few sales have been made of August make at 9c. to 9¼c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Green apples are in fair supply, and prices are steady under an active demand at $2.50 to $2.75 per barrel. Dried apples are firm but nominal, two or three round lots of 100 to 200 barrels held outside have been offering at 5c., and buyers have bid 4½c. but no sales have been reported; on the spot holders are asking 6c. for small lots, but no business is doing. Evaporated are dull; lots of 40 or 50 boxes are offered at 6½c. and single boxes at 7c. to 8c.

BEANS—Very little business is doing in this market. A few small lots are passing out of store at $1.50 to $1.75 per bushel.

EGGS—The Association advanced buying prices to 12c. on Friday and the selling price to 14c. here on Monday. Other dealers have followed in the upward movement, and are now asking 13½c. to 14c. with strictly new laid at 14c. to 14½c. New York is much firmer. Canadian new laid are selling there at 18c. to 18¼c. average off, and held at 17¼c. to 17½c.

HAY AND STRAW—Receipts are light and all offering are readily taken at $12 for good timothy on the track. Demand, however, is light. A few cars of No. 2 hay have been contracted for to arrive on track at $10 to $10.50 October delivery. In broken lots timothy is selling on the spot at $12.50 to $13.50. Straw dull at $7 to $8.

HIDES AND SKINS—Dealers are buying green hides at 2¾c. to 4¾c., and selling cured at 5c. to 5⅜c. Sheep and lamb skins are taken at 50c. Calf skins are dull at 5c. to 6c.

HOPS—Are quiet. A round lot of good 1888 sold during the week at 18c.

POTATOES—The supply is large, and values are easier. Dealers are selling out of store at 60c. to 65c. per bag. No cars moving.

POULTRY—In good demand but light supply. A few lots of chickens are arriving, and are selling at 45c. to 65c. a pair. Ducks are scarce and wanted at 65c. to 70c. a pair.

TALLOW — Supply light and prices unchanged at 1¾c. to 2c. for rough and 5c. to 5¼c. for rendered.

WOOL—Steady at 20c. to 20½c. for prime fleece. Pulled scarce and wanted at 23c. to 24c. for super and 28c. to 29c. for extra.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The demand for flour continues dull, though a little more business appears to have been transacted at the lower range of values. Straight rollers have changed hands at $4.50 and extras at $4. Bran is quiet at $8.50 outside, or $10 on track; good demand for middlings at $14 f.o.b., Toronto freights. For Ontario wheats, especially white winter, there is a good steady demand, and prices of old are firmly maintained. It is selling freely on the Northern at 97c., and on the spot at $1; supply is very light, and all offered is wanted. A sale of a car of choice new white wheat, weighing 61 lbs. was reported Wednesday to have been made to an Ayr miller at 85c. Spring wheat dull at 94c. on Midland. Red winter is worth 97c. on the Grand Trunk west. Manitoba wheats dull. No. 1 hard is selling at $1; No. 2 at 95c.; No. 3 at 85c. No. 1 frosted at 80c. to 82c. for average samples. An occasional sample of barley is being shown and speculative quotations are now and then reported, but there is no actual business doing yet. The first load of new barley arrived on the street this week. It would grade about No. 3, and was taken at 40c. The general impression is that when the market does open it will be at low prices. Peas are steady with a fair demand. Old are being bought outside at 58c. to 60c., and buyers are bidding 55c. for new. The market for oats is dull, and under heavy offerings the feeling is easy at the decline. Mixed have sold on the track at 30c. to 31c. Choice are worth 32c. Oatmeal is steady and unchanged at quotations.

FISH.

The supply of fish has been larger, and is now rather more than the business requires, the demand being quite slow. Prices remain steady at last week's figures. A good many British Columbia salmon are coming forward, and they are being received in good condition. Very little demand exists for them here, however, and the great bulk are being re-iced and shipped to Buffalo and New York for sale there. Blueback herring are in fair request and plentiful. Trout and whitefish are slow, and there are quite enough in for the trade. Practically nothing is doing in pickerel or bass. Quotations are :—Trout, per cwt., $6 to $6.50; whitefish, per lb., 6c. to 6½c.; bass, per lb., 8c.; pickerel, per lb., 5c. to 6c.; salmon, British Columbia, per lb., 14c.; Blueback herring, per 100, $1.50 to $1.75.

RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION PICNIC COMMITTEE AT THE FALLS.

When the palace steamer "Cibola" steamed out into the Bay, Wednesday morning last, there were on board Messrs. Berwick, Barron, Thackray, Gibson, Williamson, Mills, McCulloch, Clark, W. F. Britton, Butcher, Western, Calhoun, McCleary, Binnie, A. G. Booth, A. E. Saunders, Wm. Mara and THE GROCER, the Picnic Committee of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, going on a well-earned excursion to Niagara Falls and vicinity, at the expense of the Sunlight Soap Co.

Seeing the vast amount of work the committee were put to at the recent washing competition at the Grocers' Picnic, the "Sunlight," with their usual enterprize and thought, brought forward this outing as a small return for the labour spent, and they must have felt satisfied with their efforts, for everyone enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

At Niagara-on-the-Lake, train was taken for Stamford, where they were met by Mr. Frank Britton, the popular Queen West grocer, whose guests they were to be for the greater part of the day, and driven in carriages to Glenretta House, Mr. Britton's country seat, where a short rest was made, and by way of an appetizer it was proposed to visit every nook and corner of the farm, and with Mr. Britton at the head of the party, off they started. Mr. B. intends turning the greater part of his farm into a summer resort, and Nature could not have provided better material. One of the most valuable features is the spring water stream which runs through the place, which he proposes to dam up and stock with fish, and for boating and bathing.

On the return to the house all sat down to a sumptuous feast spread under the trees on the lawn. On the table was roast beef of Mr. Britton's own raising, butter, milk and vegetables, all products of the farm, served up in style that would be a credit to the best restaurant in the land. The guests were waited on by Mrs. Frank Britton, Mrs. W. F. Britton, Mrs. Duff, Mrs. Wm. Radcliffe and Mrs. Geo. Ellis, who saw that not a plate was empty.

When they had satisfied their enormous appetites, President Berwick, notwithstanding the amount he had eaten, got on his feet and in glowing terms referred to the kindness of their host and hostess, whom he hoped would long be spared to invite them over again, and proposed the toast "Host and Hostess," which was drank heartily.

Mr. Frank Britton thanked them on behalf of himself and Mrs. Britton, and said he was glad of the opportunity of entertaining them, and hoped they had enjoyed themselves.

"Our Guests" was the next toast, and was replied to by Mr. Collins and Dr. Dee, of Stamford.

Mr. Walter Stark replied to the toast "Sunlight Soap," and said he was happy to be with them, and thanked them for the interest they had taken in "Sunlight," as nearly every first class grocer in the city handled the soap. He had much pleasure in proposing the health of the trade.

Mr. Mills, in a neat little speech, responded on behalf of the trade, and said he hoped that they would continue to do business on business principles, honestly and squarely, and always have that point in view.

Mr. Mara proposed the health of Mr. Wm. Radcliffe, who he hoped would have a farm of his own next year, and it was a matter of of policy to propose his health, that is, if they wished to have an invitation to visit him.

Mr. Radcliffe said there was no use of him buying a farm when he could stop with Mr. Britton, there was lots of room for both of them.

Mr. Clarke proposed health to the ladies, coupled with Mr. Gibson's name.

Mr. Gibson notwithstanding the number of empty plates that were before him responded in feeling terms to "the ladies."

The Press was responded to by THE GROCER.

After a smoke the party started for Lundy's Lane, chaperoned by Mr. Britton, where an interesting historical sketch was given by Mr. Mills.

When the Falls was reached Mr. Britton left them to the tender mercies of the fakir and cabdriver, who showed them all the places of interest around the Falls. At five o'clock the train was boarded for Niagara, where the boat was waiting to convey them home, every one in the party remarking that it was the best day's fun they ever had.

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-knowr brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

WHAT IS BUTTER?

Everybody knows what butter is. It is not oleomargarine, but butter, the fatty substance extracted from milk. The writer pays 25 cents per pound for butter which seems to by quite worthy of the name. Anything below that price he will not venture to swear by. A little of the ancient history of butter may not be out of place here.

The history of ancient butter speaks for itself. In ancient times the Hebrews seem to have made a copious use of butter as food; but the Greeks and the Romans used it only as an ointment in their baths, and it is probable that the Greeks obtained their knowledge of the substance from the Scythians, Thracians and Phrygians, while the Romans obtained it from Germany. In Southern Europe, at the present time, butter is very sparingly used; and in Italy, Spain, Portugal and Southern France, is sold by apothecaries as a medical agent for external application. The amount of butter in cow's milk is about 4 per cent., though the kind of pasture, quality of milk, and general condition, influence the relative quality of the several ingredients of the milk. It is useless for us to describe how butter is made, for every one knows. The writer has fond (?) recollections of the old crank churn and later the up-and-down machine, both of which he worked in his young and tender years, and smiled through a dreamy halo of perspiration and the fog of a dog-day morning as his mother triumphantly announced that the "butter" had "come," and trundled the little red barrelled-churn in from the back steps and gave the cover to the writer to lick the cream off from to repay him for his forty minutes work and the corresponding period of agony such as comes only to the small boy who is compelled to work, or thinks he is.

This is one picture of butter making. The other we will describe in a late trip through one of the largest butter-making establishments in Boston.

The Scotch and some Englishmen are fools enough to eat butter without salt. Permit me to say that the flat, non-palatable, sickly flavor of butter, minus salt, is in perfect keeping with the average Englishman that this country is afflicted with, and if he wants butter without salt, he will have to stay at home and get it. Americans don't keep it. But let me give a few straight suggestions about making butter, and then describe the process of manufacture as practised in a large Boston creamery. In home butter making for Heaven's sake have the hands scrupulously clean and free from the slightest taint of soap. Persons who are subject to moist hands should never "work" butter, as it is very liable to be contaminated by the slightest foreign matter, especially animal secretions; and it is a good idea for the operator to wash the hands always in water containing oatmeal, before commencing. So important is this source of contamination regarded in our butter factories, that butter workers made of wood have taken the place of human hands. The best of butter is of a natural, rich, golden yellow color, and butter that lacks this desirable tint is colored with annatto, and other substances. Annatto is a plant that is grown in France and Italy, and is not actually injurious. The old barbarous and extremely odoriferous palate-tanning practice of coloring butter with carrots has now, we hope, nearly passed into the dimness and hush-gloom of the past. In packing butter great care should be taken to have every vessel used in the preparation as clean and sweet as possible. Constant rinsing with cold spring or well water and scalding with boiling water, should be resorted to. Attention should be paid to the air of the apartments in which butter making is carried on, as a tainted air is very injurious. The adulterations liable to be present in butter are undue proportions of salt and water, and these occasionally run up to 33 per cent., or one-third of the total weight. Another adulteration is the presence of the lactate of zinc, derived from the milk being placed in zinc or tin pails and pans, the milk tending to form lactic acid, which attacks the vessel and forms lactate of zinc, which dissolves in the milk and thereby contaminates it, imparting an unpleasant taste.

There is no article of more vital importance to the retail grocer than good butter; but the great difficulty is in maintaining a standard grade of home-made, as it is only in the factory-made article that a perfect uniformity can be ensured.

The component parts of cream may be thus tabulated:—

	Parts in 100.
Butter	33.43
Caseine	2.62
Sugar	1.56
Salts	0.72
Water	61.67

To procure cream for the manufacture of butter, the milk should be placed in a cellar, the temperature of which is from 55 deg. to 60 deg.

Special care should be taken not to keep the cream too long, as it impairs the quality of the butter and gives it a cheesy flavor. In packing butter for shipping, not more than 50 or 100 pounds at the outside, should be packed in one vessel. About one ounce of common salt—the purest made, either Ashton or Syracuse, made expressly for dairy purposes—should be used to every pound of butter so packed; sugar and saltpetre are added to increase its keeping qualities. The leading butter factories adopt the following rule: For every 22 pounds of butter, 16 ounces of salt, one teaspoonful of the best powdered white sugar. The average quality of manufactured butter may be tabulated as follows:

Pure fatty matter	83	per cent
Cold water	12½	"
Common salt	3½	"
Sugar of milk	1.60	"
Caseine and albumen	1.40	"

Let us make a tour of inspection through the largest creamery in the world, that of C. Brigham & Co., corner of Tremont and Castle streets, Boston.

The milk flows into centrifugal extractors, which extracts the cream in a very simple way. The pure cream drips from the extractors into a receptacle, while the skim-milk flows into a tank near by, from whence it is pumped into great vats, three floors above, from whence it is taken in wagons away to be fed to pigs. Every thing about is scrupulously clean and wholesome.

In the third story, the steam butter worker is working the fresh-made butter between a clean wooden table and an equally clean wooden roller. Not once is the butter, during its manufacture, touched by the hand of a workman—only by wooden ladles and paddles.

Leading off from this room is the cold storage where the butter was neatly packed. All the floors are water-tight, so that they can be washed clean every day, the moisture all running away through a groove along the centre of the floor. In the butter room are churns which will churn 700 or 800 pounds at a time. All the cream that is used is perfectly clean, as the extractors separate all the little impurities that may happen to be in the milk and give up only the pure globules of cream. Sometimes 400 or 500 pounds is made in a day, and sometimes none at all, according to the amount of milk left over.—[New England Grocer.

HOW TO ADVERTISE.

Advertising is both a science and an art. The science of attracting the attention of the public; the art, of holding the attention after it is attracted. People are fast learning these facts, and advertising is in consequence constantly being elevated to a higher plane. The time was, and it wasn't a great many years either, when it was possible for a man to run a business successfully without advertising. He just gave it time and let it advertise itself. That isn't possible now. There is too much competition; the world is living too fast, and money is too uncertain. The business man of the present day who doesn't advertise is usually of small importance in the great world of trade.

And yet the successful advertisers are not always those who fill the most space in the newspapers, or who pay out the largest sums of money in return for that space. The scientific advertiser does not, as a usual thing, spread his declaration of principles over an entire page in a newspaper. He takes a smaller and more modest space, writes his advertisement in a practical, attractive manner, stating only facts, and backing them up with goods that cannot be questioned, and last, but not least, he changes his advertisement with every issue of the paper. He teaches the public to look for something fresh every day, or every week, as the case may be, and always tries to provide something that will be worth looking for.

Another thing that doesn't pay in advertising is a misrepresentation of facts. The reading public has become too well informed in business affairs to be swindled by wild, improbable offers of several dollars' worth of goods for seventeen cents, and the man who wants to gain and hold the respect and patronage of the public must teach it to rely implicitly upon what he says, whether behind his counter or through the newspapers. What are known as fake advertisements are a delusion and a snare. Say what you have to say plainly and forcibly, and above all things, say what you mean and what you can back up with honest goods at your store or place of business.—[Pennsylvania Grocer.

THERE ARE TRICKS IN ALL TRADES BUT OURS.

The other day one of the slickest looking chaps I've seen for a coon's age walked into the store, and what I did for him brought that true old saying to my mind. He was dressed just stunning, and had the airs of a city chap all round him. He inquired if we could do a little tinkering for him, and when I told him we could, he opened a little square leather-covered box and pulled out a natty little brass teakettle that wouldn't hold more'n a pint, if it would that. The bottom of it was giving out and leaking, and he wanted it fixed up. Well, I found that kettle would have to have a new bottom, as it was worn so thin, and was giving out all over, and I told the chap he had struck just the right place to have it done up in style, and I was about to figure out about what it would cost, when he told me to go ahead and fix it, no matter how much it would be. Now, that way of doing things was so different to most tinkering jobs I get to do that it made me gaze at him.

I was getting curious to know what he did for a living, and what figure the little brass teakettle cut in the caper. When I took the teakettle he followed me back into the shop and said he would wait until it was done, as he couldn't do no business without it. Well, I hinted round every way I could think of, but I couldn't find out what his business was, and at last I give it up, and when he seen I'd done that he up and tells me all about it. That fellow could almost read what I was thinking about, I do believe. First he took out of the leather box a little spirit lamp, and then a little pair of scales, and two little tea cups. The case was all fixed up to hold them snug, so they wouldn't break.

"That's the tools of my trade," said he after he' got them all fixed up on my work bench, "and I sell nothing but tea."

Well, when he said that I just couldn't help laughing right out loud at him, because I couldn't see how any fellow, no matter how smart he was, could make a decent living selling tea out of such little cups as them was. Why, it would take half a dozen cups full for a decent taste for me.

"No, not by the cupful," he said, and again he'd guessed what I was thinking about, "but by the box, and often hundreds of boxes at once."

That let a little light into the business, and while I was fixing the teakettle, and him a watching to see if it was done right, he up and tells me like this :

"I don't mind telling you how I do my business, as I don't sell only to grocery houses or people who sell tea. You know there's tricks in all trades, and that little teakettle and my other things here are what helps me work one of the finest tricks in the tea business. When I strike a place I want to sell to, I fix up my little lamp, put on my teakettle, and clean my cups as clean as they can be. Then I ask the grocery man to bring me a sample of the best tea he has in the house, and I ask him what he pays for it. If he says sixty cents I take from my case a sample of tea I can sell at a big profit at sixty cents. I weigh, just exactly, on my little scales, the same amount of his tea and of mine, and I put his in one cup and mine in the other. By that time my little kettle had boiled, and I pour in just the same amount of water in each cup, and in a little while I have made a small cup of tea from each sample. When that grocery keeper comes to taste the tea from each cup, and gets the aroma up his nostrils, he is dead sure to say mine is the best tea, if he knows anything about tea at all, and ten to one I make a good sale to him before I leave. Now there wouldn't be much of a trick in that if my tea was always the best, but that don't make any difference, the trick is to make mine the best, whether it is or not. If you know anything about making tea you know it mustn't be boiled, but it must be made with boiling hot water. When my kettle is boiling I first fill up the cup with my tea in it, then, as if I'd just thought of something, I set the kettle down on the counter, and I get that buyer interested in showing him something for a couple of minutes or so, and talking to him about it. Then I fill up the other cup, but by that time, my kettle is so thin and small, the water aint near as hot as it was at first. So his tea, not being made with boiling hot water, don't amount to much, and he can't help but say my tea is the best of the two. After that it ain't much trouble to make a sale if the man wants tea. So you see that little teakettle is a pretty valuable thing to me, if it is small."

About the time he got through his kettle was done, and I made a nice job of it, too. He asked me how much it was, and I told him I guessed it was worth about seventy-five cents. He handed me a dollar, said that was little enough, and to keep it all, packed up his little case and sailed out. Just as he was going out of the door he turned round and said for me not to give his little trick away to anybody, and I told him I wouldn't. ["The Travelling Tinker," in Stoves and Hardware.

THE DRUMMER TO HIS GRIP.

Full many a weary mile, old Grip,
We've travelled o'er together,
Both in sunshine and the storm—
In every kind of weather.

How many hours you've waited, Grip,
Alone in some hotel,
While I was selling piles of goods,
Or getting scooped like——well.

I never was profane, old Grip,
You never heard me swear—
Not even when that bottle broke,
And I'd no shirt to wear.

How often you've held down the seat,
You darling, dear old Grip,
While I went to the smoking car
With friends to take a sn—smoke.

I've trusted you with secrets, Grip,
In fact you hold some now,
Which, were they known at home,
Would raise an awful row.

You've kept my secrets well, old Grip,
At home and "on the road,"
Through scores and scores of times, old friend,
You've carried a "heavy load."

You've seen me shed some tears, old Grip,
When no one else was nigh,
And often tried to comfort me
With drinks of good old rye.

We've seen some hard times, too, old Grip ;
Like me, you've stood abuse.
Sometimes, like me, you've empty been,
And sometimes "fuller'n a goose."

Yet, I never saw the time, Grip,
When you were really drunk,
Though oftentimes I've had to "preach"
To our old "sample trunk."

We're grey-haired, rusty chaps, old Grip,
And don't look very fine ;
The ladies never notice us,
As when we used to shine.

You know the reason, too, old Grip,
They know the world we've seen,
So they "catch on" to newer grips,
And travelling men in green.

Oh, well, we've seen the time, old Grip,
Whene'er we left the train,
It was to leave some gentle heart
Just fluttering with pain.

And you could tell of letters, Grip,
And faces, sweet and fair,
Which I have left day after day,
In your most sacred care.

A CLERKS' EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.

"Did you ever visit the Clerks' Department of the New York Retail Grocers' Union?" asks "Observer" in the Retail Grocers' Advocate. "If you call some afternoon between one and four o'clock you will see an assemblage of clerks of every sort and description, from the young man just landed to the dude who imagines he knows more about the grocery business than any grocer he ever worked for. It is a strange gathering, some clerks are there but a short time before they get a job, some linger for a few weeks before they find employment. The Department has become so well known that applicants from all sections of this country flock to it, believing that all they have to do is to apply, and some one will be there in a jiffy to employ them. This is a department connected with the New York Retail Grocers' Union that has done much for the benefit of its members. Thousands of clerks have been supplied with situations, and hundreds of grocers have been protected from dishonest and untrustworthy help. There are times when clerks, without a word of warning, leave their employers, it is then that the Clerks' Department comes to the relief of the grocer, if he is a member. Several such cases have happened lately, these grocers were supplied with help in a few hours, thus relieving them of much anxiety and trouble. The benefits of this Department is alone worth all that is asked for membership dues."

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE TRADE IN BUTTER.

The country merchant is thoroughly sick of the butter trade. This was clearly brought out in the discussion on this question at the Hamilton Convention. The trouble and inconvenience to which he is put far exceeds any possible profit he can ever realize on the butter. Then how seldom does he get back even what he paid. Very often he loses two or three cents per lb. We often hear some city dealer express anything but sympathy for the country merchant, remarking that it is his own fault if he loses money in butter. With this we cannot agree; the country merchant has numerous difficulties that the city dealer knows nothing of. For instance, he is blamed for paying the farmers too much for their butter, but how can he avoid it. He has to keep up with his competitors. In some towns the trade agree to pay a fair and reasonable price for the article. As soon as it becomes known throughout the country the farmers pass the town to a small store at some country cross-roads where they can get two cents per lb. more, and where they will buy their goods. Numerous similar instances could be mentioned. The best and surest remedy is the establishment of creameries. In several places in Ontario merchants have organized joint stock companies which built and are carrying on successful creameries. These have proved a decided benefit to the district. The farmers have received cash for their cream, and they pay cash for store goods. The whole neighborhood is benefited. Creamery butter is always more easily marketed, and brings from five to eight cents. per lb. better prices than dairy. Of course, where there is not a creamery merchants should study the best methods of handling and shipping butter.

FEWER COMPROMISES.

The agitation going on among the retail and wholesale merchants of Ontario, and for that matter of the entire Province, for the past year or so against indiscriminate compromises has borne more fruit than many in the trade imagine. Mr. Knox, chairman of the Merchants' Convention, pointed out this fact during the discussion on the question. Three years ago he explained that almost anyone could get a compromise. None of the creditors ever thought of inquiring into the justice of signing a composition. They were all glad to get out of the trouble as quickly as possible. Now matters were very different. Each creditor, before agreeing to a compromise, generally looked into all the circumstances. If he found that the applicant had endeavored to do an honorable and upright business, and was likely to succeed if allowed to resume, he was willing to compromise. If, on the other hand, it was shown that he was an habitual cutter of prices, and allowed neither his neighbors or himself to make a profit, or was not a man who was likely to succeed, a compromise was generally refused. As a result, during the past few months, a number of such men were driven out of business, much to the benefit of the general trade. The agitation should be kept up. Retailers should refuse to deal with wholesale houses who agreed to compromise with any but deserving applicants. There would then be fewer failures and less reckless cutting done in the retail trade.

THE RETAILER'S TEA TRADE.

It is very gratifying to notice the gradual improvement in the tea trade of the retail stores. For some years a large amount of the business has been done by the pedlar, who is supplied on as good, if not more favourable, terms as the retail merchant by the wholesale dealer; the latter is, however, beginning to discover that he is injuring his own and his regular customers trade by supplying the pedlars, for many of them are thoroughly irresponsible. They have no principle whatever. Hundreds of farmers throughout the country can bear testimony to this. They are just as bad as the average shoddy-cloth pedlar. They have no interest whatever in the districts in which they work. They rush through selling poor tea and making exorbitant profits, cheating the consumers right and left by their easy manners and plausible conversation. We know of numerous cases where sales have been made to consumers at a profit of 150 to 200 per cent. The consumers are now realizing this fact. They are discovering that they are better treated, and are able to get goods at very much lower prices, by dealing with a retail merchant at their local village or town. Retailers in many sections have mustered up courage and are fighting the pedlars on their own ground. They offer the same teas, as they can quite easily, at a very much lower price, but they do not recommend these teas but simply use them to show how cheap they can sell the same teas as the pedlars sell. The editor of THE GROCER was in a house near Collingwood not very long ago, and was shown a tea that was left in the house by one of these pedlars. The lady, instructed by her husband, refused to take the tea, but the pedlar insisted on leaving it saying that he would call for it in a short time. Some months afterwards the housekeeper ran short of tea and opened the chest left by the pedlar. He called some time afterwards, and, of course, she had to take the whole chest. It cost her 75c. per pound. At the request of THE GROCER the lady and her husband visited a Collingwood store a few days afterwards, taking with them a sample of the tea. They found that the same grade could be bought in any retail store in Collingwood for 30c. per pound. It is needless to say that pedlars will receive no encouragement from this lady in future.

Her case is one of many and retailers should take a hint to fight the pedlars by a comparison of samples and prices where it is impossible to take stronger action.

WHO BOUGHT SUGAR ?

There are some very angry retailers in eastern Ontario. When sugar was at the highest point they received a circular from a Montreal wholesale grocery house strongly urging them to buy. The circular, we understand, stated that prices were about to go much higher, and that by buying then retailers would make big profits. The market, however, did not follow the course anticipated in the circular, but almost immediately commenced to decline. Those merchants who took the advice are now anxiously looking for the advance or some explanation from the wholesale house in question. The only explanation given so far, and that does not come direct from them, is that this wholesale house had bought largely themselves and were anxious to get rid of their stock.

ADVANCE IN WOODENWARE.

The adoption by the woodenware manufacturers of a standard scale of prices, can not be designated a movement towards combination, so much as an attempt to redress evils that flowed from a cut in prices. Since the advent of a third firm in Ontario, the effects of this cut threatened to demoralize trade. As a result of a recent conference of the three manufacturing firms, prices will be raised to their old living standard, but the list, which will appear in a day or two, is not expected to register them beyond this.

A HINT TO MERCHANTS.

Merchants very often put commercial travellers to a great deal of unnecessary trouble and expense by their thoughtlessness. They have no desire to do it, but, without thinking, they do it. A case in point, and it is one of frequent occurrence. Three weeks ago a traveller called on a retail merchant in a western town. He was told by the merchant that he wanted nothing whatever on that day, but would give him an order if he would come back in two weeks. The traveller made a special trip to the town mentioned, called on the merchant, but found that the order had been given a week before. The merchant was, of course, very sorry, but would not give him another order. We are inclined to think that, in the first instance, the request to call in a couple of weeks was merely another way of telling him he did not want anything at present, but that he might want something in a couple of weeks. The traveller in thus keeping his word lost a great deal of valuable time, besides his travelling expenses. If merchants have no orders to give, let them say so at once and not hold out false hopes to travellers.

THE HONEY CROP.

The land is this year flowing, if not with milk, at all events with honey. For the last decade the bees have not gathered so abundantly. Their lowest point of production in that time was no doubt last year. But they have nobly answered to this year's unstinted profusion of flowers, and its luxuriant growth of hay. The finest honey in the comb now stands at 20c., clover and basswood honey at 10c. to 11c., and buckwheat scarcely sells at all at from 6c. to 7c. Although the present is the greatest crop we have had for years, yet no congestion of the honey-market is expected, as the low prices are expected to furnish relief. There is no likelihood that a surplus stock of honey would be left upon the market in any case. It is a luxury that can be done without when it is dear, and that immediately finds consumers when brought by low prices within the reach of the people. Moreover, the scarcity of small fruits this year makes honey an alternative more likely to be turned to.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

Immediately on learning of the death of Mr. Andrew Cleghorn, London, a special meeting of the Hamilton Wholesale Grocers was held, at which the following resolution of condolence was passed :

"That this Guild learn with profound regret the death of Mr. Andrew Cleghorn, who for so many years has, by his ability and energy, promoted the interests of the wholesale grocery trade of Canada, and that they hereby extend to Mrs. Cleghorn and family their heartfelt sympathy in this great bereavement."

A deputation from Hamilton representing the Guild were present at the funeral. The Guild also sent a handsome cross to be placed on the coffin.

TRADE CONGRESS.

THE FIRST ONTARIO MERCHANTS' CONVENTION.

EVILS OF THE LONG CREDIT SYSTEM. ARE THE WHOLESALERS TO BLAME ?

It is decided to Endeavor to Abolish the Long Credit System and Attendant Evils—Report of the Proceedings of the Fourth Day.

The fourth day of the merchants' Convention began at the Grand Opera House sharp at nine o'clock. Chairman Knox and Vice-Chairman Bristol were promptly in their places. At the start there was a large attendance, showing that the interest in the topics discussed is deepening as the debate advances.

Chairman Knox began the proceedings by reminding the meeting of the rules of debate and procedure. He then read the motion, passed yesterday, authorizing the formation of a business men's association, and proceeded to read the names of representatives chosen from the various boards of trade and from the towns throughout the Province to meet at four o'clock this afternoon to draft a code of by-laws, etc., to govern the future proceedings of the association and for the organization of county and local organization. The

as finally drafted, is as follows :

Misener, Troy ; John Sloan, Galt ; — Martin, Hespeler ; E. Zinkan, Wellesley ; George Gillen, Berlin ; W. Devitt, Waterloo.

Chairman Knox then summarized the proceedings and the results attained by the Convention in the sessions previously held, and announced that the topic of the day was as it affects the wholesale and retail. The evils of dating forward and of yearly credit. Is it not possible to have more prompt payments than yearly ?"

"THE CREDIT SYSTEM

Mr. Carrick read an essay on this subject, opening the debate.

Mr. Ince, of the firm of Perkins, Ince & Co., wholesale grocers, Toronto, spoke, at the request of Vice-Chairman Bristol, on the credit system. After a few general remarks he said that the retailer and wholesaler should be in accord with each other on this question. The day had been, and not so long ago, when yearly credits were the rule ; that had passed away with the inauguration of a uniform system of credit and discounts. In his own business the sale of goods was practically made for cash—that is, fifteen days. He advised retailers that they should make it their earnest endeavour to be prompt at all events. Sometimes they could not collect and meet in full, but they could be prompt. By a reduction of credit to short dates, or cash, the consumer reaped the benefit. The wholesaler could sell cheaper, and so likewise the retailer who paid cash, or at very short dates, and the result was the public received the benefit. He next touched on the evil of dating ahead, and the evils of slaughtering overstocks at a sacrifice price. This was one of the greatest of evils. The wholesale houses were now so close to the retailer that there was no reason for either. They could get orders filled in a day or two, as the exigencies of the trade required. Consequently he felt that the success which attended retailers who followed this practice was not to be wondered at. The drifting along process in business, the failure to take stock, were only causes of the evils of long credit and dating ahead. He asked them all not to do anything to retard the movement in favour of shortening credits, as it was not only in the interests of the wholesalers, but also of the retailer and consumer. (Applause.)

Mr. Heyd, Brantford, asked if a man was to buy $1,000 worth of sugar, and had his note taken at sixty days by Mr. Ince in payment, would it be renewed at six per cent. interest if he could not pay? In other words, would the wholesaler furnish him with capital to do business?

Mr. Ince replied that occasionally it had to be done, but the man who had to ask for such renewal was not looked upon as a strong man.

Mr. Lansberg, Chatham, said he did not agree with the previous speaker. He believed that the wholesalers were to blame for the long credit and not the retailers. He mentioned an instance where a man used his cash to buy real estate, and got his goods on credit from the wholesalers. Thus it was the wholesaler and not the retailer was to blame for perpetuating the evil of credit. And this was only one instance. Wholesalers in clothing are doing the retailers great harm, and on his particularizing firms he was called to order and sat down amid uproar.

Mr. Carling, Exeter, said he claimed that the wholesalers were more to blame than the retailers. They overstocked themselves as did the retailers, and they shoved goods off on the retailers at sacrifice prices. If this overstocking was not indulged in, long credits would not be so plentiful. He advocated cash payments if possible, and thought that moral backbone which would keep their goods on the shelf instead of selling them to dead-beats was too rare. He believed in the cash system, but he did not see how it could be accomplished at once.

Mr. Moyer, of Mildmay, said that in agricultural districts the yearly system of credit was in vogue, but he believed that the day had arrived when this system could be given its death blow. He showed that yearly credits to the farmers really meant two and three years. It needed organization as well as resolution on the part of the individual, and believing that the farmers could pay if they tried to. The business of the country required this change, and it could not come too soon.

A FIVE-MINUTE LIMIT.

On motion of Messrs. Pratt and Munro the time limit of speeches was reduced to five minutes.

Mr. Strong, Princeton, said that in the recent past the retailers had been cutting one another's throats. It was time this was stopped. The credit system was an evil which could be killed by organization and resolution. It could be done. When the tax collector made his demand they could all pay, and, if we insisted in the same way, we could get our money.

Mr. Heyd, Brantford, advocated the giving a large discount for cash by the wholesalers. A retailer could by doing a cash business make money, but he could not do so unless larger discounts were granted for cash.

Mr. Mills, of Toronto, advocated the getting of a law passed which will outlaw accounts under a certain amount, and then retailers would not be compelled to make distinctions between granting credit to one or another. All must pay or give security.

Moved by Mr. Ostrasser, Cultus, seconded by Mr. Moyer, of Mildmay, that in the opinion of this convention the credit system now prevalent in rural Ontario is at the root of most of the evils and irritations of legitimate trade to-day, and that the proposed business men's association carefully considers and suggests a change restricting the terms of credit.

Mr. Gibson, of Toronto, said he agreed with Mr. Thomson as to the wholesalers' blame in the perpetuation of the evils of long credit.

Mr. Horrell, Midland, said he opposed the amendment because he believed the gentlemen who moved it spoke from a selfish standpoint. All men could not do as Mr. Heyd and pay credit. He instanced the trades most affected by long credits, and he believed that if the travellers would stay at home until sent for, or until the retailer could go to the house and purchase for cash what he really wanted it would be better for all concerned.

Mr. Jonathan, Brantford, spoke strongly against indiscriminate credit, and the wholesaler was consequently to blame. They too freely gave credit to those who really had nothing.

Mr. Jeffrey, Midland, spoke in favour of leaving the matter of retail credits to the local associations.

Mr. Saunders, of Goderich, gave the method adopted by him last year to individually shorten credits in his own business. By reducing his accounts monthly, and giving 3 per cent. off for cash, he had met heavier payments this year than ever before and more easily. A great deal could be done by determining to do it.

Mr. Hinch, Napanee, said his experience agreed with that of the previous speaker; but he thought that there was as much difficulty in the wholesale business, and the resolution should cover both interests.

The resolution was put and unanimously adopted.

Moved by Mr. Heyd, Brantford, seconded by Mr. Scott, Woodstock, That cash discounts between the wholesale and retail trade be increased, and that the time of credit be shortened.

Mr. Wm. Mara, Toronto, said it would be better to leave that to the committee, as they could then go into the question of wholesale houses supporting jobbing stores. The men who have no capital were those who were guilty of sacrificing the goods and not those who paid cash or met their notes promptly. The resolution should be discussed from a proper point of view, and consequently the committee would be the proper place wherein to consider it.

Mr. Ballentine, Hamilton, agreed with Mr. Mara as to the evils of the supply stores, and gave an instance where a Hamilton one had demoralized the retail trade by advertising cut rates. Long credits and supply houses were the evils which were bringing many men into dishonour, and they should bring their best energies to a solution of the same.

Moved by Messrs. Thackray (Toronto) and Burritt (Mitchell) that Mr. Heyd's motion be referred to the committee to discuss and report on at to-morrow's meeting.

The amendment was accepted by Mr. Heyd and was carried unanimously.

INSURANCE.

Mr. Wyld, of Toronto, read a paper on fire insurance, and in it laid down the principle that retailers should carry at least the value of 75 per cent. of their stock. The amount of premiums now paid in Ontario approximate $80,000 per annum, and the interest was therefore an enormous one. Very many men failed to see the value of insurance until a fire had reduced them to 50 cents on the dollar, and he held that in view of the wide-spread knowledge on this subject at the present time that to continue this system of the past was nothing more nor less than criminal on the part of the merchant who had heavy creditors. He gave instructions as to the points they should carefully look after in insuring their stocks, inasmuch as policies were legal documents and they should see that all transfers and changes in stock were noted in the policy. He advised them, too, to take stock not less than once a year, and to keep the stock book in a safe place, in order that in case of a fire an adjustment could be made expeditiously and fairly. He thought a subject worthy of their consideration was the question of whether boards of trade should not take up the appointment of fire inspectors and adjusters, and he merely threw out the idea for their consideration. He stated that 64 per cent. of the fires in New York, according to the statistics of that city, had been extinguished by means of pails of water, and he advised such to be kept constantly on hand, and in a place easy of access to all. Indeed, he thought they all should, in view of the very great fire waste, bring their best energies and talents to a consideration of the best means to reduce the enormous fire waste. By so doing, and rendering fires impossible or within early and thorough control, was the only means whereby the great insurance waste could be reduced. He closed by handing in a printed copy of the Atlanta, Ga., fire ordinance, which he recommended for study. A perusal of this ordinance showed that Atlanta controlled her fire system by mentioning every possible detail and inflicting heavy fines for neglect to comply with the provisions of the same.

Chairman Knox complimented Mr. Wyld for his excellent paper, which the convention had listened to with much interest. He had known of very unprincipled practices indulged in by some companies, and he advised them to be on their guard and insure only in companies which dealt fairly and equitably with the insured in case a loss by fire was incurred.

The convention then adjourned.

KNOX, MORGAN & CO.

The present leaders of the wholesale dry goods trade of Hamilton are Knox, Morgan & Co. John Knox, formerly of Glasgow, is the senior member. After the death of A. Duncan, who was lost in the "Asia" disaster, September 14, 1882, Mr. Knox assumed control of the business, and the firm name was changed from A. Duncan & Co. to Knox, Morgan & Co. Mr. Knox's wide experience, general ability and industry are freely acknowledged by those with whom he has had business relations, and to him is given, by common consent, a foremost place among the business men of the ambitious city.

The other partner in this firm, Mr. Alfred Morgan, was thoroughly trained in the establishment of Buchanan, Harris & Co. He afterwards became connected with the firm of John I. Mackenzie & Co. (later A. Duncan & Co.), and it was during his connection with this firm that he was sent as representative to the British markets. He displayed unusual talent in the selection of goods, and soon began to be recognized as a first-class buyer. Long experience has given him a thorough acquaintance with the value of goods, and what is of more consequence, an intimate knowledge of the styles of dry goods suitable for Ontario. These qualifications, added to a thorough familiarity with the best markets for purchasing, places his firm on a par with the best in the Dominion.

Knox, Morgan & Co.'s establishment is situated on the south side of King Street, immediately opposite Gore park. It contains no less than 40,000 square feet of floorage, is conveniently laid out for the business, occupies a central position, and is in every way an attractive wholesale dry goods house. It contains a basement and is four stories in height, and is in every respect adapted for the business. The light is perfect both from the north and south, with additional advantages in this respect from a well which admits the eastern light, thus affording the greatest facility for inspecting the stock, while the arrangements for the display of goods make it easy and pleasant for buyers. Owing to the recent increase in business an hydraulic elevator has been added to facilitate the handling of the goods.

The push and energy shown by this young house, with ample and steadily increasing capital, straightforward dealing and consideration for their customers, have placed them high amongst their competitors, their steady aim being to seek the trade and support of independent merchants by giving terms and prices which enable their customers to meet honest competition and leave them ample profits.

The facilities possessed by them for handling colored cottons are exceptional, being in close proximity to the Ontario, Dundas, Hamilton and Merritton cotton mills.

Successful dry goods merchants require higher training and greater skill and self-restraint than possibly those in any other business, to enable them not only to cater to but anticipate the ever-varying wants of a fastidious public, who become more difficult to please and more versatile in their tastes from season to season. The group of intelligent faces on another page not only represents the force of intellect necessary for a large distributing business, but is the best evidence from an advertiser's point of view of the volume of their turnover.

Twice each year the foreign markets are searched by representatives of the firm, Mr. Morgan looking after the fall goods and Mr. Knox devoting his attention to the spring supplies, each being accompanied by the buyers, J. A. Mackie and Donald McInnes, jr., son of the late Hugh McInnes. All the great mercantile and manufacturing centres of the United Kingdom, Germany, France, Switzerland and Austria, are regularly visited, and the choicest goods to be had are picked up direct from the manufacturers.

The business is conducted on a departmental system, so carefully arranged that the large and constantly increasing volume of business can be expeditiously handled without the slightest friction or confusion.

Every detail is worked out under the supervision of tried and experienced heads of departments, (some employees having been connected with the business in its different styles for twenty years), and customers can always confidently rely upon even their smallest order receiving the closest attention, and upon its being filled and the goods forwarded with promptitude.

NEW USE FOR PIERS.

An interesting experiment is about to be tried in New York City, the progress of which will be watched with a great deal of interest. It consists in the erection of a number of piers along the water-front, the roofs of which will be fitted up for free public resorts in summer. Last winter the State Legislature passed an Act requiring that certain piers should be constructed in this manner, and the New England Terminal Company are the first to take advantage of the Act. The piers are on the East River, at Jefferson street, the oldest and most thickly populated part of the city. One of them is pier new No. 36, and the other old No. 45. The sheds, as the pier buildings are termed, will be constructed with a view to the weight they may be obliged to sustain on the roofs. That on No. 36 will be a single-story building, 420 by 38 feet, with slanting sides covered by galvanized iron. The frame-work of the sides and roof will be of wrought iron. There will be two thicknesses of two-inch Georgia pine planking, laid diagonally to form the roof and walk, and this will be made waterproof. A railing 6 feet in height will be placed within 6 feet of the edge of the roof, and the space within will be for the public use. The roof is to be strong enough to sustain 600 pounds to the square foot, and additional piles will be driven to strengthen the pier. At the street end will be a wide stair-way, the entrance to the pier. Pier No. 45 is 390 by 47 feet, and the structure on this will be of the same character as that of Pier No. 36. Plans have already been submitted to the Dock Board, and it is thought the piles will be ready for use next summer. The cost is estimated at about $50,000, and will be defrayed by the company, who have a ten year's lease of the city's pier, with a right of renewal for ten years.

Here is an idea for Toronto's City Fathers to take up, and improve our water-front in the same way.

The rapid increase in our business has compelled us to seek larger and more complete quarters. New offices have been leased on Wellington Street West, a few doors from Yonge Street, and possession will be taken as soon as the necessary changes in the building can be made. As there is more room than we will require for some time we are prepared to sub-lease a portion of the building.

Wm. Goodbody, Gananoque, has sold out his business.

Messrs. Clatworthy & Grier are showing an imported pickle, put up in small bottles, which will retail for 15c., manufactured by G. F. Sutton & Co., London, Eng.

Mr. Swan, of Swan Bros., grocers, in speaking to THE GROCER the other day on the article that appeared in our columns some short time ago on short weights, said that too much could not be said against this evil. He made it a point to weigh all his goods as soon as received, and if a shortage was found, at once notify the seller. He gave an instance of a Montreal firm who he had been dealing with for a number of years, and found them strictly honest. One day he thought he would weigh one of their ten pound boxes, and the result staggered him—it weighed exactly six pounds. All the boxes weighed the same. On notifying the firm of the shortage, they owned up to it, and, by way of an excuse said they had to do it in order to compete with other manufacturers.

English manufacturers are finding out every day that in the present and future of Canada, and Toronto in particular, there is a first-class market for their goods, and most of the leading English houses are represented here. The latest in this line is the firm of Clatworthy & Grier, of 34 Church Street, Toronto, and 60 St. Francois Xavier Street, Montreal, who represent G. F. Sutton & Co., pickles and sauces; H. Schuritzer & Co., cocoatina; Palmer & Co., candles; Jos. Pickering & Son, polishing paste and knife powder; G. P. Swinbourne & Co., gelatine; Jno. Moreland & Son, umbrellas, London, Eng. Baraught & Brown, mustard, Mansfield, Eng. Peyton & Peyton, bedsteads; Jas. Collins, brass-founders, Birmingham. Flockton & Tompkin, steel; Wm. Webster & Son, cutlery, Sheffield. Sheppard & Co., woollens, Frome. Mr. Clatworthy has had long experience in the grocery line in London, Eng., Mr. Grier has been freight agent of the C. P. R. for a number of years, both gentlemen being well and favorably known. All goods handled by them will be shipped direct from the factory, thus giving the buyer the advantage of manufacturers prices.

GUELPH GROCERS.

The Retail Grocers' Protective Association held a regular meeting in St. George's Hall on Tuesday evening last. The president occupied the chair and there was a large attendance of members.

After routine business a general talk was indulged in on the Hamilton Merchants' Convention, and the subjects then discussed, principally the disposal of bankrupt stocks. One of the members suggested what to the meeting seemed the most satisfactory plan that has yet come under its notice, viz.: That the wholesale trade should form themselves into a joint stock company, having depots at, say London, Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal, or other places for the receipt and disposal of bankrupt stock within the district where said depot is stationed. That valuators be appointed and the stock valued and at once removed to the depots, there to be placed in the different departments and offered to the retail trade at such prices as the condition of the stock may warrant.

It was moved and carried that the above be brought under the notice of the wholesale trade, and this association is of opinion that if taken hold of by them and carried out it will solve the problem of how to dispose of bankrupt stocks, and benefit all concerned.

The president spoke in reference to compromises, and thought the retail trade of the district where the compromiser resides should be consulted, as they, knowing the habits and mode of conducting business of said party, are better able to judge if a compromise is justifiable.

The secretary was instructed to make enquiry if county associations had been formed at the Hamilton Merchants' Convention.

The president thought that something should be done to regulate the hour of closing on evenings before holidays, and considered that an hour later than the usual time of closing should be sufficient, and also that a certain hour should be fixed to which orders may be left for delivery on Saturday nights.

After a lengthy and interesting discussion on above subjects it was moved and carried that a communication be sent to the clergy of the city requesting them to impress upon their congregations the desirability of making their purchases earlier in the week, so as to obviate the press of business and later hours on Saturday night, and also that manufacturers and other employers of numbers of hands who are in the habit of paying on Saturday be, if possible, persuaded to change their pay day to any other day of the week, thus enabling their employees to make their purchases earlier, and thereby confer a favor on the merchants and others.—[Guelph Mercury.

TEA TRADE.—A GENTLEMAN OF MANY YEARS' practical experience on the London (England) Tea Market is open for an engagement as buyer, or the management of a saleroom, for a wholesale house of good standing. Address, in the first instance, to Oonta., care "Canadian Grocer," 5 Jordan Street, Toronto.

TORONTO, SEPTEMBER 5, 1889.

GROCERIES.

Local business has been more active this week but country trade is light. There are a good many travellers' and mail orders but they are all for small quantities. No special changes have taken place in local values.

CANNED GOODS.

Packers are not selling. There has been some inquiry for tomatoes, but packers are not inclined to quote. Some of them do not even reply to correspondence regarding values. In fact they are unusually independent. The drought for the past few weeks has been very unfavourable for the tomato and corn crops, especially the former. There does not appear to have been as much done on the spot in round lots. A car of corn sold to go to Winnipeg Tuesday about $1 f.o.b. Holders are refusing 90c. for tomatoes. Packers are asking $1.10, an advance of 5c. Fish are selling freely. No new salmon have arrived yet, and stocks are very light. One of the heaviest dealers has sold out his stock entirely and is buying from his neighbors. The packers have made a few more sales of "Horseshoe" brand at full prices to arrive. An opinion prevails that the largely increased pack will glut this market and prices will be reduced later in the season. Letters from the coast, however, say that all the surplus pack has been sold for export to Great Britain and Australia and that they could sell more.

COFFEES.

Foreign markets are firm on Rios, and cables report an advance of 5s. to 8s. on Javas since last report.

DRIED FRUIT.

Spot business in dried fruit is light but prices are fairly well maintained as stocks of most lines are just about sufficient to carry the trade until the arrival of new fruit. Foreign markets are watched with much interest. Their course this season has been contrary to rule. First shipments have been usually the most expensive, but this season there has been a gradual advance since the market opened and buyers are regretting that they made unusually light purchases. Currants have advanced 1s. to 1s. 3d. since the opening (which was a little lower than usual) and owing to active buying by France and latest cables report a firm market. Valencias have also advanced and another cable from Denia reports an advance of 6d. to-day. Sultana raisins are also higher and some estimates place the shortage at 40 per cent. below last year.

On the spot currants are quiet, selling ordinarily at 4⅜c. to 5c. in barrels, and a car load sold at 4⅛c.

Dates are held with increasing strength, as it is believed that the new crop of Persian will not arrive here before November, owing to the cholera. Foreign prices are also higher.

Prunes are in fair request at steady prices. Quite a few sales of Le Sphinx brand have been made to arrive at 7½c. in cases. Some authorities raise the estimates of the prospective crop of California prunes to 20,000,000 lbs. The French crop is a large one, and the Turkish and Bohemian are not far behind.

The local stock of Valencias has been increased by the arrival of several hundred boxes from the east, and values are easier. Sales are reported at 7c. to 7½c. New are selling to arrive, first shipment, at 8c. to 8½c. Elemes are very scarce, and are held at 6½c. in 56, and 7c. in 25-lb. boxes. Sultanas are moving at 7½c. for common to 10c. for extra choice.

GREEN FRUIT.

Lemons—We are now midway between the May and November cuts of the Palermos and Messinas, the finest product of lemon culture. The prices are therefore high. What is now offered as the Messina is really the gleanings of the May crop, and is known by the name "bastard" Messina. It sells now at $6. The Maori, really a fine lemon for this season, luscious and uniform in size, sells for $7.50 and upward. A large sale this week in New York, of Naples, Verdelli, and bastard Messina, is expected to affect very slightly the present prices. The Catena, although this is its season, is scarcely yet on the Canadian market. The Verdelli quotes at $5 to $5.25. The Malaga, an inferior fruit, will soon be ripe for plucking. The prospects of the November crop are good. Oranges—Jamaica oranges about $7.50 in lots. Single boxes at $8.50. Bananas—These quote from $1.25 to $1.75, and are not greatly in demand. The influx of Canadian soft fruits, peaches, and plums, has given a momentary depression to the trade in this Southern product. Sweet Potatoes—Supply light, demand steady at $5 to $6.

NUTS.

Only a small business doing. New crop Sicily are cabled at 9¼c., an advance of ¼c. on the opening of a year ago.

SUGARS.

Everyone, both wholesale and retail, is buying lightly. The amount of business doing is considerably less than usual at this season of the year. There has, however, been an increased movement since the first of the month. Values show no change as compared with a week ago. Yellows can probably be bought a shade easier, but whites are selling as before. For the week ending August 29 cane declined 9d. for fair refining and 3d. for Java, and beet was 1s. 9d. lower. M. Licht's estimate of August 17 gives the beet yield for this year as 2,915,000 tons, against 2,735,000 tons in 1888-89, 2,451,950 in 1887-88, 2,730,206 in 1886-87 and 2,219,973 in 1885-86. Willett & Hamlen, New York, in their weekly circular say: In consequence of the decline in Europe, the refiners, having no extensive outlet for their product, and being well supplied with raws, withdrew from the market, and have declined to entertain any offers of holders, even the most tempting. Holders, however, realize the situation, and are not forcing their stocks. The beet syndicate, finding that it was useless to expect support from this side, have closed out their holdings in the European markets, and since the pressure has been removed those markets have remained steady. Private cables from Europe give the opinion that bottom is touched, and the facts seem to justify that view; therefore it may be considered reasonably certain that the markets there are settled. The latest reports regarding the growing beet crop indicate that it will not be as early as was expected. Mr. Licht has reduced his estimate 25,000 tons, and reported on August 17 that the dry, cool weather of the last weeks was of no benefit to the beet fields, and that much depended upon the weather during the next six weeks. The trade in refined has now been so long on a "hand-to-mouth" basis that it would seem impossible to much longer delay the usual heavy demand at this season of the year. Meltings increased 6,109 tons, and stock in all hands decreased 2,716 tons for the week. Total stock in all the principal countries, by latest cables, is 515,462 tons, against 765,827 tons at the same time last year.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Receipts during the past few days have not been so large and all have been sold. The quality has been generally very fair, and on this account was picked up as soon as offered. Commission merchants look for large arrivals with the advent of the Exhibition and cooler weather. They are consequently keeping the floors pretty clear. In fact, one of the largest houses had not a package left at noon to-day. Some of the dealers who purchased largely on their own account have fair sized stocks to work on. Letters from country merchants all over say they are carrying some stock. A good deal of this will go off-flavor before it is marketed, and the general impression is that we will have a large supply of low grades this fall. There is nothing doing in a shipping way. There are buyers, but they want good butter at present prices of inferior and holders will not sell. On the spot there is a strong demand for the better grades of dairy in any shape, tub, roll or pail, and anything suitable for the table will bring 15c. to 17c. for good to selected quality. Bakers are picking up a few packages of medium at 12c. to 13c., and a few lots have sold at 11c. Dealers look for an active demand for all good stocks until after the Exhibition. Creameries are neglected; retailers are afraid of them, as there have been so many imitations put on the market this season. Choice creamery is worth about 20c. to 21c. in a small way.

CHEESE—Steady and in good demand. Prime is retailing at 9½c. to 10c., and at the factories they are asking 9c.

PROVISIONS.

Prices generally are unsettled. Mess pork is selling from $13.50 to $15.50 according to the views of holders; but there is very little demand. Long clear bacon is also suffering to some extent in price owing to competition. Generally 8¾c. to 9c. is asked in small lots, but sales are being made in cases at 8¼c. to 8½c., though the former price is exceptional. A car of Chicago sold at 7½c. delivered here last week. Green hams sold at 11c. in small lots.

There is a good active demand for smoked stuff of all kinds, but there is very little here save hams and rolls. Hams are selling freely at 13c. to 13½c., but there are barely enough to keep dealers going. For rolls they are getting 10½c. to 11c.

The Cincinnati Price Current says: "The total packing in the West for the week has been 120,000 hogs, compared with 115,000 the preceding week, and 95,000 last year. The season's total from March 1 is 5,030,000, against 4,045,000 a year ago. The gain for the week is 25,000, and for the season 985,000, compared with last year. Prices of hogs have settled 10c. to 20c. per 100 pounds during the week in most markets. Quality excellent as a rule. No indications of any special enlargements in the movement in the near future. Some additional western houses have closed, and thus the competition for hogs is being somewhat reduced. The distribution of product continues of liberal volume. Exports for the week were again large, exceeding corresponding time last year about 60 per cent., the larger gain being in lard. Product at Chicago for near future delivery is on the basis of $3.70 to $3.75 for hogs, and for January about $3.60 to $3.65. It is understood that some of the larger establishments are selling loin cuts fresh to good advantage, by which they are obtaining relatively better returns than others, on the average. Inasmuch as present prices of product are fully down to and generally below a parity with hogs, with little indication of much decline in the latter as likely to occur in the near future, there is some ground for the view that values may become steadier, with possibly a little improvement, but not much margin for calculations upon any particular rally in prices. The week's exports for the week were equivalent to 70 per cent. of the western manufacture for the period, and the gain over same week last year considerably exceeded the increased packing compared with a year ago."

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Green apples are in plentiful supply, and sell readily at $2 to $2.50 per barrel. There is a good inquiry for dried apples, and holders are firm. Outside they are asking 5c., and as high as 5c. to 5¼c. was bid for lots on the spot. For small lots there is no demand, and dealers ask 5½c. to 7c. Evaporated are dull at 6½c. in lots, and 7c. to 8c. in small quantities.

BEANS—A few small lots are going out on spot at $1.85 to $1.90 for hand-picked. Today holders were asking $2 for prime. In the West sellers ask $2 for hand-picked f.o.b., barrels included.

EGGS—The advance of 1c. is firmly maintained. All along the street 15c. appears to be the price. Receipts are very light, and the Association is supplying many of the local wholesale dealers. A few small lots of fresh gathered have been bought by wholesalers from pedlars at 14c., and some were bought to arrive next week at that price. In New York the market is very firm with Canadian at 18¾c. to 19c.

HIDES AND SKINS—Hides are unchanged. Dealers are buying green at 2¾c. to 4¾c., and selling cured at 5¼c. to 5⅜c. Sheep and lamb skins are 10c. higher at 60c. Calf skins are dull at 5c. to 6c.

HAY AND STRAW—Receipts of hay have been light, but they have been quite sufficient for the demand, which is limited. Sales of new have been made at $10.50 to $12 on the traek. A couple of cars of old in small bales sold at $12 on the track. Straw dull at $6 to $7.

HOPS—There is a pretty good inquiry and several lots of 1889 crop have been taken to arrive at 20c. to 25c. according to quality in lots of one to two tons. Choice 1888's sold at 24c.

POTATOES—Are unsettled. Sales are being made at 50c. to 65c. per bag in small lots out of store; top prices being for American.

POULTRY—Not much doing. A few lots are coming in and are finding a ready sale at 45c. to 65c. for chickens and 50c. to 70c. for ducks.

TALLOW—Is a little scarce, but prices are no higher, being 1¾c. to 2c. for rough and 5c. to 5¼c. for rendered.

WOOL—Steady, but quiet. A 50,000 lb. lot sold for export about 21c. Dealers are buying small lots at 20c. to 20½c.

DRESSED HOGS.

None coming by rail, but there has been a heavy supply on the street, and prices have declined to $6.25 to $6.75 per cwt.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

There has been a little better inquiry for flour and a few sales have been the result. Offerings are not so liberal, as owing to the scarcity of wheat millers are not grinding as much. Extras are offered at $3.85 in wood, rollers at $4.40 and patents at $4.60 to $4.80. Bran is steady, but quiet at $8.50 outside or $10 on the track. There has been an active inquiry for white and red wheat from millers, but the supply is very light and prices are higher. Buyers are offering $1 freely and sellers ask $1.02. Spring is not so high, being worth 95c. on the Midland. Manitoba wheats are quiet, all the forward stock having been sold and there is not much inclination to buy to arrive. Some not frosted has changed hands at 80c. No sales of barley have yet been reported. Peas are dull; no demand. Buyers would pay 55c. for new or 58c. for old outside. Oats are steady, but dull at 30c. to 32c. on the track as to quality. Some large sales of American have been made during the past few days to Western millers. Oatmeal steady and unchanged at quotations.

FISH.

The autumn "run" of salmon is now coming in, and with it better quality and larger size in the fish. A corresponding advance in price is noted. Large British Columbia salmon sell this week at 16 to 18 cents per lb. The sock-eye salmon, the most choice fish for canning, were caught in myriads in the last "run." Salmon trout and white fish quote from 5 to 6 cents per lb. Lake Huron herring (blue-back) are from $2 to $2.50 per hundred, sold by number. The supply of lake fish is rather slack. The demand is quiet. Salt salmon is worth $12.50 to $13

COAL OIL.

The market is firm and the demand good. Ordinary Canadian refined is 15c. per gallon. carbon safety, 17c.; water white home, 20c.; water white American, 25c., and photogene, 27c. At Petrolia ordinary refined is selling in carloads at 12c. to 12½.

MONTREAL, SEPTEMBER 4, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

The feature of the canned goods market has been a weaker feeling in tomatoes, owing to the fact that the crop has turned out much larger and better than was anticipated by packers and dealers. Receipts since our last have been heavy which has, no doubt, been due to the recent warm weather, consequently round lots of canned tomatoes could be bought to-day at lower prices, but small lots are jobbing out at $1 to $1.10 per dozen. Some arrivals of new mackerel have come into the market which sold at $5 to $5.50 per case. In clams a very strong feeling has prevailed as the bulk of the stock has gone into consumption and no arrivals of new stock have been received yet, consequently prices have advanced to $1.90 to $2 per dozen. Bartlett pears have also had a stronger tone and most sales have been effected at $1.80 to $2 per dozen. Strawberries are firmer at $1.75 to $2 per dozen. The demand for canned vegetables and fruits has continued slow and the market has ruled dull with only a small jobbing trade. The prospects for the future do not look very encouraging as retail houses generally have fair stocks on hand and dealers do not look for much improvement for some time yet. Armour's canned meats have met with a good demand at firm prices.

SUGAR.

Late private cables from London on raw sugar continue very weak, and note a further decline on prompt beet of 1s. to 14s., which is the lowest since the advance, and the indications are that still lower prices will be seen as the syndicate is now throwing all its sugar on the market, for which there is no demand. The market here for refined sugar has been more active under a better demand from Western and country buyers, and a larger volume of business has been transacted. Granulated has ruled steady at 8½c., but yellows have been weak and declined ⅛c. to ¼c. to 6½c. to 7½c. as to quality at the factory.

SYRUP AND MOLASSES.

Since our last there has been a stronger tone to the syrup market and prices have advanced ¼c. to ½c., no doubt due to the fact that refiners have sold out and the stock is now controlled by two outside parties. The position of the market is strong and both refineries are shut down at present. At the factory prices are quoted at 4c. to 4¼c., as to quality. There has been no new feature in the molasses market, business having continued quiet as is usually the case at this season of the year and few sales were effected. We quote cargo lots to arrive and on spot at 42½c. to 43½c., with small lots up to 45c. to 46c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The demand for tea has continued good and the market has ruled active with a large volume of business. Latest advices from abroad have been strong and prices are quoted higher on some grades. The tone of this market has been strong and holders in some cases have effected sales at a higher range of prices. The stock of tea here is light and few lots of old crop tea are offering on the market. The demand for Japan tea ranging from 16c. to 18c. has been active and some large lines have changed hands. The bulk of the old crop tea has been picked up at 12c. to 14c. Low grade black teas continue in good demand at 11c. to 12c. and some fair sized lots have been sold.

COAL OIL.

The demand for coal oil has been brisk, and the market has ruled active and firm with a large volume of business as buyers generally have been taking large lines in anticipation of a further advance in prices. We quote car lots at 14½c. and small quantities at 16c.

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association,

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools: they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

THE METAL ALUMINUM.

By being subjected to the gold beaters' art, a piece of aluminum the size of a dime may be beaten into a sheet several feet square, so great is its tenacity. Only two metals known can be rolled into a sheet as thin as it can, and they are gold and silver. When it does at last come into general use, and the advent of that era will not be retarded much by the man whose death furnishes the text for this article, it will be used for everything, and put to every purpose to which iron, steel and wood are now put. Its adaptability to shipbuilding is very apparent.

Great steamships, the size of the largest Cunards, with the same tonnage and the same number of exposed linear feet, if constructed of aluminum from keel to the top of the masts, instead of drawing from 18 to 26 feet, would not draw more than four or five. In the days of the future aluminites deep-water conventions will be useless assemblages.

It holds a polish the best of any metal known, there being but few elements that will cause it to tarnish or turn black. Rust, too, is a quality unknown to this wonderful white metal. Boiling water will not affect its lustre, which is retained for an indefinite period in any atmosphere. It will withstand a far greater number of the acids than gold or silver will. Strong nitric acid ravenously attacks silver, but has no effect whatever upon aluminum. Gold or platinum will be ruined if plunged into a bath of sulphuret of potassium or melted nitre; aluminum comes out bright and shiny as if from a bath of pure cold water.

Taken all in all, it is a wonderful production of a wonderful age and one that will make possible inventions now undreamed of. Let inventors hasten the advent of the new epoch. The goal is still in view. One inventor is dead, but an army of them "still live." The child is born, no doubt, that will see the wildest dream of these enthusiasts realised; but the time is not yet; we can only hope.—[St. Louis Republican.

The "St. Louis Republican's" article is a very enthusiastic one over the possibilities of aluminum, and may be all correct; as we are not sailors nor ship-builders we do not like to criticise too strongly, but we would presume to doubt the possibility of a Cunarder steamship that now draws 18 to 26 feet, if made of aluminum, only requiring to draw four or five feet. Is it possible that a large ocean vessel heavily laden could navigate deep waters in stormy weather with so light a draught? We are inclined to think that our seafaring friends would steer clear of such a craft.

Mr. Robinson, Canadian agent of Lever Bros.' "Sunlight Soap," was in Toronto for a couple of days this week.

WHAT IS A COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER?

At the annual session of the Ohio Retail Grocers' Association, held at Columbus, O., Mr. John C. Fenimore, of Columbus, Supreme Councillor, U. C. T. of A., being then present, in response to a demand made on him by the assemblage to answer the question displayed above, delivered the following pithy, witty, comprehensive speech, which fortunately we are able to present to our readers in its entirety. Mr. Fenimore said: The spectacle about to be presented to you is that of a young man, apparently in his right mind and of mature age. attempting to elucidate the proposition, "What is a Commercial Traveller?" to an audience composed of several hundred merchants. A glance at your deep furrowed brows, coupled with a knowledge upon the part of the speaker that those lines of anguish have been placed there by the subject of his sketch, a realization of the fact that the rapidly whitening locks, adorning a goodly number of your heads, are the direct result of his insidious attacks upon you, warns me that my position is full of peril, and makes the difficulties of my task appear to be almost insurmountable. Were I to tell you the whole truth, this audience would rise as one man to rend me; if I prevaricate, the representatives of the press are in waiting to convey the intelligence to the two hundred thousand members of my profession, and annihilation will be my doom. The common criticism upon one who conveys any commodity to a point where there is already a vast over-production is, that "he is carrying coals to Newcastle," but that would be insipid in this instance. One who would attempt to furnish a description of a "drummer" to an audience of retail grocers would more closely resemble an individual who, having drawn the capital prize in the Louisiana lottery, proceeds to organize himself into a syndicate for the purpose of piping natural gas into the city of Findley. Ex-Vice-President Colfax was, upon a certain occasion, discussing the subject of future punishment with Dr. Foster, a noted divine of the Universal faith. The doctor was insisting that hell was a myth. To this Mr. Colfax replied with a great deal of earnestness: "There must be a hell, Doctor! It is a military necessity." It is along this line of argument and thought, gentlemen, that I shall attempt to lead you up to a point where you will at least sympathize with the exhortation, "bear these light afflictions for a season," when we apply it to commercial travellers. The leading forces employed in the distribution and interchange of merchandise may be classified under three heads, namely: the manufacturer or jobber, the retail merchant, and the travelling salesman. The duties of each of these are very different from the others, but the interests of all are identical. If the trinity act concertedly upon this hypothesis, the natural result will be pleasant as well as profitable commercial intercourse between them. If the sordidity of temperament or dyspepsia of either of them blind that one to this principle of mutuality, the particular one afore-mentioned will, in the due course of events, find that his meanness is costing him money, and making his own, as well as the lives of the other two, a burden, and later on, when he attempts to realize upon the clause of the unwritten law of commercial equity, the other two will shake their heads and say to him with no uncertain accent: "You make me tired." Theirs is a community of interests. The manufacturer or jobber and the retailer might be termed a pair of Siamese twins, and the travelling man the ligament which unites them. The description of the twins has been delegated to more competent hands; my mission is to diagnose the ligament. The duties of the salesman are ministerial, executive and clerical. He is envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to about one million of merchants in the United States. The simple fact of his being a diplomat, possessing ability outranking that of Blaine or Bayard will not suffice. It is only expected of the first of these gentlemen that he will be a republican, and of the second, a democrat; our friend is expected to be both of these, and a prohibitionist as well. When loaded with the requisite complement of politics, he has upon his devoted shoulders the combined weight carried by McKinley, of Ohio, Mills of Texas, and Sam Small, of Georgia, through the last campaign. When requested to do so by a customer, he is expected to produce from some one of his multitudinous pockets the most approved recipe for either or all of the epidemics or contagious maladies which afflict humanity; while in the deep recesses of his memory must be stored all of the latest jokes and stories extant. In the executive branch of his anatomy, must be garnered an ability to make black look white, the power to "lead the blind by ways they know not; to make dark places light, and crooked paths straight before them," and to explain away the most exasperating mistakes that are sometimes made at the other end of the line. He must be able to show you that eighty cents cartage upon a single barrel of sugar was not a covert attempt upon the part of his house to sell you a dray, and leave the proprietorship of the same vested in the party of the first part, but a philanthropic endeavour to assist you in placing an unfortunate individual whom the Good Lord had originally intended for a congressman, but whom the unrelenting hand of misfortune had wrested from his high estate, down to driving a cart, back again up to the mountain of affluence. He must have a heart of marble and a will of steel, that he may grapple with an incorrigible merchant, and like Jacob of old, holding him fast, cry, "I will not let thee go, unless an order thou bestow." When he accomplishes his purpose, and secures your order, he sends it in to the house; in due time you receive an invoice accompanied by a letter, which informs you that the goods you did not want, but bought to fill out the order, have been shipped, and that the ones you were out of had been cancelled. You fire a letter back at them, using nitro-glycerine for ink. They call the ligament into the office, read your letter to him, and say, "You write to him, William, he will believe you." Then the ligament repairs to the "swearing-room," composes his nerves, and proceeds to inform you, that the house wanted to ship the goods in the first place, but the bookkeeper wouldn't let them. This last act of ignominy which has been heaped upon him is labelled "clerical." Oh, my brethren! when the imperceptible veil which hides time from eternity shall have been drawn asunder, and all those who have been colonized upon the other side shall stand in bold relief before us; when the first great martyr, St. Stephen, shall appear surrounded by an innumerable company of victimized bookkeepers, let us hope, that as the commercial travellers march by in solid phalanx, the words wafted to our ears may not be from the lips of these, chanting in the language of Bill Nye's latest poem, "Where do you go from here?" but rather may there be carriages awaiting us at the station, with swift steeds, shod with pity for our many earthly qualities; and as the clatter of their hoofs resound upon the streets of the shining city, may the greeting accorded us be as cordial as that usually extended to the members of my profession by the retailers whom we visit from time to time.

Should this be our happy lot, I will promise you for myself, and the rest of the boys, who are not here to answer for themselves, that if we once succeed in getting on the inside we will do our level best to talk all of you through, in return for the many kindnesses shown us here.

CONSCIENTIOUSNESS IN BUSINESS.

It may seem rather an old-fogy idea to have any conscience in business in these days of red-hot competition, when one must be a hustler to keep any way near the surface of the swim. From the oft-repeated remark that "a man can't do business nowadays and be honest"—that is, do a successful business—it would appear that anything bordering on a conscience was to be deplored; and a business carried on on such a plan was doomed to go down before the tide. A mechanic said not long since: "You can't believe anyone any more; they will promise to pay for work at such a time, and when one goes for the money they laugh at you and say they have no money." A railroad passenger conductor said: "The time is past when a conductor can make anything more than his regular salary." There is a growing tendency to try to make more than is right to make, or more than an equivalent is given for. There seems to be no conscientious scruples about securing a job by saying it can be done at once, when it is well known at the time that to do the work at the time promised will necessitate putting off some other work already promised. It seems perfectly right in some merchants to instruct their clerks to give short measure; that linseed oil may be sold at a less price than their neighbor sells it for; or that the coils of rope in the cellar shall be watered each morning, so the weight will be more per foot when it is sold. A travelling man remarked: "If I accidentally got into territory belonging to another man from our house I would not try to sell any goods, because every one has to use some stratagem with their customers in selling their line." Now, according to my old-fogy notions, a man's word should be more binding than his bond could be. If I promise a mechanic money at a certain time I expect to pay it. If I am working on a salary, the amount received is all I expect to get from my employer. That anyone buying from me would get full measure and just weight, and that my customers should know that no stratagem was used to get them to buy goods. The conscience of to-day is apt to be like a "pure rubber hose," the greater part impure. There is no necessity that makes dishonesty in any way right. The temptation to practise little tricks of trade for the sake of gain, usually small, grows with the practice, and while honesty for a time may seem not to succeed, the defect is generally found in some other direction than being conscientious in business.[—Iron Age.

HOW TO SUCCEED.

A gentleman, who is now a prosperous merchant, in a conversation with a representative of the Economist, said that his life was changed by a simple performance of duty.

"I was clerk behind the counter in a large retail store in Boston at a small salary. I had been out of work some time, and when I secured the position in Boston I was thankful, and I made a mental promise that I would perform my duties thoroughly. I had been working for two days with poor success; trade had been quiet, and it was difficult to get any customers. I felt somewhat downhearted because my counter had been idle for some time. A customer making his appearance I tried my utmost to effect a sale, but do what I might I could not please the man. Everything was either too light or too dark, and if the colour was selected for his satisfaction the 'quality' was not what he desired. I have a quick temper and at times during the transaction I felt that I could strangle the customer, but I quickly curbed my temper and went at him tooth and nail. I felt that my reputation as a salesman was at stake and it was a question to conquer or to be conquered. At last I made the sale, and with it came a great satisfaction, but I was not done with the man yet. I wanted to sell him more. He said something about sending his wife around to look at some dress goods. I promised to send samples of new patterns as they arrived. The customer thanked me and said:

"'It has taken you a long time to sell me a few goods. Are all your customers as hard to please as I?'

"'It takes some customers but a short time to make their selections, while others wish to go lower; we are bound to please them all,' I answered.

"'Does it pay your house to devote so much time to so small a sale?' he inquired again.

"'Yes,' I replied, 'I have taken pains to give you what you want. I know that you will find the goods as I say. You will have confidence and come again, and the next time it will not take so long.'

"After getting his package he walked out of the store. In three days I mailed samples of the new dress goods to his wife, and the circumstance passed entirely out of my mind. In about a month I was transferred to another counter and received a slight advance in wages. Much to my astonishment, I was taken away from this department after only a month or six weeks' trial and placed in another position. I could not believe that I was not giving satisfaction, because with each change an increase of wages was made. One morning I was informed that Mr. B. wished to see me. I went to the office with surprise and some fear. I was more surprised when I saw sitting beside my employer my customer of a few months back. He proved to be the moneyed partner of the concern, whose other business interests kept him away from the dry goods store almost entirely and he was known to but few of his employees, although he knew that I was a new man as soon as he saw me, and thought to see what metal I was made of. That he was satisfied is proved by making me buyer of the several departments where I sold goods. My prosperity began with the tough customer, and now I thank goodness that I got him and that I did not show my disposition to strangle him."—[Economist.

The crowd that followed a certain wagon in the Trades' Procession at Hamilton on the 22nd is explained by the fact that hot cakes, made with Ocean Wave Baking Powder, were being distributed to the eager multitude, and gave good satisfaction to those who were successful in getting any of them.

Many people lie awake nights suffering from acute dyspepsia, caused by eating food in which alum and other cheap baking powders are used. The most reliable is Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE TRADE OUTLOOK.

Seldom does a twelvemonth open with a fairer trade prospect than the one now before our own country. Everything foreshadows an exceedingly prosperous, if not a phenomenal, year's business. Generously has the earth brought forth her increase, not merely in local tracts, nor with unequal favor, but over all our cultivated area, and throughout the whole range of our products. Climate and soil have been liberal accomplices of the labor of man. The taking off of the grain crop has also been fortunate, and effected with little damage or loss.

It is true other countries have reaped bounteously as well as has ours. It may be that this circumstance will keep the level of prices below the highest of former years, but this will be overbalanced in its tendency by the large amount produced. There is more money likely to be put in circulation by abundance at a moderate price, than by scarcity at a high price.

No class of trades are more directly affected by the richness or meagreness of the earth's yield than are the grocers. This year's outlook is therefore particularly cheering to them. A people which reaps liberally is apt to spend freely, and upon nothing more than upon its table. Canadians can afford to live well this year, and their chief providers, the grocers, can expect a good run of trade.

There is nothing in the lot of the grocers themselves to prevent the most being made of this year's promise. The weight of debt now sits as lightly upon them as upon any body of trades that carry stock. They must buy on short time, they must look for extensions, and consequently their credit is not allowed to carry them far below solvency. Their financial standing as a class must be good. The drawback of heavy liabilities can but seldom be in the way of their improving the fine natural opportunities of the year.

A further advantage in the situation of the grocer is, that most of them are carrying rather light stocks. They are not handicapped by tons of old sugar, or the immense remains of any other dear-bought commodities. They can refresh their stores with new and generally cheaper goods, and thus prepare for a heavy autumn and winter trade.

LOSSES ON SUGAR.

The speculating in sugar by retail grocers is more serious than we were at first led to believe. It appears that in eastern Ontario large quantities were forced upon the retail trade there by speculators who held out bright prospects of big profits which would result from an immediate advance in the market. Instead of reaping the big profits, several of these firms have become temporarily financially embarrassed. They cannot meet their payments until they realize on the sugar they are now carrying. Some of the wholesale dry goods merchants are complaining of the way the grocers have loaded up the retailers with sugar. One of the former showed us a letter from a good customer in the east asking for a renewal of his paper due September 4th who had hitherto always been most prompt in matters of this kind. He said he looked for an advance in sugar and as soon as it reached the price paid for it he would sell and pay his note.

It is reported here that a Montreal wholesale grocery house will be a heavy loser unless the market recovers itself. It is said they held 5,000 barrels of which 2,000 were granulated when the market dropped on Thursday last. The granulated cost them 9¼c. and they could not get over 8¼c. for the same sugar to-day.

THE BUTTER BUSINESS.

Last week we referred to the unsatisfactory condition of the butter business in so far as the retail merchant was concerned. Since then we have received a copy of the Grey Review, published at Durham. This paper republishes Mr. McKechnie's remarks on the butter question at the Hamilton Convention, and says : "It is certainly most gratifying to the promoters of the creamery to find a man who is so thoroughly conversant with the butter question speak out in so favourable and emphatic a manner, and to make the statement still more valuable it must be remembered that Mr. McKechnie is in no way interested in the creamery business, but is simply bearing testimony to what has come to his knowledge in a business way. It is a notorious fact that the general merchant who handles butter makes no money out of the transaction. Let us make a comparison of how matters stand at present. The current prices during the present season were, in store trade, May, 15c. per lb.; June, 13c.; July, 13c.; August, 14c. Some of this butter has been sold at 12½c. a lb., and the greater portion of the season's take is still in the hands of the merchants, and for which they could now get 12½c. Here is unquestionably a serious loss, and this is what Mr. McKechnie has in mind when he says, 'And the merchants should stop this unnecessary leakage as soon as possible.' We quite agree with him when he recommends the creamery and the cheese factory systems as the only satisfactory way out of the difficulty. What are the results of the work in the creamery this season? From the 15th May to the 15th June 15c. were paid to the patrons ; 15th June to 15th July 14c.; 15th July to 15th August 14½c.; 15th August to 15th September 15c. to be paid. And had the output of the creamery been ten times as great as it was the product would have sold at just as high a rate, and the cost of production at the rate per lb. been very much reduced, so that a much higher rate could have been paid to the patrons. In this business particularly it requires united action, and now that Mr. McKechnie has placed himself upon record in so unqualified a manner we hope that he and all the merchants in town will use every effort to make the Durham creamery one of the largest, as it is one of the best, in Ontario."

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS.

The Retail Grocers' Association met on Monday evening in Shaftesbury Hall, with the following members present: Messrs. Berwick, Thackray, Williamson, Mills, Gibson, McCulloch, Booth, Western, Saunders, Clark, Lindsay, Dellimore. The president, Mr. Berwick, took the chair.

The following motion, of which notice had been given at a former meeting, was next introduced by Secretary Thackray: "If the name of a firm be entered as one of the Association, in the event of that firm's dissolution the membership of this Association shall be held to belong to the senior partner in that firm, on condition that he remain in the grocery business; otherwise the membership of this society shall belong to the senior of the remaining partners."

After some discussion this motion was laid over for another meeting.

The report of the delegation to the Hamilton Convention was next received. Speaking upon this report, Mr. Mills suggested that it would be in the best interests of the Association on a convenient occasion to give some consideration to questions which arose out of the report of that Convention. Notable among these questions was the bearing of wholesale combination upon the retail trade, a question which had to be looked at in more than one aspect. Because retailers some years ago showed themselves favorable to combination among the wholesale men it was now felt by the latter that the retail dealers acquiesced in all the issues of that system as now established. For his own part the speaker was aware that some retail dealers could yet buy tobacco at an advantage over himself. Mr. Mills, therefore, moved, seconded by Mr. Lindsay: "That the question of combination as it affects retail grocers be taken up at a subsequent meeting, of which due notice shall be given". Carried.

Several letters were then read from manufacturers of mineral waters, and other articles, in answer to a protest of the grocers against the direct supply to private persons by the manufacturers of these summer beverages. Messrs. Burns and Armstrong denied that their drivers sold to private parties, but alluded to the possibility of hotel-keepers buying sometimes for private persons.

Mr. Robertson suggested that the matter be considered at a meeting of the Bottlers' Association.

Mr. Chas. Wilson admitted that he sold at retail prices to private persons, but he considered that the grocers were equally or more blameworthy in their dealings with bottlers, on account of their misuse and loss of the former's bottles. As he felt that both grocers and bottlers had grievances, it would be advisable, not for one side to make all the concessions, but that the matter should be left to a conference of the two associations.

Messrs. Robert Thompson & Son, provision merchants, pleaded that Toronto dealers should furnish the public with Toronto-manufactured goods, and suggested an agreement that should be for both Toronto and Hamilton buyers.

Messrs. Chas. Boeckh & Son denied that they sold brushes, brooms, etc., to private buyers as to retail dealers; but they explained that they had a special order department for goods not kept in retail stocks, and used mostly in factories. These they furnished directly to those who used them. The firm further complained that retail grocers kept an inferior sort of brushes, and that the manufacturers were thus resorted to when a good article was wanted. To this letter the secretary had replied, mentioning a particular case in which goods had been delivered to a private buyer whose needs were not special. Messrs. Boeckh & Sons replied, explaining this instance.

After some discussion of this correspondence the meeting adjourned.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS MEET.

A meeting of the Commercial Travellers' Association was held in their rooms in the Public Library building on Saturday evening. Mr. John Burns, First Vice-President, occupied the chair. A report was read by the Secretary, Mr. Sargent, relating to former business of the Association. The report was adopted. A communication from the G. T. R. was received assenting to the request of the Association as to the checking of baggage on fast trains. This brought the meeting to a close.

MESSRS. CHARLES BOECKH & SONS.

It is the aim of the GROCER to promote, as much as possible, an intimate acquaintance among its patrons with the great houses of retail supply in this city. It will continue, therefore, to devote from time to time a little portion of its space to a description of the large manufacturing and importing establishments of Toronto. This week we wish to draw the attention of grocers to the business of Messrs. Charles Boeckh & Sons.

This firm manufactures brushes, brooms and woodenware, a line of goods which occupies a large place in the stock and annual returns of a grocer's trade. In no more important way does the dealer minister to the wants of his customers than by supplying them with the articles necessary for tidy housekeeping. No class of his customers are so severe in their displeasure as are our housewives when infirm or otherwise inferior articles of domestic use have been sold to them. The business which estranges them must soon find itself forsaken. The brushes, brooms, pails, tubs, washboards, dusters, etc., etc., should be serviceable, if the favour of our housekeepers is to be won.

In the manufacture of these articles the firm of Messrs. Charles Boeckh & Sons occupies a deservedly eminent position. The evidence of the high quality of its work lies in the wide extent of its trade from year to year, and the enlargement of its factories and warehouses. Its travellers send orders from all parts of Canada. The building which sufficed nine years ago for manufactory and warehouse is now only half large enough for warehouse purposes. The factories alone employ nearly 150 men. This great progress is not a sudden and fleeting thing, but has been confirmed by the test of years. Such prosperity cannot be maintained to so high a degree, for so long a time, by inferior work. The trophies which the firm has won in the face of world-wide competition further attest the excellence of its work. Also the new material out of which the brushes are made, as hemp, tampico, bristles, camel's hair, etc., is all imported.

Large capital, the best machinery, skilled labor, and a most extensive trade, put the firm in a position to produce cheaply. On account of the great compass of its trade it can afford to sell at a low profit.

The factories of the firm are on Adelaide St. West, from No. 142 to 150. They are equipped with the most modern and highly improved machinery, run by a 40-horsepower Wheelock engine. The immense daily output of these factories finds temporary storage at the company's warerooms, 80 York Street. Here a building of five storey runs back to Clarence Street, and opposite it to another equal-sized building upon the latter street, the company's wares are brought preparatory to shipping.

Within the walls of these two warehouses all sorts of brushes and household articles are to be found. Brushes for whitewashing, scrubbing, stove-polishing, grooming, boot-blacking, painting; brushes for the clothes, teeth, hair, nails, flesh, beard, are in all varieties and grades of value. Washboards, tubs, buckets, pails, trays, ladles, floor brooms, stable brooms, street brooms, baskets, rugs, mops, etc., etc., are there in many forms, sizes, and colors.

But the chief attractive feature of the warehouse is the sample-room. Its floor walls and tables exhibit in inviting order the products of the firm's manufacture. There the visitor will look upon classes of goods which he seldom sees in our best-appointed special stocks. Articles that we always fancied bore the ear-marks of old world taste and skill are here within the sample room of a Canadian manufactory. Elegance, novelty, stability, mark the whole exhibit.

The beautiful brushes, the fine woodenware, and trim brooms lend themselves charmingly to the purposes of ornamentation, and make Messrs. Boeckh & Sons' sample-room a place of brightness as well as of industrial interest.

Messrs. Boeckh & Sons expect to see at their warehouses next week, a great many of the grocers from all districts of Canada. They extend to them a cordial invitation, and will receive them with a kindly welcome. No pains will be spared to make all retail dealers who call upon them spend the time profitably and pleasantly within their buildings.

MESSRS. CLATWORTHY & GRIER.

Amid the prodigality of beautiful and magnificent collections at our Industrial Exhibition, it is much to say for the attractiveness of any particular exhibit that, in harmony with all, it is conspicuous. So much, at least, must be said for the display of wares with which Messrs. Clatworthy & Grier have graced one stall at the Exhibition. Their goods have been many times on exhibition before, in many different climes, on many notable occasions, and have won fame for qualities much more solid and enduring than mere outward comeliness.

This firm is the sole representative in Canada of several Old Country manufacturers, long-established favorites of the British people. They have the steady patronage of consumers much more fastidious than the people. Their staples are an old stand-by in the Royal household, in the homes of the aristocracy, in the civil and military service of many lands. These goods are veterans in prize winning.

In this article we can give attention to only some of the wares which Messrs. Clatworthy & Grier have with commendable enterprise put within the easy reach of the Canadian grocers. We shall reserve some lines of their trade for treatment in a later number.

(1). The famous sauces, pickles, etc., manufactured by Sutton & Co., London, England. These are known in the gastronomy of every civilized people. Pickles, sauces, relishes, essences, flavors, vinegars, that can stimulate the most jaded appetite, have long been made at this celebrated London manufactory. To name one of their many appetizing dainties, their well-known anchovy sauce won the medal at the International Fisheries Exhibition in 1873, 1874, 1883, 1884, and also at the Great International Health Exhibition. Inferior condiments are not merely distasteful; they are pernicious. No grocer can afford to sell any but the best, and these are now to be had at Messrs. Clatworthy & Grier's, whose bottles are permitted to bear the Royal arms.

(2). Schweitzer's Cocoatina. This grateful beverage is also high in the favour of exalted personages. The Queen, the Empress Frederick, the Princess of Wales, recommend by their example the use of it. It is used in the army and navy; and in Wolseley's Nile expedition, and Nares' Arctic explorations it was used with signal benefit to the men. It is approved by the medical press and faculty, and is invaluable to invalids. Cocoatina is registered in Canada.

(3). The polishes, etc., of Pickering & Sons, Sheffield. A word or two must suffice for a few of these applications. The knife powder has an established name for speedy and brilliant effect upon stained blades. The polishing paste (Needham's), an excellent burnisher of dull brassware, etc., has extensive sale. Blanco, a pipe-clay, or rather a preparation which has superseded pipe-clay, is now used in the armies of Britain, Germany, and the Argentine Republic. It puts on a spotless coating that does not rub off.

In the three classes of goods touched upon above, it seems to be everywhere admitted that the British have a sole right of excellence. Particularly to the wants of the epicure are the home purveyors the acknowledged masters.

Messrs. Clatworthy & Grier are the sole Canadian agents for the British firms named above. The goods are obtained directly from the manufacturer at the same figure as they are furnished to the wholesale trade, and to this Messrs. Clatworthy and Grier add the freight and duty only; for they are manufacturers' agents, and are not competing against other dealers in the same goods; they have the market to themselves. They have increased their business enormously since its beginning last June.

Their catalogue is now out, and can be had at the Fair Ground, or at their warehouse, No. 34 Church Street. There they will be pleased to meet retail dealers, from whom they solicit a call while in the city.—[Advt.

THE REIGN OF TASTE.

Among civilized people the ornamental rarely precedes the useful, but in time grows out of it, becomes its adjunct and sometimes lingers as its survivor. It is generally accepted as in the nature of all beginnings that they are rude. But in no beginning is there any degree of uncouthness that human taste cannot in the end greatly mitigate.

Taste is about as strong an element of success in a business character as is tact, industry, or square dealing. In these days it is getting more and more to be recognized as their equal and ally, and finds a place in the creed and practice of most business men. Such, at all events, must be the conclusion of any man who looks into our country stores nowadays, with the pictures, unfaded in his memory, of what they were twenty years ago. If the shadows of a hideous nightmare should give way to the fountains and grottoes of a fairy dream, great would be the change; but scarce greater than the transformation of the old country store to its successor of to-day.

In the rural house of merchandise of our childhood variety and overflowing plenty were usually to be found. Sacks in all postures, piles of boxes just holding their own with gravitation, kegs of all sorts of nails, encumbered the floor and confounded all sense of order. On the shelves from floor to ceiling, in solemn or grotesque array, patent medicines, unwashed delf, glass and everything that would stay there enlivened the appearance of the walls. Dust sacredly undisturbed upon all things and in all recesses, the lair of the spider in the shelf corners, the record of the fly-season stamped upon all goods, the close and stuffy atmosphere—these had their day when trade was young and taste was a minor thing. Only in a few sequestered spots are they now to be found. Gone are they all, and with them is gone the man of gloom and silence who used to tie our parcels.

Various degrees of improvement now meet the eye of the traveller. A bright, neat man is usually all alive behind the counter. The shelves are tastefully covered with light attractive wares. Coolness, freshness, brightness hang around the stock. Industry, method, taste, all have their part in stock-keeping; and the consequence is, that though there is more labor there are also less waste in the stock, many times a more pleasing effect upon the public, and a more refining influence and better health and spirits to the dealer himself. The sum of all this, however, is Profit.

A piece of phosphate showing 87 per cent. of purity and weighing 1,350 pounds was brought to Kingston recently from Foxton mine. It was taken out 130 feet below the surface.

"When I first started out in business," observed a dealer, "I would frequently cut under my regular prices in order to effect sales, but under no consideration would I allow my clerks to make any reductions. In about a month I saw I had made the biggest kind of a mistake. Customers would come into my store, and when a clerk offered to attend to their wants they would quietly say that they would wait until the proprietor was at leisure. If the clerks said that I would be occupied for some time to come, they would reply that they would come back later, and the chances were that they would go some place else and buy. The result was, I not only lost customers, but I was worked to death, while my clerks were taking it easy. I then turned over a new leaf. I never made a concession that my employees could not make, and in a few months my customers were as well satisfied with the prices quoted by my clerks as they once were with the prices given by me. I know of merchants to-day, however, who do this very thing, and they have been in business, too, long enough to learn better."

TRADE CONGRESS.

THE FIRST ONTARIO MERCHANTS' CONVENTION.

THE FIFTH AND LAST DAY OF THE GREAT MEETING OF BUSINESS MEN.

The final session opened Friday morning at ten o'clock, with Mr. Knox in the chair. He presented the following report of the committee appointed to consider the matters submitted :

Moved by A. Ballentine, seconded by W. H. McLaren, Hamilton, that this committee report to the Convention that in their opinion the chairman, Mr. Knox, and vice-chairman, Mr. Bristol, with Messrs. Ballentine, Kavanagh and Carpenter, Hamilton ; Parkinson, Exeter ; Scott, Woodstock, and Weismiller, of Kippen, be a committee to draft a constitution for the Ontario Business Men's Association, and that each representative who has attended the Convention be asked to contribute $1 each towards the expenses of drawing up and circulating a constitution for the Ontario Business Men's Association, and that the undersigned hereby pledge themselves to promote and further the objects of the proposed Association.

The report was unanimously adopted on motion.

On motion of Messrs. Parkinson and Good, Mr. McKechnie's name was added to the committee.

The chairman then introduced as the opening subject of the day's discussion the

EGG AND BUTTER TRADE,

and called upon Mr. Weismiller, of Kippen, who said he did not see that much could be said beyond the fact that they were paying more during the greater part of the year than the eggs and butter were worth. He spoke also of the necessity of having better refrigerator cars for the shipment of butter especially. He thought that if a car of this description were run, say one day a week, it would enable them to ship their butter in better condition.

Mr. A. Ballentine, Hamilton, urged that the country merchants go more into securing supplies of ice for the better preservation of their butter.

Mr. Parkinson, Exeter, said he could not see much in butter when the necessary expenses were deducted. The position is about as follows : The country grocer paid the highest price for butter to the producer, bought a keg to ship it in, packed it, and accepted less than the butter cost him in the first instance. If the cost of the keg was taken from the price of the butter it would be a relief.

Mr. Smith, Shelburne, explained the method of handling and shipping butter in his village. Their method secured by association uniform prices and controlled the tubs in which it was shipped. He thought the great trouble was that business men had not enough confidence in each other—(applause),—and if they associated and trusted one another more the deadbeat customer would not succeed in taking the honest money out of the merchant's pocket.

Mr. Good, of Seaforth, advocated that the business men's association make it a plank of their platform that cash should be paid for butter and that the products should be properly graded. There should be no premium paid for butter in trade.

Mr. McKechnie, of Durham, said that they paid cash for butter at no more nor no less than they could get for it. As it was they were making no money in the butter trade and the merchants should stop this unnecessary leakage as soon as possible. He thought if the merchants united in these associations, and had confidence in one another, the better place to discuss the egg and butter trade would be in the local associations, as they would have a local knowledge of the trade. The creamery system of making butter was in vogue in his district, and worked very satisfactorily to all concerned. He urged that they should quit taking in butter, which could be accomplished by the establishment of creamery and cheese factories.

Mr. Kern, Linwood, also spoke in favor of associations of business men for the purpose of regulating the prices of butter and eggs. He also described the state of the market in his district, and it was anything but satisfactory, as could be gleaned from the fact that he and his partner were holding 400 tubs of butter, waiting for an advance, as they could not sell without a heavy loss at present prices.

Chairman Knox said he could well sympathize with the difficulty experienced by the last speaker ; the jealousy of rival merchants was a fruitful source of complaint in many letters received. The formation of business men's associations, and a firmer trust in one another, would do much to remedy the evils complained of.

Mr. Husband, of Hagersville, said the fact that Hamilton was so near somewhat controlled the butter trade there, but the highest price paid was 15 cents per pound. The farmers stood in Hamilton market and obtained from the consumer a larger price than could be paid by the country merchants.

Mr. Weismiller, of Kippen, urged the adopting of the creamery system and the taking out of the country merchants' hands the handling of the trash called butter. He also blamed the newspapers for quoting higher prices than they could possibly get.

Mr. McLean, of the Empire, explained the method by which the market quotations were made up for the newspapers. It was principally the shippers' fault if they did not get the top price.

Mr. Carling, of Exeter, said he thought some of the former speakers were too hard on the farmer. They gave the same price for all grades, mixed good and indifferent together, and the result was that they lost money in the aggregate. Organization was the only cure.

CASH DISCOUNTS.

Chairman Knox said that the next subject for discussion was cash discounts ; but, with the consent of the meeting, he would allow Mr. Ballentine to bring forward a matter of much interest to many of them at this stage.

The permission was accorded by the meeting, and it was moved by Adam Ballentine, seconded by G. W. H. McLaren, that the merchants of the convention deeply deplore the many inferior qualities of soft sugar placed upon the market by our Canadian refiners ; that we are strongly of the opinion that far too much water forms its composition, thereby causing a great deal of shrinkage in the weight of it when dealt out by the retail merchants, and, therefore, is the cause of many troubles arising between the consumer and the retail merchants. We sincerely hope the refiners will give this matter their earliest consideration, and thereby abate a great deal of dissatisfaction that now exists. That the retail merchants hereby appeal to the wholesale merchants for their assistance in this matter, through whom a great deal of pressure can be brought to bear upon the refiner. That a copy of this resolution be sent to each refiner in Canada, and also to the president of the wholesale grocers' guild.

Mr. Ballentine said this was a very important matter, and he trusted they would be united in attempting to remedy this sugar trouble.

Mr. Carling, of Exeter, said he thought that sugar drew damp, and he thought if the barrels were turned often it would be all right. He did not believe water would mix with sugar, though salt might.

Mr. McLaren, of Hamilton, gave his experience. There was much too much water in the sugar, and he gave instances showing this to be the fact. Bright sugar, too, should be of a better color. They could not as retailers, reach the refiners directly, but they could reach them through the wholesalers. He did not complain of the profit made by the refiners, but they should combine to get a better quality. He spoke patriotically of Hamilton and Canada, and said he wanted to be able to buy what he required in this country.

Mr. Turner, Hamilton, as a wholesaler, spoke of the difficulty of reaching the evils complained of, but he could tell them that the wholesale trade was cordially in accord with them and would do what they could to further their views with the refiners.

Chairman Knox said the wholesale merchants of Hamilton were very much interested in the Convention, and would do all in their power to help the retail trade.

Mr. Kittson, Hamilton, spoke, showing that while the wholesalers would do all they could to assist the retailers, he thought the resolution before them was unsatisfactory, inasmuch as it was hardly within the scope of the Convention. He closed by moving that the resolution be withdrawn.

The amendment was seconded by Mr. Carpenter.

Mr. Ballentine thought Mr. Kittson had let the cat out of the bag, and the reasons given for the amendment were tantamount to a confession that they had not been getting fair play. He insisted that the resolution be put.

Mr. Bristol made a personal explanation of his promise to Mr. Ballentine, that he would do what he could in the Wholesale Grocers' Guild to place this matter in its true light. He knew certain sugars were not what they should be, but the refiners had told him privately that the demand for cheap sugars compelled them to make the goods. If the public demanded better goods the refiners would be compelled to make them. He thought that they should withdraw the motion, else they might be accused of political motives. He would still adhere to his promise to do what he could in the Wholesale Grocers' Guild.

Mr. Ballentine announced that he would not withdraw. They had been working for five years to have this evil remedied, but they were no further advanced. He made a reference to the political matter, and said they must vote on the resolution.

Mr. Kittson repudiated having said anything which could have informed anyone of what his polities were. He had no intention of introducing politics and had not done so.

Chairman Knox made an appeal to Mr. Ballentine to withdraw the resolution.

Mr. Ballentine said he believed he was working in the interests of the consumers to take the stand he did, and he would not withdraw.

Mr. Howell, Midland, said the retailer could get better sugar if they paid the price for it. It was the buyer's fault.

Mr. Weismiller, of Kippen, said they were going too fast in redressing grievances. They were not yet formed. This was the general feeling of the Convention, and on motion of Messrs. Weismiller and Ellis, the Convention ordered that the sugar resolution be passed over to the president of the Grocer's Guild.

"PEDDLERS—THEIR REGULATION; enforcement of act" was the next subject announced for discussion by the chairman.

Mr. Good, of Seaforth, opened the ball on this subject, and waxed eloquent against the peddler, especially those outside tea dealers who overrun the country, and so stocked up the farmers with tea, to the detriment of the country merchants. He moved:

That this Convention, realizing the injury that results to all classes of our community from the rapidly growing and pernicious system of peddling—injury to the towns, to the farmers, and to the peddlers themselves—and knowing the difficulty of dealing with the matter by the present available means—the county council—we consider it necessary that some organized plan be adopted to secure suitable legislation on the matter, and that this be remitted to the sub-committee appointed to draft the Ontario business men's association constitution for consideration, action, and report.

Mr. Ostrosser, of Cultus, seconded the motion.

Mr. Parkinson, of Exeter, was in favor of having the local associations, as soon as organized, petition for legislation as soon as they were prepared to say just what they wanted.

Mr. Weismiller, of Kippen, said he thought the better way was that suggested by Mr. Parkinson. He thought that they would have difficulty in getting legislation.

Mr. McKechnie, of Durham, said he thought the evil was one very pertinent to the welfare of the retail traders, and he thought legislation should go as far as making peddlers pay as much as the taxes paid by the retail merchant. He thought it would be better to leave the matter to the county associations. In the course of his speech, Mr. McKechnie gave a very interesting sketch of the history of legislation on this matter, especially of that in county councils.

The motion was carried.

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR, ETC.

Mr. McKechnie, of Durham, was moved into the chair, and Mr. Knox vacated the same.

Moved by Messrs. Parkinson and Good, that the thanks of this Association are hereby tendered in the most cordial manner to Mr. Knox, Mr. Bristol and Mr. Smith, president, vice-president and secretary, respectively, of this Association, for their indefatigable exertions in bringing together the first general meeting of merchants of this province, with a view of forming an association such as has never been organized, having for its object the stimulating and advancing the general trade of the country upon sound financial bases, and for the able manner in which they have discharged the various duties devolving upon them during this, the first session of the Association, now satisfactorily brought to a close.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Good, of Seaforth.

The mover and seconder supported the resolution in eloquent speeches, and Mr. McKechnie, the chairman pro tem., made the speech of the day in putting the motion, which was carried without a dissenting vote, and amid sincere applause.

Mr. Knox, in replying, said that if they had received a benefit from the meeting he had been doubly blessed. While doing what he could to bring the meeting together, he discovered that it was necessary to study the various subjects proposed to be treated from all points of view, and the study had done much to widen his information. After reiterating his remarks of previous sessions on the benefits of organization, he advised them to make their retail organizations business men's associations instead of boards of trade, and, passing on, he paid a high compliment to Mr. Bristol, the originator of the Convention, and its most indefatigable worker. He it was who pressed him (the speaker) into the service, and he it was to whom primarily the thanks were due. He would tell them frankly that it had been hard work for Mr. Bristol to induce him to give the necessary time to organize the Convention, as, during August he generally prepared to go to the importing markets. However, he had, and he was glad if it had resulted in tangible and practical work for the righting of the evils they all felt. He accepted their very cordial vote of thanks in round after round of applause.

Mr. Bristol, in accepting the vote of thanks, said he could not tell them how deeply he felt their kindness. He was proud to have such a vote, because it came from men who, knowing the evils which beset the trade, were yet the solid men of the country. The convention, he was assured, was educational in the highest sense, and, as they had seen, had worked out from an almost chaotic idea of what they wanted into an association which, he trusted, would do much to assist to place the general interests of trade on a better footing in the country." (Applause.)

Mr. Bristol replied briefly for Mr. Smith, the secretary, who was too busy to be present.

Moved by Messrs. Carling and Weismiller, that we tender our thanks to the citizens of Hamilton for the kind and cordial treatment received at their hands by the members of the association.

Several gentlemen spoke in highly eulogistic terms of the kindness received from the citizens, and announced their intention of knowing more of Hamilton and its people in future.

Mr. Ballentine, at the request of Chairman Knox, returned thanks in a few appropriate words for the citizens of Hamilton. He but echoed the sentiment of the whole town when he said they were glad that their visitors had enjoyed themselves.

After a cordial vote of thanks to the press for their correct reports, Chairman Knox formally closed the first convention of the merchants held in Canada.

A PERMANENT ORGANIZATION.

It was not until the last day of the convention that the idea of having those present sign a declaration to become members of a permanent Ontario Business Men's Association was put into practice, although about the first thing done was a determination on the part of the convention to form such an association. Notwithstanding this fact, no fewer than seventy gentlemen outside of Hamilton signed the membership roll, and pledged themselves to do all in their power to organize county and local associations. In addition to this there has been a strong executive committee appointed, and the convention has been practically successful in forming a strong, permanent, central association.

BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATIONS.

A meeting of the business men of Seaforth was held for the purpose of hearing the report of the delegates from that town to the Merchants' Convention at Hamilton last week. The chair was taken by Mayor Wilson, and Mr. John Fairley was appointed Secretary. The delegates were Mr. George Good and Mr. J. Brownell. They handed in a most comprehensive and interesting report of the business done at the Convention, and strongly urged the formation of a Business Men's Association for Seaforth. After some discussion the report was, on motion, received, and the suggestions for the formation of an Association approved of. A resolution was also adopted, appointing a committee, consisting of the Mayor, Reeve and Messrs. J. Fairley, George Good and T. O. Kemp to canvass the business men of the town for their signatures to an agreement to become members of the Association to be formed here, and to take an active interest in it, also to secure a copy of the by-laws, etc., now being prepared by the Central Association, as soon as possible. The intention is, of course, to form this local Association under the auspices of the Central Association, which was formed as the result of the Convention. The objects of the Association are: (1) To encourage well directed enterprises, and to promote the growth of the town in all its interests and the extension of its trade. (2) To promote a more social feeling among business men, and to foster the strictest commercial integrity among those engaged in the different lines of business. (3) To take concerted action in matters where the general good of business men is concerned, and where individual effort is powerless, such as needed concessions in freight, express and insurance rates ; shorter hours of business, immunity from adulterated goods and short weights and measures. (4) To procure a list of delinquents in the neighborhood for protection only, so that they may no longer abuse the confidence of business men, and evade the paynment of just debts. (5) To compel the pedlar to assume a portion of the burdens borne by the merchants. It will be seen that the objects of the Association are not only entirely unobjectionable, but highly commendable. The Expositor expresses the "hope that the business men of Seaforth will take the interest in this matter that they should do, and that we may justly expect from their enterprise in other directions, and that a strong and vigorous Association will be formed, which will be not only of great benefit to individual members and the trade, but to the town also."

THE BLACK COD FISHERY.

Captain Lundberg, who has a fishing station on the north-west coast of British Columbia, is doing his best to develop the fishing industry up there, and especially deep sea fishing. For this purpose he has induced a little colony of his Swedish fellow countrymen to emigrate, and in addition to the twenty he has in his employ he expects more shortly. The location of the settlement is admirably adapted for their colonization, there being plenty of wood and water, and resources of forest and sea to draw from.

The weather this season has not been altogether favorable for fishing operations, and consequently the catch has not been what it would have otherwise been. Captain Lunberg has put up for market 1,000 barrels of fish, a little of this for home consumption, but the greater part for export. Most of it will find a market in Australia, or in the United States. The fishing is done from three to seven miles from shore, and at a depth in no place less than 250 fathoms. Fish are plentiful, and of splendid quality, while their weight runs everywhere from five to thirty pounds.

After being properly cleaned, and the heads and backbones removed, the fish on being landed are taken to the salting house, which is fitted with complete and modern machinery. Here they are first treated to a light salt bath, and are afterwards immersed in a refined Swedish pickle, made from the fish themselves. This pickle, which is also plentifully used in packing the barrels, is guaranteed to preserve the fish in good condition in any climate.

Captain Lundberg proposed to give the skil, which is improperly called "black cod," a new name. "Skil" is an Indian name, and as cod is a very common and cheap fish, while the skil, which is like both a pickerel and a mackerel, is better than either of them. He proposes to call it the "blackeral."

THE GROCER has to congratulate our old friend Mr. R. A. Smith, of Newmarket, on his recent marriage. He is one of the most popular business men in the county of York. His numerous friends, accompanied by the town band, gave him a most cordial reception last week. The Era says : "The music and expressions of congratulation to Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Smith were most heartily appreciated, and in return the band boys were treated in a most hospitable and generous manner. Everybody was made to feel at home, a few friends were invited in, and the time whiled away so pleasantly that the electric lights went out before anybody thought of saying "good evening." The boys also wish to acknowledge the handsome contribution towards the band fund and hope there may be more of such pleasant receptions. After singing the popular air, "For he's a jolly good fellow," the boys took their departure."

TEA TRADE.—A GENTLEMAN OF MANY YEARS' practical experience on the London (England) Tea Market is open for an engagement as buyer, or the management of a saleroom, for a wholesale house of good standing. Address, in the first instance, to Oonta., care "Canadian Grocer," 5 Jordan Street, Toronto.

TORONTO, SEPT. 12, 1889.

Since the opening of the month there has been a very decided improvement in local trade in all branches. This has been especially noticeable after the extreme dulness of the month just closed. Both travellers' and mail orders have come in larger numbers and for larger parcels. There does not appear to be any particular demand on any line, but there is a healthy general movement. Sugars, however, are not receiving the usual attention, owing to the higher prices and the scarcity of fruits. In provisions there has been an active trade and values are generally very firm. The opening of the Exhibition has brought large numbers of country merchants to the city, but the rush will not occur until next week. Very little business is likely to be done, however. Our country friends will spend their time in making calls and looking about, while wholesale houses are preparing to entertain them. There has been no change in the money market. Commercial paper is discounted at 6 to 7 per cent. as to the names upon it, while call loans are obtainable at 4 to 5 per cent.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

There is no change in the market for canned goods. Fruits and vegetables are very firm, and prices are tending upwards. Packers are not inclined to make future sales. Tomatoes promise a light crop, but corn will be fair. Fish is in good demand. New canned salmon are expected here in a few days having been shipped last week.

COFFEES.

The spot market is very poorly supplied, and what is here is firmly held. Outside markets show a further gain in values. Frost at Santos has affected Rios, while Mochas have gathered strength on reports from Aden of a continuation of the plague and a quarantine. Rios continue to sell at 20c. to 21c. here.

GREEN FRUIT.

Lemons are steadily going up, and are now bringing as high as $10 a box. Bananas are still in light demand, and prices of last week are unchanged. Oranges have not moved since last report. Sweet potatoes are coming in plentifully. A slight increase is noticeable.

HONEY.

Honey has undergone little change in price or demand since last week. The exhibit of honey at the Industrial is expected to be followed by the sale of all in the competition. This will really fix the market for honey, and will rule subsequent prices. It is not apprehended that it will fall below 10c. upon an average.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are attracting more attention on the spot owing to the improvement in foreign markets. Holders have advanced prices and are now asking 4¾c. to 5½c. as to quality for fine Filiatra in barrels and halves. Samples of new Vostizzas are here and show unusually fine quality and excellent flavor, being much superior to last year. Dates are dull on the spot, but firm. First shipments will cost 6½c. laid down. Figs are dull. New will not be here for two or three weeks yet. Prunes are selling fairly well on spot at 4½c. to 4¾c. in hogsheads and at 5c. in barrels. A few fine quality cases are going out at 8c. Valencia raisins are steady here, but lower abroad. Old stock is selling on spot at 7¼c. to 7½c. New Valencias are expected in a few days and are selling to arrive at 7¾c. to 8½c.; for off-stalk to arrive by first direct steamer 7½c. is asked. Sultanas are quiet, but firm at 8c. to 10c. as to quality. Foreign markets are also firmly maintained. Malagas are dull; very few on the market; quarter-flats of London layers selling at 50c.

NUTS.

Nothing doing on spot, but good deal of interest is taken in the new crop markets which are opening. Jordan and Valencia almonds are cabled about 5c. per lb. higher than last year, while Tarragona are about 3s. per cwt. lower.

PEELS.

New Leghorn lemon and orange are offering at 16c. to 18c., and extra is quoted at 29c. to 32c. as to quality.

RICE AND SPICES.

Rice is quiet; ordinary is selling at 3¾c. in single bags and 3⅝c. in lots. Patna is going at 4½c. to 5c.

Spices are steady. The regular quarterly sale of cinnamon in the London market is reported by the Grocer as follows: The continued lightness of the actual stock, as compared with the quantity on hand at this time last year, precludes the possibility of a liberal supply of cinnamon, and the parcels brought forward by auction on Monday last were smaller than have been known for a long while past, comprising only 1,250 bales Ceylon, which met a stronger demand than usual, and were nearly all taken off at full to higher prices. The fine qualities, being most competed for were about 2d. per lb. dearer, whilst the medium qualities of first and second sorts fetched 1d. advance, and the ordinary grades, which were but little wanted, went at about previous rates, viz., common to fine firsts at 8d. to 1s. 2d.; superior plantation at 1s. 3d. to 1s. 8d.; seconds from 7½d. up to 1s. 6d.; thirds at 6½d. to 1s. 4d., and fourths at 5¾d. to 9d. per lb.; besides fourteen boxes broken at 5½d. to 6½d. Cinnamon Chip—The quantity offered was quite trivial by reason of the present stock being less than one-half that held in 1888, and consisted of only 27 bags, which were sold at 6½d. to 7½d. per lb. for quillings and cuttings. The next periodical sales are fixed for Monday, November 25.

SUGARS.

Refiners being pushed by speculators, and from other causes, reduced prices last week on all white sugars ¼c. Since the reduction there has been a little life in the market, but still the demand is not as heavy as it was a year ago. There is an active demand for all bright yellows, which are very scarce, and likely to be still scarcer as the refiners will not begin making again until October 1st. Prices have in consequence advanced ⅛c. to 3-16c. on those of a week or ten days ago. Low grades are now selling at 6¾c. to 7c., with a few at 6⅝c., while brights rule from 7½c. to 8⅜c. At the moment there is a stronger market, both here and abroad, and demand is more active. Sugar statistics as a whole are as strong as ever, but, owing to the peculiar interregnum we have passed through in refined, stocks have become concentrated in refiners' hands. The process of redistribution into general channels of holdings is going on, but meantime affects the markets for transactions in raws unfavourably, and has really depressed prices both here and in Europe below the level that any good reason exists for. Refined is in large demand, and refiners are now sold ahead in several grades. Reports from producing countries regarding growing crops are on the whole favourable, and fair yields are now generally anticipated with a few exceptions. European markets declined early in the week, but at the close are reported firmer. Total stock in all the principal countries on the even date of August 1st, was 482,807 tons, against 753,831 tons August 1st, 1888—a minus of 271,024 tons, against a minus on July 1st of 304,628 tons.

TEA.

The tone of the local market has decidedly improved in the last week. The demand for all kinds has increased and a fair business in Japans and greens has been transacted. A few low grade Japans have come to hand, and these, being much wanted, have met with a ready sale. The principal business has been in Japans from 13 to 17 cents, and Young Hysons at from 11½c. to 15c. Business from the country on travellers' orders has been good. The New York market has remained quiet, with the exception of the finer grades of Formosa Oolongs which have been in good demand. The offerings at the auction rooms of both greens and Oolongs have been large and prices obtained low. Last advices from London report that market in a demoralized condition owing to the strikes and the consequent way in which all business has been hampered. Mail reports from Japan say the markets there show little change except in the case of low grades which are a trifle weak, though they have not shown any appreciable decline. Settlements at the Port of Hiogo up to 10th August were about 9,000 piculs in excess of same date last year.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVSIONS.

Dressed hogs are easier at $6.50.

There is a pretty fair general movement, except in lard and mess pork, which are dull. Local stocks are very light, but they are daily replenished by shipments of American products. Long clear bacon has been going out freely to fill country orders at 8½c., with 8¾c. to 9c. for small lots. Mess pork is finding a very slow sale, and dealers are offering American at $13.50; Canadian is at $15.50 to $16. A few American sweet pickled bellies in five tierce lots have sold at 10c. There is an active demand for all kinds of smoked stuff. Hams particularly are wanted; they sell at 13½c. to 14c. in small lots. Lard is dull and easier. Canadian was offered in tubs at 9½c. and in pails at 10c. to-day. American is going at 9c. to 10c.

The Cincinnati Price Current says: The week's packing returns show a total of 135,000 hogs, for the West, against 120,000 the preceding week, and 105,000 last year. The season's total from March 1 is 5,165,000, against 4,150,000 a year ago, indicating an increase of 1,015,000, the gain for the week being 30,000. Prices of hogs have been variable, gaining somewhat to a week ago, but are easier at the close, with a reduction of 10c. to 15c. at Chicago and some other markets. In the provision trade the position has not essentially changed in regard to prices for January delivery.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The receipts of butter have increased this week, but the quality has been very fair and nearly all offered has been sold. Commission merchants have written country shippers advising no shipments of medium or low grades, as there is no sale for them. There are a few lots of these qualities lying about here and they find a very dull market. Large quantities are reported at various points throughout the country, on which holders are anxious to realize. On the spot good table butter is in active request at 15c. to 17c. for good to fancy tub rolls and crocks. Mediums are dragging at 13c. to 14c. and low grades at 11c. to 12c. Some round lots of mixed store and dairy have sold at 12½c. The trade is all on local, there being no business on shipping account. Creameries are dull; lots are offering at 20c. delivered.

CHEESE—Is advancing abroad. Yesterday Liverpool gained 6d. and to-day it made another 6d. Factories are selling July to the local trade at 9c. and August at 9¼c. Dealers are re-selling at 10c. for best.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The flour trade continues dull, and values are a little easier. Bran is in good demand at firmer prices. Car lots are moving on a basis of $10.50 on the track. Broken lots are selling on the spot at $11 to $12. Wheat is steady; offerings light and demand good. Old white wheat is very scarce and continues to advance; on the spot it is sold at $1.01½, and the same price would be paid for more. Outside, new is selling at 90c. at point of shipment. Red winter would probably bring as much, though it does not appear to be as scarce. Spring is held at 94c. to 95c. outside. Old Manitoba wheat is scarce and dull and prices are steady; No. 1 hard is moving at $1, Toronto freights; No. 2 at 94c. to 96c., and No. 3 at 88c. Deliveries of barley here and throughout the country are light. Prices appear to run from 40c. to 45c. for this year's crop, though some of last season's has realized much higher prices. Demand is limited, and if the season continues as warm as it now is there is not much prospect of improvement. The receipts of American barley have been large, and prices over there are low. Buyers of peas are indifferent. They would probably pay 55c. to 56c. at points of shipment. Oats are dull at 30c. to 30½c. according to sample. Offerings are light. On 'Change to-day new was offered at 29c. for next week's delivery on track with 28c. bid, or 29c. for old. Oatmeal s easier at quotations which are for broken lots.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—A few Canadian apples are coming forward in baskets, but the supply is very small, the bulk of the offerings being American stock. The quality is good and the sale active at 50c. to 60c. per basket and $2.50 to $3 per bbl. Crab apples are selling slowly at 25c. to 35c. per basket. Very little business is doing in either dried or evaporated stock. A few lots of dried have been picked up by dealers at 5c. to 5¼c. and a consignment here is offered at 5½c. Dealers are asking 5½c. to 6½c. For evaporated there is no demand. Occasionally sales are being made of single boxes at 6½c. to 7½c.

BEANS—Are quiet and steady. Holders are asking $2 in barrels latter included at outside points for old. On the spot small lots are selling at $1.85 to $1.95.

EGGS—The market continues very firm. Receipts have been light and some dealers have not had nearly enough to keep them in stock. Values are hardening. The Association continues to sell at 15c. while outsiders quoted 15c. to 16c. The top seems to be readily obtainable for strictly new laid stock.

HAY AND STRAW—Receipts of good to choice timothy are light and prices are steady. All coming is wanted for immediate use, though prices are a shade lower than a week ago. Dealers are paying $10 to $11 on the track for carloads. Broken lots sell at $12 to $12.50. Mixed is nominal, there being no demand for it yet. It is reported that P. McIntosh & Co. have offered to contract for the entire hay supply for the cattle byres here this year at $9 per ton. The consumption at the byres for the season amounts to about 5,000 tons. Straw dull, selling at $6 to $7 per ton on track.

HIDES AND SKINS—There is a fair demnd for hides. Dealers are buying green at 4¾c. and selling cured at 5¼c. to 5½c., top being for selected. There is a ready sale for all fresh smooth-haired hides at current rates, but the low price of leather prevents any improvement in hides. Sheep and lambskins are steady and in good demand at 60c. Offerings are light. Calf-skins dull; one house cleared out its accumulations of the past few months, numbering 5,000 to 6,000 hides, at equal to about 6c. per lb.

HOPS—Are quiet, but with the demand fair. Small lots of 1888's have sold at 18c. to 20c., and 1889's have been contracted for at 20c. to 25c. Good samples of olds are worth 12c.

ONIONS—Prices vary very materially. As a rule, however, mixed and red run from $1.50 to $2, while good to choice silver skinned go at $2 to $2.50.

POTATOES—Dealers are buying from farmers on the street at 50c., and they are selling out of store at 50c. to 60c. for both Canadian and American stock.

POULTRY—Receipts are larger and prices are lower. Chickens are now selling at 40c, to 50c. a pair; ducks at 50c. to 65c., and turkeys at 10c. per lb. No case lots of geese have been offered yet.

TALLOW—Good qualities are scarce and dearer. Buyers would probably pay an advance of ¼c. for choice grades. They are paying 5c. to 5¼c. as a rule for rendered.

SEEDS—A few small lots of timothy are moving at $1.65 to $1.75.

WOOL—Fleece is quiet, but steady. Dealers are taking all offered at 20c. to 20½c. There is a better feeling in the market and sellers are asking an advance of about five per cent. Manufacturers are buying a few blanket wools and paying a trifle better figures. No further export business has been done. Pulled wools are fairly active at 24c. for supers and 28c. to 29c. for extras. There are no stocks in the hands of dealers.

COAL OIL.

Market as steady and unchanged at 15c. for ordinary refined; 17c. for carbon safety, 20c. for Home Light, 23c. for prime white, 25c. for American water white, and 27c. for Photogene. Car loads are moving at Petrolea at 12c. to 12½c.

FISH.

The salmon-fishing is now over, and a descent in price is noticeable. The market is steady at 16c. per lb. Lake fish are not more in demand than last week, and still stand 5c. to 6c.

MONTREAL, SEPTEMBER 12, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no important change in the canned goods market, business having continued quiet and of a jobbing character owing to the slow demand, and dealers do not look for any improvement for some time to come. The feature has been the continued weakness in tomatoes, and prices have declined fully 10c. per dozen owing to the large receipts and the fact that the crop is turning out much larger than was anticipated by packers and dealers, in consequence the prospects are that the pack this season will be fully as large as in previous years, and that prices will range lower later on. A few round lots have changed hands at 90c. with small lots up to $1 per dozen. Lobsters have been quiet but firm at $6 to $6.50 per case. New mackerel have been selling in small lots at $5 to $5.50 per case. Salmon has been moving slowly at $1.70 per dozen. Clams have ruled firm at the recent advance with small parcels changing hands at $1.90 to $2. Bartlett pears are firmly held at $1.80 to $2. Corn is unchanged at $1 to $1.75 per dozen as to brand. Peas are steady at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. The demand for canned fruits has been slow, and little business has been accomplished. There continues to be a good inquiry for Armour's canned meats, and an active business has been transacted at firm prices.

SUGAR.

Since our last there has been no important change in the sugar market, except that there has been an improved demand, and the market has ruled more active with a larger volume of business. There has been considerable inquiry from Western buyers, and some large lines have been changing hands. Advices from abroad and New York have been better, and the market on the whole has a better tone, and the prospects for trade are now encouraging, and refiners are looking forward to a more active business in the near future. Prices have ruled steady at 8½c. for granulated, and 6½c. to 7½c. for yellows as to quality at the factory.

SYRUP AND MOLASSES.

The market for syrup has been of a quiet character during the past week owing to the fact that the offerings from refiners have been small, in fact the bulk of the stock is held in outside hands, and what business has been done has been of a jobbing nature. Prices at the factory are firm at 4c. to 4¼c. The demand for molasses has been slow and the market has ruled dull with prices nominally unchanged. The stock here is large but holders do not feel anxious to sell at present prices. We quote Barbadoes at 44c. to 46c., Porto Rico at 42c., Trinidad at 38c. to 40c., and Antigua at 40c. to 41c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The situation of the tea market has been strong owing to the continued strong advices from abroad and the light stocks held here, especially of low grade teas. The demand for Japan tea under 16c. has been good but buyers have had some difficulty in filling their wants on account of the great scarcity of this class of tea and any lots offering are readily taken. The demand for low grade Young Hyson has continued good but the offerings are not large, in fact some dealers say they are scarce. Some round lots of Japan tea have changed hands at about 20c. The market on the whole has been fairly active with a good business and dealers are looking forward to an active trade as soon as some consignments of low grade teas come to hand.

FLOUR.

Flour has been slow, and in view of the light trade prices have an easy tendency, but holders, especially where fresh ground flours are concerned, are loth to make concessions. For old flour, however, holders would accept any reasonable bid.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

Butter has been very quiet, with trade confined to local wants. Stocks are accumulating but prices have remained unchanged. Creamery, 19½c. to 20½c.; townships, 16c. to 17½c.; Morrisburg, 15c. to 16c.; Brockville, 15c. to 16c.; Western, 14c. to 16c.

Cheese has advanced a full quarter of a cent since Saturday owing to improved demand, higher country markets and the offering of fall make exclusively. To-day large blocks sold here at 9⅜c. to 9½c. for finest white and coloured, and some holders asked 9¾c. Medium qualities are in request at 8½c. to 9c. as usual on a strong market. Finest coloured, 9½c.; finest white, 9⅜c. to 9½c.; medium to fine, 8¼c. to 9⅛c.

The egg market has been slow owing to warm weather, which restricts demand. Best stock has sold at 14c. with common to good at 13c. to 13½c.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-knowr brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

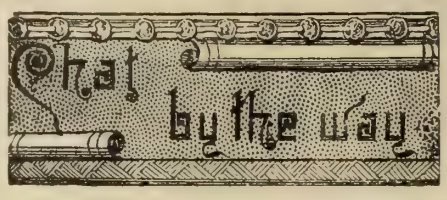
A PLACE FOR EVERYTHING.

In a general store, where hundreds of different articles are kept in stock, it is particularly necessary that there shall be a place for everything, and that all who are connected with the store shall understand so well where that place is that they can put their hands on any goods they may want at once ; we had almost said in the dark, too. Nothing is more provoking than to look for an article and find it, if at all, only after a long search, in the most unexpected place. During rainy days, or, in the country, in midsummer when trade keeps the boys busy only in the morning and at evening, time can be profitably spent in searching out things which have strayed from their legitimate places and putting them where they belong. The boots and shoes have a wandering disposition, and will get in the wrong boxes, or become mismated, which is worse ; the hats and caps have become mixed during some busy period ; and the "Yankee notion" shelves lost part of their contents in some out-of-the-way drawer, and perhaps some things have been bought only to find more than enough of the same article which has been misplaced.

Having succeeded in putting things to rights, keep them so. It may seem less trouble to put a thing in the first vacancy that is found, than to walk half way across the store to put it where it belongs, but it is sure to be forgotten and when wanted again no one knows where to look for it. Habit is everything, and if once we become accustomed to a slip-shod system regarding these little details it is very hard to keep the stock looking well ; and if customers often have to wait until patience ceases to be a virtue they will go elsewhere to trade.

These are old propositions ; the American Grocer has repeated them time and again for twenty years ; and yet whenever we enter some stores we feel like asking, Why don't you keep everything in its place? So we again think it is necessary to "speak right out in meetin'." The trade is advancing, though, and as it is recognized more and more that the best man wins, the less do we find haphazard methods prevailing, and before many years we hope not a store can be found where customers are detained while misplaced goods are sought after.—American Grocer.

Waxed paper bags are now made, the interior surface of the paper being lined with a thin coating of paraffine, which renders the bag substantially air-tight and waterproof. Confectionery, fruit and other eatables may be kept wholesome and fresh, and they are useful for druggists and grocers. Coffee or cheese may be kept in them without losing their aroma and larger sizes are valuable for storing clothing and many other uses.



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION

Secretary's Address:—

592 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Last week Mr. Alex. McLaren shipped six car-loads of cheese from Listowel. The cheese, the July make of nine factories in the surrounding country, aggregated 20,000 lbs.

Mr. T. O. Leonard, of Kingsford's Oswego Starch Works, was here last week. He has a very high opinion of Canada, and brought over Mr. Tremayne, a prominent manufacturer, to see Toronto.

The farmers around Alexandria are turning to bee-culture. John Morrison, of Dunvegan, began the spring with 19 colonies, which have increased to 32, and have yielded 1,500 lbs. of choice honey. Jonn Dickson, of the same place, got 2,000 lbs. from a proportionate number of hives.

The coming crop of cranberries promises an average yield, and the outlook for the season is regarded as favourable. Picking among the Cape Cod bogs has already commenced, but the season for the active distribution of stock is yet some weeks distant, as consumption does not as a rule quicken until cool weather sets in.

The Toronto Globe publishes an article on the fisheries of Lake Superior, which are now being rapidly "developed" owing to railroad and steamboat facilities. As the water of Superior is colder than that of any of the other lakes, its fish is better. The principal fish are whitefish, trout and pickerel. The greater portion of the Canadian catch on this lake comes east. The daily average quantity sent forward is three and a half tons. Mention is made of the fact that recently a large consignment was sent to St. John, N.B., and that a call is expected for more. "Rather a strange thing to send fish to a fishing centre," said a reporter. "Yes," said the seller, "but then it is human nature to want something you haven't got.."

The Brockville Times says : "Professor Robertson, of Guelph Agricultural College, is spending the whole of this week at Mr. Everetts' Rideau Valley Factory, Merrickville, experimenting in the manufacture of cheese. He will make in all seventy cheeses. They are made under different processes, and are designed to show, when cured, exactly where cheese-makers make their mistakes. Part of these seventy cheeses will be fine goods, made on the latest and most approved principle. The others will be made by the systems still carried on in many cheese factories. These cheeses are expected to be a practical demonstration of the effect that salt, annatto, and other articles have upon the quality of cheese, when used in too great or too small quantities. These cheeses will become the property of the Provincial Government, and will be used by Professor Robertson next fall and winter in his lectures to dairymen's associations."

Paper bags, in which many articles are sent from the grocers, should be saved for use when blacking a stove. You can slip the hand into one of these and handle the brush just as well, and the hands will not be soiled, and when through with them they can be dropped into the stove.

The "Sunlight" Soap Company have a magnificent display of soap in an Eiffel tower, forty feet high, at the Exhibition, and are giving away twenty dollars each day for the nearest guess to the number of paying visitors. You buy a 25c. box of soap, cut off the cover, write your name, address and guess, on the back, then drop it in their letter box in the tower, and at five o'clock the prizes are awarded.

A writer says to merchants and commercial travellers ; "When you are riding on the cars and buy the morning paper, paying 5c. for it, do not leave it in your seat when leaving the cars. Take it with you and deposit it in the contribution box for some charitable institution, or give it to some poor boy, man, or woman that you may meet. You will not only gladden the heart of some lonely person not able to get one, but you will keep them from the greedy news monopoly on the railroads, who have the cheek to even grab them from the seat before the passenger has fairly left it. They are thus sold over and over again, and at last returned to the publisher as unsold. Hamilton is probably the best provided with these contribution boxes of any city in the Dominion. Other city and town institutions should provide a large box for this purpose at their several depots and hotels, on the lamp or telegraph poles, the latter being such nuisances it will please the eye to see that they are of some use.

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association,

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools: they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

COMPETITION.

Competition in trade is a boon the English-speaking people owe, neither to accident nor the grace of their rulers, but to the hard-headed steadfastness of their forefathers. To them it was the commercial embodiment of "the greatest good to the greatest number," and in its purity that is what trade competition is. But in its purity where shall it now be sought? Like many another good thing that has become venerable with the fulness of years, it is now laden with corruptions, and is to-day attracting more attention as the source of evil than of good.

So keen has the struggle for existence in late years been, that in many lines of business no money has been made. Bare solvency has been maintained against fearful odds. But for those who so precariously stand, how many fall? At one local centre of trade some dealer, usually for a sinister purpose, begins the depression of prices. His competitors must do the same or submit to loss of custom. Consumers regard this as their opportunity. Cheap goods are bought until some dealers fail, and all are crippled. This is not at once followed by the restoration of healthy trade. The bankrupt stocks are next sold at a rate on the dollar, and upright dealers have still longer to bide the time of their tribulation.

Trade-history thus repeating itself in hamlets, villages, towns and cities throughout the country, the loss must fall heavily upon the wholesale dealers, and importers. These, here and there, will be forced to bankruptcy and accommodations, Canadian credit will get a bad name abroad, and this will retard national progress in many other spheres than those directly affected. Thus the effects of unhealthy competition fall upon the consumers themselves, who are engaged in pursuits that must be greatly advanced by the good financial condition of our country in the eyes of the nations.

But another result of abnormal competition reaches the people in a less roundabout way. If they buy goods at less than what pays a living profit, they must expect either to ruin the merchant or to get goods that are inferior, adulterated, or short in measure. They obtain for their money a lower quantity or quality of goods than they wanted, or else goods that do them harm.

To purge competition of these corruptions there is just one reform necessary. The credit system that now prevails in many lines of trade should be corrected or abolished. No retailer should receive goods, of whom it is not known that he can pay for them, and pay should be exacted when it is due. When a man's money is in his business, he is more likely to husband that business, to the end that he may increase his money. There is then no temptation to try to convert other people's goods into his own capital.

It is to be hoped that the wholesale dry goods men will soon imitate the example of their brethren in the grocery trade, whose modification of the credit system has been followed by effects so salutary to their retail customers and themselves. For these two classes of trade can greatly strengthen or enfeeble the financial sinews of our country.

MANITOBA BEE-KEEPING.

The question whether or not Manitoba, with its unkindly climate, is a hopeful field of immigration for the bee, seems solved in the affirmative by the experiment of Mr. Bridgman, a resident in the immediate neighbourhood of Winnipeg. The Winnipeg Sun reports, in Mr. Bridgman's own words, an account of his experiences as a bee-farmer, and the conclusions those experiences have brought him to. In all he has raised this year about 5,000 lbs. of honey, of which he will use half for the winter-food of his bees. This is his fifth year in Manitoba, and every year he has undertaken with success to raise honey. Instead of bearing out the usual opinion that Manitoba is too cold for bees, his practical study of the question has led him to the belief that Manitoba is superior to Ontario for honey-gathering. Although the prairie province is cold, he holds that its equable coldness is better than the varying moderation of Ontario, inasmuch as the constitution of the bee is more taxed by instability of temperature than by steady depression of temperature. Of course, the bees must be warmly housed throughout the winter. Mr. Bridgman keeps his in a cellar. The golden-rod, the wild yellow-flower, the thistle, and Alsace clover are the favourite blossoms of the bee in Manitoba.

DISPOSAL OF BANKRUPT STOCKS.

At the Hamilton Convention it was intended that Mr. Parkinson, of Exeter, should read a paper on the disposal of bankrupt stocks. Unfortunately that gentleman was too ill to do so. He has, however, very kindly allowed us to publish the address which he had prepared, as follows :

"In my opinion the time has come that bankrupt stocks must go. With the amount of mercantile intelligence that we have in this country it seems to me we should be able to devise some scheme for the disposal of bankrupt stocks in such a way as not to ruin our business, as it is now doing.

"There is plenty of capital in this country waiting for some profitable investment. My idea is, that by forming a joint stock company (if you like to call it such) of the wholesale men of, say a quarter of a million dollars capital, divided into shares, each wholesaler, and retail men if desired, to take one or more shares ; open a warehouse in some central place, say Toronto, and when a stock has to be closed out turn the whole stock over to the company at a rate on the dollar, the company paying the cash over, and wind up the estate. Then we have one trader less. All such stocks to be handled in the same way. Then sell them back to the general trade in such quantities as retail merchants require for sorting up stock, thereby getting rid of the bankrupt stock nuisance and the unjust compromises that are now ruining and demoralizing the mercantile trade that once was an honorable calling.

"In no case should there be a compromise for less than 75 cents on the dollar, and that only after the most thorough investigation has been made and found that the dealer was worthy of it in the true sense of an honest trader.

"Merchants are always ready to grasp bargains of that kind, and would, I have no doubt, take advantage of the opportunity to secure such goods for leaders in their stores, and thereby would keep such stocks run off in such a way that would not be injurious to the trade, and would go a long way towards stopping the great slaughtering of goods that is going on just now, and would, I believe, keep up the standard price of goods. I have no doubt even wholesale men would often find it to their advantage to pick up job lots in such a warehouse. Besides, both wholesaler and retailer would find it a convenient place to dispose of their unsalable goods, which we often have and want to get the money out of them, even at a loss, and would dispose of such goods at a rate on the dollar.

"In this way wholesalers would be interested in such a warehouse, as they would draw a dividend regularly from it, and they would also be better able to sell their own goods, and they would be more particular whom they sold to, and would not be so ready to sell goods to men with little or no capital.

"Why I think the wholesale men are the ones to form the company is, that they would be more responsible, thereby realizing the importance of reducing their imports; otherwise there would be a danger of their overloading the country with imported goods. That is one of the great difficulties just now, the imports are greater than the demand.

"I believe that we have as many goods in the country now as the trade requires for the next two years to come. Take the cotton mills and sugar refineries and what do we find? When they have an over production of stock on hand they shut down for a few months until the surplus stock is run off, thereby keeping up the price of their product and realizing fair profits. Then why not the importers do the same? Reduce the imports for a few years and run off the surplus stock that is now being slaughtered all over this country. Make goods scarce. Scarcity makes the demand for the article.

"I am of the opinion that with such an arrangement, a shortening of credit and a little more caution in selling to retailers, that in a few years bankrupt stocks in every town and village would be a thing of the past.

"There have been some great reforms within the last twenty-five years, although men have been found prophesying beforehand that such reforms would never come to pass; so it is just possible for even wise men to be mistaken. True, reforms of this kind are often slow, caused largely by some men hanging on behind the movement with the hope of making their prophecy come out true.

"What is needed now is associated effort of the merchants of this country to make this the greatest reform that has ever taken place in this nineteenth century."

FOOD MOULDS THE RACE.

At the late meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Mrs. Kedzie of Kansas read a paper under the above title. Its concluding words are quoted: "What wonder that the Irish have grown rebellious, suspicious and lawless. A hungry man is an angry man, and in spite of his 10½ lbs. of potatoes per day the Irishman gets but little of the element necessary to vital force, for potatoes give only three-tenths of one per cent. of nitrogen. Whether meat is the needed substance, or whether nitrogen can be supplied in some cheaper or better way is not the only problem to be solved. Cheapness in food may become a great wrong—when food is too cheap labor becomes cheap in proportion. The great want of today is the ability to properly prepare the food so it shall do for him what he needs done. One pound of beef should give one hundred and eighty-four grains of nitrogen, but suppose it be fried in grease until it become so tough and hard that no digestion can assimilate it. It is not enough to know that a dish of food contains enough of the requisite elements to give strength for a certain piece of work. If that food be not easily assimilated by the system, or if it requires too much vital force to be properly digested, it becomes worthless or worse. It is not enough to know that a pound of food ought to give certain growth or strength—the knowledge of the best method of preparing that food in order to obtain from it all the benefit possible is absolutely essential. The selection of food and preparation of the meals is a science, the depth and importance of which is just dawning upon us. The influence exerted in a home may be very materially affected by the food put upon the table. The laboring man who has in his home an intelligent wife who prepares the food he needs to properly nourish his body, is seldom the man who depends on tobacco for nerve force, and ends his day over a beer mug. The merchant prince, whose dinner is ordered with thought for his work—for his physical and mental needs—is seldom the man who lingers over his wine cup, or who goes to the gaming table. A well-fed man is a contented man, and plenty of the right kind of food is one of the potent forces against all crime. Crime of many kinds is urged upon members of an enfeebled race by bodily cravings which years of proper food would do much toward removing. Many of the grave questions of the day would dwindle into insignificance if every woman in every home knew how best to prepare the food her husband earns, so that it would give him the kind of strength needed for his work. If the table be rightly managed the several appetites, as well as the several kinds of work, must have consideration. What is one man's meat is another man's poison, and earnest study, faithful thought and careful judgment is demanded of the woman who is a success in her home. Knowing this as we do, it seems strange that in the plan for the education of our girls we have neglected to prepare them for the one position in life which they are almost certain at some time to be called upon to fill. Every woman, be she rich or poor, mistress or maid, has need to know what to cook and how it should be cooked to bring desired results. Since Adam and Eve found "the world all before them," when the inexperienced bride enters her paradise of wedded life she has sore need o a Providence to guide her choosing, if her husband would escape dyspepsia and her happiness be complete."

OPINION OF THE 1888 HAVANA CROP.

Mr. G. Fernandez, the Pearl Street Havana importer, who recently returned from the tobacco growing sections of Cuba, when questioned as to the condition of the new crop, said: "Owing to the scarcity of wrappers in Havana when the new crop was approaching maturity, many of the manufacturers there, in order to fill certain orders for cigars which they had on their books, chiefly from Germany, precipitated the curing of the leaf by a very liberal use of betun. Most of the tobacco which was so treated began to rot, and most of the cigars which were sent abroad were returned. So the new crop got a black eye at the start which it did not deserve. The tobacco on the plain lands is of a very papery order, having been washed out by the heavy rains, but the growth on the hills, especially in the districts of Santo Tomas, Sitio del Infernio, Pimienta, Caoba de Santo Tomas, Luis Lazo, and Isabel Maria, is the finest in quality I have seen in many years. The crop is a large one, but owing to the great quantity of flimsy stuff raised on the plain lands, which will be sold at a low figure to the contractors, the supply of good quality tobacco, both for the United States and other countries, will be small and must bring high prices. As a wrapper crop, especially for light colors, the Vuelta Abajo is a failure; but for quality (I mean the tobacco grown on the hills) it has been seldom surpassed. While in Cuba I secured the product of the Caoba de Santo Tomas district, and I consider the quality equal to the best I have ever purchased.

The American smoker will find that the dark cigars of the 1888 crop will be equally as good as the light colored ones they been used to smoking in the past, owing to the tobacco not being so gummy and heavy flavored. The Remedios crop is a good one, but the Capaduras only will be fit for this market."—[Tobacco Leaf.

BANANA CULTURE.

The edible banana, it is said, is known to seed only in one small spot on earth, the Andaman islands. However this may be, it is universally grown from suckers. Its cultivation in the West Indies has vastly increased during the past fifteen years, owing to the demands of the United States for its cheap, wholesome and luscious fruit. About 400 or 500 trees are planted to the acre, and the plantations are called "banana walks." In former days any available spot was chosen, usually an abandoned cane field, where the ground was most easily prepared for the new crop. But experience and competition have brought about more careful methods of planting, and the best place for a banana walk is now considered a valley or hillside with a western prospect. The tree fruits the first year, and the expense of cultivation is so small that a bunch of bananas, delivered at the sea coast, need have cost its owner no more than four or five cents, while it may be sold in the winter months for from twelve to eighteen cents, and in the spring months for four times as much. There are risks attending banana cultivation, however, for the thievish negroes often seriously decrease the value of a crop, and it may be entirely swept away in a single hour by a hurricane. As soon as the bananas begin to cast a shade, young cocoa plants are set out between them, as this tree needs protection from the sun in its youth, and when the bananas cease to be profitable, which is at the end of three or four years, almond trees or other fruit trees are often set in their places, while a new "walk" is laid out elsewhere. —[Boston Budget.

COUPON SYSTEM.

The coupon system is a great labor-saving device to get rid of the vexations of making collections, and the little work required to introduce it is worth all the trouble it takes. The ladies think the little books representing money in "5s," "10s," "25s" and "50s" are the "cutest things out," and it saves them a great deal of talking (although ladies are supposed to enjoy this) in disputing with the grocer about the articles that ought not to be put on the pass book which they know positively they never, never had. "It seems so much like business, you know, and the leaves tear out of the coupon books just like their husband's checks out of the check book, and then, you can trust them to servants, and know exactly how many of the sweet little imitation money they've used, and it keeps one from being extravagant, and all that," which is about the way I heard one lady describe the system to her friend one day. Once in a while a close old fellow will object to paying the grocer $5 or $10 or $20 for a book in advance, because the grocer might fail before it was used up, but these people are soon convinced that the system is to their advantage, as well as to the grocer's, and if they are not convinced, the chances are that they want to get trusted and never pay anyway, and so the grocer had better lose a few such customers, for he will have the satisfaction of having his goods in his own possession, and not in that of any one else.—[Northwest Trade.

California fruit growers, who used to throw away their peach pits, are now getting $6 a ton for them. They are worth this for fuel. They make a hot and aromatic fire.

2,023 boxes of cheese from Pine River, Huron, Milverton, Tiverton and Underwood were shipped from Kincardine on Friday of last week, which means the distribution of at least $18,000 in that community, the average price being 9c. per pound.

John Lewis & Co., grocers, East Woodstock, were fined $50 and costs on Saturday by the police magistrate for an offence against the Crooks Act. Several bottles of ale were found in their cellar, which Lewis swore were for his own use. There was no other evidence, but the magistrate convicted all the same.

The grocer cannot be too careful in handling banana clusters. Too often they are the lurking-place of the deadly tarantula. We reproduce the following from the New York Herald: "A real, live, vicious tarantula in the West Thirteenth station house! He measured three inches across and about nine in circumference. If there is anything on earth that you don't want to fondle and pet it is a tarantula. He is a terrible fighter and wouldn't stop to think twice before attacking a six-foot policeman with a club. The rascal knows well his advantage, for if he gets one chance to bite, you send a district messenger for the coroner and the undertaker. When the doorman went to get the gaslighter he started the beast from his slumbers. That doorman yelled. Perhaps he thought he had a well developed fit of delirium tremens, or perhaps he thought it was the devil in disguise. No matter which, he let out a tone of horror like that of a fog-horn on the Grand Banks, and retreated with the speed of frightened lightning. Sergeant Sheldon skirmished about for a while, but finally hit the fellow a couple of blows with a cricket bat, which had a tendency to knock the fight out of him. That tarantula is now in the best of spirits, namely—alcohol.

Correspondence

Mount Forest, Sept. 12, 1889.

Editor GROCER: Sir,—In perusing THE GROCER of last week, I observe that a meeting of retail grocers for the town of Guelph was held in that town, at which was discussed the disposal of bankrupt stocks. Now, as this is a subject deeply affecting the interests of the retail trade, I hold that it is a duty that every merchant owes to himself as well as to the trade, to throw all the light he possibly can on this much-vexed question. The Guelph Association seem to be of the opinion that the wholesale trade should take back the stocks at whatever they are worth, and divide the Province into districts for the disposal of same. Quite a good thing if it could only be accomplished. But the question naturally suggests itself, when the banks and private individuals are the heaviest creditors of an insolvent, with no practical knowledge of the trade, it would, I fear, end in disaster and loss. Besides that, I would venture to surmise, an arrangement of this kind could not be effected by mutual consent; and as all the statutes affecting the trade and commerce of the country must be the result of Dominion legislation, can the Guelph Association, with any remote idea of success, lay their scheme before the House of Commons, with private and banking interests opposed to them, and the cold shoulder of the wholesale trade next to them? I rather think not. However, I congratulate the Guelph Association on grappling with the subject and placing their views before the

TO THE GROCERY TRADE.

The undersigned has been appointed Agent in the United States and the Dominion of Canada by

The Associated Tea Planters, Ltd.

(OF LONDON), CAPITAL, £50,000.

Under the auspices of The Indian Tea Districts Association.

The object of the company is to push the sale of their product, feeling certain that when systematically brought to consumers' notice its merits will be so manifest as to give it the front rank in public favor, as is the case in Great Britain.

Roundly, the annual consumption in that country is 180,000,000 lbs. Of that quantity India and Ceylon furnished 120,000,000 lbs. during last crop year. This is the best answer to the twaddle about the excessive quantity of tannin in Indian tea. Consumers in England are no fools: they know a cup of good tea.

Supplies will be held in Canada and the States, and the undersigned, or his assistants, will make regular calls on the Trade. Samples will also be promptly forwarded on application.

W. MACGREGOR, 119 Front St., New York.

country, as it is only by persistent effort and constant agitation that any fair solution of the question may be arrived at. The retail trade of Ontario is comprised of a strong and influential body of men; but only by the aid of a system of thorough organization, the maturing of schemes congenial to the best interests of the trade and commerce of the country, and the hearty co-operation of the wholesale trade, can they expect that their efforts in a moderate degree may be crowned with success. Towards this end the Hamilton Convention have taken the first and initiatory steps in the right direction, by the formation of an association known by the name of the "Business Men's Association of Ontario," the fee for membership being $1 per annum. The work of drafting up a constitution and by-laws is now being proceeded with. After that has been accomplished, it will then be in order to proceed with the formation of county associations; after which, no doubt, there will come up for discussion the questions of bankrupt stocks, compromises, terms of credit, peddlers' licenses, and all other kindred subjects. We may then learn to realize the truthfulness of the old adage, "That in a multitude of councillors there is wisdom." You might write up those subjects until doomsday, but without a united trade effort nothing can be accomplished. An interchange of opinion on these subjects is valuable in itself, but when combined with acts which speak louder than words, it might surprise the most sanguine what in the near future may be accomplished. Throughout the Province to-day the general talk amongst the business portion of the community is, What is going to be the final outcome of the Hamilton convention? In reply to such I would say, it is just what you choose to make it. You can consign it to perpetual oblivion, or make it shine as the most brilliant star in the commercial firmament. I understand that an association of this kind has existed in the State of Michigan for some time, and works to the entire satisfaction of its promoters and all concerned. Doubtless, in this respect, the other states of the Union are also keeping pace with the spirit of the times. Then why should we in Ontario, who are characterized as an active, go-ahead, pushing, business people, be so far behind? Have we been patiently waiting to give Quebec an opportunity of taking the lead or, Micawber-like, for something else to turn up? The formation of county associations will be attended with considerable expense. I would advise all merchants, who have not done so, to send $1 to Mr. John Knox, Hamilton, and get enrolled as members, thus assisting the carrying out of the project now so auspiciously begun. Trusting I have not trespassed too much on your space.—Yours, &c., KINCHEERE.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION

Secretary's Address:—

592 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

This year's crop of sweet potatoes in Florida will be the largest ever known.

Mr. F. B. Nixon, of Hudson's Bay Co., Winnipeg, is here buying for his company.

Walter Bilkin, of Warren Bros. & Boomer, returned this week from his trip to England and France.

W. Howick, a Hamilton grocer, killed a mink in his back-yard last week. It had probably escaped from captivity.

Mr. John Wilson, of Russeldale, township of Fullarton, merchant, has sold out stock in trade to Mr. Facey, of Woodstock.

The strike in McKay's cigar factory has been settled in a manner satisfactory to both parties, and the hands returned to work on the 9th.

A Thurlow farmer has been charged with sending adulterated milk to a cheese factory, and has had to appear before the Police Magistrate at Belleville.

The first of the new crop Valencia raisins arrived here last Friday. There was only one lot, consisting of 200 cases, which was for Davidson & Hay. The other shipments have not yet arrived, but are daily expected.

The Collingwood Bulletin says : The quantity of fruit arriving in town is something immense. The crop of plums and apples is large. Our vendors are buying all that is brought into town and quickly disposing of it.

Huckleberry picking is done at Arden. Over 20,000 pails have been taken out at 30c. to 35c. Buyers were from Kingston, Napanee and Belleville and all front towns. One man and his family cleared off $100 debt this summer picking berries.

That corporation and trusts have no souls was clearly demonstrated at San Francisco the other day, when the fruit dealers dumped 5,000 fine fresh watermelons into the bay to prevent glutting the market. Then the price, which had been 20 cents a crate, they raised to 40 cents.

Sloan & Crowther received the first shipment of Lynx Brand of British Columbia canned salmon last week. The quality is unsurpassed by any in the market. Each can contains full weight. They are packed by the Canoe Pass Canning Co., Fraser River, B.C., and their sale is controlled by Sloan & Crowther.

There is no better evidence of the good crops and healthy state of trade in Manitoba and North-West Territories than the large orders received by F. F. Dalley & Co. for Spanish blacking and their other specialties. They report business not only very good but payments satisfactory.

Short weight vendors of produce seem to have been thoroughly frightened off the markets by the recent prosecutions against such offenders brought by the constable, for no infringements of the regulations have been reported lately, and the purchasing public are satisfied.—[Ottawa Free Press.

Messrs. George E. Tuckett & Sons are putting up their cut Myrtle tobacco in pound and half-pound tins of a very handsome design. The colors are very fine and are well brought out. They are manufactured by the McDonald Manufacturing Co., and are a credit to Canadian workmanship.

The National, a paper published in Paris, says :—"The great house of Rothschild has bought up four million pounds worth of tea in the London market, and has paid for it in Italian Rentes. The firm shows a desire to force up the price of teas, and get rid of securities which it considers of doubtful value."

Mr. Arch. Taylor, formerly of Belgrave, and latterly with Mr. A. W. Webster, in Wingham, has purchased the grocery business of Mr. Noah Parent, of Windsor, and taken possession. Mr. Taylor is an energetic and reliable business man, and his many friends throughout the country will wish him success in his new venture.

W. D. Bonter, of Belleville, who has dealt in fruit for several years past, says the crop of apples this year will be very small, not a third of what it was last year. English capitalists have been through the country and bought up the crop at $1.60 per barrel. They made the purchase some time ago, and local buyers have to content themselves with picking up small orchards, some of which will yield some ten barrels this year, when last year they turned out nearly a hundred barrels. The pear crop is most abundant, the weight of the fruit, in many cases, breaking the trees.

Mark Sprague, creamery inspector for Eastern Ontario, has just returned from an extended trip east, covering his whole territory, and reports that milk adulteration is being carried on extensively in all parts. He was two weeks making the trip, and during the last week has detected and convicted five parties for either adulterating or skimming milk. He hopes these prosecutions will be the means of deterring others who are indulging in the same practice. He intends to carry on the good work until the evil is completely rooted out. Mr. Sprague is an energetic young man, and all honest creamerymen will second his efforts to bring dishonest men to justice.

Mr. Moore's hop yards now present a busy scene, from 100 to 125 hands being busily at work stripping the vines. Some 85 Indians from the Reserve near Brantford are engaged, besides a number of men, women and children from the village. Although the crop suffered from the late frosts, the yield will be much better than was at first anticipated.—[Dumfries Reformer.

The failure of the apple crop in the eastern and northern counties has had the effect of loading Kent and Essex with buyers. Under the keen competition prices are creeping up, and in some cases as high as $1.75 has been offered for first-class winter fruit. One farmer, we hear, has sold the produce of his orchard, on the tree, for $500, which is just $100 more than his year's rent for the farm.

The frost that destroyed the fruit so completely in the neighborhood of Woodstock last spring that many farmers with good orchards will have scarcely enough to supply their own needs, seems not to have affected the fruit crop along the lake shore. Buyers have purchased thousands of bushels of apples in Essex and Kent, and fruit of all kinds is plentiful in the Niagara peninsular.

The extensive seed trade of Steele Bros. & Co. has finally compelled them to separate their wholesale and retail departments. The demand for an uptown store has been felt for a number of years. They now occupy the large premises directly opposite Market Street on King, Nos. ———, as a retail department, where will be found the very best assortment of fresh garden, field and flower seeds. They have just received and put on sale the choicest assortment of bulbs ever imported into Canada. Their 1890 catalogue is now out and can be had on application. The latest improvements in garden implements always on hand.

We think it high time that people came to their senses and stopped using the cheap, trashy, injurious, health-destroying Baking Powders. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is pure, reliable and the best article.

In the International Series Counter Check Books, manufactured by Morton & Co., 3 and 5 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, merchants are guaranteed in their use by letters patent. Samples are furnished free of the best check book yet introduced. Thousands now in use.

The Markets

TORONTO, SEPT. 19, 1889.

This is the second week of the Industrial Fair in this city, and as usual very little attention has been given to business. A much larger number of country merchants than usual are in the city. This is a very good sign. It shows that there are good prospects for fall trade. If there were not the out-of-town merchant would save his money by staying at home. The universal opinion is, that there will be a good steady business done this fall. The farmers, our country friends tell us, are all in a prosperous condition, and are preparing to settle up old scores and to buy liberally this fall. While the attendance of buyers has been large the amount of orders placed have been of the usual proportions. The majority prefer giving their orders to travellers at their own stores where they are not troubled with the bustle and confusion of the wholesale warehouse. Values on most lines have not varied to any extent.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

Nothing doing in fruits and vegetables, but prices are very firm. Packers are busy and have not made many sales. They are firm in their views, and while prices may not go any higher the general belief is that they will be maintained at the present figures, which are, in most cases, considerably above what last year's pack is offering on the market. In the west, the packers' supply of tomatoes has been very much curtailed by the drought. In the east and Quebec the crop has turned out very well. In both fruits and vegetables Eastern Canada has been more favoured this season, as if to make up for the drought of last year. A few small lots of tomatoes have sold at 95c. to $1.10 as to quality. Fish have not been moving so freely, but the arrival of the fresh shipments of new pack of salmon has given more life to this fish. Several cases have arrived from the coast and have been distributed among the wholesale houses. Sales have been made at $1.70 to $1.75 for best brands.

Mr. W. T. Shaw writes to the Picton Gazette :—As several of our Prince Edward farmers have realized very well, judging by the different reports published in your paper from time to time, from growing peas this season for John H. Allan and the Cleveland Seed Company, I give you the result of four bushels sowing of the "McLean's Advancer" variety of sweet peas. They were sown on two acres of land last April. I picked the peas when green in the pod, and delivered them to W. Boulter, proprietor of the Bay of Quinte Canning Factory, and had eight tons, ten hundred and forty-two pounds, which netted me $255.63. I threshed out the balance of the peas, and had seventeen bushels of good seed peas, worth $17.00, which, added to the above sum, gives the amount of $272.63, or $136.31 per acre. Mr. Robert Cunningham, deputy-reeve of Hallowell, measured the land, and can verify the above. I challenge any one to produce any better results from pea-growing this season. These peas were grown on lot No. 11, 3rd con. M.T., township of Hallowell, County of Prince Edward.

A. C. Miller & Co., Picton, have sold and exported a considerable quantity of peas and beans to the States.

COFFEE.

There is no change in values here. Rios are selling at 20c. to 21c., and Javas at 26c. to 28c. for fine quality. In outside markets there is an easier tone to Rios on more favorable crop reports.

DRIED FRUIT.

The arrival of the first new crop of Valencia raisins has been the feature in this market this week. Only a few boxes have come to hand so far, but the balance of the early shipments is daily expected. For the first arrivals there was an active demand, and there was no difficulty in getting 8½c. Stock to arrive this or early next week can be bought at 8c. and a shade less. Old stock is slow and lower at 7c. for the best. Sultanas are going on the spot at 7½c. to 10c. as to quality. Malaga fruit dull and unchanged ; holders are offering inducements to buyers to work off their stock. Currants are steady here, while cables report a firmer market abroad. This has induced some local holders to advance prices, but as a rule sales are making at 4¾c. to 5¼c. for ordinary provincial or Filiatra stock.

A prominent current shipper in Patras, in writing under date of 25th ult., says : "Quality of first arrivals is not nearly so satisfactory as we had anticipated, for although proprietors seem to have been both careful in delaying, cutting and in drying their produce, something seems to have gone wrong with the fruit, which is reddish and wanting in pulp. It is to be hoped that later arrivals will show some improvement in this respect. Since harvesting set in, complaints of growers of falling off in quantity, owing to rot, etc., have been very general, but we still look to a crop of 145,000 to 150,000 tons."

Dates are firm but unchanged ; foreign markets are strong. Prunes are selling well for this season of the year at quotation. Nuts are dull and unchanged.

GREEN FRUIT.

Lemons are now in lighter demand than last week. The cooler weather has reduced the consumption of them. They still quote at $8 to $10 per box. Oranges are $8 per box. The demand for them has also fallen off perceptibly. The only ones offered are Jamaica oranges. Bananas are now nearly out of the market. No arrivals within the last eight or ten days. The season is about over. Sweet potatoes sell at $4 to $4.50 per box.

SUGARS.

The local demand for sugars has been much more active this week. Values in yellows, especially brights, are a shade higher, but whites are unchanged. One of the refiners gave it out last week that whites were sure to advance, and urged immediate purchasers, but so far there has been no movement in that direction. The refineries are about to resume operations ; one in fact has already started, and an increased supply of brights may be expected. Wholesalers are selling yellows at 6⅝c. to 7¼c. for low grades, and 7½c. to 8¼c. for brights. Whites are moving on a basis of 8½c. to 8⅝c. for granulated. Outside markets are improving, and a much stronger tone prevails. The New York Shipping List says : The cloud of depression that for the past sixty days has hung over the sugar markets of the world seems to be disappearing, and accordingly the latent strength of the natural situation of the world's supply is once more asserting its influence. All disturbing factors having been neutralized a wholesome demand finds only a moderate supply of cane sugar available, the bulk of which will be absolutely wanted before the marketing of new crops is commenced. Perhaps there is no better indication of the healthy condition that now prevails, or more significant feature as to the future course of the market, than that prices are advancing almost upon the eve of a new beet crop, for the markets in Europe have displayed the same buoyant temper that has characterized this market.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES

Are dull. Low grade syrups are extremely scarce, and values are firm.

☞ The Grocer does not utter predictions, but aims simply to give accurate reports of the markets as they are.

TEA.

The local market has been a busy one in the past week, and a large amount of trade transacted. Japans have been particularly active, all grades from low to medium meeting with a ready sale. New greens have been in demand, but hard to get. Trade from the country on travellers' orders has been large. The London market continues unsettled and quiet, with no new feature to report. New York remains unchanged except a slight easing off in prices for Oolongs. Cable advices from Japan report a stiffening of figures for all lower grades. The excess in settlements for both ports over last season is now about 17,000 piculs.

The Markets—Continued.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVSIONS.

Receipts of dressed hogs are fair, and sales are marked at $6.50 to $6.75. They are mostly light weights. Mess pork continues to offer freely at $13.50 to $14 for American, and in some instances Canadian, but as a rule Canadian is sold at $1 over these figures. Long clear bacon is plentiful and prices are steady; most of the sales are making at 8½c. though lots can be bought at 8¼c., and small quantities are held at 8¾c. to 9c. In smoked meats there is an active demand at 13½c. to 14c. for hams, 13½c. for breakfast bacon, and 10¼c. to 11c. for rolls. Lard remains dull and easy at 9c. to 9½c. for American in pails and tubs, and 9½c. to 10c. for Canadian.

The London Grocers' Gazette of Sept. 7 has the following on bacon—Irish and Continental.—The weakness noticeable at the close of last week developed itself in the early part of this, and sellers were obliged to give way in price to effect sales. The market for some days past has been very sensitive, the high rates telling against the demand, and it was taken for granted that as soon as supplies came forward more liberally the break would come, and this has now been fulfilled, prices having been reduced generally yesterday (Friday) 3s. on lean Irish, 1s. on fat and stout, and Continental 3s. on all selections. The market closes quiet at the reduction, closing prices being: Irish, lean, 68s. to 71s.; fat and stout, 64s. to 68s.; Continental lean, sizeable, 66s. to 69s.; 64s. to 66s. sixes, and 60s. to 66s. fat and stout. American.—The absence of low-priced Continental meat has thrown the country trade on to singed sides, and they still command a ready sale at 48s. to 50s., with the supply not equal to the demand. Some genuine Canadian is selling at 58s. Little, if any, trade doing in middles, and shoulders are forced for sale.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—While there is an oversupply of low grades on this market a stronger market for choice quality has improved the tone of the whole market. Receipts have been fair but the demand has been active. Choice butter has been very scarce, and full prices have been readily obtainable for anything approaching this grade. Good to choice has sold at 16c. to 17c., and a shade more has been paid for selections. Mediums have sold from 13c. to 15c., and low grades have accumulated, though offered at 11c. to 12c. The business has been entirely on local account, some inquiry has been made for shipment, but as before the prices offered have been too low. Sales of good store lots have been made at equal to 13½c. here. The scarcity of good dairies has led buyers to inquire for creameries, and they have been moving at 19c. to 20c. for early makes and 22c. to 23c. for fresh.

CHEESE—Is very firm and advancing. On the spot dealers are getting 10c. for small lots of choice quality, but outside the factories are asking 9½c. to 9¾c.

The London Grocers' Gazette of Sept. 7, says:

BUTTER—A very dull market has ruled for this article, and prices have given way for some finer sorts, Normandy fresh being reduced 1s. per dozen, and best baskets 4s. to 6s., extra mild being now quoted at 106s., and leading brands of ordinary best at 96s. to 100s. Anything underpriced takes a wide range in value, there being liberal quantities offering and in demand. Quotations for such may be called 70s. to 90s. Fresh is now quoted 11s. to 13s. per dozen. Danish supplies are more liberal and prices weaker, 108s. to 112s. being current. Copenhagen market for the 5th inst. is cabled 1s. dearer, but no advance is obtainable here. Dutch brought to order this end of the week costs, say 94s. landed, and in the open market guaranteed qualities are selling at 90s. to 94s., with a very dull trade. American creamery that can answer the cry of faultless, commands a sale at 84s. to 90s., but ordinary qualities are passed by.

CHEESE—The trade in American and Canadian keeps very quiet and entirely void of any speculative nature, the demand being confined to immediate wants: 45s. to 47s. are the ruling quotations for best kinds. The country trade are enquiring for under-priced sorts, and anything showing value at 40s. and under, finds a market. There is nothing specially new in the development of the cheese trade—we should like to record that there was—but it seems that the mind of the trade is thoroughly made up to carry on the importing business in a similar manner to that of the last few years, viz., for the benefit of producers, retailers and consumers. There should be a profit for the importer, who, however, seems to live between "fear and hope." He is on the one hand afraid of being light in stock in case markets should advance, and on the other hand brings more cheese along than he has weekly legitimate outlet for, trusting to a small chance of a rise to help him out. In fact, there is a Micawber-like spirit pervading all importing centres, trusting that something will turn up. Cheese merchants are a tough community, accepting many risks for a small prospective profit; risk of buyers' judgment, risk of deterioration in transit, risk of market, and (not least) risk of bad debts We are inclined to think cheese as an article of food is not so popular as it used to be, partly, no doubt, owing to so much of it getting stale in flavour. Many years ago it used to be kept in the factories till wanted for consumption; now things have altered, and speculators buy up a good deal of the summer make and put it into cold storage at a low temperature, bringing it out generally in the winter when it attracts by its bright appearance; but when cut and on the counter shows discolouration, is crumbly, and the flavour perished owing to climatic changes and variety of temperature after reaching England.

FISH.

The demand for all kinds continues fair, and the supply moderate. British Columbia salmon sells this week at 16c. to 17c. per lb. Lake fish—salmon trout and white fish—stands at 6c. per lb. Blue-back herring quotes at $2.25 per hundred, sold by number.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-knowr brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets - Continued.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Green apples are selling at $1.75 to $2.75 per bbl. as to quality. Both dried and evaporated are receiving less attention. Dealers have bought small lots of dried at 5¼c. here. They are asking 5½c. to 6c. Evaporated are nominal at 7c. to 7½c. for single boxes, and lots could be bought at 6½c.

BEANS—Not many selling, but prices are firm at $1.80 to $2 per bushel.

EGGS—Are unchanged. Receipts are light and prices are firm. The association quote 15c. for candled stock, and other dealers are asking 15c. to 15½c. For really new laid there is no difficulty in getting 16c.

HAY AND STRAW—Arrivals of hay continue light, and values are unchanged at $10 to $11 on track for good to choice timothy. Dealers are breaking up cars at $11 to $12. Straw dull at $6 to $7 on the track.

ONIONS—Demand is slow. Several lots have been shipped to Montreal. Sales are being made at $1.75 to $2 per barrel in most instances.

POTATOES—The wet weather has reduced the receipts and values are advanced. Sales of broken lots were made to-day at 60c. to 70c. on the track. Cars are worth 50c. per bag.

POULTRY—Receipts have been fair all week, but the demand has been quite active and values are higher. Live chickens have sold at 50c. to 55c. a pair and ducks at 60c. to 65c. Dressed chickens are going at 55c. to 65c. and ducks at 65c. to 75c. a pair.

SALT—Dull. A few small lots of Liverpool are selling at 60c. to 65c.

SEEDS—Not much doing. A few small lots of timothy have sold at $1.65 to $1.75 per bushel. Alsike will begin to move shortly and the present indications are that the market will open very low as compared with last season.

TALLOW—Little better demand and buying prices of rendered have advanced ¼c. to 5½c. Rough is unchanged at 1¾c. to 2c.

MONTREAL, SEPT. 19, 1889.

CANNED GOODS.

In canned goods business has continued quiet owing to the fact that buyers have been holding off, both here and in the country, in view of lower prices later on in the season, and the fact that they have ample supplies on hand for the present, in consequence trade has been of a jobbing character, and the market on the whole has been dull, as it generally is at this season of the year. There has been no important change to note, prices having ruled steady all round. The offerings of tomatoes have been larger owing to the fact that some holders of round lots are anxious to sell as they are anticipating lower prices in the near future, but values have ruled steady at the recent decline, and we quote 90c. to $1 per dozen. In lobsters there is a firm feeling, and prices are sustained at $6 to $6.50 per case. Mackerel has ruled steady at $5 to $5.50 per case. Some large lines of salmon have arrived within the past few days, but prices have not changed any, and sales of small lots are reported at $1.70 per dozen. Corn has ruled quiet and steady at $1 to $1.75 per dozen as to brand. Peas are unchanged at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. Canned fruits have been neglected, and business dull at nominally unchanged prices. The demand for Armour's canned meats has been good, and sales of some round lots have been effected at firm prices.

SUGARS.

In the sugar market there has been a more healthy tone, and private cables received during the past few days on the raw article have been firmer, and prices are well maintained at the recent advance in prompt and future beets. The indications are that prices have touched bottom for the present, and refiners both here and in New York are looking forward to a steady improvement. There has been considerable inquiry for refined sugar in this market both on local and western accounts, and a more active business has been transacted. Granulated has sold at 8¼c. at the refineries, but outside holders have disposed of some large blocks at 8c. to 8 1/16c. The demand for bright yellows has been good, which are very scarce, in fact few lots are offering, in consequence buyers have been taking lower grades in place at 6⅜c. to 7c. as to quality at the factory.

SYRUP AND MOLASSES.

In syrup there has been no important change to mention, the market having continued quiet and firm on account of the light offerings and only a jobbing trade has been transacted. At the factory prices are firmly held at 4c. to 4¼c. There has been no new features in the market for molasses, business having continued quiet as buyers are still holding off in anticipation of lower prices in the near future, consequently the market has ruled dull with no business of any importance doing outside of a small jobbing trade, and prices are nominally unchanged. We quote Barbadoes at 44c. to 46c., Porto Rico at 42c., Trinidad at 38c. to 40c., and Antigua at 40c. to 41c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The feature of the tea market has been the continued strength which is no doubt due to the strong advices from abroad and the great scarcity of low grade teas here, consequently holders have been very firm in prices and the situation of the market on the whole has been very strong and values have an upward tendency. This season so far very few consignments have come forward and the bulk of those that have come have been reshipped to New York. The demand has been active and a brisk business has been transacted and sales of some large lines are reported of Japans at 16c. to 17c., and some round lots as high as 18½c. Young Hyson teas have also been in good demand and buyers have been taking some big lots to take the place of low grade Japans. There has been considerable kicking among importers as they claim that old leaf teas are being mixed with the new on account of the scarcity of new teas of any leaf.

COMPETITION IN DRIED FRUIT.

The rapid progress of the fruit growing industry of California has several times been referred to in these columns. The first of the new crop raisins grown in that State arrived in New York last week, and about the same time the first of the new crop Malagas arrived. Referring to the competition between the two kinds the New York Bulletin says: "It is not necessary to go back any further than three years to recall the time when importers and their foreign friends ridiculed the thought of real competition from the Pacific coast product. It was not thought possible for Californians to bring the industry up to the point that has been obtained during the past two seasons, but results are what speak the loudest, and a glance at the situation to-day reveals a position of things which show clearly to all that not only has the California product replaced the Malaga, but that many buyers and consumers are now willing to give the domestic the preference over the imported. The samples submitted of the product of California this season would convince the strongest opponent of the progress that the domestic packers are making in this industry. So satisfied with their efforts are some of the coast packers that they have ventured this year to raise the standard of their highest grade, though in the past they have not felt warranted in grading above a London layer.

The Malaga fruit of the finer qualities, ranking cabinets, clusters, Dehesa bunches, etc., have not as yet been approached, but the Californians hope to "get there" in time, but do not propose for the present to venture forth until they are satisfied they can prepare the fruit and put it upon the market in a shape that will compare favorably with the imported. The great demand is for the ordinary loose and London layer, and upon such the competition has been brought, and with most flattering results. The fine grades at best have only a limited sale, so the packers on the coast feel that there is no special urgency to obtain this trade, the age of the vineyards, coupled with further experience, counting to bring about the advance in the standing of quality in due course of time. The season has been an active one thus far for later deliveries of California, and a considerable portion of the crop has already been placed under contract. The West has been the heaviest buyer to date, but the East has also contributed some good sized orders, first deliveries upon which will be made from the invoice now due. On the other hand Malaga have attracted no special attention from the trade, and in the absence the regular importers have hesitated to forward any considerable orders to the primary market. Some 7,000 to 8,000 boxes are now in transit to this country, but a considerable portion of this will be found consignments sent out by Malaga shippers to test the market. Fine grades will undoubtedly command attention and fair prices realized, but ordinary goods will meet with strong opposition from the native goods. It should be borne in mind by buyers, however, that the Malaga are packed in boxes of twenty-two pounds, whereas California consist only of twenty. They can best reckon the cost by giving this fact their consideration, but at the same time they should not neglect to compare the quality of the two varieties.

THE INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION.

To the man who looks upon an industrial fair as a mere aggregation of the marvellous and monstrous specimens of production there must seem to be little serious reason for its existence. But looked upon as an illustrated report of the year's best normal achievements, as an estimate of the reasonable possibilities of the future, and as a stimulus to progress, an industrial exhibition must be of immense national service. To the people themselves it is a sort of yearly bulletin of the health of each of their country's industries. To the visitor from other states it is an imposing table of contents of the resources of the country and the people's energies.

In this view of the office of a national fair we studied our late Industrial Exhibition, and found its graphic account of the year's accomplishment full of encouragement and instruction. In nearly every department of industry superiority was typified. This year the horn of plenty overflows with the best, both of the labor of the field and the skill of the workshop. So, at all events, he who ran might read at the Industrial Exhibition.

This absolute excellence in the various lines of industry any observer, native or foreign, could appreciate. The comparative excellence of the exhibits could be realized only by those who had visited the Exhibition in former years. To them this year's show must indicate that everything has got farther along the line of progress. Progress even in one line often bespeaks progress in several others; but few industries can thrive where there is not general thrift.

As we look upon the finished product of skilled labor, or the matured result of cultivation, we are apt to do so as lightly as we look upon the beauty of a flower. But the flower toils not, neither does it spin. On the other hand, the fine specimens of industrial art or cultivation are the blossoms of patient, arduous labor. We are glad to believe that last week's grand display—the offering of clever hands and strong arms—was not the work of underpaid toilers. In our country we now hear few murmurs of industrial discontent; so that, while the Toronto Exhibition marks advance in the range and quality of our productiveness, it throws a side light also upon improvement in the lot of the people.

NO BAZAAR.

Very often the original purpose of a custom gets overlaid with accidental or contingent additions to it. These additions greatly interfere with the discharge of the duties for which it was created; sometimes, indeed, they suppress the prime functions of the institution altogether. Have we the beginnings of this state of things in our Industrial Exhibition? The original, unmixed purpose of the exhibition is expressed in its name: it is a show. It is not any the less a show that it is sometimes addressed to more than the people's eyesight; a common use of the word show is in the sense of illustrate. A display of the products of nature or art, and an illustration, where necessary, of their workings—these make up an exhibition. But it is no part of an exhibition to be a place of sale. It degrades the institution to make it one. If it is permitted to exhibitors to sell their wares at their stands, after a while we shall have neither a pure exhibition nor a mixed exhibition, but an unadulterated bazaar.

Everybody knows how annoying it is to be solicited to spend money. This very annoyance is itself a feature that will tend to make the exhibition less popular. The fine custom of bringing the people together yearly to look upon the best their country has produced is so highly regarded that we feel the most jealous mistrust of anything that can vitiate it.

Another reason for our objection to the sale of wares at the exhibition is the insufferable infliction it puts upon the genuine exhibitor who is forced to be the neighbor of an energetic salesman. The voice of the hawker, the crowd he is always holding, the obstruction his crowd is always causing, are some of the inconveniences that are felt by his neighbors. Our voice is for the bazaar feature to be dropped.

THE WORLD'S EXPOSITION, 1892.

In a circular issued from the Press Bureau of Chicago, the journalistic suffrage of the continent is asked in behalf of that city as the site of the World's Exposition of 1892. That the Exposition will be in the United States is so far settled, that the American people are scarcely guilty of indecent haste in pondering at this date which of their cities shall have the honor of holding it. After the pretensions of all claimants have been sifted Chicago and New York stand forth as the ultimate candidates. Between these two cities it is not for Canadian journalists to presume to arbitrate, but we may express our prepossessions.

The occasion is one supposed to be of world-wide interest, and the scene of it may be the circumstance in which it most affects the interests of our own country. Chicago is no doubt the place which best suits Canadians. Visitors to the Exposition are there nearer our still roomy territories in the North-West than they would be in New York, and the enormous benefit of having those lands viewed by travellers from all parts of the world must weigh greatly with us. The choice of Chicago must also be to the advantage of our railways.

Travellers can reach Chicago from either of our shores as cheaply through Canadian territory as they can through United States territory. We cannot but have a large share of both passenger and freight traffic. We are certainly more likely to be the better of overflow from Chicago than from New York.

"THE COOK'S FRIEND."

Year follows revolving year, and the "Cook's Friend" continues to widen the circle of its influence, and win its way into the stony hearts of the divinities of the kitchen range—hearts severely obdurate to all advances and professions that have not behind them the convincing potency of deeds. At the late Industrial Exhibition many of the friends of the "Cook's Friend" sought in vain and with disappointment to pay their yearly respects to their favorite baking powder in its accustomed resort. It was at the exhibition but had simply changed its local habitation. Through all the years of this Industrial Exhibition's history Mr. McLaren had been found by his many acquaintances in the same spot—near the west end of the main building. This spot had become an annual rendezvous of Canadian retail dealers, who liked the ways of the man always to be found there, and who knew the merits of his baking powder. But this year the "Cook's Friend" was to be found near the east entrance, and there old acquaintances soon congregated, and bore renewed testimony to the sterling qualities of the "Cook's Friend. It is likely to be found in its usual place, however, in future years.

A SALMON CANNERY.

Our North Arm correspondent sends the following account of a visit he made to the Sea Island Cannery a few days since in order to glean a few facts in connection with the working and success of this important branch of industry on the banks of the Fraser. It was the noon hour and around the Chinese camp the incessant clattering, combined with the rattling of the chop-sticks, reminded one of the confusion recorded at the construction of the tower of Babel. The Siwashes, with their happy families, were gathered around their canvas hut, stretched upon the green, partaking of their frugal meal, or grouped with wistful eyes in front of the white man's door, where they sat "squat like a toad." As I arrived, my good-natured and courteous friend, Mr. D. J. Munn, met me at the door, and, after inviting me to partake of his hospitality, conducted me into the cannery. Shortly after, the whistle blew, when every man sprang promptly to his post. The sturdy and faithful engineer seized the well-polished steel and threw it into gear, the genial smith sprang to his glistening forge, the carpenter to his bench, the jovial clerk to his shop, the tawny Mongolian to his table, and over all the courteous manager cast a vigilant eye. On expressing my desire to follow up the process of canning Mr. Munn kindly conducted me to the north-west corner of the large building where the fish are deposited from the boats. Here they are packed up one by one and laid upon a table where a man with a large knife quickly decapitates it, and shoves it on to the next who cuts off the fins. The next opens it and takes out the entrails, the next scrapes it and throws it into a vat of water where it is washed again. The next lays it upon a semi-circular machine where it is cut into three or four pieces, the exact length of the can, by means of a set of large revolving knives, which are operated by a crank. As the knife turns back, an elevator, consisting of an iron plate, throws the pieces on another table, where they are sliced again and then passed into a vat containing brine, where they remain for about five minutes more, when they are thrown into a large vat, and scooped up into buckets and deposited on the packing tables, where a score or more Celestials stand ready with empty can and large knife to wedge and squeeze, and press and fit the pieces, until the can is filled to the brim. The cans when filled are put into trays and taken to another table where they are wiped and a small strip of tin laid over the top to prevent the fish closing the small aperture in the lid, and the solder from mixing with the fish. The can is then passed to the next Celestial, who fits on the lid, when they are taken in trays to an elevated stand where they are rolled horizontally down an inclined plane, the top end passing first over a wick saturated with muriatic acid, then through a layer of molten solder supplied from a reservoir over a small heated furnace. The can rolls on to the end of the course, by which time it is quite cool, and is taken up, stood on end, and the small hole in the top soldered. They are now placed in large trays and put into hot water, to be tested whether they have been properly sealed. Should any bubbles appear coming from any of them, it is taken out and soldered again. The cans which stand the test all right are transferred in the trays into a vat of boiling water, where they remain three-quarters of an hour, when they are taken out and "blowed off." This is done by tapping them with a sharp-pointed hammer, when the air within escapes. They are then soldered again, and put through the test as before, to ascertain if they are properly closed, when they are taken on trucks to a large iron oven called the "retort." Here they are treated to 240 degrees of dry steam under a pressure of thirteen pounds, and left for one hour, at the end of which time they are literally cooked. They are then taken out and the hose turned on them to wash and cool them off, when they are wheeled away to a remote part of the building and piled up, ready to be packed into cases containing four dozen in each, and shipped to England and other parts of the world wherever a market can be found for them. There were in the building then three piles of these cans, aggregating 129 feet long, 97 feet wide and about five feet high, and containing 18,000 cases. These required about 1,600 boxes of tin of 100 pounds each, at $5 a box, for the body of the can, and $7.50 for the lid, which is of heavier material. There were about three hundred and fifty hands in all employed during the season, of whom ten were whites, seventy-five Chinamen, and the rest Siwashes with their families. There were twenty-five boats, some of which worked by contract at 10 cents a fish, others by the day, the net men getting $2.50 and the oarsmen $2. The Chinamen are employed by the hour, and get $35 per month. The net used is 150 fathoms long, which is put in the water and allowed to drift with the tide for about half an hour, when it is taken up and thrown out again until the time for returning is up, or the boat is full. The boats go out at six o'clock in the morning and return at six in the evening, when another shift of men take their places and fish from six at night to six in the morning. They frequently drift four and five miles from shore and have caught as high as 800 fish to the boat. The largest fish caught was in July, a spring salmon, which weighed 65 lbs., the largest sockeye being 15 lbs. The sockeye run is now ended, and no net containing less than 7½ inches extension measure will be allowed from the 25th August to the 17th September, when the cohoes are expected.

A great many of the Indians are leaving for the hop fields of Oregon with "hyiu chickamin," some of them having earned over $700 during the season—[Vancouver World.

SHOW WINDOW DECORATION.

The following remarks upon a subject which is receiving considerable attention at the hands of the retail trade of the country, we take from a recent issue of the American Storekeeper :—

Window-dressing has become a leading feature in the business of retail merchants in all lines of trade. It is looked upon by most storekeepers as a useful art, yet all things which are useful are not cultivated, and there are many, far too many stores throughout the country where no attention is paid to the decoration of windows ; the smoky, dusty sheets of glass remain the same from season to season, and, as an almost universal rule, the trade total remains unincreased. So far as a somewhat extensive experience in mercantile matters has gone, no case has been observed in which window-dressing did not pay in a degree corresponding to the attention devoted to it. This has been the universal testimony of all business men who have ever expressed themselves on the subject, and the number of merchants who are paying more attention to this important subject is constantly increasing.

One reason why this art is not more freely cultivated may be because most storekeepers are men with a lack of an acute perception of the harmony of design and colour which has caused them to avoid the decoration of their windows lest some offence to good taste might be perpetrated. Others are negligent because they find no time to devote to that part of business. At any rate, this journal hopes to convince every storekeeper who does not dress his windows that it is not a difficult thing to accomplish ; also to extend to such storekeepers, as well as to those who have been practising window decoration, such information, as will enable them to produce good results with a modest outlay of thought, time, and especially money.

To clerks seeking advancement in mercantile life, no surer passport to success is to be found than to be an expert window-dresser. There is a dearth of clerks, even among women, who are able to lay out an intelligent plot for a window, and then follow it out completely. It has seemed to be the desire of most writers on the subject in the trade press to impress their readers with the idea that window-dressing is a most complex and laborious operation, difficult to acquire and necessitating the possession of great artistic ability and a creative brain. It may be that this course has discouraged clerks from making a beginning. If so, let the idea be dispelled. Any clerk who has wit enough to sell goods can certainly train himself to be a good window-dresser, particularly if helped along by rudimentary suggestions. A few words on the aims to be sought after in window decoration will give a better understanding of the benefits to be expected and the methods to be employed.

A decorated window must have three principal objects :

1. To serve as an index to the class of goods kept in the store.

2. To attract the attention of people to the store.

3. To show goods which will excite in the people the desire of possession.

The first object for which windows should be decorated to serve as indices of goods kept in stock, is simply an advertisement, and must be so considered. It should be made to supplement advertising in the local papers, over which it has the advantage of presenting the object advertised directly to the purchaser, while in a newspaper the object may only be described. Advertising by window-dressing is very effective and costs nothing. A clerk's time is the only requisite, unless the merchant prefers to expend some money—wisely too—for fixtures specially designed for the purpose. In a newspaper advertisement the merchant announces the articles he desires to sell. The purchaser reads the advertisement and starts on a shopping expedition with an intention of calling in to see the article advertised. If this is displayed in the window the customer is more apt to follow out the original intention of purchasing, and the sale is made more certain. That a customer may see, before purchasing, just the effect produced by combinations artistically arranged in windows, is often a great aid to selection. The window advertisement goes constantly before hundreds of people who do not read papers, and is a standing invitation to people to purchase your goods.

The second object for which windows are dressed—to attract attention to the store—may seem to be inseparable from an advertisement, but it is that and something more. An advertisement simply announces that you have goods of a certain kind to sell. The window display does the same thing, but it also stimulates curiosity and excites examination and scrutiny of the objects displayed. Persons who have in mind the future purchase of certain articles, will invariably examine goods of the character desired, when displayed in windows which they may be passing. An article appeals more certainly to the taste of a buyer if it is harmoniously displayed. There is no doubt that taste in dress and decoration has been freely cultivated by good window-dressing. A writer has said : "To see just how a purchase is going to look in the home or on the person ; to know how to place a vase, easel, picture, or a statuette so that the best effect will be secured ; to know just what shade of table-cover will best display the prettiness of knick-knacks placed upon it, or how to drape a fabric to the best advantage, are matters which window-dressing helps to decide. That purchase follows close upon decision is a logical certainty. But more than this, an artistic display in a window creates wants which sooner or later end in purchases which otherwise might never have been made." Windows permit persons who are unfamiliar with prevailing fashions to learn what articles are being used without exposing their ignorance of styles to salesmen. These persons then become easier buyers.

The third object which windows should serve is to excite the desire of possession and induce purchases. The attractively-dressed window is a silent salesman appealing for trade. Goods should be so displayed as to force people to feel that they would really like to possess them, and this feeling ends sooner or later in purchases. The result will be an instant sale to people able to gratify their desires ; by those who have to plan and contrive before investing the store will be remembered and the goods called for long after they have been taken out of the window; by others the location will be communicated to friends who intend making purchases. In some one of these three ways the window will create business. As it is a constantly changing advertisement the wants of many different people will be catered to and all lines of trade be covered.

Having outlined the objects which should be sought in window-dressing, the merchant will have to use discretion in making his display fit well with his business. The character of the trade he is catering to should be understood; for it would be manifestly unprofitable for a merchant to show only high-priced goods to the trade of which 99 per cent. are unable to buy. It should be borne in mind that the millions use goods of medium quality, while only the hundreds use the finest grades. Hence, it will be wise to display medium-priced goods with exactly the same attention to detail as is used with the better goods. Remember that it is from the millions that most trade comes, and their interests should be served. Following this line of reasoning, the windows in a frontier town will differ very much in their composition from those in a well-settled community. The wants, habits and customs of frontier people are much more pronounced than those in interior towns, and they will stand and appreciate a style of window-dressing which would not be enjoyed in other places.

Another principle to be religiously followed is never to display goods for sale which you do not keep in stock, unless a statement is made to that effect. When the attention of a customer is attracted by a feature in the window, he wants to see the same thing in stock. Substitution is a sin of the first magnitude. If you display a bargain in the window be prepared to duplicate it on the counter. Use every legitimate means to get people into the store, but when they are inside do not deceive them.

The interest of passers-by must be drawn to your window. This may be done in one of three ways: By displaying an immense stock of the same article. Such an arrangement impresses people by its mass and ponderousness, and people will look at it for the same reason they look at a big horse, a large man or a massive block of coal. Americans admire largeness in almost anything. The second manner of attraction is by the peculiar and unlooked-for arrangement of the goods displayed. In this style of window-dressing is the skill of the dresser most to be displayed. In this may be called into use all the artistic feeling and ingenious faculties. To attract attention by mass requires but slight power; to attract it by delicate adjustment of light and shade, by skilful imitations of objects and by happy combination of fabrics, brings into play the dresser's best skill and force. In this division of dressing would be formulated all set pieces, all designs simulating windmills, lighthouses, cradles, ladders, stars, crescents, &c. Their invention can be multiplied indefinately by the clever dresser. A third method to attract notice to a window is by the use of means extraneous to the goods kept in stock. In this class might be arranged all mechanical toys, all exhibitions of curious animals, &c. They are very effective, but some merchants look on them as undignified.

After attracting attention to the window the looker-in should have his curiosity gratified by being able to discover the price at which the goods are sold. For this purpose neat price cards are very useful. In this branch of advertising set for your clerks the problem of having the best dressed windows in your town, and then attain your goal if you can.

ACTUAL PROFITS OF THE CREAMERY.

A most complete record of the main facts connected with the cost of producing cream sold to a co-operative creamery is given in bulletin 34 from the Massachusetts experiment station. It states the facts for the two years 1887-1888, the cream being taken at the farm by the Amherst factory. The cows ate 3¼ lbs. of clear corn meal, or of corn and cob meal, per day, with 3¼ lbs. of wheat and a like quantity of gluten meal, with what hay they would eat—usually about 20 lbs. Corn fodder, ensilage, etc., were fed occasionally. The net cost of the feed (after deducting the value of 80 per cent. of its fertilizing constituents as retained in the manure), and the price received per quart of cream is as follows:—

	1887.	1888.
Received per quart of cream ..	12.17c.	12.55c.
Cost of feed per quart of cream	8.00	6.47
Balance for profit and loss, etc.	4.17	6.18

Out of this balance must be paid the cost of labour, shrinkage in value of cows, insurance, taxes, etc. It required 6.17 quarts of milk to make one quart of cream, as the average for the two years. Hence the average price received for the two years was equivalent to just about two cents per quart for the total amount of whole milk produced, and in addition the skim milk was left on the farm. This is probably a fair statement for the average daily of common cows, for the cows at the station are very ordinary Ayrshires, whose milk is not as rich in cream as that of many herds of grades owned by the average dairyman. If this basis is correct, it is safe to reckon that where an average of 3½ per space is received of cream, it is equivalent to 2c. per quart for the whole milk, and the skim milk remains. Some interesting comparisons may be added from the bulletin referred to :—

Average for Year.	1887.	1888.
Solids in milk, per 100 lbs.....	13.04	13.68
Fat in milk, per 100 lbs.....	4.00	3.97

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION

Secretary's Address:—

592 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Mr. James A. Hendry and family, Kingston agent of the Sugar Refinery, were in the city last week.

From Malaga we learn that the crops of Jordan and Valencia almonds will be about the same as last year.

This is an off-year for apples. The crop of New York State is reported at only forty-five per cent. of an average crop.

The recent cyclones on the Atlantic coast are said to have damaged the oyster crop to the extent of over a million dollars.

Mr. R. Morrison, grocer, of Hawksville, has removed his business from that place to Boissevain, Man. THE GROCER wishes him success in his new venture.

Mr. Alex. Neilson, of Manitowaning, who was one of our many visitors during the last week, says the crops in Manitoulin Island this year were excellent, and he looks for a good fall trade.

Hop picking in Prince Edward County will not be finished until next week, if then. Scarcity of pickers has in some cases delayed the work. Thirty-five cents per box have been paid. On the whole the crop is a good one.

A meeting of packers was to have been held in Baltimore for the purpose of considering the advisability of buying up the stock of peaches and creating a corner. We await particulars of the move.

Shortly after eight o'clock, Monday night, a fire broke out in the wholesale produce store of James Williamson, Commissioner Street, Montreal, by which $6,000 damage was done. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

We regret to learn of the total destruction of Messrs. Durnford & Co.'s grocery stock in the fire which visited Collingwood last week. We are glad to know, however, that the stock was insured for part of its value.

Robert Munro, of Forest, has disposed of his grocery store in that place, where he has been in business for twelve years, and will now engage in the fruit business, with which Forest and the surrounding country is well supplied this year.

The shipments of Valencia raisins which arrived here last week made the best time on record, and Bendelari & Co., representing C. Morand, Denia, wrote Mr. H. E. Murray, Montreal, the agent of the Beaver Line of steamships, thanking him on behalf of the wholesale trade and themselves for the rapid transit.

Crackers very soon become stale from absorption of moisture if left in the open air. Storekeepers should provide themselves with tight boxes, and should keep their crackers in a warm, dry place, away from unpleasant odors. If kept in this way they will retain for a long time that fresh crispness that makes them palatable.

Reports from the fisheries are to the effect that while the herring fishery is largely a failure the take of cod in the Gulf will probably be in excess of that of last year. On the north shore of Labrador coast the fishing has been very poor, but in the Baie des Chaleurs it is much better than it has been for three years past.

Among the successful guessers in the Sunlight Soap guessing competition at the Industrial Exhibition were a number of grocers and grocers' sons. A son of Mr. R. Mills won it twice. Miss Louie Western, daughter of Mr. J. Western, grocer, Yonge Street, was a tie with Mr. F. F. Kelley, of Kincardine. Mr. A. R. Williamson and Mr. Philip Whitelock were also winners.

An ordinance regulating the sale of vegetables by weight has been prepared by the New York Retail Grocers' Union, and will be presented to the Board of Aldermen at its next meeting It is similar to the ordinance passed by the Board last year and vetoed by Mayor Hewitt because the retail trade were not included. The new ordinance regulates the sale by jobbers, retailers, receivers and farmers.

The first Labrador herrings of the season arrived in Quebec last Friday by the schooners Maria and Stadacona, and included about 1,000 barrels of good quality, which realized $4.75. About 250 barrels of No. 1 quality North Shore salmon arrived at the same time, and sold at $15 to $15.50. Some 250 barrels of seal and cod oil sold respectively at 30 and 32½ cents.

Two women, going home from the market on Saturday last with 3 baskets of plums and 1 of grapes, were asked by the writer what the grocer next door was going to do with his fruit now that they had gone down town to purchase. They didn't know, but had saved almost a dollar. One of them in getting off the car had her basket knocked from her hand by a passing cart, and the ground was strewed with plums for a long distance. Not one-quarter could be recovered. Questions : How much did they finally save ? Did they owe the grocer at home and take the money that he should have had and pay cash down town and leave him with fruit on hand, perhaps to spoil ? Did the wholesale man sell him all he could in the morning and then sell to his (the groceryman's) customers at a discount ?

On page eleven of Bulletin No. 10 of the Inland Revenue Department, which has recently been issued, Prof. A. McGill, of Ottawa, who has had charge of making exhaustive analyses of baking powders for the Government, remarks, in referring to imperial baking powder, that "This is an excellent powder," etc. This is a very flattering testimonial, considering that the majority of baking powders in the market are condemned by him as being unfit for use. Baking Powders containing Alum and Phosphate, Prof. McGill remarks, "are entirely objectionable, and ought not to be allowed a place in any well-appointed bakery." As the cost of imperial baking powder is very little more than the numerous cheap adulterated goods referred to, consumers will find it to their advantage to use "imperial," which they can depend on as being always reliable, and the best possible to be had.

THE MARKETS

TORONTO, SEPT. 26, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

In all classes packers are still holding firm for prices. Canned corn quotes from $1.10 to $1.20. Marrowfat peas from $1.10 to $1.20; sweet wrinkled peas from $1.20 to $1.30. Tomatoes, $1 to $1.10. No promise of falling below these figures lies in the output, although this is large. The concerted reserve of the packers is more liable to raise than to reduce current prices. In canned fish also prices promise to rule high. In this case also the large gathering of the season favored the expectation that prices would be low; particularly was this true of salmon. Union among the packers, however, is apt to keep the prices uniformly high. Canned salmon is coming in freely, and the demand is good at $1.70 to $1.75. The continuance of a ready market adds to the chances that the packers will maintain or advance their prices.

COFFEE.

Rios are firm at 20c. to 21c. In Java coffee prices are still from 26c. to 28c.

DRIED FRUIT.

The first shipment of California evaporated fruit is now on the market, and consists solely of apricots. They are higher than they were last season, selling now at 21 cents a box. Figs will be in about the 15th. Valencias are again cabled 2s. higher this week, and large orders have been sent from New York at the advance in expectation of higher prices later, on account of reported short crops. Currants are slightly easier in Patras. New crop Bosnia prunes are not due to arrive before the middle of October. There are, however, some choice old crop cases, Sphinx brand, offering, which are selling freely.

GREEN FRUIT.

The Jamaica oranges are the only ones now on the market. The demand for them is fair at $8 to $8.50 per bbl. The cool weathet still keeps the demand rather light for lemons. The Messinas sell from $7.50 to $8, the Maori for $8.50 to $9, the wax-lemons, 300 to the case, $9.50, the Palermos $7. The supply does not exceed the very moderate demand.

Yellow bananas, $1.50; red, $1.00 to $1.25.

Sweet potatoes quote $4.50 for genuine New Jerseys, Baltimores, $3.50.

SUGAR.

The principal feature of the local market has been the advent in the past week of offerings from Liverpool at prices below refiners' figures. This has resulted in somewhat unsettling the market, but owing to the poor intrinsic value of the sugars and their bad keeping qualities buyers are not disposed to handle them. The reaction in the tone of European markets, combined with lower quotations for beet, has resulted in a very tame feeling on the New York market, and has curtailed business. That market has ruled dull and nominal; holders have shown no disposition to accept lower prices, and on the other hand, buyers have not been willing to give the same figures last paid. The demand this week is fair. Prices are slightly easier, in sympathy with lower markets abroad. Both Montreal refineries are now at work, but those of the Maritime Provinces have not yet opened. Yellows quote from 6 5/8c. to 7 3/4 c., whites from 8 5/8c. to 8 3/4 c. Business continues to grow, and sugar sales are made upon the confidence of steadiness in prices, although alterations are more liable now upwards than downwards. The New York Shipping List says: "Although this market is to some extent influenced by the fluctuations in Europe, the situation here is quite independent of that source of supply so far as the immediate future is concerned, and likely to be more directly influenced by the small prospective supply of cane sugar available within the next four weeks. The easier tendency of Europe is said to be due to the absence of speculative interest and the lack of demand for active supplies, speculators having lost confidence in view of recent heavy losses, while the distributive movement of legitimate trade has not warranted active trading in raw material, and accordingly, with more sellers than buyers, values have given way. There has been no crop news or other feature to otherwise account for the decline.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

In syrups, no low grades are yet on the market, as they are not to be had from refiners. Brights are selling freely from 65c. to 67c. The call for molasses increases, and the trade would be good if the commodity were well upon the market. Barbadoes are quoted at 44c. to 46c., Puerto Rico at 42c., Antigua at 40c. to 41c., Trinidad, in puncheons, at 40c. to 42c., in bbls., 42c. to 44c.

TEA.

The tea market has presented a fairly busy appearance in the past week, and a good business has been done in Japans and blacks. The principal grades in request are low to medium Japans and medium to fine Congous. Business from the country continues good, and improved trade is confidently looked for in the near future. The London market has regained its normal condition and business on that market has once again resumed its former activity after the late strikes. The New York market continues unchanged, with moderately good business. Further advices from Japan report low grades very scarce.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

The demand for Flour has continued as slack as ever; scarcely any enquiry has been heard all week, though holders have been offering at a decline. The only movement reported was the sale of some 90 per cent. patents at equal to $4.30 on Saturday. At the close straight rollers was offered at equal to $4.25, and extra was obtainable at $3.75, but no demand heard. Bran seems to have been in fair demand and steady; sold on Saturday at $10.25 on track, which price would probably have been repeated at the close. Oatmeal has continued dull on small lots at $3.75 for standard, and $4 for granulated, with car lots nominal. Wheat—There has been very little of any grade offered, but that little has probably been sufficient, from the facts that millers have been buying from farmers, and little or no export demand has been heard. No. 2 fall lying on the Northern sold last Thursday at 95c., and No. 1 hard at equal to $1. On Monday No. 1 hard sold at equal to 98c. here. At the close yesterday there seemed to be no Ontario wheat moving and values of all grades of it unsettled, but sales of hard were reported at equal to 97½c. for No. 1, and equal to 95c. for No. 2. On street new has been offered more freely, and closed yesterday at 85c. to 89c. for white, red and spring, and 70c. to 75c. for goose. Oats—The movement has been small and prices have been easy. On Thursday new mixed to arrive on track within three days sold at 29c.; on Friday choice new brought 29½c., and old 30½c. on track, with 500 bushels from store at 31c. On Saturday new, to arrive, sold at 29c. On Monday the market was inactive. On Tuesday new white sold at 29c. on track. At close yesterday mixed outside sold at 26½c., being equal to 29c. here; and also at 26c. for bagged outside. On street receipts have been considerable; prices closed at 30c. to 32c. for new. Barley has not yet come into the market, and dealers seem to have been waiting patiently for it. Old appears to have been selling on p.t.; but on Tuesday a lot of 10,000 bushels, equal to very choice old No. 2, changed hands for 55c. delivered here; and some cars lying outside sold at 41c.; we cannot say to what price here the latter was equivalent, but the same bid was refused at close yesterday. Street receipts on the increase; prices closed at 42c. to 49c. New Peas have been moving to a small extent, but at rather easier prices. On Thursday five cars lying outside sold at 55c. On Monday sales were made outside at 54c. On Tuesday several cars, lying north and west outside, changed hands at 54c. and 53½c. No movement reported yesterday, but there were buyers at Tuesday's prices. On street prices closed at 58½c. to 60½c.

DANDELION COFFEE.

A Delicious and Nourishing Beverage.

For purifying the blood and invigorating the system. In the herbs of the field and forest are found properties that antidote nearly all the diseases to which humanity is liable. It has been ascertained that German Dandelion Root, when taken in proper quantities, acts directly upon the liver, producing healthy action, and through it making the whole system strong and vigorous. We have taken advantage of this property in the Dandelion, and have prepared a Breakfast Beverage of great excellence, incorporating in it a very high grade of fine Coffee and a proportion of this valuable herb.

The price is low enough to be within the means of all to take advantage of its rare qualities.

We offer it to the public confidently believing that it will be found satisfactory to all who give it a fair trial. Prepared only by
